THE FATE OF THE ST. MARY'S JUNCTION HANGS IN THE BALANCE

By: Sue Brown

The fate of the St. Mary's Junction church building is still to be determined. Last fall, when the Diocese hired contractors to remove the windows, they were turned back twice by protestors. After the final incident a motion for preliminary injunction was filed to prevent another attempt. Even as they protested the demolition, people still did not know what the future might hold for the building. All they knew was that they didn't want the windows removed, especially without notification. The greatest hope was that the county library could open a branch in the building. The Paulding County Carnegie Library expressed an interest to at least pursue the possibilities. Word was received in early December that the Diocese would indeed allow a branch library to be housed in the building, with the windows left intact. It was now up to the library to decide if this could happen. It was spring before they finally decided that, as much as they hated to pass up the opportunity, it just was not in their budget at this time to pursue it.

In May, legal counsel for the Junction group, Joe Burkhard, advised the group to form a committee and come up with a Plan B. Most didn't think a Plan B was even an option, but proceeded to form this committee, comprised of both former parishioners and locals who had voiced an interest in preserving the building. Members agreeing to explore possibilities included Joe Burkhard, Melinda Krick, Karen Schlatter, Shelly Shinners, and former parishioners Les Weidenhamer, Janet Sholl, Deedi Miller, Lynn and Becky Keller, and Sue Brown. They had a brainstorming session and thought the group might be more credible if it was attached to the John Paulding Historical Society. A presentation was given to the Historical Society at the end of May. Although they were sympathetic to the cause, there were understandably many questions that arose from this request. Once legal counsel met from both groups it was decided not to allow the group to become an extension of the Society.

On June 30 Burkhard sent an email to the Diocesan attorney, Tom Pletz, requesting a one year trial period for the local group to use the property, without any religious services, to show that it can maintain and operate the building responsibly and preserve it, with reversion of the property to the Diocese after a year if they failed. Pletz replied that he "would be happy to explore the possibility" once the suit was dismissed and that he would provide samples to get the necessary paperwork started. Any trial transfer would ultimately need the approval of Fr. Fillman and the Bishop. The group would need to meet the basic legal requirements and once an appropriate legal entity was formed he would recommend promptly that the parish and the diocese give the local group a chance.

REFLECTIONS ON THE "DREAM TEAM"

By: Pastor Joel DeSelm, Woodburn Missionary Church

This article is was originally printed in 1993 after the 1992 Olympic Summer Games in Barcelona. It is being re-printed in light of the current Olympic Games in China.

I was one of the millions of Americans who sat last summer for countless hours in front of the television set watching the Olympic Games. And one of the most popular venues of the entire Olympiad was that of men's basketball.

It wasn't that the basketball games themselves were particularly interesting (especially as the U.S. team dominated every game they played from start to finish), but what was fun to watch was the reaction of the fans and other basketball teams to the NBA stars representing the American team.

Dubbed the "Dream Team", the United States boasted such marquee names as Michael Jordan, Magic Johnson, Larry Bird, and a host of other all-star players. For the foreign teams playing the U.S. the highlight of the Olympics was not the playing against these guys as much as the pre-game photographs they insisted on being taken with the NBA stars.

For each of these international basketball players, to have your picture taken with someone like Magic Johnson was a dream come true.

Some of us remember when Charles Barkley elbowed an Angolan opponent during a game. Most of us were disgusted and the entire world cried "foul!" But not the Angolans. They actually felt flattered that Charles Barkley considered them to be such serious competition.

After the game in which U.S. flattened the Croatian team, the Croatian coach, Peter Skansi, was all smiles. As he explained, "I was impressed with the way Mr. Jordan and Mr. Daly pronounced our names. They knew about us. That is very important to us. That means we are something in the world of basketball!"

Even though they got creamed, these foreign athletes were happy because the members of the Dream Team knew who they were.

What does it say about you and me - to say that we live in a God-invaded world? That Christ would not only VISIT this planet, but die on our behalf... does it not say that our lives are vitally important to Him and that we truly matter?

If Angolan basketball players felt honored just to be able to compete on the same court as Michael Jordan, what should it mean to us that Jesus Christ has come into our world and desires to know us personally?

Very little space in the gospels has Jesus dealing with individuals who were the "headline grabbers" of their day. In fact, a very small minority of Christ's personal contacts were with people whose names appeared in the "Palestinian Who's Who."

However, as I read my Bible, I find many episodes of Jesus taking time to talk with common folk, encourage little children, heal lepers, restore sight to blind people, and minister to no-name villagers. What does that say about Christ's compassion for simple, everyday individuals like you and me?

If you have questions about the depth of God's concern for an ordinary person like yourself, think again. Not only does Jesus know your name and know where you live, but He wants to do a work in you and accomplish marvelous things in your life. Think about that for a few moments. It should give you a fresh measure of encouragement... far more than getting elbowed by an NBA superstar.

MATTHEW 24 LESSON 2

By: James Potter, Oakwood Church of Christ

In our last lesson I only made it through verse 1 which tells us about Jesus and the disciples coming out of the temple and how the disciples were pointing out the temple buildings to Him. Before I go any farther in this study, I would like to encourage you to read the scripture verses since space does not allow me to write them down. Also if you don't have a strongest Strong's concordance, I would encourage you to go out and purchase one.

Matthew 24:2 - Jesus tells the disciples to observe or look at these buildings, for I am telling you not one stone will be left upon another. Jesus is making a prophecy about the destruction of the temple. According to Josephus, a Jewish historian, in writing a book titled wars, he describes the razing and burning of the temple in 70 AD.

Matthew 24:3 - There are three questions asked in this verse.

Question 1: When will these things be? This question refers back to what Jesus said in verse 2. These things refer to the tearing down of the temple.

Question 2: What will be the sign of your coming? This is an event related to question 1 and will happen about the same time.

Question 3: What will be the sign of the end of the age? The third question is related to Christ second coming and the end of the world. Jesus is showing us in these verses that the destruction of the temple and His second coming at the end of the age are separate events. As we study these verses, it will show to each of us that premillennialists are wrong again. Lord willing, we will continue this study next week. Please remember that Jesus loves you and so do I! If you have any Bible questions call 419-393-4775 or 419-399-5022.

The youth group also spent a day observing the Paulding County Court presided by Judge Tiffany Beckman. The youth learned that it takes many years of education and experience before you can become a judge. The youth learned the various cases that are handled in Judge Beckman's court, such as traffic, theft, bad checks, and misdemeanors and which cases are handled by the other courts. Judge Beckman spoke to the teens on the court system and what leadership skills are needed to preside as a judge. The teens also toured the Treasurer's office, Auditor's office, and Recorder's office and were most impressed with all the duties performed in each office.

The youth group also visited the Paulding County Jail, Paulding County Historical Society, Al-Co Products Inc., and Custom Assembly. The presenters at each location spoke to the teens on the life skills needed to run a business. The skills emphasized by each agency were leadership, teamwork, decision making, problem solving, communication and integrity.

The teens acknowledged how much they learned by the various visits and were looking forward to practicing all the leadership skills they learned at their schools and extra curricular activities.

So as this story goes to press it is still undetermined what the future holds. Is there still community support for preserving this historic building? Will the powers that be even allow the possibility? Stay tuned!

LOCAL YOUNG LEADER READY FOR HISTORIC INAUGURATION

In January 2009, outstanding high school students from across the United States will take part in a truly American celebration—the Inauguration of the 44th President of the United States. During the five-day program, the Presidential Youth Inaugural Conference (PYIC) will provide scholars with a deeper understanding of the history behind the electoral process and the rich traditions surrounding the presidential inauguration.

“The Presidential Youth Inaugural Conference will provide students with an opportunity to take part in historic events that coincide with the Inauguration of the President of the United States,” said Marguerite Regan, Dean of Academic Affairs for the Congressional Youth Leadership Council (CYLC), the organization that sponsors PYIC. “Something that is really wonderful about so many young people gathering in Washington, D.C. for this event is that it will provide them a chance to become more familiar with and attuned to the president who will govern our country over the next four years. We certainly hope this will inspire the next generation of U.S. leaders.”

Inaugural Scholars will have the opportunity to interact with a major presidential candidate, White House officials, congressional staff members, political experts and other VIPs, such as Lance Armstrong. After witnessing the inauguration, scholars will experience the grandeur of the inaugural parade, as the president, vice president and their families make their way down Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol Building to the White House. To further honor and celebrate Inauguration Day, scholars will attend a Black Tie Gala Inaugural Ball.

Simon Hessler, a Payne resident and Junior at Wayne Trace High School has been extended an invitation to attend this prestigious event.

In addition to participating in inaugural events and festivities, scholars will have the opportunity to explore the numerous historic sites and monuments in our nation’s capital, as well as participate in roundtable discussions, debates and other activities that will help to expand their knowledge of democratic principles and the presidential election process.

CYLC is a nonpartisan, independent, educational organization. Since 1985, the Council has inspired more than 200,000 young people to achieve their full leadership potential. Members of the U.S. Congress have joined our commitment by serving on the CYLC Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors. In addition, more than 50 embassies participate in the Council’s Honorary Board of Embassies.

PAULDING COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

The Paulding County Commissioners met in regular session on Monday, August 11, 2008.

The Commissioners discussed the AEP expenses for the new jail. The Commissioners are “very disappointed with AEP failing to submit a correct bill and with ourselves for not finding the AEP error earlier.”

Tracing the cause of not finding the AEP error pointed to the fact that utility bills are paid from many different funds. There is no method in the existing accounting system to track bills for all the county-owned buildings because different programs and funds are involved in making the payments.

The end result is actually a financial savings for the county. When AEP did not bill the correct electric costs, the county gained interest earned on the balance. Plus, a sixty-five month payment schedule (almost five and one-half years) continues to allow Paulding County to earn interest on the funds until caught up.

However, the estimated costs for the new jail were underestimated as the true electric costs were hidden by the AEP error and the county’s inability to catch the problem early enough.

Tony Burkley, Chairman of the Commissioners, said, “The problem is not the expense. It would have been paid out earlier if we had known. The problem is our old accounting system that does not allow us to obtain management information on important expenses. Tracking expenses for invoices we receive can be difficult and especially difficult to track invoices we don’t get. There are those that are looking for someone to blame for the AEP bill. If it will satisfy their political agenda, the buck stops in the Commissioners’ Office.

EDITORIAL ELECTRIC BILL OVERSIGHT WILL HURT OTHER AGENCIES

by Bryce Steiner

As most all of you know, the county received an AEP bill for the jail of over $120,000 for electricity used but now billed. The Paulding Progress had an excellent article last week concerning this. I was planning on doing a news article about this but decided against it and instead do an editorial opinion. Just to let you know, this may or may not be the view of the West Bend News. In other words, it’s my opinion!

After the Defiance Crescent broke the story on August 5, we’ve had numerous phone calls asking us what happened and what we’ve thought about it. I even went and asked the Sheriff a few questions and talked to some people in the courthouse. I still have more questions than answers.

Here’s what I’m confused about: “Harrow said that the bill payment has been listed in the 149 Fund report [jail levy that failed to renew in 2007] on a spreadsheet of bills since the county took occupation for the jail building several years ago. He said that the $13 payment was there for all to see, recorded with the rest of the finances on the document.”*

To me this is interesting because he says in the next paragraph, “Harrow said he knew nothing of the low AEP bill until he was informed recently.”* So, He expects everyone else to know this because it was ‘there for all to see’, but he himself is excluded...and what’s the reason for that? It was his department that made the report from the bills including utilities (his office also opened the bills, wrote up vouchers of the amount and forwarded them to the Auditor. “I didn’t pay attention to utility or water bills...How can I when there are so many responsibilities to carry out as sheriff.”* Sorry Mr. Harrow, but as an elected department official, it is your responsibility. Why would you run for office if you won’t take responsibility of the position?

Now I don’t want to be too hard on the Sheriff because I’m sure it’s a tough job, but he told me, “I don’t budget utilities. Never have!” How can a person properly know what their expenses are if there is no budget projection from the prior year at home, business or government? Again, I’m sure the responsibilities were just too great to include something as simple as that. After all, what is a $4,500 a month for electricity compared to $13 of the tax payer’s money (per month)?

I find it funny too, the first person Harrow blames is Brad Dysinger as the timing was too coincidental with election season. Uh, Brad wasn’t the one who found it and giving him credit is giving him “free political advertising.”* I’ll bet Tony Burkley is real happy with Harrow for giving Brad so much free publicity (that was sarcasm in case there was any question). Who wrote anything about criminal intent?

I was concerned that the county wouldn’t have the money to pay for this with all that we have heard lately concerning the county finances, but the news release to the left implies the county has the money and is earning interest on it since it only has to be paid back over a 65 month period. I thought that maybe other county funded departments may have to be cut because of the AEP—Sheriff oversight. Unfortunately, I believe it will hurt other county departments as they have be the ones cutting budgets to pay this continuing bill.

On another note, be sure to visit the different events in the area. Fall approaches fast and before you know it, it will be winter. It’s a great a time to live in Paulding County!

We will not blame others for an honest oversight; but will work towards avoiding a similar occurrence in the future.”

Marty Harmon said, “Ohio schools have a state-supported accounting system that allows school boards to capture good management information. However, the state does not provide a similar service for counties.”

Marty Harmon stated, “The county owns many facilities, many of which we pay for utilities. Some are paid by others and of those we pay, some are a general fund responsibility and some belong to a special fund.”

The Commissioners are aware that a new accounting system is a difficult project and expensive. All elected and appointed officials have to be involved. The computer programming must be purchased, implemented, and maintained. Commissioner Ed Straley said, “It would be difficult, if not impossible, to make this change at the same time that available funds are short and staff have already been reduced.”

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

This informational letter is in response to Danielle Smith's suggestion that the Paulding County Fair host a band show. Danielle—we couldn't agree with you more! The senior fair board would have loved to have a band show to add to our growing list of activities that occurred at the fair this past June. In fact, in December of 2007, we sent out a letter of inquiry to the administration and the band directors of each school in the county (Antwerp, Paulding and Wayne Trace) asking if they would consider attending the show. We included in the letter that we had been approached by numerous community members asking for a show at the fair.

We had a flyer ready that listed prizes and other pertinent information, including contact information, about the show. Unfortunately Danielle, not one of the schools responded to our letter. We decided not to further pursue the plans for the show since we didn't have the support of the county schools.

Your positive, enthusiastic, and straightforward letter was much appreciated. It sounds like the band is active and lucky to have you as a member. As a board, we welcome suggestions and we try our best to provide a great fair for the county. Many new activities, some hosted by the junior fair board (fun activities with prizes for fair goers of all ages) and some hosted by the senior fairboard (truck pull and new nightly entertainment) have been scheduled in the past several years in an attempt to help build the fair attendance. We believe that it is working. We have had many comments and compliments (as well as good suggestions) about the changes that we have made. Our junior and senior fair board members (all volunteering their time) work hard to provide a quality fair for the county. We want to continue the positive changes, so suggestions like yours help. Please feel free to continue sending them our way. Community members are welcome at our open meetings. They occur on the second Wednesday of every month and are held at the fair grounds at 7:30 p.m. We also invite community members to consider volunteering to help us continue to build the Paulding County Fair.

Larry Colley—Senior Fair Board Vice President, and the Paulding County Senior Fair Board members

Komen for the Cure which awards grants to area organizations offering a variety of community based breast health education and breast cancer screening and treatment programs for the medically underserved throughout our 18 county service area. Last year's race raised more than $560,000.

Each year special tribute is paid to two courageous individuals who serve as inspiration to others by recognizing them as the "In Celebration of" honoree and "In Memory of" honoree.

This year the "In Celebration of" honor goes to Diane Pacella for her personal perseverance against breast cancer and her dedication to raising breast cancer awareness. An 18-year survivor, Diana volunteers her time on the oncology floor of Flower Hospital, working with newly diagnosed patients through the reach for Recovery Program.

The "In Memory of" honoree is Gail Wilkins could best be described as "sunshine" because she brightened everyone's day and put others before herself. She courageously fought the disease for three years. Gail is survived by her husband Jeff, daughter Samantha and son Hunter. On December 1, 2007 Gail and her family moved into a new home, the fulfillment of her wish. Surrounded by her family, Gail passed away on Christmas night. She was 34 years old.

Nancy G. Brinker promised her dying sister, Susan G. Komen, she would do everything in her power to end breast cancer forever. In 1982 that promise became Susan G. Komen for the Cure and launched the global breast cancer movement.

Today, Komen for the Cure is the world's largest grassroots network of breast cancer survivors and activists fighting to save lives, empower people, ensure quality care for all and energize science to find the cures. Thanks to events like the Komen Race for the Cure, more than $1 billion has been invested to fulfill the promise, becoming the largest source of nonprofit funds dedicated to the fight against breast cancer in the world.

In 1999, the Northwest Ohio Affiliate was officially established and supports the 17 Ohio counties of Allen, Auglaize, Defiance, Erie, Fulton, Hancock, Hardin, Henry, Lucas, Mercer, Ottawa, Paulding, Putnam, Sandusky, Van Wert, Williams, and Wood, and the county of Monroe, Michigan.

The national sponsors of The Race include Yoplait, American Airlines, Coldwater Creek, Energizer, Ford, Fuze, New Balance, Quilted Northern Ultra, RE/MAX and Zeta Tau Alpha.

All four school districts in our readership have now started school. Along with school starting is the fall sports. Antwerp played at Paulding in a football scrimmage on Friday night and Wayne Trace played against Fort Laramie. Paulding scored in the first half of the game. Both teams looked very good. With the summer winding down and the fall festivals beginning to start, the young people are looking to get back on the bus for another year. Make the most of it!

ANTWERP HISTORY

By: Stan Jordan

Last Saturday was the celebration called "A Day in the Park." Boy, what a fine day. The weather was excellent and the people came early and stayed until the festivities were over.

Brighter Days DJ's, Gary Looser, let us use his sound equipment for all our games and interviews. He has a fine P.A. system and we appreciated the use of it.

We had an interview and talk with Dick Dunderman. He was in the Navy for 22½ years. He was a corpsman and most of the time a Naval Chief in the medic. Dick has been all over the world and his wife, Ottie, followed when she could.

Dick was Antwerp's Police Chief for 23 years. He was well known and well liked by most everyone in the county.

Dick and Ottie had five children, they have 16 grandchildren and 17 great-great grandchildren.

The Dance Dolls entertained for almost an hour. There is about 130 girls and they come from all the neighboring towns. Their flashy costumes and dress added to the entertainment.

The hoop race stymied them for awhile because that type of race has not been run for a long time around here.

In all, I think the girls won more contests than the boys did.

In the jello eating contest, a nice little fellow told me that he was allergic to red jello. Then a gal told us the same thing. So we had plenty of jello and we got that part straightened and I don't think either one won anything.

Anyhow, later I asked Darlene Billman, R.N. About this situation. I always take my medical questions to her. She says that's not uncommon, lots of people are allergic to red food coloring. In the medical profession they try to stay away from red.

By golly, I learned something today. We never get to old to learn.

We had singing groups. The Glory Gospel Group from Van Wert County. They have a fast-moving beat in gospel songs. They were greatly received by everyone. Legacy is from the Defiance area, plus one member from Antwerp. They appear at the Essen House periodically and are known by a lot of people.

We were entertained by a little eleven year old girl, who has a great voice and a great presentation. Her name is Kenzie Clemens, and attends school at Wayne Trace. I personally really enjoyed her singing and I hope she pursues a musical career. I think she is that good.

The last entertainers for the day was Cy and Ruth Savage. Both are Antwerp natives, but have lived in Michigan, where Cy was a school teacher. They have always helped out with their fine array of songs, any time they are asked. That is the way with a lot of Antwerp people, they pitch in and help and do their share to make A Day in the Park a huge success.

A man was driving in the San Francisco area and he picked up a hitch hiker. He was a typical hippie, sandals, long hair, little glasses, a beard and a long dress or coat of some type. He really fit the mold and talked like a hippie.

Soon he came up to a busy highway and stopped like the sign said. The driver pulled up and said, "It's all right my way, anything coming your way?" The hippie said, "Like, a dog, man." So he drove out on the highway and there was a terrible crash, metal grinding on metal, glass falling all around, the dust and noise were terrific.

As they laid there, at the crash scene, the driver said, "You said their was nothing but a dog, man."

The hippie said, "Yea, man, like a greyhound."

NOW READ THIS TOO

Some time ago, Harold and Sandra Wann had a family reunion and had a picture taken of all their children. The kids took the picture to a firm and had this tapestry made showing a life like image of all their children.

From left to right is Hal, the oldest and he lives in Berne, IN. Then the daughter is Rita Putman and she lives in Rockford, OH. Son Jim and family lives in Ravenna, OH. Son Tom and his family live in Defiance, OH. Daughter Susan and her family live in Washington, PA.

The Wanns have eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

This tapestry is a very unique keep sake. It looks nice whenever you put it on the wall, sofa, chair or anywhere.

Mrs. Sandra Wann is the president of the Antwerp Chamber. Mike Renno is the V.P. and Cheryl Lichty is the capable secretary treasurer.

These people really appreciate all the groups coming and setting up and helping out at "A Day in the Park."

And I also want to thank everyone, because I really enjoyed this day. Another day has gone down in Antwerp History.

PRESIDENTIAL RACE IS ON

COUNTRY INN RESIDENTS VISIT SENATOR MCCAIN

Residents at Country Inn Enhanced Living Center, Paulding, were recently given VIP treatment by presumed Republican Nominee Senator John McCain and his campaign staff. McCain, who made an appearance in Lima on August 7, extended an invitation to Country Inn residents who could attend his town hall meeting. Four residents and staff, along with several seniors from Country Villas made the trip to the Veterans Memorial Center in downtown Lima. Mary Zachrich, 87, was excited to find herself up front along the roped off platform of McCain. "I was very happy to find out that he is a Navy veteran like me. I didn't know that and it means a lot to me." It evidently meant something to McCain as well who shook Mary's hand firmly, leaned into her face amidst the crowd and thanked her for her Navy service during World War II as the program ended. "He really made me feel very special. I had never been to anything like this before." Mary had persistently waved a flag in attempts to ask McCain a question during his 45 minute question and answer session. He did not select her to ask her question, but made up for it by shaking her hand. When asked what question she would have asked McCain, Mary replied. "I wanted to know if he was pro-life." Another participant had asked McCain that very question and McCain stated that he supports legislature to protect the rights of the unborn. Residents agreed that it was worth the wait and drive to see the McCain campaign in action. It was noted that Ohio has traditionally been one of the deciding states for the presidential election. Residents celebrated by eating out on the return trip to Country Inn in Paulding.

Atticus Lee Meussling, five months old, attends the kick-off for Barack Obama's presidential campaign in Paulding County. His mother, Tresa Grace Meussling, helps Atticus hold his new Obama bumper sticker as he sits on her lap. Also attending the kick-off is Allisen Cooper, age six. Of the approximately 20 people in attendance, the consensus was that this is the first time that a presidential campaign sent a field rep to organize in Paulding County.

INVESTMENT IN EXTENSION PAYS BIG BENEFITS

By: Paulding County Extension

As most of you realize, the fate of the Paulding County Extension Office rests in voters' hands on November 4. Passing the county general fund levy will keep our doors open and allow us to continue serving Paulding County residents.

And it will also mean your investment in Extension will continue to pay dividends. This investment provides an economic benefit to the community through both direct and indirect dollars.

Your county investment for 2008 from the Paulding County's general fund is $90,000. This amount goes toward the salary and benefits of the Paulding County Extension office staff, as well as office operating expenses. At the same time, state and federal partners paid nearly $115,000, with another $15,000-plus coming from special grants. Plus, the Paulding County Extension Office also brings another $112,000 in grants to serve our clients, including 4-H Youth Development grants and sponsorships, Agriculture and Natural Resources grants and sponsorships, and a federal Family Nutrition Program grant.

The bottom line is this: For a local investment of just $90,000, the Paulding County Extension Office brings in another $242,000 from outside sources. That's like paying 27 cents for a full dollar worth of services: Buy one, get three free.

But the payoff doesn't stop there. By having an Extension presence right here in Paulding County, we offer indirect economic benefits to local residents and businesses every day. A 2005 study on OSU Extension conducted by Battelle showed:

- Every 1 percent increase in agricultural output achieved through Extension programming brings $149 million in direct and indirect output to Ohio, $29 million in personal income for Ohioans and 2,712 jobs.

- Farmers who read Extension newsletters report significant savings and profit generation. Readers of the CORN (Crop Observation and Recommendation Network) newsletter said they saved $11.3 million in pesticides, and readers of the GRAIN newsletter reported a $3.8 million gain by following marketing advice. Weed control recommendations from Extension increased corn yields by more than 2.5 million bushels and soybean yields by 1 million bushels.

- Extension's nutrition programs, such as the Family Nutrition Program here in Paulding County, reach thousands of families with information on healthy eating habits. More than 90 percent report a positive change in food choices and serving size and 98 percent report an increased knowledge of nutrition.

- Our food safety programs also pay off. Battelle reported that for every 1 percent decrease in foodborne illnesses as a result of Extension programming results in $2.6 million to $5.3 million savings in Ohio, as a result of reductions to health costs and missing work.

- The 4-H Youth Development Program's focus on leadership and integrity reaches 300 youths in Paulding County and 11.7 percent of the youth throughout Ohio. Battelle figured that if the program encourages just 5 percent of 4-H members to receive a bachelor's degree, more than 11,000 degrees would be earned, bringing those graduates $19,000 more annually over counterparts who only finished high school.

Locally, we have worked with local businesses and individuals to protect ash trees from the Emerald Ash Borer, an invasive pest that, according to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, could end up costing the state $3 billion. The sentinel plots we scout weekly for soybean rust could give us early earning against this disease that could mean yield losses of 10 to 90 percent. We participate in the Corn Nitrogen Study that assists farmers in the calculation of the optimal economic nitrogen rate based on nitrogen cost and corn price.

In many ways, Paulding County Extension pays off. Please vote for the general fund levy in November and help Keep Paulding County Growing and Strong.

THE ATMOSPHERIC AC-COUNT

By: Joshua Steiner

Around this time of the year, the hurricane peak season is beginning—in the months of August, September, and October. These three months are peak time because the ocean temperature has been warmed by the hot summer months (above eighty degrees Fahrenheit). This heat rises and condenses forming clouds while the sun evaporates the water in the ocean. The clouds that were formed start raining, the heat from the ocean rises and lowers the air pressure which makes the wind stronger which causes the waves to become larger and larger. When the waves get larger, this causes ocean sprays to evaporate which increases evaporation. The huge amounts of evaporation cause more and more condensation which in turn produces heavier rainfall. This process continues until the hurricane has hit land. Hurricanes are steered by high pressure systems towards the North American continent.

Around here we don't get hit by hurricanes, but we can be affected by them. Sometimes when hurricanes hit the east coast they weaken but the rain can keep traveling west and can give us heavy rain and wind. Hurricanes can also, if it doesn't make it far enough, push are storms towards the west instead of the east.

Around this time here, we usually expect our temperatures to start cooling down in September, it usually does cool down in the beginning of fall (it probably will this year)but we shouldn't let our guards down because last year we had a heat wave in October, so we should remember that it can still get hot in October.

Forecast for the rest of the week:
 8/20 - Sunny with a high of 84 degrees and a low of 57 degrees
 8/21 - Partly cloudy with a high of 87 degrees and a low of 66 degrees
 8/22 - Partly cloudy with a high of 86 degrees and a low of 64 degrees
 8/23 - 30% chance for isolated T-storms with a high of 83 degrees and a low of 65 degrees
 8/24 - 30% chance for isolated T-storms with a high of 80 degrees and a low of 53 degrees
 8/25 - 60% chance of scattered showers with a high of 78 degrees and a low of 56 degrees
 8/26 - 40% chance of showers with a high of 76 degrees and a low of 54 degrees

FROM THE DOG WARDEN'S DESK

By: Mandy Lichty, Paulding County Dog Warden

Leah is this week's featured pet. Leah is an eight months old silver Weimaraner mix. She is a medium size dog weighing only about 25 pounds with a nice short coat. Leah is patiently waiting for her new home.

Also at the shelter we have a purebred black lab, a german shep mix - house-trained, a copper beagle, and a rottweiler mix. New dogs come into the shelter everyday. Please check our website at www.petfinder.org/shelters/OH709.html ways the worst time for fleas. Be sure to inspect your pets coat and skin for signs of fleas. Not only are fleas a major nuisance to you and your pets they can also infect your pets with tapeworms.

There are several topical flea treatments that can be applied once a month to kill existing fleas and prevent further infestations. Be sure to buy the right size for your pets weight and never treat a cat with a product made for dogs.

Be sure to tell the businesses you patronize, that you saw their ad in the West Bend News.

CICADAS

By: Rose Kever

The cicadas are buzzing already. I started hearing them at about the second week of July. An old man told me when you hear them that it will be six weeks until the first frost. Well, let me tell you - if the first frost hits us in August, the scientists, who say we're having global warming, are dead wrong!

We have a male mulberry tree where the cicadas live, including coming up out of the ground around it. We were discussing these creatures today and there really is a lot of mystery in the species. They come out of holes in the ground, climb up the tree trunk, morph out the shell and fly around and make a lot noise. It's a beautiful sound that does make you know that fall is coming.

The grandchildren like to go over to the tree and collect the shells, (Seth is afraid of them), and they attach them to their shirts for decorations. Hailey, who lives in Toledo and doesn't get to see this stuff is truly amazed with the whole "outside - nature" thing. They live in an apartment complex, so she can't come and go like she can here. I guess that's why she likes to come to Grandma's. She can go outside to play and explore and still be safe.

The cicadas amaze me every summer. Sometimes you can even watch them crawl through the grass, heading for the tree. I don't know how long it takes for the shell to dry before it splits and they come out. I guess I need to go watch for awhile and see just how long it takes.

UNITED WAY OF PAULDING COUNTY CHOSEN BY HOME DEPOT

The United Way of Paulding County has begun receiving product donations from the local Home Depot store through a new national program that aims to empower communities and improve the lives of people in need.

"The volume, quality and types of items we have received in our first two pick-ups have been outstanding! We are very excited and blessed that we can share these items with the ill, needy and youth in our community," said Nancy Hessler, executive director of the United Way of Paulding

County.

In an effort to increase access to affordable housing and provide healthy and decent living conditions for low-income families and elderly persons across the nation. The Home Depot (THD) partnered with Gifts In Kind International to launch the Framing Hope Product Donation Program (www.giftsinkind.org/HomeDepot), a national product donation program that benefits nonprofit organizations in the communities served by each THD store.

Most low- or fixed-income families in America pay more than one-third of their earnings on housing and cannot afford the cost of maintenance on their dwellings.

This new national product donation program—managed by Gifts In Kind International—aims to empower low-income communities and prevent them from becoming unsafe and rundown. The Framing Hope program matches Home Depot stores with local nonprofits that receive donated products throughout the year. The Auburn, Indiana-based THD store will provide urgently needed building or home improvement supplies to United Way of Paulding County to increase the organized capacity of the people of Paulding County, Ohio to care for one another through the establishment of a community process which brings people together to identify, improve, and where possible, resolve health and human-care problems, all in an effort to promote individual well-being and social good.

"The generous donations of The Home Depot to charitable organizations around the country such as United Way of Paulding County will have a profound impact on local community housing and shelter programs," said Gifts In Kind International President and CEO Richard Wong. "Gifts In Kind is honored to work with The Home Depot to help provide healthy and safe housing for the underprivileged in Paulding County."

The donations received by United Way of Paulding County will include building supplies and materials, plumbing products and assorted home improvement products and have totaled nearly $5,000.

Gifts In Kind International

Ranked by Forbes Magazine as one of the nation's best-managed charities in America, Gifts In Kind International (www.giftsinkind.org) works to enhance, empower and restore communities in need by generating and distributing corporate product donations through its network of more than 120,000 qualified nonprofit organizations that are doing important work around the world. The nonprofit organization manages donation programs for a wide range of Fortune 100 companies and retailers.

The Home Depot

Based in Atlanta, GA, The Home Depot is the world's largest home improvement retailer with more than 2,000 retail locations worldwide. Giving back to the community has ALWAYS been a core value at The Home Depot. Through community programs such as Kaboom and Team Depot, The Home Depot has been able to give back to local communities by improving neighborhoods and building playgrounds for children. Through this new store product donation program, The Home Depot will partner with Gifts In Kind International to help rebuild and reshape our local communities by donating needed home improvement and building supplies.

JUNCTION CANAL MARKER A REALITY

The Junction Canal Marker Committee has announced that the marker is coming and will be shipped mid-September.

The Committee has been successful in raising more than enough money for the marker. Any monies left will be used to landscape the area.

The Junction Canal Marker Committee consists of Les Weidenhamer, Jerry and Mary Price, Carol Birkemeier and Marceile Tuohy with the John Paulding Historical Society sponsoring the marker.

They have worked very hard to preserve the history of the canals in the area.

The marker will be located near the site where the canals junctioned at the corners of St, Rt. 111 and Township Rd. 163 in Junction, OH. The canals not only helped drain the Black Swamp area but were also a means of transportation of people and goods. The canal connected Lake Erie with the Ohio River.

The marker will also honor the Buckeye Trail and the North Country Trail. The Buckeye Trail is a 1,450 mile long distance trail that loops around the state of Ohio. The North Country Trail, planned to stretch more than 4,600 miles from eastern New York to western North Dakota, is the longest of the eight National Scenic Trails authorized by Congress. These trails follow the Miami Erie Canal through Paulding County.

The dedication will be held on October 18, 2008 at 1:00 p.m. at the marker site. Come join in and be a part of the preservation of the Paulding County History.

JOHANN'S FARM HOST OHIO FLYING FARMERS

The Ray and Sharon Johanns' farm has again welcomed the Ohio Flying Farmers to Paulding, Ohio.

This year 10 airplanes flew in. Members arrived from four different states for a total of 69 in attendance. A potluck lunch was enjoyed.

After lunch the "Static Sound" Barbershop Quartet from Paulding entertained those attending.

Ron Jackson brought his light sport "Sonic" plane for the men of the group to "ooh!" and "aah!" over.

The Ohio Flying Farmers are always looking for new members and also new places to visit. If you have an interest in flying, farming, or just want to be with a family organization, this is the group for you.

The Flying Farmers were organized in 1945 with an International affiliation. Friends come together from all over the United States and Canada. The International Convention was held in July 2008 in Colorado Springs, Colorado. The Winter Workshop will be held in Branson, Missouri in February 2009.

Dayton, Ohio will be the site of the International Convention in July of 2009. For more information or to come as a guest to a meeting, call Ray or Sharon Johanns, Paulding, Ohio.
