ANTWERP HIGH SCHOOL PRESENTS THE KING AND I

By: Ann Reinhart

The King and I, music by Richard Rodgers and lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II. This play is based on Anna and the King of Siam by Margaret Landon, and is performed with permission from R & H Theatricals

The Antwerp High School Music & Drama department will present The King and I on March 24 and March 25 2012 at 7:00 p.m. and March 26, 2012 at 2:00 p.m. in the Antwerp Local Auditeria.

Tickets can be purchased in the high school office, from a cast member, or at the door prior to each performance.

East versus West makes for a dramatic, rich textured and ultimately uplifting tale of enormous fascination. It is 1862 in Siam when an English widow, Ann Leonowens, and her young son arrive at the Royal Palace in Bangkok, having been summoned by the King to serve as tutor to his many children and wives. The King is largely considered to be a barbarian by those in the West, and he seeks Anna's assistance in changing his image, if not his ways. With both keeping a firm grip on their respective traditions and values, Anna and the King grow to understand and, eventually, respect one another, in a truly unique love story.

"In Memory To A Precious Lady"

Today we are celebrating and remembering Elaine Wannemacher, who on March 8, 2011, one year ago went to be with Jesus.

Her husband of 52 years, Maurie and their three daughters, JoEllen Sisson, Lori Ann Clounie and Karen Hahn, along with their spouses and six grandchildren want to say, "Thank you God for sustaining us during this year and for continuing to increase our joy and comfort."

Elaine was truly a pure example of the Proverbs 31 woman.

Her kind, gentle spirit, her loving disposition, as well as her deep faith in our Lord was evident in every area of her life. Our family was blessed to see her embrace her Lord and proclaim as her last words what she had always believed, looking into heaven and seeing her Lord, saying "Jesus, too amazing,.... Jesus, too amazing!"

Family and friends, I want to take this moment to thank you for your continued words of encouragement, your continued prayers and your heartfelt friendship. You have been a blessing in our lives as we have walked through the loss of our precious Elaine this past year. May God bless you and may you also know Him personally and experience this incredible promise of everlasting life!

Please read 2 Timothy 3:14-17. In verse 14 this tells us we are to continue in the truth of the scriptures and as Timothy was taught by his mother Eunice and grandmother Lois. Just pray that we can have teachers who are solid in their teaching of the Bible and will not lead us astray. In verse 17 where it says 'perfect' in the King James Version, in the NKJV it uses the word 'complete', this means that the person is very knowledgeable of what the scriptures are saying. There is too much false teaching today. We need men today that would be like Paul, preach and teach the truth of God's word, even though it may cost us our lives. For those of us who would do this, there is a better home waiting for us. Women or ladies you also can be a Lois or Eunice in helping teach God's word in the hom and living a life showing that

Winning the Battle for a Generation by: Rick Jones, Defiance Area YFC

Have you ever given much thought about what you would like to accomplish before you pass on? You know, creating your "bucket list" of things not done but on your mind or heart to still do?

Bonnie Ware, an Australian nurse, has spent several years working in palliative care, caring for patients in the last 12 weeks of their lives. As Ware walked with her patients through the final stages of their lives, she witnessed how many of her patients gained "phenomenal clarity of vision" as they ap-proached death. Ware claims, "When questioned about any regrets they had or anything they would do differently, common themes surfaced again and again." According to Ware, these are the top five regrets of the dying: 1. I wish I'd had the courage to live a life true to myself, not the life others expected of me. Bonnie Ware added, "Health brings a freedom few realize, until they no longer have it."

2. I wish I hadn't worked so hard. Ware observed, "This [regret] came from every male patient that I nursed."

3. I wish I'd had the courage to express my feelings. "Many people suppressed their feelings in order to keep peace with others... Many [patients] developed illnesses related to the bitterness and resentment they carried as a

4. I wish I'd stayed in touch with my friends. "There are many deep regrets about not giving friendships the time and effort that they deserved. Everyone misses their friends when they are dying.'

5. I wish I'd let myself be happier. "Many did not realize until the end that happiness is a choice. They had stayed stuck in old patterns and habits."

With regard to end of life thoughts we have the scriptures to remind us that... Psalm 39:4 (NIV), "Show me, O LORD, my life's end and the number of my days; let me know how fleeting is my life." We also read further that... Psalm 90:12 (NIV), "Teach us to number our days aright, that we may gain a heart of

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

On Saturday March 3rd, a 5th grade boys basketball tournament was held in the gym located at the Manor House Assisted Living Complex (the former Antwerp School). Eight teams from around the NW Ohio area made the trek to Antwerp to produce a competitive field of participating teams. What is more important is that this tournament was a culmination of the cooperative efforts of many concerned and outstanding groups and individuals working together to bring a new event to the Antwerp community.

From the very beginning when the campus owner allowed the opportunity to use the gym began last fall, there has been mutual interest and participation in making it work.

Individuals Dean and Elaine Phillips, McLaughlin, Dick Smith and the staff at the Manor House, Sid and Michelle Buehrer, Larry and Joyce Copsey, Keith and Joyce West, Joe and Sue Meyer, Chris Holt and Joe Copsey; business owners Todd Schweller of Schweller Electric, Matt Hormann of Hormann Heating & Cooling, Jim Fellers of Fellers Plumbing and Mark Greenwood of NARCO; groups such as the Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church, ACDC, Antwerp Baseball Association, Antwerp Rotary, and the Antwerp Local School; and advertising support so far through local businesses, the Essen House Restaurant and the Oasis Bar & Grill.

All of these came together to offer help in some special way to get this event off the ground. The success of this event is proof that a small community can band their limited resources together and make big things happen. This is just the tip

OAKWOOD GLEANER ARBOR #759 MEETING NOTES

Oakwood Gleaner Arbor #759 members and the homeschoolers entertained the residents of the Country Inn near Latty. Games of checkers, chess, connect four, Lincoln logs, putting puzzles together, and looking at pictures was enjoyed by 31 in all. Piano playing and singing of country western songs of old was fun. 11 year old Donald Ellerbrock did magic tricks. The Arbor donated toilet paper and tissues to each resident and made a donation to the activity fund. Snacks and drinks were provided by Bonnie Pier.

After the fun, we had our meeting. John Pier called the meeting to order. Chaplain Bill Bidlack had the prayer followed by the pledge. We had a returned check from a 4-H club and we decided to put it towards the renovation project at Camp Palmer. Rose Wright reported that Jamie Merriman has to turn away unwanted horses because she can't find places for them. By: Sue Knapp Antwerp is bustling with store fronts being filled. Sports Wearhouse has opened a store right next to Hometown Pantry on Main Street in Antwerp.

Janean (Nean Franklin) Shannon has ties in Antwerp and visits with her family and friends regularly. She graduated from Antwerp High School and went to college in Bluffton, OH where she met her husband, John. They have three children.

Janean works for Bluffton College and John works for Tower Automotive. They have a Sports Wearhouse in Bluffton that they've owned and operated for 12 years. Their daughter manages it.

The opportunity opened for Janean and John to open a store in Antwerp and they jumped at the chance. Janean was more than ready to get back to Antwerp.

The store right now is in the second store front in the Hometown Pantry Building. They sell Antwerp School apparel plus sports equipment such as: tennis balls, baseball mitts, shin guards, baseball pants, etc. and will offer letterman jackets. They also do screen printing, heat transfers, banners (outdoors and indoors), yard signs, metal signs, etc. You can also take a picture in and they can make a life-size vinyl print of it for your wall. Their hours are the same as Hometown Pantry. Monday 1:00-7:00 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday 9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m., Thursday 9:00 a.m-8:00 p.m. and Saturday 8:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. Sports Wearhouse is also on Facebook: facebook/sportswearhouse.antwerp or you may e-mail at jshannons@ hotmail.com, you may call their main office for information at 419-358-9300.

Janean commented, "It feels good to be a part of Antwerp again."

Sports Wearhouse is ready for you to stop in and browse around and check out the items. Their Grand Opening is Saturday, March 10 from 8:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.

Thank you for making our website one of the most visited in Paulding County. Be sure to stop every week to see the latest news, information and weather for the area.

ONE OF THE TWO INNS ON THE MAUMEE

By: Stan Jordan

Friends and readers, a couple of weeks ago I told you about the flood of 1834 and the hardships it caused on this whole area from Huntington, IN to Toledo, OH and many miles each way and the Auglaize also. I have found a little more about that time and place. The flood took away all the crops and loose hay for the animals. The people were starving.

A Louis Clark from Williams County went to Cleveland to buy all the flour he could at $10.00-$12.00 per barrel. It was sent by steamer from Cleveland to Toledo and then by ox team all the way from Toledo to Fort Wayne. It was needed very badly all along this route.

Well, the people suffered through this sort of financial trouble for about two years or so before they could support themselves again. In Fort Wayne you could find potatoes in the spring of 1835 for 37½ cents a dozen, and they were small ones.

In this man's writing, he mentions the black Maumee waters made terrible coffee. He wrote that a couple of Well, I'm just thinking mavbe he had been using the black sulfur water that is still prevalent in the area. I know when I was a boy along the Maumee in the 1930's there were a number of natural springs along the river and they were coal black sulfur. But if you were thirsty it tasted good, but it sure would make poor coffee.

The people were getting along pretty good from the flood of 1834, by the winter of 1837-1838. The snow stayed on the ground all winter and the wild animals had a hard time finding food. Also the livestock ran out of hay and food.

After the settlers got through the big flood and then the miserable winter of '37 and '38, they had the worst drought ever recorded in history of this area. It was reported there was no rainfall from July 3 until October 15 of 1838. The rivers were drying up and the Maumee was so low that even the flat bottom boats could not get the freight to Fort Wayne. The folks there were running out of all types of food supplies.

The canal from the west was still open and the canal boats were a Godsend. By the time the spring rains came the supplies were about gone. Three flat boats arrived and they had flour, bacon and whiskey, what a celebration!

According to my readings of the book, The Maumee River In 1835, there were two inns in this area for the folks to find lodging.

We have already discussed the one that was operated by the Spurrier family. The other was called The Murphy Inn and it was about two miles west of Antwerp on the River

Well, that land and area is still in the Murphy family. That is where Bruce Putnam lives and he is a direct descendent of the original owner Robert Murphy. It was a well established business in 1834. It was on the north side of the Maumee in Carryall Section 32. That is west of Antwerp on CR 224 where the river and the highway are the closest together. That is where Road 250 turns off to the right and the railroad turns and goes

The Murphy Inn was just across the river to the north and was very accessible to boat traffic. It was considered one of the better inns here on the Anthony Wayne Trail.

Bruce Putnam tells me there are many relics of that era and area still to be found. The people stayed at Murphy's Inn and had a breakfast of eggs, venison and potatoes. The horses had corn and mowed hay. Then they traveled 10 miles on further west into Milan Township to a home of the John Nuttle family. This was on the river side, along with some people named Platter and some people named Lake.

Friends, this to me is so interesting and factual, and a great part of this area's history. I hope you enjoy it.

SAM RIVERS, INDIAN AGENT CHAPTER 5: ON THE TRAIL TO BROKEN BOW

By: Stan Jordan

Callie and I, followed by the other two wagons with the other four soldiers, left the main gate at Fort Kearney and headed a little bit west of north taking a route cross-country to The Broken Arrow Indian Agency. This will be a short cut but still will be a two day trip.

I said, "We will go pretty much north until we reach the south branch of the Loop River. We will follow that on the south side until we reach the place where we forded that river before and then we go about straight north to the agency."

This is the first part of February and a sun shiny day. A skiff of snow on the ground but miles and miles of flat country. Not much vegetation just some scrub brush. We have our backs to the sun and are in the shade of the wagon part of the time. The sun is warm when it hits the folks on the wagon seat.

The Mess Sergeant had sent some box lunches for the soldiers and a couple extra for Callie and I. It consisted of venison sandwiches, apples and cold coffee, but it tasted good and was appreciated. We plodded along and it was nearing 5:00 and we still had not reached the point to cross the river.

I said, "We will camp here while it is still light enough to get the job done.'

The boys said they would sleep in their wagon on the hay. Callie and I would be in their wagon on some cushions. Two of the soldiers gathered wood and laid a good fire. The other boys cared for the horses. Callie put the big kettle that had the stew that the Mess Sergeant fixed for them on the fire. There was enough for two meals.

The fire was big enough and made the evening meal very comfortable. It was dark now but two lanterns and the firelight made it a pretty cheery place. I guess it was 2-3 hours of talk around the fire. All the soldiers talked about where they came from and Army life and home life, good friends and wives and family. They talked about the flat country, no hills or peaks.

After they emptied the coffee pot and filled it with water for morning they all turned in and remarked it was a fine day on the trail. One of the soldiers was up first and stoked up the fire and it was bright and warm in just a little bit. He put on a dish pan to get the water warm to wash in. The coffee pot hung over the fire all night and was luke warm also. The soldiers fed and cared for the animals and I whipped up a bunch of pancakes and butter and maple syrup and coffee.

I wasn't in a hurry. I reckoned we should get to the ford area pretty soon and into the agency building shortly after noon. We broke camp and headed north west along the river. The sun came up nice and bright and the sky was clear as a bell.

Plop-plop-bump-bump, another day on the trail.

I stopped the lead wagon and said, "Here is where we cross the river. You could see some wagon tracks left from before."

The water was about foot deep and a pretty smooth crossing. I said, "We go pretty much straight north now about 10-12 miles."

We watered the horses and filled all their barrels and buckets. This is the Loop River and I think that is the name of the county also. We kept going about straight north and we all watched the horizon to see and locate the agency building.

Well, it finally showed up and it is off to the left about a mile or so. That's not bad for as far as they came. We will all be glad to get there.

Next Week: Broken Bow Indian Agency

See ya!

TEMPLE SETS FIRST FOR RAIDER WRESTLING

If, by chance, you were up and saw a procession of vehicles led by the Grover Hill Fire Department late Saturday night (3/3), you were witnessing Raider wrestling history. For the first time ever, two wrestlers were escorted from the southeast Paulding County line back to Wayne Trace High School. One of these wrestlers has broken many of the records that are held at Wayne Trace this year, the other will be the first ever state placer for the red, white, and blue.

Kameran Clemens would wrestle his final match on the biggest stage a wrestler in Ohio can go out on. This was Kameran's second trip to Columbus. Being Wayne Trace's only two-time state qualifier, he wrestled to a top 12 finish both years at the state championships. Coach Clemens was quick to point out that "there are no easy matches in Columbus. Every athlete that steps on the mat is the top dog from his area. The one that seldom gets beat. Each and every win in Columbus is a dog fight."

Much has been written about Kameran and his accomplishments, but many Raider wrestling fans recall the young boy that couldn't win a wrestling match; that had no natural talent to begin with, but by a positive attitude, determination, and work ethic, transformed himself into one of the greatest, if not currently, the greatest wrestler Wayne Trace has sent to the mat. Kameran is a true testament to what an athlete can accomplish if that athlete sets their mind to it and is willing to work and sacrifice to attain it.

Sawyer Temple found himself standing in a spot all wrestlers dream of, and no other Raider wrestler has ever been. Standing atop of the OHSAA wrestling finalists podium in 7th place, Sawyer had attained his highest and most difficult goal of the year. As Sawyer bowed his head to have the medal placed over his head, the reality set in. Iust as the back of the Raider wrestling shirts have said all

Being known as one of the jokesters on the team, Sawyer had a quiet demeanor about himself the last few weeks. It is well known that last year on the way to districts Sawyer was having a good time—a sophomore going to districts! Everything was fine. Then reality, 0-2 and off to the showers. A much more focused Sawyer would wrestle this vear on the tournament trail.

year—FINALLY!

Dropping his first match to the eventual 4th place finisher, he could have simply rolled over and said I am satisfied with making it to Columbus. Lawrence, Sawyer's dad had said, "We are glad to be here, if he goes 0-2 we will still be happy; but, of course, we want him to win." Instead, Sawyer maintained composure and focus. He would come back and rattle off wins over wrestlers from Caldwell and Ontario. Next, he would drop a match to a Massilon Tuslaw wrestler, but would be in the finalist round wrestling for 7th. Sawyer would cap his state tournament off with a win over a wrestler

from Woodsfield Monroe

Central, 5-2.

"This is a turning point for Wayne Trace wrestling. We have gotten to Columbus. We have taken more than one wrestler in a year. I want more. I want to be able to take multiple wrestlers and I want one of them to be able to stand at the highest level on that podium," commented coach Clemens. With Sawyer having another season, that is a real possibility for him. Coach Stabler quipped, "This adds alot of excitement to the program. Many of the younger wrestlers can see it is attainable. It is a possibility."

In a small circle, late at night at WTHS, the wrestling family congratulated Kameran and Sawyer for both of their accomplishments. "This is an unbelievable moment for the boys, the coaches, and the fans," stated coach Clemens. Both the boys were asked to speak, but neither had much to say. The typical 'it's amazing', or 'it is a dream come true'. My personal favorite, 'I don't know what to say'. But really, nothing needed to be said. It was all said with the hand shakes, hugs, and tears. With the willingness for fans and friends to place their lives on hold for a moment, in the middle of the night, to share in these two wrestlers accomplishment.

The 2012 Raider wrestling team has broken and set the records much higher for the upcoming teams to attempt to attain. When looking at a group of younger wrestlers Sunday, Coach Clemens stated, "The day to start preparing for your shot at state starts today. We have 362 days to get ready!"

All Raider wrestling fans and the Wayne Trace Wrestling Club would like to congratulate Kameran on his state appearance and Sawyer on his seventh place finish. We would also like to acknowledge the Grover Hill Fire department for their support and willingness to bring these wrestlers home from Columbus with class. Both, Kameran and Sawyer, are grateful to the GHFD and everyone that showed up Saturday night at the WTHS.

THE FELLOW RODDER

By: Mike McKeever

This week's feature truck is a 1979 Dodge Lil' Red Express. It's owned by a Paulding resident, Steve Plummer. Steve's wife, Deb, found this truck for his birthday. They dragged it home and started a complete frame-off restoration that took them two years to complete. Steve built this truck to drive in the summertime and has been doing just that for eight years now.

Dodge released the Lil' Red Express Truck in 1978-79; it was one of the most unique Dodge trucks that had ever been produced. The Lil' Red Express was not only a real looker, but these trucks were real performers also. The Dodge Lil' Red Express was the fastest American made vehicle from 0 to 100 MPH as tested by Car and Driver magazine in '78. The Lil' Red Express had a High Performance 360, 4-barrel which was a modified version of the 360 police engine producing 225 horsepower. The package also included Hemi style mufflers with a crossover pipe breathing through two chrome stacks located behind the cab, a special 727 automatic transmission and 3.55 rear gearing. They were available with a standard bench seat or with optional buckets with a fold down arm/rest console. The total production of the 1978-79 Lil' Red Express Trucks was only 7,500. Steve's truck is a very nice piece of Dodge history; it has the original 360 ram air that he had Steven and Hall redo with a few added touches that really help this truck come alive. This truck came with the factory AC which was a rarity. It came with the factory option bucket seats. It had the original chrome rims that Steve just did not like the looks of because it came with no center cap. The ones that are on now are very similar to the original except with center caps that gives it a nice smooth look. The little details are great with this build, just like cushion to keep rocks from putting dimples in them from underneath. The oak wood on the bed and tailgate are absolutely fantastic. This truck came with what Dodge called the Tuff steering wheel instead of the big old resin one. I notice that the rain gutter on the cab is all chrome that goes across both doors and across the entire windshield, Steve tells me that only these special trucks were done this way in chrome. This truck comes with the 140 MPH speed set in the wood grained accented dash. The truck came with an AM/FM cassette player that Steve had a hard time finding someone to work on it. Steve and Deb did mostly all the re-work to the truck, he had a guy from Van Wert do the exterior paint job. Steve tells me he knows every nut and bolt in the truck since it was removed and install by him. He has shown me pictures of this truck totally in pieces and how the progress was made. This truck may not be down to the exact detail of the original, but it's Steve's truck and it's just the way he wanted it, and let me tell you the added undercoating in the rear fenders acting as a

Steve took the keys out of the ignition and showed me a silver tag on the ring and asked me if I remember what it was. I had no idea what it was. Well, when you got your license plates and you gave to the Vets you got a monogram key chain tag with your number on it. The plates that are on this truck were his dad's. When Steve turned 16 his dad transferred them to him. Steve has kept transferring the same plate since he was 16—42 years and counting.

 $Stevetold \\ meastory \\ about$ one time he was driving his semi and a buddy called him to inform him that his wife had his truck out driving it. To his buddy's amazement, Steve said, "That's fine, she can drive it." That's when Deb spoke up and told me, "You're darn right I can drive it." See, she has a lot of sweat and love in that truck too. Once, she was painting the frame and had to take a nail file to the end of her nose to remove the paint so she could go to church.

You might someday see driving down the road, an old 1979 red Dodge Snocommander pulling a trailer with a Lil' Red Express on it, make sure you give Steve a big wave hello. Steve has another '79 Dodge but that's for a different story and time. Till then Steve, I hope to see you around driving those wonderful old Dodges and thanks.

MAGNIFICENT MISS MESSY ON

Mrs. Becky Suvar recently visited Ann's Bright Beginnings Preschool as one of her many characters, Miss Messy. She was quite the mess in her dress and actions! The preschoolers tried to help her with her clothes and in cleaning up litter around the room. Then, we all made mosaics together! What a magnificently marvelous day we all had in reinforcing the letter M!

BECOME FAMILIAR WITH THESE FIVE KEY AREAS

Financial Focus by: Ph Recker, Edward Jones Advisor

As an investor, what are your goals? You can probably think of quite a few — but over the course of your lifetime, your objectives typically will fall into five key categories. And once you're familiar with these areas, you can start thinking of what they'll mean to you in terms of your financial and investment strategies.

So, let's take a look at each of these areas and see what they might entail for you:

Preparing for retirement With advances in health care and a greater awareness of healthy living practices, many of us can expect to live two or three decades in an active retirement. To pay for all those years, you'll need to save and invest early and often. So, while you're working, take full advantage of your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan, as well as contribute to a traditional or Roth IRA. After understanding your desired retirement lifestyle, your financial advisor can help you determine how, and how much, to save to provide for your income in retirement.

Planning for the unexpected — You can't see into the future, so you'll need to prepare for anything that comes your way. By building an emergency fund containing six to 12 months' worth of living expenses, you can possibly avoid dipping into your long-term investments to pay for things such as a new furnace or a major car repair. And planning for the unexpected also means having sufficient life insurance to provide for your family in case anything happens to you.

Educating your children

- College is already expensive — and college expenses have been rising faster than the overall rate of inflation. If you want to help your children, or grandchildren, pay for school, you may want to invest in a college savings vehicle, such as the 529 plan. You can contribute large amounts to a 529 plan, and earnings have the opportunity to grow tax-free, provided withdrawals are used for higher education. (Withdrawals not used for education are subject to income taxes and a 10 percent

Living in retirement — Once you reach retirement, your investment emphasis will shift somewhat, from accumulating resources to making them last. By working with a financial advisor, you can develop a withdrawal strategy that can help make sure you don't outlive the income you receive from your 401(k), IRA and other sources. At the same time, given the possible length of your retirement, you can't ignore the need to invest for growth, so you may need to consider some growth-oriented vehicles in your portfolio to help your income keep pace with inflation.

Transferring your wealth When you've worked hard your whole life, you want to be able to leave a legacy — one that allows you to provide financial resources to the next generation and to those charitable organizations you may wish to support. So, when it's time to think about transferring your wealth, you'll want to consult with your financial and legal advisors to create an estate plan that's appropriate for your needs. And because these plans can take significant time to create, you won't want to wait too long to start.

So, there you have them: five key financial areas on which to focus as you travel through life. By doing your homework, planning ahead and getting the help you need, you can make the journey a pleasant and productive one.

WINTER WEATHER QUIZ ANSWERS REVEALED

By: Josh Steiner

8. "At what temperature is it too cold for snow to fall?" I put this question to turn around the myth that it can be too cold to snow. The correct answer is that there is no temperature at which it is too cold to snow. Snow has been observed as falling when temperatures were as cold as -76 degrees Fahrenheit. There are normally two reasons why snow does not usually fall at extremely cold temperatures. The coldest temperatures usually occur in the vicinity of a high pressure system, which causes subsidence and dry air, eliminating cloud cover and any moisture that could be become snow. Another reason is that at extremely cold temperatures, the air holds very little in the way of moisture, so that when clouds do form, there is not enough moisture for snow to form or fall.

9. This question is would be nearly impossible to answer unless you did research on your own. The correct answer is D. and if you have been following my articles, some of you probably already know. Negative AO tends to push the cold air out of the arctic and into the United States. A negative NAO tends to do the same. A positive PNA promotes troughing in the Eastern United States, which allows cold air to rush into the United States.

10. One of the prime ingredients for heavy snowfall is moisture. Without moisture, even a strong storm system could only produce light amounts of snowfall. For our area, with a synoptic scale snowstorm, most of our moisture comes from the Gulf of Mexico, which would not seem very likely, but it is true. Whenever a winter storm is approaching the region, see if you can find an upper level chart and you will notice a southerly wind about a mile above the surface which transports moisture from the Gulf of Mexico. If this wind is not from the Gulf of Mexico during a winter storm, do not expect heavy snowfall. Our other primary source of moisture is from Lake Michigan, which is usually the producer of lake effect snow events in

11. "Doppler Radar can differentiate between rain, snow, sleet, and freezing rain. True or False." This absolutely is false, because current operational radar can only detect precipitation particles, it can not tell the difference between different types. This will soon be changed when the United States switches over to Dual-Polarization radar, which can tell the difference between wet and dry snow, large and small hail stones, dust particles, tornado debris and extremely heavy rainfall. This radar type will be coming to our area in February 2013, which will greatly improve winter precipitation forecasts.

National Weather Service deals with the medium range 3-7 days in the future? It's the Hydrometeorological Prediction Center. They not only specialize in the medium range, but also in rainfall and precipitation forecasting, forecasting floods, and predicting storm systems after seven days.

14. This is an answer that all people should know, so that they know what do during an actual blizzard. Blizzards are not classified by how much snow falls or how cold the temperatures are, but by how strong the wind is and how heavily the snow falls and how much it reduces visibility. If white out conditions exist for more than one hour or visibility is below one quarter of a mile, then it is a blizzard. If winds are blowing the snow at 35 mph or more, it is a blizzard. The correct answer is C. "In what year did the 'Storm of the Century' impact at least of one third of the United States?" 1993. The storm of the century hit during the winter of 1993, with extremely heavy snowfall to even parts of the south, and nearly every major airport in the Eastern United States were closed. The storm caused an enormous squall line to hit Florida causing many more deaths than Hurricane Andrew. It caused a hurricanelike storm surge to the coast of Florida, with wave heights of over 30 feet. This storm caused billions of dollars in damage and will probably remain in the history books as the worst blizzard on record.

16. "On what days did the 'Storm of the Century' hit?" The answer to this question is D. March 12-13. Ironically, even though this was the most powerful blizzard ever to hit the United States, it happened right before spring, and it even hit the Deep South and Florida, when it was supposed to be in the 80's and sunny. Some parts of the South during the storm had over 30 inches of snow, which is more snow than we have ever had during one storm ever in any of our winter seasons. This is weather at its worst.

OHIO FSA ANNOUNCES CRP GENERAL SIGNUP BEGIN-NING MARCH 12

Steve Maurer, the Ohio Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director, announced that general signup for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) will begin on March 12, 2012, and continue through April 6, 2012. During the signup period, farmers and landowners may offer eligible land for CRP's competitive general signup at their local Farm Service Agency (FSA) office.

"Over the past 26 years, CRP's benefits have grown thanks to many improvements of our natural resources including cleaner water, improved air quality, better habitat for wildlife, and a large reduction in soil erosion," said Maurer.

LATTA VOTES TO LIMIT FEDERAL INTRUSION INTO HIGHER EDUCATION AF-

On 2/28/12, Congressman Bob Latta (R-Bowling Green) voted to limit the Department of Education's overreach into academic matters at higher education institutions by repealing two federal rules - the federal definition of a credit hour and the federal authorization requirement. The Protecting Academic Freedom in Higher Education Act (H.R. 2117) passed by a strong bipartisan vote of 303 to 114. "In an effort to prevent federal intrusion in academic affairs and protect student choice in higher education, I voted to overturn two overly burdensome and expensive regulations on colleges and universities that could impact the education of rural students enrolled in distance education programs," said Rep. Latta. The legislation repeals the Department of Education's "state authorization" regulation, which forces colleges or universities with online or distance learning programs to get permission from every state where students live, as opposed to where institutions operate in. The legislation also repeals part of the federal credit hour regulation, which restricts innovative teaching methods.

Dr. Paul Marion, president of Tiffin University supports H.R. 2117 which he says, "will strengthen higher education and provide an enhanced learning environment for students. I hope that this measure is passed by the U.S. Senate and is signed by the President. If not, colleges and universities throughout the U.S. will not be able to serve students as effectively as pos-

VANTAGE PRESCHOOL IS OPEN FOR REGISTRATION

Vantage senior Early Childhood Education student, Nacole Mansfield (Continental) joins the preschoolers as they all show off their hands after doing shaving cream art! Registrations for the Vantage Preschool are now being accepted for the 2012-2013 school year.

Climbing on the outdoor playground equipment... hands on science... making goobligook and play doh... listening to the library lady reading a story... These are just a few of the fun activities Vantage preschoolers experience. Interested in sending your preschooler to Vantage? Registration is now underway for the 2012-2013 school year. Registration is on a first-come, first-served basis. There are three options for preschool classes this year. For all options, children must reach the age of 3 by August 1st. There is a non-refundable registration fee, which can be paid when you come in to complete the application.

The traditional half-day preschool sessions are the most popular choice. The morning preschool sion meets Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. until 10:50 a.m. and is taught by Mrs. Marcia Osenga, Mrs. Donna Myers and the senior Early Childhood students. This session is for 3 year-old children and young 4 year-

The afternoon session also meets Monday through Thursday from 12:00 noon until 2:20 p.m. and is taught by Mrs. Marcia Osenga, Mrs. Donna Myers and the junior Early Childhood students. This is a pre-kindergarten class for 4 year-olds and young 5 year-olds.

The full day option is available from 8:30 a.m. - 2:20 p.m., Monday through Thursday. This is a pre-kindergarten class for 4 and 5 year-olds. Preschoolers pack their lunch.

Vantage Preschool provides developmentally appropriate activities for the total development of children ages three through five years old.

The children experience many hands on activities in language arts, science, math, kindergarten readiness, literature, and social skills. High school juniors and seniors who are preparing for a career in early childhood education work directly with the preschoolers by planning and conducting the lessons. A major benefit for the children who attend the Vantage Preschool is the very low staffchild ratio. There is usually one high school "teacher" to every one or two preschoolers, supervised by the directors. The high school students also receive additional training in first aid, CPR and common childhood illnesses.

The Early Childhood Education program uses the Early Learning Content Standards to meet the guidelines for preschool education determined by the Ohio Department of Education.

For more information about the Vantage preschool, please contact Donna Myers or Marcia Osenga at 419-238-5411 ext. 137.

PAULDING & VAN WERT COUNTY COVER CROP PROGRAM

By: Jim Lopshire, Extension Educator

Cover crops are an effective tool to reduce soil erosion and increase nutrient recycling on farmlands, thereby also decreasing the soil and nutrient loads entering lakes and waterways. Cover crops can have numerous other benefits including improvement of soil quality, pest management, fertility management, water availability, landscape diversification, and wildlife habitat.

Proper choice and management of cover crops are important in maximizing the benefits and reducing potential problems. Characteristics important for cover crop selection include life cycle, seeding date and rate, winter hardiness, nitrogen fixation or scavenging ability, feed or forage value, and establishment costs. There is no single cover crop or system that will provide all these benefits. The OSU Extension Offices of Van Wert and Paulding Counties are holding an agronomy program focusing on the incorporation of cover crops into cropping systems. With talk of needing greater nutrient management, and the potential future restrictions on the usage of fertilizers and manure on the farm for crop production, the use of cover crops may become a greater necessity to assure that nutrients applied to fields stay in the fields until cash crops utilize them. This program will be held on March 22, 2012 at the Van Wert County Fairgrounds in the Junior Fair Building in Van Wert, Ohio. Registration starts at 8:30 a.m. with program starting at 9:00 a.m. and ending at 3:30 p.m. Lunch will be served. The registration fee is payable at the door.

Speakers for the day include Florian Chirra, OSU Extension educator, discussing Soil Ecology and Dissolved Reactive Phosphorus Problem; Jim Hoorman, OSU Extension educator, will cover Biology of Compaction, Cover Crop Rotations, and Cover Crop Economics; and Glen Arnold, OSU Extension Field Specialist, will share his $researc\bar{h}\, on\, Applying\, Manure$ to Actively Growing Crops.

The event is open to all interested persons, and registration fees include materials and refreshments.

To pre-register for the program please call the Van Wert (419-238-1214) or Paulding (419-399-8225) Extension Office or email: young.2 @cfaes. osu.edu to pre-register for the program.
