ANN'S BRIGHT BEGINNINGS PRESCHOOL IS AN AWARD WINNING CENTER!

For the fourth year in a row, Ann's Bright Beginnings Preschool has been awarded with the Step Up To Quality award from the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services. Administrator, Ann Miller says, "We are proud to be a Step Up To Quality Center that meets the quality benchmarks of the State of Ohio. We know that early experiences last a lifetime. We will always strive to prepare the children that enter our program to be successful in school and in life. We work hard to earn this award each year and are very grateful for the monetary incentive that is included." Requirements for this award include but are not limited to: fewer children per classroom, teachers with more education and training, exceeding Ohio's standards in health and safety, an outstanding report from state licensing, and the following of the early learning content standards.

OUR MISGUIDED AT-TEMPTS AT CONTENTMENT

By: Regan Clem, Riverside Christian Church

I googled "how to be content." There were a few articles from a biblical perspective, but the majority of the articles talked about meditating and emptying our minds. There were also articles on goals, being self-disciplined, and organized. These might be good things, but we do not achieve contentment through emptying ourselves, by going into some room and meditating, by finding a better filing system, or by having good long-term goals.

In America, especially if you had to read Henry David Thoreau's Walden in high school, we are inundated with an American ideal of self-sufficiency. In this mindset, there is nothing more noble than having your own farm, living off of your land, and not needing anything from anyone. It is an alluring concept out here in rural America, but it also does not lead to contentment.

Spiritual self-sufficiency is similar; it is independence from outside influences. This doesn't mean that there will not be any outside influences: it means that we will be able to remain spiritually sound while experiencing or enduring them. We are incapable of isolating ourselves from situations that will bring us happiness or sadness. What we need to do is reach a point where we will no longer allow those experiences to define who we are, so we can be content in all situations. As a pastor, I can get suckered into basing my self-esteem on attendance. When doing this, I would be happy on a good week; I would be sad on a small week. This is an easy pitfall for a minister to fall into, but it misses the point of why a minister does what he does. On that path lays madness, pride, and discouragement, not contentment.

But what wrong target are you shooting at in your work life, in your family life, or in your life out in the community? Where do you get your sense of self-worth? Is your success based on your income, career, children, social status, or popularity? All of those things can go away in an instant. If we measure our success in any way other than being faithful to God and our relationship with Him, we will eventually be met with disappointment. We need to live in the understanding that we are not in charge of results. We are given the opportunity to live in God's will, but we do not have to carry the stress of creating the results. "Success" or "failure" in the world's eyes does not really matter. What matters is whether we are doing what we know God would want us to do in the situation we are in. Knowing that we are in God's will is how we can be content in plenty, in hunger, in abundance, and in need. That is how we can be just as content when our savings account is overflowing as we can be when we don't know how to make ends meet. The solution is not to

PH: 419-258-2000 • FAX: 419-258-1313 • info@westbendnews.net ignore things, but to place all things in their proper perspective under Jesus and to rely on Him.

Paul wrote in his letter to the church in Philippi:

"I have learned in whatever situation I am to be content. I know how to be brought low, and I know how to abound. In any and every circumstance, I have learned the secret of facing plenty and hunger, abundance and need. I can do all things through him who strengthens me' (Philippians 4:11b-13 ESV).

Liberty and freedom are political catchwords right now. They are our rallying cry to change this nation, but political changes will not produce true liberty and freedom. Those are just a temporary façade. True liberty and freedom come in being content in Jesus Christ. If we are content in Christ, then we will be able to live life with total abandon in every situation-going after the will of God no matter what the cost.

Prosperity might lead to happiness, but what happens when our assets dwindle or lose their value? Beauty might bring a sense of worth, but what happens when it dims? Great friends might bring about good times, but what happens when there is conflict and the friendship is strained or broken? All of these are good. Who would not enjoy financial security, good looks, or great friends? But none of these are a good foundation for our sense of self-worth. Discontentment comes when we place our inner peace on wrong foundations like these. For the good things that bring happiness, when they are our focus, can lead to pride, overconfidence, and a blindness to the blessings given to us and the needs of others around us. An inner life that is based on the situation we currently find ourselves in is fleeting and will disappear when adversity or failure comes.

It is guaranteed that many of the externals of your life will change as you age. Maybe you will find yourself wealthier in five years, but you could be poorer. Depending on your age, you will either be prettier in five years or your looks will continue to wane. Your car will need replaced. Your house will need continued maintenance. Loved ones might even pass on within five years. Tragedy will strike. Five years isn't that long of a time, but within five years, all of the externals in your life might change. Are you able to weather the storm of things getting worse? Is your life built on the rock of Jesus? Or is he just one of the decorations on the wall of your sand castle? You can read more of Regan's writings at www.regansravings.blogspot.com or stop in to worship God with him and his church family on Sundays at Riverside at 10:30 a.m.

PAULDING COUNTY TREA-SURER ANNOUNCES ES-CROW PAYMENT PROGRAM

Since my election as Treasurer of Paulding County in 2006 I have had a large number of residents, who are on a fixed income, request the opportunity to prepay their Real Estate Taxes, also there is a definite need for those individuals who have paid off their mortgages, to have the option of continuing to pay their taxes in monthly installments. We now "have" that ability with the introduction of the Real Estate Escrow Payment Program, with the first payment due March 20, 2010.

"How does this work?" you may ask? This plan is devised to assist you in paying your Real Estate taxes in a timely manner, a pre-payment service used at the discretion of the treasurer. It is divided into two parts, first half taxes and second half taxes. Due to timing, we are unable start the program until second half taxes 2010 payable July 20, 2011.

The way the program works is that you, the taxpayer, will register with the treasurer's office to become a participant; also, multiple parcels can be placed on one contract. Your 2nd half tax bill will be divided into three equal payments due the months of March, April and May. There will not be a payment due in June, and the remainder of your taxes due will be included on your July tax statement. Taxes are estimated for each upcoming billing cycle and coupons are generated for the monthly payments. Payments are made in advance to a holding account. Upon the close of billing cycle, these holding accounts are then posted as payments to the property taxes.

If you are interested in signing up for the Escrow Program feel free to contact us at the Treasurer's office at 419-399-8280.

The West Bend News made a terrible mistake and we apologize to both Ann's Bright Beginnings, Little Blessings Daycare, and the parents for the mix-up between both the preschool and the daycare, and the confusion it has caused for mixing up the picture and the captions of the Santa visits. It was an oversight of the West Bend News staff and not the fault of either of the institutions. THE BATTLES IN YOUR THE MEANING OF AWE BRAIN

By: Pastor Joel DeSelm, Woodburn Missionary Church

One of the most difficult energies to harness is the energy of your mind. Controlling your thoughts, disciplining your mind, monitoring your brain-all are essential ingredients to successful Christian living, and a formidable challenge! The difficulty of controlling the mind is underscored by Lanny Bassham, an Olympic gold medalist in shooting the small-bore rifle. He wrote, "Our sport is controlled nonmovement. We are shooting from 50 meters-over half a football field—at a bull's eye three-quarters the size of a dime. If the angle of error at the point of the barrel is more than .005 of a millimeter (that is five one-thousandths), you drop into the next circle and lose a point. So we have to learn how to make everything stop. I stop my breathing. I stop my digestion by not eating for 12 hours before the competition. I train by running to keep my pulse around 60, so I have a full second between beats... You do all of this and you have the technical control. But you have to have some years of experience in reading conditions: the wind, the mirage. Then you have the other 80 percent of the problem—the mind!"

How easy it is to fail in that critical area! Like iron fillings drawn to a magnet, our thoughts tend to drift into old patterns of worry, negativism, complaining, lust, guilt, and a host of other joy-killing habits. They not only drain the vitality out of our life, but they also neutralize our effectiveness in reflecting Jesus Christ.

It is the Apostle Paul who tells us that part of God's "remodeling process" when we come to faith in Christ is the renewing of our mind. God is able to renew our minds as we ask Him to help us focus our thoughts on the RIGHT things, rather than fall back into our old thought patterns. The more we fill our minds with God's Word, God's thoughts, and God's praises we can slowly have our thinking turned.

As with most aspects of the Christian life, change in my life takes both God AND me working together. God has promised to change and transform me; however, I must put forth effort, diligence, perseverance, and self-discipline. Finding that balance and continuing in

Winning the Battle for a Generation Column by: Rick Jones, Executive Director, Defiance Area

Youth for Christ What word would use to describe something indescribable? How does the word "Awe" sound?

A recent issue of the Oprah Magazine has an interesting article on awe. The article's introduction states: 'Somewhere at the intersection of joy, fear, mystery, and insight lies awe, the ineffable response to the amazing world around us." The article goes on to give a more refined definition: "Overwhelming, surprising, humbling, even a little terrifying-awe is what we feel when faced with something sublime, exceptional, or altogether beyond comprehension."

University of California's Dacher Keltner, PhD, a psychology professor, does extensive research on the subject of awe. In his 2009 book Born to Be Good, he describes the feeling of awe as pushing people beyond selfishness and giving them a desire to do good. He believes that cultivating awe "is part of unlocking the truest sense of life's purpose." In his most well-known experiment, he had students complete a series of "I am" sentences. Half the students were facing a full-scale replica of a Tyrannosaurus Rex; the other half were facing a hallway. The first group was more likely to describe themselves in larger, grander terms ("I am part of the human species"). The group facing an empty hallway described themselves in smaller, narrower terms ("I am a soccer player").

The article even gives some tips for cultivating awe:

1. Try something new or something "you don't have a mental template for."

2. Go outside. The ultimate in awe is the beauty and wonder of nature.

3. Have an "ecstatic social experience" by going to a rock concert or political rally.

4. Look up at the night sky. Better yet, buy a tele-scope.

Although the article presents a mostly secular view of awe, it does tap into our human longing to find "joy, fear, mystery... [in] response to the amazing world around us." According to the Bible, there is one source for all the awe we experience-God. We were created to live in awe of God. The word awe or awesome is mentioned 53 imes throughout the Bible. The God who is "awesome in glory" (Exodus 15:11) and "mighty and awesome" (Deuteronomy 10:17) performs "awesome deeds for mankind" (Psalm 66:5). No wonder the psalmist proclaimed, "The whole earth is filled with awe at your wonders" (Psalm 65:8).

A LESSON FROM JOHN 3:18-21

By: James Potter, Oakwood church of Christ

Today let us look at these scripture verses as they show us about light and darkness. John tells us there are two kinds of people, those in darkness and those in the light. First let us have prayer asking our heavenly Father to give us guidance in our study.

Those of darkness:

They are in darkness because they love the darkness. What this means is they love evil, wickedness and ignorance. This also means they have made a choice to give their affection and loyalties to the things of darkness:

1 John 2:15-17 is talking about those who hate the light. This means they hate Jesus, who is the light; John 7:7; 15:18. It also means that they hate the truth. They are not interested in knowing the truth so as to be saved. John 8:32; 17:17 and 2 Thessalonians 2:10. Those in the darkness are those who deeds are evil: their lifestyles are not characterized by anything good or holy.

Their lifestyles are filled with deeds, their actions and practices that are clearly in violation of God's plan. And then there are those who do not want their deeds exposed.

There are those of the Light:

They know who the light is – John 8:12 then Jesus spoke to them again, saying, "I am the light of the world. He who follows Me shall not walk in darkness, but have the light of life."

They practice the truth:

3 John 1:3-4 – "For I rejoiced greatly when brethren came and testified of the truth that is in you, just as you walk in the truth. I have no greater Joy than to hear that my children walk in truth."

They are happy to have their deeds exposed:

John 3:21 – "But he who does the truth comes to the light, that his deeds may be clearly seen, that they have been done in God."

Please continue your study on this subject. Jesus loves you and so does the Oakwood church of Christ. If you have comments or questions on this lesson or any other questions that are Bible related please contact Lonnie Lambert at 419 399-5022 or James Potter at 419 393-4775. Please remember to pray to our heavenly Father for guidance and direction in your life. THANK YOU

To the Residents of the Village of Haviland,

This is a letter of thanks to the village's residents for allowing me to serve as your elected mayor for the last 19 years. Due to my new residence, I cannot continue to hold an elected position within the village. As per the village charter, I will be turning over my office and its duties to Richard Bowers, current president of the village council.

I want to thank the local county offices for their support, and the special people who have backed our village up. I want to thank the commissioners for their support on the various town projects, Maumee Valley for help in writing and implementing various grants, Paulding County engineers, for their help with various street repairs/projects, and the office of Economic Development for the setting up of various tax abatements both for the villages residents and businesses.

We've have done many great things for the village during my tenure, and we have made many great achievements together as a town. From the refurbishing of two village parks to the tearing down and clean up of two buildings (such as the old Haviland school), and onto the installation of a village wide tornado siren, we have shown that we may be small but we are strong. We are fortunate to have five different industries within our village, and sustain them through these hard economical times. I am proud to announce that a new company that utilizes green energy will be joining them within the near future.

Unfortunately I was unable to complete all the goals I had for the village during my current term in office. They were the installation of sidewalks along Cedar Street, which was originally the main street through the village (before 114 came in), updating the village council building breaker system, and continuous improvement of various properties for the health, safety, and economic values of our village.

Even though I've had the honor of being mayor of Haviland, my experience has taught me some lessons that I believe all elected officials should follow. First, we have to work together, no one person is right or wrong; we all have to listen to each other and willing to compromise. Second, we have to take action and move forward, and the have the commitment to see it through. It takes a dedicated council, knowledgeable clerks, and other special people such as those who keep up the town and put the extra effort into keeping the village going I feel that I have been fortunate enough to be part of this village. Thank you for giving me this opportunity it is something that I will cherish for years to come.

—Own and occupy the home as their principle place of residence as of January 1 of the current year or prior for real property, or January 1, 2011 or prior for manufactured homes.

All homeowners who qualify for the Homestead Exemption will now receive a flat $25,000 property tax exemption on the market value of their home. For example, an eligible owner of a home valued at $100,000 will now be billed as if the home were valued at $75,000. However, there is a maximum amount allowed by the State to be applied for the homestead exemption.

In 2010, Paulding County had a total of 1881 approved Homestead Exemption applications with a total dollar amount of $708,306.15 in tax reduction. These totals include applicants that were previously approved for the old Homestead Exemption program and the applicants that are now eligible for the new Homestead Exemption program.

For those homeowners who currently receive the homestead exemption, please be advised that you will soon be receiving a Continuing Homestead Exemption Application for Senior Citizens, Disabled Persons and Surviving Spouses (DTE 105B) form. You must report any changes that would affect your Homestead Exemption eligibility by completing and returning this form. Some examples of changes that could affect your eligibility would be change of ownership of the home or if the home is NO longer your principal place of residence, also if the owner's disability status has changed or the owner has died. If any changes affecting eligibility have occurred, you must complete this form and return it to the County Auditor by the first Monday in June. If no changes have occurred, you do not have to return the renewal form.

If you have any questions concerning eligibility or in signing up for the 2011 year, please contact the Paulding County Auditor's office in the courthouse or by calling 419-399-8205 prior to the June 6, 2011 deadline.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

You go Mr. Gorman! I certainly agree with you and the people in our government system could never live on my bi-weekly pay of $325. They would be on welfare in no time. They have no idea how we struggle to make ends meet. They don't realize that even though we get a paycheck we can't always pay our bills on time and buy groceries when we are hungry because something else came up unexpected-doctor bill, flat tire, dentist, eye doctor, etc. So that's why some people try to live on a budget.

Just when you think you got a little extra in your paycheck the electric bill, garbage bill or cable bill all goes up, and then where are you? Back to square one.

So if the big-wigs would open their eyes and see that the big problem starts with them maybe the world could start to turn around and we could see a brighter future for our children and grandchildren!

Also if they would all get together and get the gas prices where they should be at the same price nationwide, they are going to make money due to the fact we will all need gas to keep going back and forth to work every day. You get up in the morning to go to work gas is $3.06 and by the time you come home it's $3.20-what makes it go up and down every other day?

Now we have been told if you send your taxes in too early your return may not be returned till after March, due to the fact our government was slow in returning the tax vote. Wow, what else is new? Is there brighter days ahead? -Bonita Pepper

LATTA ANNOUNCES ENERGY AND COM-MERCE SUBCOMMIT-TEE ASSIGNMENTS

Congressman Bob Latta (R-Bowling Green), a member of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, announced his subcommittee assignments for the 112th Congress. Latta will serve on the Subcommittee on Communications and Technology, the Subcommittee on Health, and the Subcommittee on Environment and Economy.

"I want to thank Chairman Upton for the opportunity to serve on these important subcommittees. These subcommittees will be the starting point for dismantling the last four years of reckless public policy that expanded the size and scope of the federal government, spent trillions of dollars and created uncertainty in our economy. Items such as net neutrality, the government takeover of our nation's health care system, and EPA mandates must all be tackled and reformed. I look forward to working on meaningful reforms that the American people want for these flawed policies," Latta stated after learning of his subcommittee assignments.

LOUIS LENGACHER

By: Stan Jordan

Louis Lengacher was born in Allen County, Indiana in 1964. He has two brothers and two sisters. His father was Samuel Lengacher, a farmer.

Louis tells me they milked 20 cows twice a day by hand, fed and cared for 4,000 chickens, had around 50 hogs on a 150 acre grain farm with 12 horses—and I added it wasn't even breakfast yet. Oh, boy, if you liked to be busy.

Louis went to school at the Harlan Elementary and then graduated from Woodlan High School in 1982.

It was about this time he met and married Mary Lengacher. He started to work at construction work in the Defiance area. They built affordable housing, senior living centers, condos and living quarters of all kinds. The crew erected all the condos on US 127 in Sherwood. It was about this time that Louis was thinking about starting his own business.

When the old Antwerp High School building became available he was interested immediately. He always liked to help the elderly and his mind and plans were such that he would do that with the Old Antwerp School.

When Louis was growing up, his grandpa was pretty much confined to a rocking chair on the front porch. Louis' job was to help grandpa and look after him.

Louis said that those days with Grandpa is still in his heart as Grandpa needed help once in awhile. Louis wants to help older people like that now when he can. It is a part of his life and training. "I like people and want to help them. Our motto is for people to have ease and comfort," Louis commented.

So Louis has been working on this assisted living home in Antwerp and it has been over six years and now things are falling into shape.

"We have 49 guests now and have 41 employees. We have plans on the table for about 29 more guests and about that many helpers," said Louis.

I said, "With all your plans and places to go you are spread pretty thin."

He was quick to say, "Yes, but I have good trustworthy help and leaders." He allots a lot of the work and planning to some capable people. He is on the cell phone so much it has become part of his ear.

His morning starts at 3:30 a.m. every morning with chores, breakfast and devotions and into Antwerp by 5:30 a.m.

Louis likes to help people whenever he can. Now he didn't tell me about these things, but I was told about them anyhow. When the old school auction years ago was over, lots of articles were left over. Well, a school in the Virgin Islands sent a box car to Antwerp and any and all of the school supplies like desks, chalk, erasers, black board, etc. were all donated to that school free and postage paid.

One of Louis' cook's boyfriends was pretty much an invalid in his own house, so one of Louis' sons went over and built him a ramp so that fella can now come and go when he pleases. All the pay he wanted was a handshake and a smile.

In talking with Louis, there are a number of long range plans that will make the Manor House a big institution and able to handle more people. Besides the new rooms there will be a children's play area. Hopefully the swimming pool will be in operation and maybe an ice cream parlor.

As you remember, the Antwerp Baseball Association uses the old baseball complex because of the generosity of Mr. Lengacher. He realizes how much fun the kids have their in the baseball season. All of this is for the betterment of Antwerp and his long range plans to make people safe, comfortable and help the young as well as the old.

I have talked with Louis a number of times. His goal is to have a top-notch facility for years to come. A place for service, care and comfort for young and old. If there is something you need here just ring the bell and ask for it.

I met Louis at 5:00 p.m. on Monday and asked if he was going home. He said, "No I have to go to Payne to Dallas Lamb and light some heaters for the fresh concrete. After that it's to home and do the chores on the farm and then supper then bed—3:30 comes around pretty early."

In my talk with Mr. Lengacher, I find him to be a very sincere man who practices his beliefs and asks for guidance in his undertakings. A man who is true and honest to the core and wants to help anyone who needs it.

Louis, I am proud to call you my friend and everyone here at WBN wish you the very best in your new endeavors.

blondes from the Florida Panhandle who liked fishing in the Gulf, but they wanted to try some ice fishing they had heard about. So after a trip to Canada, they found a nice looking lake and decided this is the one they wanted to

So they stopped into the bait store for their supplies, like bait and tackle, and the one blonde said they would need an ice pick. So they bought one and headed on to the lake.

After a couple of hours the other blonde came into the bait shop and said, "We will need a couple more ice picks." So the owner handed them over and she left.

After awhile the first blonde was back in the shop and said, "We will take all the ice picks you got!"

The owner couldn't believe it, "How are you ladies doing anyhow?"

'Not well at all," the blonde replied, "we don't even have the boat in the water yet."

MUSH MORTON

By: Stan Jordan

Friends and readers, I'll bet there is not one out of ten of my readers that ever heard of Mush Morton. He was one of our best submarine captains in WWII in the South Pacific. I only knew a little about him, but he was a good all around sub commander and leader of men. He was born Dudley Walker Morton in 1907, in Owenboro, Kentucky. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1930. He received his nickname from a comic character in the newspaper, Moon Mullins. In October of 1942, he was commander of The USS Dolphin while it was undergoing repairs at Pearl. He was sent out on patrol on the USS Wahoo and later in Brisbane, he was made captain of the Wahoo. Between January 1, 1943 and October 11 of that year he made four great patrols and he was credited with nineteen Japs cargo and transport ships for a total of 55,000 tons. Most people didn't know that when WWII started, the Japs had a very good Torpedo called the Long Lance. It was better by far of anything we had.

What the US Navy had was all the old torpedoes left from WWI, all over 25 years old, laid in a government warehouse and most of them would not explode.

The sub commanders would report to the Upper Echelon this fact, but the big boys just looked aside and said the subs were missing the target.

Well, after three unexploded hits on a transport Mush said, "enough of this sending out 'dud' torpedoes and risking the men's lives after a Jap destroyer learns of a sub and the torpedoes not exploding.'

Mush Morton and an elderly Chief tore the firing mechanisms out of one of the old torpedoes and found a way for them to go off and make the torpedo explode. After this report got around, we started sinking some Jap ships. Mush made three very good patrols on the Wahoo.

The Wahoo made three return trips to Brisbane with a broom attached to the conning tower. This is to indicate a clean sweep and returned with all torpedoes expended. This was a top notch sub and

I think that Mr. Morton was the only commander who took on a Jap Destroyer with a 'down the throat shot'. That is a destroyer coming head on towards the sub and Mush hit him with a single torpedo right in the forward section. This was more luck than sense, but it destroyed the Jap ship.

Mush Morton's Wahoo and crew were given a dangerous assignment up into the Sea of Japan. The Wahoo was never heard from a radio call in time. Jap records show that a sub was caught on the surface by a Jap airplane that dropped depth charges. This was around the La Perouse Straights on October 11th.

The sub was presumed lost with all hands on that date. It was a very bad blow to our sub fleet. This sub was declared gone on September 7th of 1945. It was one of 54 submarines that was lost in WWII.

These affairs and crews were all heroes. They done a very good job and they gave their all.

WARRIORS TAKE A WIN ACROSS STATE LINES AGAINST ANTWERP

By: Jeff Abbott

Woodlan and Antwerp battled throughout their inter-state rivalry and the guest Warriors came back to Indiana with a 42-40 win over the Archers. Woodlan took the lead 11-6 after the first quarter, but the home team came back to take a 22-21 lead at the half. The Warriors again pulled away from the Archers, outscoring Antwerp 15-8 in the third period. The Archers tried to make a run in the final period, coming up just short on the Warriors. Taylor Carver led scoring for Woodlan with 16 points. Grace Keller pulled down 6 rebounds and had 5 assists.

ANTWERP ARCHER AFTER PROM COMMITTEE RE-WARD CARDS

Antwerp after prom committee is selling reward cards from Crazy Pinz Entertainment Center, 1414 Northland Blvd. Fort Wayne, Indiana 46825, www.crazypinz.com.

When you purchase an Antwerp High School Fundraising and Rewards card you are purchasing thousands of dollars worth of discounts and freebies as well as tool to help support your local community.

How it works is like this: Purchase an Antwerp Archer Fundraising card and immediately you receive gift cash good for anything at Crazy Pinz, 360 free games of bowling, an entry to win a car from Evans Toyota, and discounts and specials to other local retailers.

How to use your card is pretty simple also: Once you have purchased the card, to redeem your gifts and help raise money just activate your card by calling the toll free number on the back of the card or visiting the web site and providing some basic information. You will then receive a confirmation e-mail alerting you the card has been activated and giving you a detailed description of what benefits are available to you. Bring your card into Crazy Pinz to redeem your benefits, and 5% of everything you purchase is donated back to Antwerp after prom committee on your behalf. 5% cash back is also placed on your card for future visits. Regular emails are then sent to alert you of what benefits you have earned and how much money you have helped raise.

Throughout the coarse of the expiration date in August, as you continue to use your card, you earn more benefits, raise more money, and have more fun. A win for everyone.

For more information on these award cards please contact Tawnya English at the West Bend News or see the ad in this week's West Bend Newspaper.

Students from Oakwood Elementary, Paulding Elementary and Paulding Middle School competed in the district level of the National Geographic Bee Finals on January 6, 2011. Ryan Nicelley will advance to the next level of competition, a written examination. Ryan will move one step closer to a chance at a $25,000 scholarship. Ryan is a 6th grader from Paulding Middle School, and is the son of Roger and Jennifer Nicelley. The school-level Bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the 23rd annual National Geographic Bee.

JANUARY OUTLOOK – COLDEST JANUARY SINCE 1985

By: Josh Steiner

Contrary to what was originally predicted, January could end up being the coldest January in the United States since 1985. Back in November, long-range forecasters were forecasting a very cold December followed by a major January thaw with a much warmer period for most of the southern United States and parts of the East Coast. Now, because the atmosphere has not responded to strong La Nina conditions in the end of December as originally thought, a pattern more typical of a mix of a strong El Nino and strong La Nina will commence throughout most of January.

First off, the jet stream will be in the southern United States for the next several weeks, bringing them several potential snowstorms that could dump several inches of snow on cities like Atlanta, GA, Birmingham, AL, and possibly even as far south as will then turn northward into the Mid-Atlantic states bringing them several potential snowstorms over the course of January, ones like the post-Christmas storm. With the jet stream so far south, cold air will begin to spill far southward. This could recordbreaking cold temperatures in many areas of the US.

This pattern has already and will continue through most of January. This week, an arctic air mass will spread from the Midwest to the Ohio Valley and finally to South. This will lead to below zero temperatures in the Northern Plains, but much warmer temperatures elsewhere. In Northwest Ohio, temperatures should stay in the midtwenties for this week, with possibly the week of the 17th we could have highs that are actually below zero, which we haven't experienced in years. During the fourth week of January, temperatures should moderate back into the low 20's for the beginning of February.

Already, this arctic blast

The Bee is sponsored by the National Geographic Society. Marcus Miller, a 5th grader from Paulding Elementary School, was the first runnerup. Marcus is the son of Brian and Misti Miller. Shown here are Ryan Nicelley and Marcus Miller.

has sparked some intense lake effect snow especially around South Bend, where on Saturday, January 8, 2011, had the highest snowfall amount in 24 hours on record. From Friday to Saturday, they had a snow accumulation of 23.6 inches with most of it falling in the early morning hours on Saturday. The reason for the snowfall rates up to five inches an hour in South Bend is because the north-northwest winds have a longer way to travel across Lake Michigan and can pick up more moisture further causing the winds to be more unstable. So when the moisture-laden wind moves onshore, the air quickly rises to form towering clouds with heavy snowfall rates. All in all, South Bend received from Friday to early Sunday, 36 inches of snow. After this, the city of South Bend issued a snow emergency because the roads then were impassable. As a colder pattern takes place across the United States, an arctic high will move into the Midwest, spreading widespread cold temperatures that are 20-30 degrees below normal especially across the south and northern plains. This first outbreak will mostly influence the Ohio Valley, Midwest, and South while most of the East remains stormy and with normal temperatures. Because the arctic high will move into the Midwest, the jet stream will be deflected southward and then cause storms to form in the Gulf of Mexico and move northward into the Mid-Atlantic giving them several widespread snow events this month. After the last arctic outbreak commences, a new pattern SHOULD dominate the United States. According to long-range Meteorologist Joe Bastardi, after the coldest January since 1985 gets underway in the United States, temperatures should start to moderate by the last few days of January. This is because of the northward shift of the jet stream and a ridge developing in the southeast. These are conditions more typical of a La Nina. As the jet stream moves northward it should anchor itself in the Ohio Valley during most of the month of February. However, forecasters and computer models are not very sure of the forecast for February as they

December. Even though they are not sure what is going to happen in February, the most probable forecast is that the jet stream will be positioned in the Ohio Valley, which will lead to storminess and temperatures closer to normal around. This should make February a very snowy month for us but not necessarily a cold one.

were for January in the end of Closer to the present, according to computer models and forecasters, a snowstorm could hit here on the 16th with heavy snow and high winds. From what I have seen on the NOGAPS model and the GFS model, this pretty sizable storm could hit on the night of the 15th and continuing through the next day. As I will not be able to write another article before the possible storm hits, keep listening to NOAA over the next several days or the evening news on the weather report to keep updated.

As Joe Bastardi put it, "Forget El Nino and La Nina, the nation is going to be El Frigido this month." He is very right, and if all forecasts are accurate on the outbreak, many records will be shattered and we could have one of the first coast to coast arctic outbreaks since the 1980's. If the forecast for the Ohio Valley is right, we could have temperatures near zero or below. So remember, during these outbreaks don't go outside unless you have to, especially at night when wind chills are negative 20 degrees. So bundle up and always think on the bright side—you know that summer and spring are just around the corner in a few months and even though you have several months left of cold and snow just thinking about summer will warm you up.

NEW DIESEL ENGINE EX-HAUST TECHNOLOGY

By: Jim Lopshire, Extension Educator

Farmers will see changes in new diesel-powered farm equipment beginning in 2011. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has adopted a comprehensive national program to greatly reduce emissions from nonroad diesel engines.

Called the Tier 4 rule, this new emission standard is a multi-tiered national program that requires new engines in new agricultural equipment to meet new emission standards. This EPA regulation for diesel powered equipment pertains to non-road diesel engines with more than 175 horsepower in 2011. The regulations will apply to smaller horsepower tractors put into service in 2012 and later. This regulation has only been applied to over the road diesel engines up until now. The goal of the Tier 4 rule is to significantly reduce nitrous oxides and particulate matter in the exhaust of nonroad diesel engines. Nitrous oxide exhausted from diesel engines becomes a greenhouse gas in the atmosphere that affects the temperature of the Earth. Particulate matter in a diesel engine exhaust appears as soot. There are two primary technologies being used by agricultural manufacturers. Caterpillar, Cummins, Deutz, John Deere, Komatsu and Perkins are using exhaust gas recirculation (EGR) technology to comply with Tier

PAGE 9 – WEST BEND NEWS – JANUARY 12, 2011 "ANTWERP HAS TALENT" – 2011

The third annual "Antwerp Has Talent" show will take place in the Antwerp School auditeria on Sunday, January 16, starting at 1:30. Formerly known as "Antwerp Dancing with the Stars", this year's event features five dancing groups, two singing groups, and two groups of instrumental musicians.

In this unique event, the audience members serve as the judges by making monetary donations toward their favorite performers. Those contestants who generate the most money are declared the 'winners" of the contest.

Hosted by the Antwerp Athletic Booster Club, this fund-raiser has drawn large crowds the past two years

4 regulations. The exhaust gas recirculation technology takes 20% to 30% of the exhaust gas, pipes it into a cooling chamber on the side of the engine. When the exhaust gas is cooled, its oxygen content is lowered. When the cooled exhaust gas is then piped into the intake manifold and mixed with the incoming fresh air, the level of oxygen in the incoming fresh air is lowered. This mixing of measured amounts of cooled exhaust gases with fresh air lowers the engine's peak combustion temperature and in return reduces the levels of nitrogen oxides. AGCO, Case IH and New Holland are using Selective Catalytic Reduction (SCR) technology. The selective catalytic reduction technology utilizes a storage tank on the tractor which holds diesel exhaust fluid (DEF), a combination of urea and dewith all proceeds benefiting the Antwerp All-Weather Track Campaign.

As an added bonus, members of the Antwerp-based "Dance Dolls" will be performing at the intermission. Refreshments will also be available.

If you have any questions, feel free to contact Steve or Susie Arnold (419-258-2766) for more information.

ionized water. One gallon of diesel exhaust fluid is blended with 25 gallons of diesel fuel during the tractors operation. This technology eliminates the particulate matter with a high exhaust gas temperature, resulting in reduced levels of nitrous oxide.

Tier 4 emission standards are the final step of a multiyear diesel emission-reduction project adopted by the United States EPA. The first tier was introduced in 1996, and the phase-in of Tier 4 was implemented in 2008 and will continue through to 2015. When the Tier 4 rule is implemented by 2015, the EPA mandates will have cut both nitrous oxide and particulate matter in diesel exhaust by 90 percent. While adding more cost to each machine, the new engines are expected to be both more energy efficient and emit lower levels of nitrous oxide.

PAULDING CO. CHRONI-CLES II

By: Caroline Wells Zimmerman

Crane Township

Crane Township was the first township to be organized in Paulding County and the first settlement was made about 1823-24 at different places along the Maumee River which was at this time the main route through this part of the territory. This was the portage between the Wabash River near Fort Wayne and Lake Erie. There were many Indian encampments along the Maumee River as the fish were abundant and the game was also plentiful.

Some of the Indians who still stand out in history are: Totigose, Big Yngkee Jim, Saucy Jack, Deaf Jim Pashway, and a squaw named Sango. Also, named were two brothers named Pokeshaw and Wapacanaugh.

The township was named after Oliver Crane, who was one of the first white settlers in the area, which was organized in 1825. Others were Ephram Burwel, Samuel Gordon, Dennison Hughes, Samuel Reynolds, and Ephram Seeley. Horatio N. Curtis was named the first Justice of the Peace; he had a trading post near Rochester on the Maumee River.

The first post office was at Cranesville and the first school in the township was taught in a small log house on the north bank of the Maumee River across from the place (where Rochester Park used to be).

"New Rochester" was the first village in the township and was located in Section 11; it was the first place where the Paulding County transacted any legal business. The first court was held at this place in the spring of 1840.

By 1840 New Rochester was the county's most flourishing place because of transportation of supplies on the Maumee River. At this time it had about 40 families, three hotels, three stores, two blacksmith shops, two tailor shops, and was a station for the stage between Fort Wayne and Toledo. It was very successful.

Note: (In 1841 the county seat was moved to Charloe. This had to have been some political idea of "someone". Perhaps it had something to do with the Canal project.)

The Wabash Canal was completed in 1843 and the Miami-Erie Canal was completed in 1845. The Toledo, Wabash, and Western Railroads were completed in 1855. The Paulding-Cecil Railroad extended from Paulding to Cecil, and was a narrow gauge. The first train ran over this road in September 1880.

The heavy growth of timber in this area was inviting to all kinds of manufacturing. One was a furnace for smeltering of iron ore. The Paulding Iron Co. was located in Sec. 25 on the canal south of Cecil. The furnace was built right after the Civil war 1864-65. Ore from the Lake Superior was brought by ships to Toledo and then up the canal by boat. The ore cost was $10 per ton at that time. The kilns burned charcoal, which was 7 Y2 cents a bushel; there were several kilns south of the Cecil Bridge. Limestone was used as flux, which came from Sec. 17 in Defiance Township. The finished product sold from $40 to $44 per ton.

the N&W and the Penn Central). The Wabash ran eight passenger trains daily as it was the main route between Toledo and St. Louis; and the CN ran six passenger trains daily. There were two hotels, two doctors, two blacksmiths and two livery stables. There were also three barber shops, three general stores, a hardware and implement store, a tile mill and a grain, hay, and seed business. There were three churches and a very good school.

There were also two telephone companies in Cecil: The Home Telephone Company and the Cecil Mutual. The Home Telephone Co. merged with the Cecil Mutual Co. which was located in the Montroy residence. They also had a millinery shop in their home.

Of course, the Lone Tower on US 24 was a land mark near Rochester Park. Free shows were shown there in the parking lot with a large picture screen which was a big treat in the 1950's.

Knoxdale is now a ghost town of the only other in village Crane Township. It was located on the Wabash Railroad four miles west of Cecil with at one time only a few houses and a depot.

Cecil is still on the map in 2011 with a nice volunteer fire department (where voters vote); Hart's Auto Parts is still on the corner on Main Street. The post office is across the street. The Catholic Church burned down a few years ago, but the Presbyterian Church, where I went when I was a kid, is still there. The blocks seem so short now compared to 57 years ago when my sisters were delivering newspapers there. Our house is still there and the white oak tree that I used to climb as a kid.

for the strong support I received in this fall's election, and was humbled and honored to stand in the Senate Chamber as the representative of the wonderful people of this region. However, my tenure in the Senate will be very short. As was reported in November, Governor John Kasich has asked me to join his cabinet as the Administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workers' Compensation. This opportunity to continue my public service by leading a large, complex state agency is a challenge I could not resist. Subsequently, I will resign my seat in the Senate as of January $9^{\ensuremath{\text{th}}}$ and begin my service in the Kasich administration. In the coming days, the Senate will select my successor who will run in two years for the privilege of completing the remainder of my term.

As I leave my direct representation of this area, I want to say thank you. Thank you for the priceless opportunity to serve in the Ohio Senate and the Ohio House. This service has been a true honor and privilege I will never forget. The chance to help make the laws of our state, and assist in setting the priorities for public policy in Ohio has been a delight. I have had the privilege to see my ideas become law, chair important committees, lead national and international organizations, and be elected by my peers as a leader in both the House and Senate. I hope these experiences and efforts have benefitted our area and state.

Despite my gratefulness and the high degree of enjoyment I have experienced from this opportunity to be elected to the General Assembly, I am thrilled to have the chance to work with Governor Kasich on behalf of our entire state. Our new governor has contagious enthusiasm, boundless ideas, and real concern for our state's future. Governor

"FROM THE VANTAGE POINT": AN IN-TERNATIONAL CULINARY EXPERIENCE

Since homemade pasta was the lesson plan for the day, guest chef and Vantage graduate Drew Fisher demonstrated the technique he learned while he studied in Italy for three months. SAYING GOODBYE TO THE 1ST OHIO SENATE DISTRICT

Capitol Letters Weekly Column by: Senator Steve Buehrer

The New Year brings a farewell to the old and a welcoming of the new. This season is filled with new beginnings, new promises, and new challenges. Change is in the air in Columbus with a new slate of statewide office holders, new members of the Ohio House of Representatives, and new Ohio Senators. With these changes comes change for me as well.

On January 3, I was sworn in to begin my second term as your Ohio Senator in the 1st District. I am grateful citizen-volunteers of Ohio's 21st Century Transportation Priorities Task Force issued a clear challenge to the Ohio Department of Transportation: "We believe that in the face of economic upheaval, strategic investments in transportation can bring new jobs and help retain the precious ones we already have. By boldly reinventing our transportation system now, we can position Ohio to stimulate and drive the growth of the future."

MOVING OHIO INTO A

Under the leadership of Governor Ted Strickland, Ohio has made historic investments in every major mode of our transportation system, with more than $2 billion in construction projects in 2010 and another $2 billion in construction for 2011. As ODOT made history, we also kept an eye on the future. To that end, I am pleased to share with you the first results of the groundbreaking Go OHIO Transportation Futures Plan.

The Go OHIO 2011 Overview Released Today:

The Go OHIO 2011 Overview we are releasing today captures some of the cuttingedge analysis performed to better understand the relationship between transportation, economic growth and prosperity in Ohio. In this brief document you will get an overview of Go OHIO's unique insight into future trends that will affect our ability to move people and goods, and better understand what changes need to be made to drive positive growth. You can download the Overview at www.go.ohio.gov. Go OHIO shows where Ohio jobs are today and where they will be tomorrow... where Ohioans live today and where they might choose to live in the future... where transportation investments have made a difference in economic performance today, and where investments could create economic opportunities for growth in the future.

A Blueprint for Best Use of ODOT Resources:

Go OHIO offers a blueprint on how best to use ODOT's resources for the highest return on taxpayer dollars. It shows how Ohio can better connect ODOT's work to Ohio's economic engine, recognizing that transportation and the economy are inextricably linked.

Simply put, Go OHIO offers a new way to prioritize investments that will bring Ohio the greatest return on transportation investment. ODOT is the first state transportation department in the U.S. to develop this type of economy-focused, data-driven approach to multi-modal

A Future Planning Tool:

In the coming weeks, ODOT will be sharing more of the rich compilation of data and detailed analysis collected as part of the Go OHIO effort. This resource will be invaluable in future planning, land use, and economic development efforts. To ensure that Ohio can take full advantage of this new resource, the data and results are being incorporated into a new Go OHIO planning software tool. I encourage you to learn more by logging on to www.go.ohio.gov.

Transportation has been and will be a driving force behind our state's economic recovery. With your support, we have and can continue to put Ohioans to work, by building transportation projects that are important, will last, and are 'Moving Ohio Into A Prosperous New World!'

Student of the Month - December '11

Paulding County's = Students of the Month DECEMBER 2010

Paulding County has great students and we want to recognize them and their achievements. Paulding-Putnam Electric Cooperative, Inc. has teamed up with the West Bend News to bring you this information. We will be delivering different schools' students each month from OUR county. Congratulations to these young people!

Kaleb O'Donnell is the West Bend News Student of the Month for December from Antwerp High School.

Kaleb is a senior this year, Class of 2011, and loves music. His parents are Dennis and Traci O'Donnell of Antwerp. His school activities include National Honor Society, Quiz Bowl, Track & Field, Golf, STS (Student Technology Services), and SADD.

Other hobbies for Kaleb outside of school are Bowling and Soccer.

Kaleb's plan after high school is to attend IPFW and major in music education. Congratulations Kaleb!

Paulding Middle School is pleased to announce that 7th grader, Alex Arellano, has been chosen as their Student of the Month. Alex is an exceptional student that takes his school work very seriously. He is a real pleasure to have in class. He is a great role model for his peers.

Alex participated in football in the fall and is involved in 7th grade boys basketball at this time. He will participate in baseball in the spring. He enjoys spending time with his family and friends and likes all sports. Alex is the son of Matt and Sandy Arellano of Oakwood. Congratulations Alex!

The Student of the Month from Wayne Trace is Joseph Sponseller. Joe is a senior and is the the son of James & Lori Sponseller.

Joe has participated in his school drama productions for the past 4 years. Joe helps his church with special activities like help serve food at Christmas dinners, or help work at "Block Parties". Joe also is the co-computer/sound technician at his church. Joe has also participated in his churches past Summer Schools, as a helper. Joe is active in community service events; including local food banks.

After High School, Joe plans to attend Ohio Northern University, where he will pursue a major in computer science and a minor in teaching. After college, Joe plans on building, designing programs for law-firms, and creating websites for small to large-scale businesses. Congratulations Joe.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THESE FINE STUDENTS AND KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK.

INCREASE IN PAULDING COUNTY LAND AND SOIL VALUES

By: Susan K. Simpson, County Auditor

The Ohio Department of Taxation sets the current agricultural use values for every soil type in Ohio. We have 63 soil types in Paulding County and for tax year 2010, (collected in 2011); the average of all the soil values has gone from $205 per acre to $599 per acre, an average percentage increase of 292%. A good example of the change in a single soil type would be for Paulding Slope Soil, which has increased from $120 per acre to $740 per acre, a percentage increase of 617%. Paulding Slope Soil comprises 27% of all the soils in our county.

of this year to help make you aware of these changes. Also, in September and October the Auditor's Office held informal hearing dates allowing the public to meet with the appraiser and the auditor's staff to discuss any changes in values.

the Farm Bureau in August

All of the documentation and literature the CAUV value changes are based upon is available on the Ohio Department of Taxation's website at: http://tax.Ohio. Gov/divisions/real_property/cauv.Stm. You may also review the Paulding County Auditor's web site at: www. Pauldingcountyauditor.Com to may view our local CAUV rates under the 2010 revaluation link. Also listed on the auditor's web-site (under the tax rate link) are all of the tax rates for the 33 taxing districts in Paulding County. A breakdown of the full rate for each taxing district is available under this link for your review.

State law requires us to value property as of January 1, 2010 for the tax bills recently mailed. One problem in setting values today is that we are in a fast changing market and state law requires using a look-back sales analysis for past years (2007, 2008, and 2009). That is why there is a Board of Revision (BOR) process for owners to challenge our values if they feel they have an inaccurate valuation. However, CAUV rates are set by the state and the Board of Revision has no authority to adjust these rates. The reality is that the state tax commissioner is the final authority on values with the current CAUV values being approved and set by the state.

BUEHRER SWORN IN FOR 129TH GENERAL ASSEMBLY

State Senator Steve Buehrer (R-Delta) renewed his oath of office and was sworn in yesterday as part of the opening day ceremonies for the 129th General Assembly. Senator Buehrer represents Ohio's 1st Senate District, which includes Defiance, Fulton, Hancock, Hardin, Henry, Paulding, Putnam, Van Wert, Williams and parts of Auglaize County.

Senator Buehrer, who was joined by his family in Columbus for the ceremony, was administered the Oath of Office by Ohio Supreme Court Justice Robert Cupp. Buehrer will resign from his Senate seat January 9, 2011 to become the new Administrator for the Ohio Bureau of Workers' Compensation.

Addison Wasvick - Student of the Month. Addison is a 2nd grader and Woodburn Lutheran School. She is their January student of the month. Addison is an extremely hard worker and enjoys reading. She has exceeded her accelerated reader goal each quarter so far this year. Her favorite books to read are the Pony Pals series and the Junie B. Jones series. Addison's favorite subject in school is art. "I like art because I like doing cool stuff with crafts." When asked what she enjoys most about school she replied, "I like handwriting because we get to learn cursive." In her free time, she enjoys playing horses with her friends.

These changes in soil values occur every three years during a triennal or reappraisal update. 2010 (payable in 2011) was a reappraisal year for Paulding County. A reappraisal many times is a redistribution of the tax burden because of various changes in values. The previous full reappraisal was completed in 2004 for Paulding County. This rotation schedule is set by the state of Ohio.

These CAUV increases in value have taken effect on your current tax bills (payable 2011). Keep in mind, the full value of these soils are not taxed. Rather, they are taxed at 35% of the CAUV taxable value. In addition, you still receive the 10% rollback or credit from the state. A public meeting was held jointly with
