WELCOME WOODBURN

Woodburn Police Chief, Kyle Carpenter; Mayor, Richard Hoeppner; Fire Chief, Dennis Wiesehan

By: Sue Knapp

This marks the first week that The West Bend News has come to Woodburn. This also means that Steve and I will have ties in Woodburn once again.

Steve and his mom lived in Woodburn while he attended high school. They lived across the driveway from where Woodburn Diamond Die stood. The house has since been torn down and the die shop has a new location.

My family moved outside of Woodburn when I was a senior in high school. Since there was only about three months of school left, my parents transported me to North Side everyday where I graduated.

My mom and Steve's mom both worked at the Diamond Die and decided that Steve and I should get together. I thought he was a nerd and I was definitely a snob. As things progressed we did get married, and after 40 years, four children and 16 grandchildren, here we are back again through the newspaper.

Woodburn, like all of us, has changed in the last 40 years. Norm's was the name of the supermarket, owned by the Brenneke's, back then. We would get our hair cut at Straley's Barber Shop and Hair Salon which was in a big building where the retirement homes are now. There was a bakery behind the building. Fuelling's Drug Store was on the corner of Bull Rapids Rd. and Main Street. The Dairy Sweet, we knew very well, we ate a lot of Big Chief's with Cheese (it has since been bought and is now Woodburn's Corner Cafe—to be opened soon). Ft. Wayne National was the bank and Rack and Helen's was a good place to eat. Where Select Auto stood was a trucking company with offices across the street, I think, where Woodburn Outdoor Power now stands. It was these things I remember most, I know there have been many more changes.

We, at West Bend News, are excited to be able to work with Woodburn. Remember, if you have events or anything going on, we'll cover it, you just have to let

2008 PAULDING COUNTY AGRONOMY DAY

By: Jim Lopshire, Extension Agent

Managing insects, evaluating the economic impact for corn and soybean fungicides, and meeting the challenges of high soil fertility costs are the main topics to be featured during the Paulding County Agronomy Day program to be held on Thursday January 10 in the Paulding County Extension Center. The program will begin at 8:30 a.m. with registration and finish around 3:00 p.m.

The program will open with updates from the Paulding Farm Service Agency, the Paulding Soil and Water District Office and the Natural Resource Conservation Service. Next, the program will look at Farm Focus research on fungicide treatments for corn and soybeans by Farm Focus program manager Gary Prill. Bruce Eisley, OSU Extension entomologist, will follow with a review of insect problems from 2007 and what to expect for 2008. Just before lunch, we will look at the economic impact of disease management and the use of foliar fungicides on corn and soybeans by the Ohio Agricultural Research and

EXCITING CHANGES AT THE PAULDING COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE

By: Lou Ann Wannemacher, Paulding County Treasurer

New and exciting changes are being made at the Paulding County Treasurer's Office. Over the past few months, County Treasurer, Lou Ann Wannemacher, along with the county Auditor have chosen to update the Tax and CAMA computer software. Along with the updates, comes exciting changes to your tax bill.

Wannemacher made the decision to have the tax bills printed through a printing company, SmartBill LTD. "I have completed a cost analysis, and through SmartBill, we are able to have our tax bills printed, stuffed and mailed for less than 41 cents" she said. "Along with change, comes learning curves, my staff has been working very diligently on mailing addresses, so if you receive more than one envelope, we are asking that you give us a call or make a notation on your tax bill when you send in your payment, and we will get the changes made."

Your tax bill will contain the same information that vou have received in the past, but will look very different. The bills are on a full 81/2 by 11 size sheet of paper in which you will tear off the bottom portion and return with your payment.

Along with this article is the layout of what the new tax bill will look like. In the distribution area - answers the question "Where do my tax dollars go?" - It will show a breakout as far as Schools, County funds and Township/ Villages.

COMMUNITY MEMO-RIAL HOSPITAL RECEIVE FUNDING TO IMPLEMENT SAFETY INITIATIVES

Hicksville, OH—Community Memorial Hospital received a $15,000 grant from the Cardinal Health Foundation for the Institute for Healthcare Improvement's (IHI) 5 Million Lives Patient Safety Initiatives. The grant will be used to identify and implement process designed to keep our patients safe. Initiatives include a Rapid Response Team, Lift Team, prevent MRSA by implementing scientifically proven infection control practices, reduce harm from high -alert medications, reduce surgical complications prevent pressure ulcers and more.

'The Cardinal Health Foundation has once again made a wonderful contribution to American hospitals in their efforts to improve the quality and safety of the health care they provide," said Joe McCamnon, Vice President and 5 million Lives campaign manager at the IHI. "This funding gives crucial energy and confidence to a new group of public and rural facilities, engaging them more deeply in their urgent work to reduce injury and connecting them to a vibrant network of hundreds – even thousandsof peer facilities across the nation."

"We believe it is vitally important to support health care initiatives and innovation aimed at improving patient safety and quality of care, " said Jim Mazzola, vice president of Cardinal Health and the Cardinal Health Foundation. "The 5 Million Lives Campaign is an exemplary program with the noble mission of saving patient lives. We are proud to be one of its leading spon-

The goal of the 5 million lives campaign is aimed at protecting 5 million patients from incidents of medical harm over two years (December 2006 - December 2008). By: Sue Knapp

The first graders at Woodburn Elementary School had a Christmas Project this year. First the teachers read a gingerbread story to the children. Then they visited the Gingerbread Festival in Ft. Wayne, came back to school and designed their own gingerbread houses.

The parents brought the candy in and the teachers provided the icing. The teachers, Mrs. Pat Boicey and Mrs. Linda Moore, are very proud of the accomplishments made by the students on their gingerbread houses which were displayed in the school library.

CHRISTMAS ... IT LINGERS

By: Angel Steiner

They wait ever so quietly with baited breath. As they squirm uncontrollably on the sofa, their excitement is about to overflow. A giggle escapes followed by a hurried "Shh!" from a sibling.

There is nothing quite like Christmas morning. Just the feel of the air—warm and sweet (from the candy, cookies, and fruit bread aromas hovering). The groggy eyes of the adults as they feign vibrant enthusiasm when all they really want is to go back to bed.

As I sit here in a rocking chair by the fire, my heart feels like the Grinch's on that Christmas morning when "his heart grew three sizes." My chest is too fullmy heart is complete.

The tinkling of children's laughter engulf my ears, the sparkle of holiday lights bring tears, the pungency of the evergreens tickle my nostrils, and the warm coziness of the fireplace wraps around me like my favorite

Over 2,000 years ago the idea for this holiday first came into being. A little baby born in such awesome circumstances changed the course of traditions for all time. How much we owe Him, how undeserving we are of all we have. Yet He gave to us freely and unselfishly so we all—young and old—can have this innocent giddiness at the holidays.

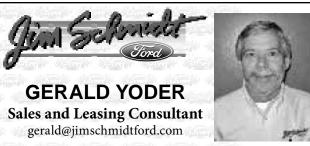

Now, the money is spent, the presents unwrapped, the anticipation gone... yet that feeling in my chest remains. Christmas... it lingers.

Keep the news coming. News is always free. Let your friends, neighbors and community know what's going

Sleep Clinic

Dr. James Gray

Sleep is not just a "time out" from daily life. It is a critical function for maintaining physical health each and every day. More than 70 million Americans have a sleep disorder - and many don't even know it. Do you have any of the following symptoms:

- Headaches on awakening
- Loud & disruptive snoring
- Stop breathing during sleep
- · Restless sensation in legs
- Feel tired and fatigued while awake
- Fall asleep inappropriately
- Feel groggy/foggy on awakening

If you have any of the above symptoms or if "daytime drowsiness" is affecting your daily life, call Paulding County Hospital outpatient clinic (419-399-1135) to make a sleep clinic consultation appointment. We can also treat Restless Leg Syndrome and Respiratory Therapy can set-up CPAPS with any physician order.

Dr. Gray accepts most major insurance plans. Conveniently located in PCH's Outpatient Department

PAYNE HISTORY

By: Stan Jordan

These photos of the Payne Depot and locomotives were loaned to me by Don Kelble. I can't express the nostalgic feelings I get, just sitting here and going back 70-80 years, maybe more. The teenagers now would say, Awesome or Cool.

It shows the engine just pulling into the depot. I can smell the smoke, hear the steam escaping, hear the chugging and feel the ground shake. Yes, I'm an 83 year old kid again. I really don't know how many passenger trains ran on the Nickel Plate at that time, but it was extremely busy during WWII because nearly everything moved by train, especially the troops and then the war material.

At the time of this picture there was very few automobiles around, so I feel this picture of the smoke and snow on the ground was taken before the other one. I think it was taken around 1920.

The Nickel Plate Railroad was one of the major lines in the East-Central part of the nation, but the original railroad had a hard time getting started. I mean the original company trying to build a railroad through Payne went bankrupt three times. Then in the 1870's a new company started it again and succeeded

I called Mr. Bill Neff and he gave me some information on the Nickel Plate, but I wasn't around when these pictures were taken.

Bill started working for the Nickel Plate in 1945 when he was 17 years old. He retired in 1987 as General Supervisor of Signals. He was ready to talk railroad and I enjoyed talking to him.

He said there main line was Buffalo to Chicago. That line was in competition with the New York Central and who could run the fastest from New York to Chicago would get the most business.

The real name of that line was New York, Chicago and Saint Louis. The name of the Nickel Plate Line was at first a nickname. Some said it derived from the fact that it cost so much to lay the tracks, that it must be nickel plated. But, anyhow, later the home office used the Nickel Plate Hi-Speed Service Line.

Bill thinks that at the time of the photos there was probably four passenger trains a day going through Payne. He figured two each day were flag stops. Two trains stopped and left passengers off or on and mail and parcels. Then two of the mail trains used the catch and throw mail system.

The main office for the line was in Cleveland. Bill figured that about 30 freight trains blew through Payne each day.

The smoking engine at the depot is probably what they call Berkshire. Don Kelble tells me that the Nickel Plate had 80 of those engines, six and eight wheelers.

Let's assume that is a freight train. That box car at the left on the siding would hold about 3400 bushels of grain. Those new tanks at the Antwerp Elevator will each hold 100 of those box cars, about 340,000 bushels each. The Antwerp Equity Exchange has two of those big units now and the grain moves pretty fast. My good friend, Susan Arend, can give you all kinds of numbers on their system. Let's turn our attention to that passenger train sitting there. I would say this picture was taken in the 1930's because you can see the water tower in the back ground. It might be spring or fall because the people have coats and I'm not sure what kind of cars or trucks those are. They don't have tops or side curtains.

That small push cart on the left is the mail and parcels for the Post Office. It has already been unloaded from the front end of the mail car. As I understand, there were four passenger trains a day through Payne, two were catcher trains. I mean they just caught the mail on the fly. I think a mail and passenger train from each direction made a stop each day. I think the other trains could be flagged down if there was a passenger to get on.

I talked with Collie Lamb and Ray Flaugh and they say eight foot long and as high as you could reach and had probably 4x6 inch pigeon holes. Full length across that embedded even with the front of the case was about a ½ inch slat that showed the name of the town for that pigeon hole. There was two of those large letter cases on each side and you could turn that slat and every pidgeon hole was different, up to four times. So you see it was a very efficient set up. Usually each turn was another State. I'm going to tell you about a very busy night I had coming back east out of St. Louis. This was on the Wabash and I was working for the Railway Mail Service RMS. You left Ft. Wayne on The Express (probably a 4-6-4 engine) about 11:30 at night and thundered through the night across Indiana and Illinois and only made seven or eight stops and arrived into St. Louis about 8:00 a.m. I might add any mail we picked up in the drop box on the depot was delivered with the mail that morning in St. Louis. That was darn good service, it was called a hold out". Then we unloaded the mail car and checked it out. Then we went about a the mail messengers, that's the guy who takes the push cart and contents to the Post Office, at first was Arnie Haddock, later on it was Oscar Nesbit. That other cart there with the high wheels was probably Railway Express. That was very big at that

If you use your magnifying glass, you can see the train conductor is standing just east of the railway Express Cart. Some people with their bags have just gotten off the train and are walking this way. Another man is standing with his suit case in his hand passing the time of day with those folks.

In the Postal Service that is called a 60 ft. mail car. You can see the mail bag catching operation is on the front door, on each side of the car. The front part of that car is made for working parcel post and mail bag racks. The last part has letter cases from top to bottom with a working table about knee high the full length of the letter case. That was where you put all the working mail plus you leaned your knees against this table to keep your balance while the train was moving. The letter case was about block to the Railroad YMCA, washed up and had supper at breakfast time. Then we went to bed and left a call for 3:15 p.m. Then we had breakfast and got a ham sandwich for lunch later on. We reported to the mail car ready for work at 4:00 p.m. The Post Office brought us the usual mail for the east and then dropped a bomb on us. It was late in the month and we had all the Social Security Checks for Michigan, six mail pouches for Michigan and Detroit City and in addition to our other mail, we had six pouches of Social Security Checks. Those were in bundles of 50 with a rubber band around them and the bag was chucked full to the top. Social Security Checks are mailed early and are usually in said P.O. three days ahead of delivery date.

The clerk in charge was named Pete Smith. He set up the Michigan Case for me and then he did the other work and I started on the S.S. Checks. We had four hours of work time and then the train pulled out and headed east. I took about an hour to learn the location of certain pigeon holes in that case and pretty soon I was doing pretty good.

Anyhow, I stood at that case, even ate my ham sandwich there. We worked two of those bags which were loaded with thousands of checks. What we didn't get worked went on in to the transfer clerk in

That was one big night for the two of us, but I really enjoyed it. We tied the case out and pulled into the Baker Street Station in Ft. Wayne on time around 5:30 a.m. I learned that case well, but I never got to use it again. I was soon sent to Delphos and a one man run on the AK & DEL RPO. A freight train on the Akron, Canton and Youngstown Railroad. You young folks born after 1950, don't know it, but those two pictures were everyday scenes at the Payne Depot. You see a lot of our soldier boys were coming home and the train was the main transportation at that time. Yes, sir, many people went down to welcome their sons and fathers home. It was a different time, a different era, but a big part of all our lives. I want to thank Jeff Tempel, Don Kelble, his sister, Sue Baumle, Bill Neff, Collie Lamb, Roy Flaugh and anyone else who helped me with this column. Maybe our tracks will cross again sometime.

RAIDER REPORT

'To the world you might be one person, but to one person you might be the world," said an anonymous

Well, that seems like a lot of pressure to me. If you think about it though, it is very true because everyone is looked up to by someone. Which, basically means everyone in this world is a role model, and in my opinion everyone should try to be the best role model that they can be. To be a good role model there are some characteristics that go along with it, and there are some reasons why you should be a good role model.

These qualities include being a leader, setting good examples, and believing that you are a good person. You must be a leader because you have to lead people down the right paths, so that they can be a better person. Also, setting good examples is important because the people who look up to you follow those examples.

Lastly, I know you are probably thinking, why does it matter if I believe I am a good person? If you do not believe you are a good person, then how can you expect anyone else to. Being a good person makes you a good role model. There are some specific reasons, why I think a person should be a good role model.

I have two sisters who are twelve, one sister who is six, one brother who is two, and another brother that is one. Those are five people that I know look up to me, and those five people mean more than the world to me. So, I want them to grow up and be great individuals, which means I must show them how to do that. That is my main reason for wanting to be a good role model. Here is an idea for you to think about. If you are a bad role model to one person, then they will think that is how they should be. This, in return, could affect more people. On the other side, if you are a good role model then you could make a significant impact on a person's life, and they will, in return, thank you.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S FIRST YEAR BROUGHT MANY ACCOMPLISH-MENTS, LAID FOUNDATION FOR FUTURE SUCCESS

Capitol Letters Weekly Column by: Senator Steve Buehrer

December 21, 2007-The past 12 months, and my first year in the Senate, has been a very hectic, but exciting and productive time in the General Assembly—a period that could impact the success of our state and local communities for generations to come. I have worked with my colleagues to improve Ohio's economic climate, ease the financial burden on Ohio families, build a stronger, more affordable education system for our children, and defend the values our region holds so dear.

By far, the Legislature's biggest accomplishment in 2007 was passage of House Bill 119, the state budget bill. Garnering overwhelming bipartisan support in both legislative chambers, this historic measure continued the implementation of tax reform from two years ago, while also providing a significant property tax cut for seniors, freezing tuition at all Ohio's public colleges and universities and making strategic investments in cutting edge industries to help attract development and jobs to the state.

However, HB 119 was just one of many economic development initiatives undertaken by the General Assembly in the past year. In March, legislators approved House Bill 67, the state transportation budget, which provides $6.2 billion over the next two years to support important road and highway construction projects across the state. Well-maintained, easily-accessible roads and bridges are a key to attracting business investment to our local communities, particularly in Ohio's rural areas, and HB 67 should provide an

PAGE 5 - WEST BEND NEWS - JANUARY 2, 2008 important boost to this effort. In addition, I fought to include an amendment to protect the Route 24 project and other priority highway projects across Ohio from being delayed or cancelled.

The Senate took another big step recently in not only positioning Ohio as an attractive destination for hightech research and business growth, but also to protect Ohio consumers from crippling price spikes in their monthly electricity bill. In October, my colleagues and I approved Senate Bill 221, a comprehensive energy policy proposed by the governor, designed to address the pending deregulation of Ohio's electricity industry and lay out a plan for meeting our state's future energy needs. First, the bill works to maintain price stability in the state's electricity market to avoid the dramatic price hikes that other states have experienced, which could have a tremendous impact on the financial well-being of Ohio families, as well as the health of the state's business community. In addition, while working to keep rates in-check, SB 221 also helps stake Ohio's claim in the budding alternative energy industry, which could inject significant life into our economy. The Senate moved several other bills in 2007 that could provide a spark to Ohio's economy, including Senate Bill 24, which expands the state's Job Ready Sites program to ensure all communities across Ohio have an equal opportunity to benefit from these funds, as well as an amendment to a separate bill that establishes a new job training program to provide grants to companies looking to locate here and help offset the cost of training workers to fill new positions. In addition, we recently passed House Bill 372, a comprehensive veterans' benefits package that not only seeks to recognize the contribu-

Ah... The rush is over, and now we can all sit back, relax, and enjoy the company of family and friends. Soon we'll be singing "Auld Lang Syne" and making (and then breaking) our New Year's resolutions.

Meanwhile, the Archers hosted the Varsity Boys' Route 49 Classic last Friday and Saturday at The Range. The Lady Archers suffered a gut-wrenching two-point loss to the Hicksville Aces in the Varsity Girls' Route 49 Classic, but are looking forward to avenging the defeat in the regular season. That game, along with the varsity boys' contest against Hicksville, will play a part in the larger competition between the Archers and the Aces the challenge of out-donating each other for the benefit of local food pantries. As the Christmas holiday essentially wipes out the stores of our food pantries, the Varsity A and Varsity H clubs have arranged to co-sponsor an event to fill them up again.

The details of this charitable cause are not yet entirely established, but I have it on high authority that the losing club will be subjected to an exceedingly embarrassing fate at the boys' game. Intrigued? I thought so. I'll have more specifics as soon as the information becomes available.

PAULDING EXEMPTED VILLAGE SCHOOLS

JANUARY 2008 NEWSLETTER

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends of the Paulding Exempted Village Schools,

December has been a busy month with Christmas programs, the Senior Citizen Breakfast, concerts, and numerous extracurricular events. The support you have shown our students with your attendance is greatly appreciated.

The decision to delay or cancel school is always difficult, but the determining factor will always be the safety of our students. With many more cold and snowy days before us, I would like to remind parents to have students dress warmly when waiting for the bus. If roads are in good condition, we will be having school, even with very cold tem-Student drivers should be reout the day and caution should always be used when driving in the winter. Delays and closings are on our website, the school telephone recording, and also on various television and radio stations. When school is not in session, cancellations for evening events will always be on our telephone recording.

January brings a new year and a renewed opportunity to work together for the benefit Middle School-David Stallkamp of our students. Community support is necessary for our district to continue to improve. We welcome volunteers and visitors to the building. Please call your building principal A big THANK YOU goes out to all middle for volunteer opportunities and always check school students and staff that helped with the in at the office when visiting the school. Fifty-three of our fifth and sixth graders have signed up to be in our building Spelling Bee. They are competing for the honor of representing Oakwood Elementary at the Paulding County Spelling Bee. All of our students, Pre-K through 6th grade, have had the opportunity to participate in the Reading-Is-A-Sport Program during the month of December. Those who completed the program will be featured at various athletic events. See calendar at right. It will be great to see many Oakwood Elementary students recognized at one of these events for minded that road conditions change through-their reading efforts! We have a lot of Panther Pride here, and we get the opportunity to show the Panther winter sports varsity athletes just how much spirit we have during a special pep rally on January 18. GO PAN-THERS!!!

We wish you a Very Happy and Healthy New Year!

2 HOMES

By: Tommi Stahl

Do you have 2 homes? I do, Antwerp and Oakwood (you probably wonder what I'm talking about). I live in Oakwood and go to Oakwood Elementary School, but I'm in Antwerp enough that I call it home. The Panthers and Archers are the teams I root for because they are my home teams (my boys).

My home in Oakwood is my favorite because that is where my bed, cats, dogs and clothes are, but I love Antwerp because there are many caring people there.

At Antwerp, my friend is Savana Pierce. At Oakwood my friends are Paige Hawkins, Kayla Shaffer, Jerika Bland, Janey McCourt, Tiffany Spangler, Donavan Carnahan, Derric Shisler, Derek Varner, Mrs. Backrath, Mrs. Thornell, Miss Brimmer and Mrs. Pier.

I love both my homes, they are both really cool and cozy and they have lots of people I love being with and love and care for very much. My homes are the coolest.

The diner is for working and fun, but home is for relaxing and sleeping.

STAN AND SUE ON THE ROAD

By: Stan Jordan

The nice lady in this picture is Viola Thompson. She was born Viola Sonius in Spencer, Iowa on May 15,

She went to school there and graduated from Spencer High School. She went on to college and received a teaching certificate. She taught in a one room school for a few

Her father had a good large farm in Spencer, Iowa but he owed $300.00 on it. He went to the bank to get a loan and they just slammed the door his face. They wouldn't give him a loan so the bank owned his farm, that's what they wanted.

His uncle, who lived in Ft. Wayne, said, "If you will move here, I can get you a job." So, the whole family moved to Ft. Wayne.

Viola attended beauty school and became a teacher of hair dressing. In the meantime, she worked a full shift at Magnavox. This was before and during WWII. Now and then some girls named Thompson would come in the shop and be customers. One of the Thompson girls attended that beauty college. Once in awhile they would invite Viola out to visit them in Scipio Township.

After WWII ended and the boys came home, Viola visited the Thompson's again and met Russell. But there were more people in that family. There was Charles, Robert, Max, Russell and James. There was also three girls, Pauline, Bonita and Betty along in there somewhere.

Viola and Russell hit it off pretty good and they were married in Auburn in 1947. They lived on the Scipio Rd. just north of the South Scipio Church. She and Russ had two girls and a boy. Nancy had two boys and lives in Woodburn.

Norman has three boys and lives in Angola, but he has taught school in Antwerp for many years. In fact, he plans on retiring next spring. I know that Russell was an avid fisherman and Norman is also. I get to see him once in a while at the Antwerp High School but he is always going to or from a class. I like to talk fishing with him, but we never have much time.

Viola's daughter, Joan, married Doug Nuenswander and lives in Berne, IN. I remember that Doug was a pitcher in the major league chain and had a record of 8 wins and no losses as a reliever. After he came home, he went back to college and taught for awhile. They have two boys.

Viola's husband, Russell Thompson, worked as a steel worker for Ruckman-Hanson for many years. He and the rest of that crew helped build the Maumee River Bridge on SR 49 north of Antwerp—that was in 1950 or 1951.

Russell died in 1982. After about a year or so, Viola moved to Woodburn and has a home of her own.

A nephew, Scott Thompson and his family live in that house on the Scipio Road where Russell and Viola lived. They have three children.

I was Russell and Viola's mailman for many years and they were first class people. I met with Viola at the Clip and Tan Beauty Salon in Woodburn to do the interview. My granddaughter, Jessie Getrost works there and a number of other nice people.

Like I said, I have known Viola for many years and I enjoyed doing this interview.

women, but works to create a friendly tax environment for these skilled individuals, so they will continue to live and work in the state after they retire. While much of the Legislature's work in 2007 has been focused on growing the state's economy, we have also accomplished several other important goals this year. For example, at the beginning of the General Assembly, we identified 10 priority bills, and only a year into the two-year session, we have passed eight of the "top ten." These include Senate Bill 5 which not only expands access to home-based, long-term care options for our seniors but could help save the state millions in Medicaid costs; Senate Bill 7 which provides

Students of the Month

DECEMBER 2007

Paulding County has great students and we want to recognize them and their achievements. Paulding-Putnam Electric Cooperative, Inc. has teamed up with the West Bend News to bring you this information. We will be delivering different schools' students each month (2 elementary and 1 High School) from OUR county. Congratulations to these young people!

lesey Hughes attends Wayne Trace Jr./Sr. High School and is the daughter of Mr. Jammie Hughes and Ms. Joan Hughes.

School activities: Kelsey is involved in Band, Choir, and Bible Study. She is also the Secretary of the National Honor Society and of Student Council. Kelsey was a delegate this past summer at Buckeye Girl's State

Other activities: Kelsey is involved in 4-H, Jr. Fair Board, and her church Fellowship Committee. At the Paulding County Fair she qualified for the State Fair, which allowed her to further her knowledge of horses. She has recently been accepted to the University of Findlay where she will be majoring in Western Equestrian Studies.

Congratulations and Good luck Kelsey!

Wayne Trace Payne Elementary's Student of the Month is Sylvia Young. Sylvia is the daughter of John and Patty Young of Payne. She is in the sixth grade and an honor roll student. Sylvia's favorite subject in school

She likes to play sports including basketball, volleyball and softball. Sylvia loves playing with her dog, Buddy. Her favorite college football team is The Ohio State Buckeyes. Great Job Sylvia!

Janey Janka attends Grover Hill Elementary School. She is a sixth grader in Mrs. Peck's class. Janey is active in band, plays the guitar, and was very busy with her part in the Grover Hill Elementary annual Christmas musical. Janey is an honor roll student and involved in the school enrichment program. Here are some of her favorites:

comes to government landtakings, in lieu of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in Kelo v. New London; and two measures (Senate Bill 9 and 10) that work to further protect our children from dangerous sex predators.

In addition to these efforts to crack-down on sex offenders, the Senate has taken other steps to protect Ohio families from criminal activity. We have passed laws to target repeat DUI offenders, make our schools more secure and protect funding for Ohio's drug task forces.

In the wake of a highprofile government scandal in Columbus, the General Assembly worked with State Auditor Mary Taylor to pass House Bill 166, which establishes an independent auditing function in state government to ensure there is more accountability with the use of valuable taxpayer dollars.

I have also introduced several bills this year that will continue to be priority of mine as we head into 2008. Senate Bill 174 would ban the dangerous, unethical practice of human cloning in Ohio. Also, looking to ensure that every Ohioan has the right to defend themselves and their family against violent attack without the fear of legal recourse, I introduced Senate Bill 184, which makes needed reforms to Ohio's Castle Doctrine law. Most recently, in an effort to preserve the honor of our military men and women, I unveiled Senate Bill 263 to prohibit the unauthorized use of a fallen soldier's persona for commercial gain.

As you can see, the General Assembly has accomplished a great deal in 2007, however, we still have much more to address in the weeks and months ahead. As we move forward, I will continue to fight for the interests of the 1st Senate District and do what's best for Ohio families and our economy. I would like to wish you all a very Happy New Year.

I encourage all residents of the 1st Senate District to contact me with any questions, thoughts or concerns, or if you need assistance working with a state government agency. You can write me, Senator Steve Buehrer, Ohio Senate, Statehouse, Columbus, Ohio, 43215, or contact me by phone at (614) 466-8150. In addition, I can be reached by email at SD01@mailr.sen.state.oh.us.

The rankings are done with the available information the coaches are able to collect through the week leading to the meeting. As with all polls, these rankings will change as more wrestling is completed. If you feel there are wrestlers who have been overlooked or mistakes that have been made, the association encourages you to send any results or pertinent information to jinglis@limacityschools.org.

OUR TOWN

By: Rose Kever

A long time ago (when I was young and cute—HA!), our little town of Antwerp was a very busy place.

I can remember a lot of the stores and businesses that Stan Jordan talks about in his column. I also remember a lot of the "sounds" and "smells" back then.

"Battershell's" 10 cent store— when the front door closed it kind of had a rattling thud, and it smelled like candy. Doc Caine's office smelled like alcohol (medicinal, not drinking!). "Billy Pate's" drugstore always smelled musty and old, and it was always dim in there. I remember he had glass cases with bottles and bottles of miracle remedies. Then there was "Quisno's". When the door closed it had the same rattling thud that it has yet today, except in the summer there was a big screen door on it.

I think "Adcock's" shoe store was in there too, and it always smelled like shoe leather and shoe polish.

"Doehring and Long's" was a wonderland. It definitely smelled like a clothing store. I remember they had a machine that would sort of x-ray your feet in the new shoes you would try on, just to see if your toes were being crunched.

Down at "Smith's Hardware" next to the Buick Dealership another nice sound—the screen door. They had a hinge latch. It had two black wheels and when it caught the door it would hold it shut. Before the fancy latch they had a screen door spring with a knot in it because it stretched out and wouldn't keep the door closed.

"Abie Gaisford's" little restaurant always smelled like fried bologna!

"The Sugar Bowl" restaurant smelled like hamburgers and french fries.

"Schilb's Furniture" smelled like furniture polish, and the screen door on their front had the same sound that Smith's had. I think the screen that's on there now is the same one.

The "Bee-Argus" smelled like ink. It's a very distinct odor that one can't forget. And the clanking of the printing press—to a kid it was exciting to hear and imagine what the paper looked like.

"Kammeyer's IGA" always smelled like bread. The store wasn't very big then since they were in a small building back then. I remember seeing Fred stacking the shelves and carrying out groceries. He also delivered groceries in his own car. His wife, Ruth, was the check out girl and Dorothy Gruber (and I think Dorothy Monroe) was also a check out. Joe Lichty was the butcher.

Maybe I'll remember more smells and sounds from the past and do some more reminiscing!

NATIONAL CITY BANK HOSTS CANDY CANE AND SANTA CLAUS

Candy Cane and Santa Claus with Austin and Andrew Miller

By: Sue Knapp

It was very busy at the bank on the afternoon of December 14, 2007 when National City Bank hosted Santa Claus and Candy Cane, the reindeer. Children came to say "hi" to Santa Claus, pet Candy Cane and have their picture taken by Brad Taylor of National City Bank.

Candy Cane came from North Manchester's Animal Grams owned by Joni Cripe. She has petting farms, furnishes pony rides and brings her animals to different events.

A lot was going on in Woodburn that day, Christmas was definitely in the air.

THE DECEMBER 21ST UP-DATE ON JIM DOUGHTY

After being out of the hospital for a week since transplant (today is day 8), Jim was re-admitted this past Wednesday due to fevers and mouth sores. He can barely swallow right now and has bad blisters and ulcers all in his mouth, tongue and throat. They have taken him off mostly all of his oral meds since he can't get them down and are giving them IV. The doctors keep saying that it will continue to get worse before it gets better, so yippee! His mouth looks like its very painful and sore and it hurts for him to even talk, I can't imagine how much worse it can get, but we will just take it as it comes. They put him on a PCA (pain med pump) so that is helping to keep the pain under control, but it's making him very loopy! I am sure he won't even remember being in here this time, but I am hearing some really great stories from him in the mean-time! Once his counts start coming back up again, he will be able to be discharged and go back to the clinic on a daily basis, which is looking like another week or so. It always seems that the timing with all of this is impeccable! Spending Christmas at the hospital wasn't exactly our first choice, but at least we will be together.

CURRENT AGRICULTURAL USE VALUE (CAUV) CHANGES FOR PAULDING COUNTY

PH: 419-258-2000 • FAX: 419-258-1313 • westbend@verizon.net

Paulding County Auditor, Susan K. Simpson, wants to inform participants of changes for tax year 2007 (payable 2008) in Current Agricultural Use Value (CAUV). Paulding County is required to update its CAUV rates every three years by Ohio's Department of Taxation. Changes taking effect for 2008 in how participants' CAUV is calculated may increase land value, which, in turn, may raise property taxes for some land owners in 2008. CAUV allows those who own "qualifying" agricultural land to pay taxes for values based on the land's agricultural value instead of market value, which can reduce landowners' property taxes. In Paulding County for tax year 2006 (payable in 2007), CAUV participants paid taxes on about 13 percent of their land's projected market value. In tax year 2007 (payable in 2008), CAUV participants will pay on about 16 percent of their land's projected market value.

The 2007 CAUV rates were restructured by updating crop yield numbers and increased soil values for the entire state, which will increase overall land value. These changes are reflected on the 2008 tax bills; therefore tax bills for those that own farmland will most likely increase.

Other tax breaks, like rollbacks and the Homestead Exemption program, will still apply. To benefit from CAUV, there are a few qualifications. For example, landowners must own 10 or more acres of tillable land, and the land must be used exclusively for agriculture. They must also send in annual renewal notices. CAUV does not include structural improvements on the land - those are assessed separately and could still increase the overall value of the property, along with the landowners' tax bills.

CAUV value is determined by the type of soil on the landowners' parcels. There are 64 different soil types in Paulding County. There are several factors used in calculating CAUV, all of which are dictated at the state level, including cropping patterns, what the crops are selling for and production costs. The factors also include a seven-year average, which eliminates the highest and lowest numbers. That way when extreme conditions, such as flood affect crops, they shouldn't affect averages.

If you are currently participating in the CAUV program, a renewal application will be mailed to you and must be signed and returned to the County Auditor's office prior to March 3, 2008 to continue participation. Failure to file a renewal application with the County Auditor, will cause non-participation and may result in a tax increase and a recoupment charge. An additional change is the "new" CAUV renewal form, the new form looks much different than the previous form. The new form will be mailed in an envelope rather than the prior mailers used for past years. For a new application, such as with a change of ownership, you will need to come into the County Auditor's office and pay the application fee and fill out a new CAUV application form. For more information about the CAUV program, call the Paulding County Auditor's office at 419-399-8205.

FROM THE DESK OF THE PAULDING COUNTY SHER-

On December 18, 2007 the Defiance Police Department arrested Joshua L. Newsome, age 20, of Defiance. He was arrested on a warrant from Paulding County Court, charging him with robbery in connection with the robbery of the Charloe Store on the evening of December 15, 2007. He is currently in the Paulding County Jail awaiting his first Court appearance. Also charged in the same incident was Eugene Bartley, and he was arrested on December 17, 2007. The incident is still under investigation and the Sheriff's Office requests that any one with information contact them at

"lives, fortunes, and sacred honor" to set up a free and prosperous nation.

They warned us that it was our responsibility to keep it that way, but we didn't listen to their advice. As a service to America, they have come out of retirement to issue a final warning.

We the founders...

...WATNED YOU of the dangers of excessive taxation. Now you must labor nearly six months of the year to pay your taxes at all levels as the economy groans beneath the cruel burden.

...WATNED YOU of the dangers of foreign entanglements. Now thousands of your men and women suffer and die protecting and building foreign nations while your government plans a military draft.

...Warned you of the dangers of government spending. Now your growing National Debt stands at nine trillion dollars and your children are debt slaves from the day they are born.

...Warned you of the dangers of a Central Bank (Federal Reserve) and a debt-based, fiat monetary system. Now your government can borrow and spend endlessly while destroying the value of your savings.

... Warned you to obey the Constitution because power corrupts. Now a secretive government can spy on you and detain you at will under the guise of "National Security."

... Warned you of the dangers of political parties. Now you have two powerful parties that conspire against the people, plundering you while they pretend to oppose each other.

...Warnea you to keep your nation sovereign and independent. Now you submit to UN and NAFTA authority, as your border is deliberately left open to endless illegal immigration.
