FOCUS ON HEALTH AT NEW HAVEN HIGH SCHOOL

The Focus on Health, New Haven High School site, will be held on April 28, 2012, from 8:00 a.m. until noon. East Allen County Schools Wellness Advisory Council and Emanuel Lutheran Church sponsor this popular low-cost, informative health fair with guidance from Midwest Alliance for Health Education's Focus on Health team.

Low cost blood testing will be offered again this year; tests included are Blood Chemistry Profile (Chem 17), Hemogram (anemia), Thyroid Stimulating Hormone, Prostate Specific Antigen, and A1C (3 month blood sugar average). Most of the blood work requires that you FAST for 10 to 12 hours prior to the blood draw. Payment for blood work is cash or check only.

Also offered at this site are hearing testing by an audiologist, balance testing by a physical therapist, bone density testing, vision screening, as well as a pharmacist and diabetes educator available to answer questions. Other free health screenings include blood pressure, height and weight with body mass index. There will also be nearly 30 exhibitors offering health and community information.

This year's community sponsors include: Wells Fargo Bank, Indiana's News Center, Midwest Alliance for Health Education, Physician's Health Plan, Parkview Hospital Community Health Improvement program, and St. Joe Hospital Medical/Dental Staff.

For more information, call Wendy Walker, RN, EACS Health Services & Wellness Coordinator, at 260-446-0100, extension 3321 or email at wwalker@eacs.k12.in.us.

GOD'S COVENANT WITH ABRAHAM AND HIS SPIRI-TUAL SEED SERIES #3

By: James Wright, First Church of God, DuPont,

The Covenant Stated:

- 1. "Thou shalt be a father of many nations," Genesis 17:5.
- 2. "In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed," Genesis 12:3, 18:18,
- I. THAT COVENANT IS SPIRITUALLY FULFILLED IN THE GOSPEL AGE:
- 1. Abraham is now the father of many nations through Christ, Romans 4:13-17, 9:6-8, 24; Galatians 3:7, 26-29, 4:28.
- 2. All nations on earth are now being blessed in the seed of Abraham, which also is Christ, Galatians 3:13-16; Luke 2:10-11, 29-32; Acts 13:46-48, 28:28.
- 3. The blessing which comes to the nations through Christ is full salvation, Acts 3:25-26. 4. The spiritual blessing
- promised was not received by the literal seed under the law, Hebrews 11:13, 39-40. The whole covenant economy to Abraham and his seed falls under three headings or phases.

- 1. There is the promise of giving the land of Canaan which was fulfilled when the Jews came out of Egypt and possessed the Promised Land under Joshua.
- 2. There was the "restoration" promise which was fulfilled when the Jews returned from Babylonian captivity and rebuilt the walls of Jerusalem under Nehemiah and
- 3. There are the spiritual promises which are fulfilled in Christ under the gospel. We challenge anyone to prove that there is a fourth or another blessing promised to Gentiles and all the world, if they will repent and accept Christ as their Savior.

"DO I CARE? DO I SHARE?"

Winning the Battle for a Generation by: Rick Jones, Defiance Area YFC

When I was very young I had two major surgeries, one that saved my life. My parents had no health insurance and so when these bills came due there was no money to pay for

The first surgery was paid for by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Chapter from Ottawa, Ohio. My father had served in World War II and they generously stepped in to help out. My second surgery was paid for by a small Methodist Church in Continental, something I did not know about until I was out of college, married and serving the Lord in ministry. I've since returned to that generous gracious church family to thank them for supporting my family and me in our hardship.

We all have a responsibility to share our resources with those who are hurting. Take for example this story as told by Mother Teresa:

The late Mother Teresa wrote of a time when she was told about a large family that had not eaten in days. She gathered up rice and took it to them. The eight children were disfigured by hunger, but there was no sorrow or sadness in their faces.

When the mother received the rice she immediately divided it into two equal portions and took half of the rice outside. When she returned, Mother Teresa asked about her abrupt departure and the woman explained she had gone to her neighbors. She said, "They are hungry also!"

Mother Teresa noted, "I was not surprised that she gave, because poor people are really very generous. But I was surprised that she knew they were hungry. As a rule, when we are suffering, we are so focused on ourselves we have no time for others." The scriptures remind us in James 1:27 (NIV), "Religion that God our Father accepts as pure and faultless is this: to look after orphans and widows in their distress and to keep oneself from being polluted by the world." For more information

TRANSPLANT ME

By: Regan Clem, Riverside Christian Church

'Listen! A sower went out to sow. And as he sowed, some seed fell along the path, and the birds came and devoured it. Other seed fell on rocky ground, where it did not have much soil, and immediately it sprang up, since it had no depth of soil. And when the sun rose, it was scorched, and since it had no root, it withered away. Other seed fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked it, and it yielded no grain. And other seeds fell into good soil and produced grain, growing up and increasing and yielding thirtyfold and sixtyfold and a hundredfold." And he said, "He who has ears to hear, let him hear," Mark 4:3-9 (ESV). The story about the four soils is obviously about the sower. "The sower went out to sow." The sower is responsible to share the message of the gospel, but he is not responsible for the reception of that message. It reminds me of God's calling on Ezekiel. God told Ezekiel that he wanted him to be a watchman. We live in pretty safe places in a relatively peaceful time, so the idea of the watchman might seem foreign to us. Our towns don't have watchmen standing watch and warning us of danger. In those times, the watchman would stand in a watchtower and carefully observe the area around for danger. A watchman would be vigilant to danger and sound the alarm at the first signs of it. This would allow the people working in the vulnerable places to get to safety. If the people ignored the watchman's warning, the watchman was not at fault for whatever might happen. He did his job and sounded the alarm. If the watchman missed the danger and did not sound the warning, then the watchman would be guilty for the harm done to the people as if he had done it himself (Ezekiel 3:16-27, 33:1-9).

We, those who are followers of Jesus, are called to be God's watchmen, sowing seed wherever we go. Some of those seeds will multiply; others will never grow. Some will give us hope as we see growth and then quickly die. Oh what terrible heartbreak we feel in those cases. At other times people will let the bad influences around them destroy them. I can think of friends who went this route and am reminded of the sorrow.

It is useful to stop obsessing over everyone else and indulge in a little introspection. What soil am I in? Am I in that fertile soil, being used by God to multiple faithful followers for the kingdom? Or am I overshadowed by thorns, living in the darkness of others trying to block out what God wants to do in my life? Discouraging words stop me from radically following. Direct attacks on the things God is trying to do in my life make question Him and His plan. Or am I quickly growing only to wither at the struggles of the world? The tragedies of life rocks my faith. Legalism causes my faith to crumble like an improperly construct-

Wherever I find myself, God is in the transplanting business.

Gardeners and arborists are really good at transplanting plants and trees. They gently remove the plant from the bad soil. They apply the appropriate amount of fertilizer. They appropriately water the plant and make sure that it gets just the right amount of fertilizer. They give the care needed to insure the survival of the transplant. If we can be successful in transplanting plants, how much more successfully will God be in transplant lives. He wants us in the good soil. And He will move us there if that is what we want. To our detriment, we often like being in the bad soil. We find the momentary pleasure of too much sunlight exhilarating, ignoring that it will scorch us in the end. We find the company of thorns enjoyable, oblivious that their darkness squelches our growth. We don't want to leave the path because everyone is there. We come up with all sorts of justifications to stay out of the soil God wants But God doesn't give up on us. He is in the multiplication business. He wants to use us to further His work here on earth, just like He used someone else to touch each one of us for His kingdom. Transplant me. Water me.

Use me. I'll be a sower. I'll be a watchman. I want to join in the cry of those before me who longed to be in the good soil, multiplying and bringing God's will into this world.

MAINTAINING THE PRIN-CIPLE OF "PLANNED NEGLECT"

By: Pastor Joel DeSelm, Woodburn Missionary

In her book, A Practical Guide To Prayer, Dorothy Maskins tells about a noted concert violinist who was asked the secret of her mastery of the instrument. The woman answered the question with two words: "Planned neglect." Then she explained: "There were many things that used to demand my time. When I went to my room after breakfast, I made my bed, straightened the room, dusted, and did whatever seemed necessary. When I finished my work, I turned to my violin practice. That system prevented me from accomplishing what I should on the violin. So I reversed things. I deliberately planned to neglect everything else until my practice period was complete. And that program of planned neglect is the secret of my suc-

This same principle can be helpful as we plan our daily agenda. Unless we discipline ourselves and make a deliberate effort, other things will keep us from establishing consistent quiet time with God. And when we take our spiritual sustenance from the leftovers in our schedule, we will always be hungry and undernourished.

Somehow we need to come to grips with the "Mary—Martha Syndrome." (Remember how Mary sat at Jesus' feet while Martha hustled and bustled with the tasks of the day?) Successful Christian living should have a rhythm: doing and resting, speaking and listening, giving and receiving.

Bernard of Clairvaux put it well when he wrote, "Action and contemplation are very close companions; they live together in one house on equal terms; Martha is Mary's sister."

PCAF DONATES TO THE ANTWERP CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP AND CARE CAMPUS

Paulding County Area has granted Foundation $500.00 to Antwerp Christian Fellowship and Care Campus. The Campus is being used to provide a low cost, health alternative for the youth of Paulding County. Specifically, the grant money will be used to purchase volleyball equipment.

I don't know about you, but I need that kind of reminder. Especially during this time of year. Not only is it daylight a lot longer, but I've got long grass, blooming dandelions, and an untilled garden that are all screaming for my attention. Spring is a great time of the year, but it's easy to get caught up in all the stuff to do outside and squeeze out any time to spend with the Savior. Sound familiar? Determine again that with the onslaught of nice weather, your personal time with the Lord will not be sacrificed upon the altar of expediency. To be sure, Spring is a time of yardwork, softball, and washing the car. But it's still the time to remain consistent in your communion with Christ. Let's practice some "planned neglect." In doing so, I think we'll be amazed at how everything else falls together.

AN OLD SPORT OFFERED A NEW OPPORTUNITY IN ANTWERP

With the help of the Paulding County Area Foundation, the Antwerp Community Fellowship & Care Campus (ACFCC) board has just finalized the purchase of two official sets of volleyball poles and nets for the Manor House gym. The existing holes in the gym floor have been utilized to again offer two full volleyball courts at the Manor House. If you would like to organize and run a volleyball tournament or a league (boys, girls, youth, JH, HS, Adult, Co-ed, etc.) contact ACFCC board member Tim Copsey at 419-506-0108. This opportunity is available to anyone from any community.

SAM RIVERS, INDIAN AGENT CHAPTER 11: GO-ING TO THE LAKOTA CAMP

By: Stan Jordan

We left shortly after daylight and headed north to the Lakota camp. The hunter and I in the first wagon, the other two soldiers rode in the second wagon.

I left Mo at the agency with Callie. He has a couple of chores to do and I think Callie wants him to help plant some flowers. He is also the runner, if need be.

We had a beautiful day, nice warm sun shine all day. We just bounced along until we came to the Loop River in the afternoon and we turned to the west and followed our trail marker until we got to the place where we ford the river and go north to the encampment.

It was getting late in the afternoon and I said, "We will ford the river in the morning. We will camp on the south side for tonight." It turned out that was one of the wisest decisions that I ever made.

Callie told me to take the one burner oil stove along in our wagon. It is so much easier to use on the trail.

For supper I made coffee and Callie had sent sandwiches and cookies and a can of peaches.

Well, we got up at first light and had breakfast and there was some thunder in the air. We got all our gear packed and that thunder was louder, but it wasn't thunder it was a war. The hunter said, "that ain't no storm, that is a buffalo herd."

It sure was a big herd coming out of the northeast on the other side of Loop River. There was a good line of trees on both sides of the river. The line of trees was between us and the buffaloes.

Well, the heard was fording the river just where we would pretty soon. We stayed close to the trees and had to hold each horse because they were jumping and scared.

It seemed like this went on forever but only a few minutes and they were going away to the southwest. We let the horses settle down and the dust storm moved away and then we crossed the river and that is when we got busy.

Right by the south bank of the river a small buffalo or last year's calf, I suppose, was half in half out of the water.

We looked the situation over and the hunter said, "He has a broken legs," and his mother just kept on running, she probably didn't know that he was down."

He said, "We must kill him because he can't live out here alone and we will dress him out and give him to the Indians." The hunter shot him in the head with his Army rifle. Then the hunter took charge of everything and gutted him out and washed his inside cavity out and the five of us loaded him in the back of the second wagon. It didn't take all that long, the five of us each had a skinning knife and the hunter told each of us what to do.

After he was loaded we all washed up and we headed north to the campsite. We stopped for lunch just to let the horses rest, but I did make a pot of coffee with the 'little jim dandy' oil burner and then we headed out again at a little faster gait to get in there awhile before dark.

It seemed like forever but I could see a little smoke and dust up ahead that would be White Elk's camp. A couple young braves rode out to meet us, or they figured the only people with wagons and coming from the south would be the Indian Agent. After the one boy saw us and our Totem he turned his pony back toward camp and away he went. We had been here once before.

By the time we got to the middle of the camp we stopped both wagons and I gathered the soldier boys around and made sure no weapons were visible. I didn't know if the blue bellies would cause a problem or not. I guess my being there was enough to see all was safe.

By now, Limping Buffalo was on hand and we all shook hands and I had the soldiers shake and howdy, and we all

I explained to Limping Buffalo that we had just planted our garden and that Farmer had come with a new plow and told him what we intended to do.

Well, to get the garden area all ready to plant at one time was a great improvement. He talked to a fairly old native and talked to him in their native language, and the way he grunted and nodded I figured he was the main garden planter.

After a few minutes, I told Limping Buffalo about the buffalo we had killed and that it was in the wagon for the tribe to eat. He talked to some young fellows and they all nodded and left to take care of the fresh meat.

ANTWERP ARCHER SOFT-

By: Stan Jordan

I talked to Eric Walk the other day and he brought me up to date on the Archer Girls Softball standings. He is one of the coaches.

The girls, as of today (April 6), are 6-3. They won over Tinora yesterday at 17-3.

This is the record: won at Edon 1-0; lost at Hicksville 3-2 in 10 innings (our pitcher, Jayla Chamberlin fanned 18 batters in that contest); Lost Continental 10-1 (Jayla walked the first batter in this game and then fanned the next 6 in a row, then in the 3rd inning she struck out 2 more); won in Paulding 6-0; they lost a double header to Defiance, a very good ball club; won over Parkway 2-1; won over Delphos Jefferson 6-3.

I am indebted to coach Gary Rodenberger as he sent me quite a bit of info and data. I am really impressed by the pitcher, catcher and second baseman combination. All the girls are lettermen and darn good at their positions. Nearly all have 2-3 years of experience.

We lost 3 grand players from last year due to graduation: Toni Winslow, short stop; Jessie Arnold, Catcher and Loni Walk, 3rd base.

This is the Lady Archer's Softball Team:

Jayla Chamberlain, LHP, Pitcher; Avrial Sawyer, Catcher; Tricia Smalley, First Base; Alex North, Second Base; A.J. Stuck, Short Stop; Ashlee Smith, Third Base; Harlee Hudson, Left Field; Cheyenne Miller-Sweet, Center Field; Ann Reinhart, Right Field

This is the usual starting line up plus a few good replacements.

See ya!

THE EASTER EGG HUNT

By: Stan Jordan

On Saturday afternoon of April 1st, I took my grandson, Mark, out to the Easter Egg Hunt at the Antwerp Conservation Club. It was a little cool, but that sure didn't bother those little hunters.

I sat in my pick-up and watched all the excitement, hustle and bustle.

Mardell Jackson told me a number of dads, granddads and great-granddads took about a half hour to "sort of" hide the 600 eggs, but it took less that 5 minutes to find them all! It was just a little short of pandemonium. In just a few short minutes it was over and Helen Livingston said, "Come on in and have some coffee and cupcakes." It was very crowded inside with all the little hunters and their parents and a good bunch of grandparents. Well, they found me a chair and room at a table with coffee and good-

The very first person I got to talk to was the Honorable Judge Suzanne Rister, her niece had done quite well as she had about a half a bucket of gifts and loot. Nearly all of the children carried a small bucket or basket to haul their loot home in.

The very next lady I talked to was Rachel West, she told me she now lives just outside of Findlay.

Then İ got to talk to Cindy Knight and Donna Snyder.

about what a fine edifice that had developed there at the A.C.C. He says it has been a good 15 years of long hard work since they bought that site. But it sure shows that they have done a good job.

I talked with Russ Figert

I talked with folks from Woodburn, Defiance, Payne and New Haven. I understand the Spring Fish Fry will be Saturday, April 21.

All in all it was a very delightful afternoon seeing those kids have a ball and me meeting so many old friends.

I even recalled a lesson in psychology, Mike Mason an A.C.C. member from Woodburn told me: 'Always meet folks with a grin then they spend all day wondering what you are up to.'

THE FELLOW RODDER

By: Mike McKeever

This week's featured ride comes to us from an Antwerp Resident Treavor Gross - 1963 Chevrolet Chevy II Station Wagon.

Treavor got this car from his brother. His brother wrecked his car and Treavor talked him into buying this one. Then about a year later their dad got a new car and handed down his old ride, and at that time his brother told Treavor, "Since you liked this old wagon better than I ever up. The Nova was designed straight from the drawing board, not from any other car. Ford came out with the Falcon/Comet. Chrysler came out with the Valiant/ Dart, AMC had the Rambler, and Studebaker had the Lark. Although Chevy already had a compact car (the Corvair), the goal was to come out with a car that would compete with the new RWD compacts. All of these cars were of "unibody" design, with a completely detachable front end, so that fenders and other front end sheet metal could be repaired did, you can have it." Treavor was 15 then. Hooray for old Detroit station wagons! You don't see many small Detroit wagons these days, since the Vista Cruisers and Country Squires sold in such greater numbers back in the pre-SUV era. Do you remember those days with the kids looking out the back windows as you came up behind the wagons on the road? So I was very happy when Treavor got a hold of me to feature his 1963 Nova II wagon.

The Nova started out as a car that Chevrolet used to compete in the new compactcar wars that were heating cars were known as the GM "X"-body line—bodies made by Fisher Body. In the fall of 1961, the Chevy II came out (as a 1962 model). Three different levels of this car were made: the Chevy II 100, the Chevy II 300 and the Chevy II Nova 400. These cars were available as a 2-door coupe, a 2-door sedan, a 4-door sedan, a 2-seat station wagon, a 3seat station wagon and finally, a convertible. Those cars only had the 153 CI inline 4 (Iron-Duke) or the 194 inline six. Those were newly-designed engines specifically designed

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

I would like to take the opportunity to reply to Pastor Regan Clem's article from Wednesday, April 4th. It was a very bold statement and very true, of course. There are some exceptions, I know of families that go outside of Antwerp and are involved in our school, but those are not very many, and in order to make a difference and reach others it is better to serve in your community and I learned that lesson when we moved to Antwerp September 1991 and was looking for a church. I attended a perfect church (I was a new Christian, and in my eye it was perfect) in Karlsruhe, Germany where my husband was stationed.

So, here I was trying to find a church and I was church hopping, between Antwerp, Defiance and Fort Wayne. After my second child was born I found it harder to go to Fort Wayne and I wanted so much to be part of the community I lived in and began asking the Lord to guide me to a church He wanted me to serve, and not the other way around. I found myself at Antwerp United Methodist Church and been there for 16 years now. I started serving there shortly after I attended and I know that's where God wants me. Is it a perfect church? Of course not! I long ago discovered that there is no such church—it's not a building or the denomination that make up a church—it's the people who claim Christ as their Savior. I have also seen that people are turned off by us Christians by our behavior—the worst offender is the way we belittle other denominations. Jesus did not preach a message of denominations but of Forgiveness, Love and Life. If we are the body, why are we not a City on a Hill for our neighbors? There are a lot of churches in Antwerp and we ought to come together once in a while and have Church outside at the Park. Let's move outside our comfort zones and be the light for Christ that He called us to be. -Martina Daugherty

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Last November I went to the owner of Stykemain Chevrolet in Paulding and expressed my concern of his blyted property on the east side of the bridge on Perry Street. In our conversation he did agree that the property was bad and something needed to be done then he went on to ask me, "Do you want to buy the property?"

I'm almost sure he would have done something towards righting the situation but for the terrible, brutal, cold winter prohibited him from such

Last week I went to the city Administrator's office to file a complaint against Mr. Stykemain about his eyesore. The woman behind the sliding glass, after hearing my complaint stated, "I'm not sure if we (the city) can do anything about the matter."

Now, I remember last year a warning was issued to all citizens of our city that if any grass on your property had reached a certain height, that the city could in fact "cut the grass and then fine the property owners for the expense." Am I to understand that the city is so concerned about the height of grass and not with something as outstanding as buildings left to present themselves as a health and safety hazard, not to mention their ugly appearance to our city?

At the Administrator's office I posed the question, "If this property was next to the Mayor's home would this issue be dealt with more read-

There are those of us on this side of town that do care about our property values, and in general how our property reflects our overall concern with how people view Paulding County residents.

What is the code of blyted properties in our town? Who enforces these codes? Are these codes just for the poorer citizens?

I have these same concerns of the vacant Certified Gas Station on the northeast corner of the town square.

—James G. Powell

I agree with James Powell's letter of April 4, but feel he should have titled it, 'What Economy?'.

The only economy we have is on the verge of failure thanks to a failed government. They are too busy trying to save the world to care about the American people who are losing everything. Look around: more houses for sale, more people out of work, more unemployment, and they just keep spending us into a debt we can never pay.

Those who wear suits tell us what we want to hear, then forget it once they are in office where their only concern is drawing their big paychecks and telling us we are doing

Anyone in politics that wears a suit is a crook and only is interested in his paycheck. If you want me to believe in you, come in blue jeans and a flannel shirt. Stick your head under the hood or underside of a car I'm working on or hand me a wrench. Show that you are truly interested in what I do for a living and really want to help me survive in your failing economy.

This will never happen, especially in Paulding where they just raised our utility bills once again, taking more money that people don't have, to pay for what?

LATTA ON GAS PRICES: "HIGH GAS PRICES ARE ESSENTIALLY ANOTHER TAX ON AMERICANS"

According to the Labor Consumer Department's Price Index (CPI) data for the month of March, "the gasoline index rose 1.7 percent following its 6.0 percent February increase." This spike in gas prices has pushed food costs by 0.2 percent. In response to the latest CPI numbers, Congressman Bob Latta (R-Bowling Green) released the following statement:

"Increases in gas prices place a tremendous burden on farmers, middle class families and small businesses who are operating on the margins and view abnormally high gas prices as another tax," said Rep. Latta. "In order to put downward pressure on gas prices and help provide relief at the pump, we need President Obama to bring more oil to the market by allowing access to federal leases.

"President Obama hasn't hinted that he will increase energy supplies, however, Republicans in the House of Representatives have acted and passed six bills that would increase U.S. domestic energy production and supply. Before gas prices hit $5, I encourage the President and Senate Democrats to work with us on our all of the above energy solutions."

ASHLEE SMITH SIGNS LETTER OF INTENT FOR SAINT FRANCIS

Ashlee Smith of Antwerp High School, signed a letter of intent to enter the University of Saint Francis, Fort Wayne this fall for volleyball. She plans to major in nursing.

Ashlee has always attended Antwerp Local School. While in high school she's been involved in softball and volleyball. She is a 3-year starter in volleyball. Ashlee has earned a number of awards in volleyball including: GMC Honorable Mention; District 7 Second Team and Pursuit Ashlee's Varsity Volleyball Coach, Amy Hammer, had this to say about Ashlee, "Ashlee is a tremendous athlete with a passion for volleyball. Her work ethic and dedication will allow her to excel at her next level.'

Ashlee's parents are Jeff and Reba Smith, and she has two older brothers.

(Continued from Page 5) for this new car. You could get your little Chevy wagon with a 153-cubic inch, four-cylinder-whoa, a four-cylinder in a 60s Detroit wagon?!? You could also get a 194-cube sixcylinder. The six used 7 main bearings, a revolutionary design in its day. The 63 model came out with minor trim changes, some very minor mechanical changes, but with a new addition: the Chevy II Nova SS. All models used the available engines from 1962. Chevy II/Nova outsold the domestic competition in compacts this year, V8 fans had to wait until '64 for an optional 283 in the Chevy II.

Novas are popular these days; that's why if you were on the hunt for one, it's highly unlikely that you'd be able to pick up the local sale ads and find an SS or a sport coupe for anything less than a few thousand dollars. A few years ago you might have been able to get one for a few hundred maybe, but not today. With this being the case, many Nova fans are looking for alternatives, and many are trying their hand at building a sleeper four-door or a longroof model (wagon) instead. While some people balk at the notion of building a Nova with more than two doors, the truth is that things are changing to just the opposite! The popularity of these cars with "two doors too many" is rising as I write this column. One of the neat things about wagons that many people don't realize is that the extra length comes from the center of the rear wheels back to the rear bumper, which leaves the wheelbase essentially the same as that of a two-door lot of the mechanical parts already manufactured a simple proposition. Treavor got the car at the age of 15 and started working on it right away. A couple of years later he took auto body classes in vocational school where he made this car his senior project. The car was in fair condition but needed some long lost love given to it. He gave the car a pearl white paint job with a black accent stripe and some nice pearl metallic ghost flames on the front that just help set it off. Treavor's plan for the car is to try and keep it close to original and some day do a complete frame off restoration but for now, as money allows, to just make it a nice cruiser that looks good. He is a young guy but he also says he has an old school way of just cruising around slowly. He was thinking of changing the motor to a V-8, but talked himself out of it and is keep the old straight 6. The old 6 with an automatic power glider runs good, and Treavor's idea of this car is to make a nice cruiser. Let's face it a nice cruiser doesn't need some big thumping, ground pounding, and gas guzzling V-8. Treavor is leaning to the 6 with a split duel exhaust. It has manual brakes with drums all the way around, and (arm strong) manual steering. It still has the original rims and hub caps. He has been working on it for five years now and still loves the car. He has had to order parts as far away as an Arizona junk yard. The car is a work in progress and I am looking forward to seeing the progress in the coming years. Treavor, you definitely have an eye for the old school cars, that is a rare thing for someone at the age of 20 these days, keep up the work and good luck. Treavor, you saved this car from the scrap yard and becoming some melted down new clothes washer or something

OHSAA BOARD ADOPTS REVISED COMPETITIVE BALANCE PROPOSAL

The Ohio High School Athletic Association's Board of Directors held special meeting on Friday, March 23, and approved five additional items to place before the membership during the annual referendum voting process that will be held between May 1 and 15. Among the items that will be voted upon by member school principals is a slightly revised Competitive Balance Proposal that, if adopted, would place schools into their respective tournament divisions in team sports based on a sport-by-sport athletic count. The formula for calculating the athletic count includes factors related to how students enter the school (boundary factor); the ability of students to access additional resources for successful competition (socioeconomic factor); and the success of a specific program over a long period of time (tradition factor). If adopted by the membership, the change would become effective for the 2013-14 school year. The proposal was recommended to the Board by the OHSAA Competitive Balance Committee.

The referendum language adopted by the Board of Directors to add to By-law 2, Classification and Organization, which will be voted upon by the prin-

"Each school shall be placed into tournament divisions based on its sport-by-sport athletic count. The formula for determining athletic counts and to which sports the athletic count shall be applied will be recommended by the standing Competitive Balance Committee and approved by the Board of Directors on a biennial basis. The for mula for calculating athletic counts and the sports to which they are applied are listed in the OHSAA's General Sports Regulations — Tournaments."

A Competitive Balance Proposal was narrowly defeated during last May's referendum voting, 332 to 303. Adjusted in this year's proposal is the tradition factor, where the emphasis is on the long-term success of a program rather than "punishing" a school for having one great class leading it to success. Just like the 2011 proposal, though, the general concept of the Competitive Balance Formula for determining athletic courts will be Reciping a Freellment. counts will be: Beginning Enrollment + Boundary Factor — Socioeconomic Factor + Tradition Factor.

The school boundary factor is (no

- change from 2011 proposal):

   Non-public schools with no boundaries 10 percent times enrollment will be added;
- Non-public schools with limited boundaries - 8 percent times enrollment will be added;
- · Public schools with statewide open enrollment - 6 percent times enrollment will be added (*);
- Public schools with adjacent open enrollment - 4 percent times enrollment will be added (*), and
- · Public schools with no open enrollment - no percentage added.

  (*) indicates that this percentage
- will not be applied if the net number of open enrollment students is negative.

The socioeconomic factor is (no change from 2011 proposal):

The number of free lunch applications within the high school times 10 percent equals the number to be subtracted from enrollment.

The tradition factor is (modified from 2011 proposal):

- Six (6) percent of enrollment will be added on a sport-by-sport basis for appearances in the Sweet 16 (regional tournament for all team sports except football, which would be the regional semifinals), in four of the last eight sea-
- sons, or
   Ten (10) percent of enrollment will be added on a sport-by-sport basis for appearances in the state tournament in four of the last eight seasons.

If approved, the Competitive Balance Formula would be applied to the team sports of football, soccer, volleyball, basketball, baseball and softball. Team dual wrestling would be added in 2017-18. Consideration may be given to add other sports in the future.

The OHSAA Competitive Balance Committee will meet on a regular basis and may make recommendations to the OHSAA Board of Directors to modify the Competitive Balance Formula bien-nially. Should any significant changes be recommended to modify the current formula, the OHSAA will survey the membership to gauge interest on any modification(s).

By slightly modifying the propos-al, the OHSAA Competitive Balance Committee and OHSAA Board of Directors have responded to the concerns addressed by the membership following last year's referendum voting. Those concerns were: • Adjust the tradition factor (see

- information earlier in this news release regarding this change);
- Help the member schools become more informed by allowing them to see how the formula will affect each school prior to the referendum voting (a sport-by-sport listing will soon appear on www.ohsaa.org);
- Ensure that any significant changes to the current proposed formula will not be made without feedback from the

In addition, the OHSAA Board of Directors is considering addressing the enrollment disparity that exists in Division I in the sport of football prior to the referendum voting in May via a change in the OHSAA Sports Regulations.

Additional points the Competitive
Balance Committee and Board of Directors emphasized are: 1.) The revised Competitive Balance Proposal is not envisioned as a formula that will solve all issues, nor is it a one-time solution. Rather, this proposal is envisioned as the first step of an on-going process; 2.) The general philosophy of the Competitive Balance Committee has not been to make any decisions for modifications based on what these changes will do to a specific school(s) but rather to address what are perceived to be inequities in the overall OHSAA tournament system, and 3.) While this may not be the ultimate solution or one that everyone would list as their first choice, a realistic view is that a formula built on the principles being addressed is preferred to a 100 years of service to Ohio's schools. Additional information on all of the 2012 referendum issues and a Guide to the 2012 Revised Competitive Balance Proposal will be posted soon on the OHSAA website (www.ohsaa.org).

OHSAA BOARD ADOPTS RECOM-MENDATION TO ADD SEVENTH FOOTBALL DIVISION

The Ohio High School Athletic Association will be adding a seventh tournament division in football beginning in 2013, Commissioner Daniel B. Ross has announced. The addition of a seventh division was approved by the OHSAA's Board of Directors by a 6 to 3 vote during its regularly scheduled meeting on April 12, 2012.

The plan will place the top 10 percent of schools based on enrollment in Division I, with the remaining 644 schools divided evenly among the next six divisions. This will leave 72 schools in Division I with the other six divisions averaging approximately 108 schools. Each of the seven divisions will continue to qualify 32 teams to the tournament. Currently, the six OHSAA football divisions are comprised of an average of 120 schools per division. The plan for adopting an additional division was in response to a concern by some OHSAA member schools about the enrollment disparity that exists in Division I, where the current range is 494 males at the lower end of the division to 1,164 at the top. Based on current enrollment data, the lower end of Division I would increase to 600 males. Committee meetings were held to address the issue and the recommendation to add a seventh division came from the committee. "Adding a seventh division not only helps address the enrollment disparity in Division I, but it also will create 32 more tournament opportunities for studentathletes, their schools and their communities, many of which have never or rarely experienced the playoffs," Ross said. "The committee members believe that this is an issue unique to football, especially since not all schools qualify for the OHSAA football tournament."

A separate committee, comprised of OHSAA Board and staff members, school administrators and officers of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association, will be formed to finalize the details of this plan. Among the details to be determined: adjustments to the Harbin Computer Ratings with the addition of another division; regional breakdowns and assignments for Division I, and dates in which specific divisions will play their tournament contests, including logistics of an additional state tournament contest.

Approval of an "athletic count" formula, which is included within a competitive balance proposal that OHSAA member school principals will vote on during the annual referendum process that will occur between May 1 and 15, would also be factored in before placing schools into their respective tournament divisions.

The next two-year cycle for reassigning schools to tournament divisions begins in the fall of 2013. Based on current enrollment figures, a sample of the football tournament divisional enrollment ranges when adding a seventh division would be (again, keeping in mind that this will change before the 2013 season): Division I - 600 to 1,164; Division II -410 to 599; Division III - 288 to 409; Division IV - 216 to 287; Division V – 159 to 215; Division VI - 114 to 158, and Division VII – 30 to 111. The current football tournament divisional enrollment ranges, which run through 2012, are: Division I - 494 to 1,164; Division II - 327 to 493; Division III - 243 to 326; Division IV - 172 to 242; Division V - 120 to 171, and Division VI - 30 to 119.

This is the first time the OHSAA has expanded the number of football tournament divisions since 1994, when a sixth division was added. Five years later, the number of tournament qualifiers in each division expanded from 16 to 32. When the tournament first began in 1972, there were three football tournament divisions, and expansion to five divisions occurred in 1980.

The cool breeze and hidden sunshine didn't keep the community of Habitat for Humanity away, as the groundbreaking for the 6th house for the organization got underway on Saturday, April 14th.

The president of the Paulding County chapter of Habitat for Humanity, Kevin Wilson, opened the ceremony with announcing his appreciation for the large turn out. Pastor Dwayne Richardson of House of Love church in Paulding (church of the new homeowners) then prayed a blessing on the efforts that will take place on the site of the new home.

Brandy Highwarden and her children will be the new owners of house #6 which is located at the corner of Wall St. and Lincoln St. in Paulding. As per Habitat policy, Ms. Highwarden attended financial classes and will be required to provide "sweat hours" at the building site in some repayment of her new home. These houses cannot be completed without the hard work of the family plus donated materials and labor hours by the Habitat volunteer staff and assigned contractors.

Family and friends of Ms. Highwarden were in attendance along with Habitat volunteers, and the local dignitaries—Paulding mayor Greg White, councilman Roger Sierer, and PCED director Tony Langham. Homeowners from previous Habitat houses were also present for the groundbreaking—the Salinas' (house #1), Herschberger's (house #4), and Cline's (house #5).

Mary Rhoad of Haviland made a donation to Habitat for Humanity that morning as her gift to the project at hand. She expressed her view of giving back what God had graciously bestowed upon her and her late husband, Eugene Rhoad. Her donation came from the Eugene Rhoad estate and the Mary M. Rhoad

LAWN CARE: HOW TO CHOOSE THE PROPER GRASS SEED

By: Claude Schrock, Scotts STI Graduate, Grabill & Woodburn Hardware

With the weather warming up, many of you will want to buy grass seed to fill in some bare spots or to overseed thin spots in your lawn. Spring is an excellent time for applying grass seed.

The number one rule about purchasing grass seed is that no matter how it is cared for, a lawn can never be better than the seed that goes into it. Buying grass seed is like buying a car without seeing or driving it. There is nothing tangible to evaluate or compare... other than the package itself. The true quality of the product won't be visible for months, until the seed grows into a lawn.

Seed labels don't tell what the lawn will look like. Seed labels are written to meet Agricultural Regulations and are not "consumer friendly". In fact what the label "doesn't say" is more concerning than what it "does say".

A seed label tells you what seed varieties are in this package. However, it only tells you in percent, by weight, of the total package. It doesn't tell you that seed size and weight are dramatically different. For example, it takes 1,400,000 bluegrass seeds to make a pound. It takes 530,000 fine fescue seeds to make the same pound, and it takes 225,000 ryegrass or tall fescue seed to equal a pound. So the label doesn't tell you the amount of each variety you will see in

Unfortunately, the best way to determine how much of a particular seed that goes into your lawn is percentage by seed count. It is not required on a seed label and figuring this out is difficult.

Grasses like Divine Perennial Ryegrass and Abbey Kentucky Bluegrass are better than common-type grasses because they have been genetically improved. They create greener and denser lawns, they're more disease-resistant, and they're slower growing which means less mowing.

Well what about germination? A label gives you the percent of pure seed that is capable of growth in a prescribed time under laboratory conditions. It doesn't say that laboratory conditions are ideal. Seeds are placed on wet filter paper and placed in an incubator with perfect light and moisture control for as long as 28 days.

EARTH DAY LESSONS CAN APPLY TO INVES-TORS, TOO

Financial Focus by: Phil Recker, Edward Jones Advisor

April 22 is Earth Day. Started in 1970 by Senator Gaylord Nelson, Earth Day is designed to create awareness of the Earth's environment and to encourage conservation efforts. If you and your family participate in Earth Day events, such as helping clean up a local park or taking materials to a recycling center, you know the benefits of doing your part to improve your surroundings. But are you doing everything you can to upgrade your environment for investing? Actually, as an investor, you can learn a lot from the lessons of Earth Day. Here are just a few ideas:

**Diversify. If you're familiar with Earth Day, you know that it involves multiple activities, including educational programs and do-it-now action steps. This variety is necessary because protecting our environment is a complex challenge. Meeting your short- and long-term investment goals can be challenging, too, but you'll have a better chance of success by diversifying your investment dollars across a range of vehicles, such as stocks, bonds, government securities and certificates of deposit (CDs). Diversification can help reduce the impact of volatility on your portfolio — and high volatility can be an obstacle for some people trying to follow an investment strategy. (Keep in mind, though, that diversification, by itself, cannot guarantee a profit or protect against loss.)

**Seek growth opportunities. Some people plant trees on Earth Day, hoping to watch them grow over the years. As an investor, you, too, need to plant "seeds" today in the hopes of growth in the future. That means, among other things, that when you purchase growth-oriented investments for the long term, you need to try to stick with them and not "uproot" them after short-term declines in

**Develop good habits. If you attend an Earth Day program, you will learn about many eco-friendly habits you can develop, from using energy-efficient light bulbs to recycling old computers and other electronic devices. To invest successfully, it's important to develop good habits, such as staying invested in all types of markets, seeking tax-advantaged investments and reviewing your portfolio regularly to make sure it's still appropriate for your risk tolerance, time horizon and long-term objectives. **Avoid "toxins." At some

When you invest, you may also want to avoid "toxins" or at least "toxic" behaviors, such as chasing after "hot" stocks that are inappropriate for your needs or trading so frequently that you run up big fees, commissions and taxes.

**Think long term. Above all else, Earth Day is a reminder to us that we all want to leave a healthy planet to future generations — which means we need to make moves that are beneficial for the environment over the long term. When you invest, you also need to focus on the future. That means following a long-term investment strategy and not getting sidetracked by short-term events, such as political crises and economic downturns.

Earth Day comes once a year, but its lessons can have a lasting impact on our environment. When you apply these same lessons to your own investment environment, you may be able to achieve some healthy results.

AMERICA'S JUNIOR MAGIC CHAMPION BRINGS COMEDY & ILLUSION SHOW TO DEFIANCE

Teen magician and magic prodigy, Eli Portala will dazzle audiences with a combination of comedy and magic at the Defiance Community Auditorium, May 18th at 7:00 p.m. Eli will open the show producing doves from thin air and then vanishing them right back again moments later. "The birds always get a huge reaction from the kids," says Eli. "Lots of yelling—sometimes even!" That particular piece of prestidigitation has won Eli countless national and international magic titles. Other effects include Eli's modern version of Houdini's Metamorphosis and convincing audience members to take to the stage with him for hilarious impromptu dancing. At only 16 years of age, Eli is one of the fastest rising magic stars in the US. In fact, Eli will soon be seen in Italy where he has been booked on Italian TV's "The Big Illusion." Eli, along with his primary assistant Maddie Sensenstein, his mother Melissa Portala and personal tutor will be flown on an all expenses paid trip to Rome where Eli and Maddie will perform over a two week period with 30 of the world's top young magicians under 30. The show includes only four other American magicians. Eli has been wowing audiences of all ages since the tender age of six. At that point, Eli won his first national magic competition and was asked to perform for a crowd of 2000 the following day. He agreed and even earned a standing ovation. Eli has been performing in theaters across the count ever since.

Eli's show "Magic and Illusion" will benefit the Relay for Life team Fight the Fight in memory of Philip Hoffman. Advanced tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance at Key Bank, in Defiance. Show starts at 7:00 p.m. with doors opening at 6:00 p.m. Call 419-980-2971 for more information.

studied the life cycle of an eagle, did a word search and started their research on the computers about eagles.

In language arts they did a story about eagles using what they learned from the research using "Bird Tales" on the computers.

Another event to celebrate the occasion was they tried building nests-first using paper strips and then with actual twigs (which was not so easy!). To show appreciation to the "Raptor Resource Project" for sharing with the world by having a camera at the nest, the teachers had the students bring in monetary donations, which totaled $128.88! The students also wrote 'thank you' notes as part of their learning centers to thank them as well.

The day was completed when the students watched a nature video on eagles and how they make their nests and how the eaglets will grow. Everyone involved had so much fun and they learned a lot about eagles.

All year, Payne Elementary has been talking about eating healthy and being active with Fuel Up to Play 60. The staff wanted to see what the students have learned so far so the WTPE Wellness Team, led by Teresa Pfeiffer, came up with a "My Menu" activity. Head cook, Mrs. Robin Molitor, offered to give each grade a tour of the cafeteria and talked about what it takes to plan a healthy lunch for a lot of people. Then the students went back to their classrooms and brainstormed healthy lunch ideas that contained foods from all five food groups. Each grade's idea will be assigned a day in May and labeled as to whose grade came up with it. This allowed them to show the rest of the school what they have learned as well as gave them more ownership of their lunch choices. The students were very excited to be able to create their a lunch for everyone in the school to try and are looking forward to seeing their idea on the May lunch calendar.

IN ANTWERP OHIO???

On Saturday, April 14, Antwerp hosted its first nationally organized basketball event. The National Association of Youth Sports (NAYS) conducted an event hosted by the Antwerp Local Schools and the Manor House. NAYS is an organization similar to AAU or AYBT, both more commonly known in this area. With Antwerp now being able to offer three usable gymnasiums, we have become an attractive site by these national organizers to host these larger types of events. This initial event drew 12 teams from four states. Upstate Elite was a boys varsity team from Buffalo, New York. Two of their players were from Boston, Massachusetts. Other varsity teams included: West Basin Toledo Cavaliers from the Genoa area, the Akron Thunder consisted of boys from the Akron and Youngstown areas; and locally the Wauseon seniors put a team together and beat 71-49 in the championship game.

On the younger end, teams of 5th, 6th, and 7th grade girls participated from Bishop Dwenger in Fort Wayne; the Lakeland Lakers from Lagrange, IN; Angola, IN brought a team; and bracket champions were from Addison, MI. Boys 5th, 6th, and 7th grade teams included: champion Great Lakes Black from Perrysburg, Archbold; Northwest Ohio Elite from the Lima, OH area; and our host Antwerp Archers.

The event went well and local food vendors were kept busy most of the day. The line outside Subway was said to have been out the front door, down the ramp and back to the stop light at the corner. Gracious volunteers made the event work manning ticket stations, concessions, and generally helped wherever they could all day. Antwerp plans to continue to grow these local tournaments in the future.

INDIANAPOLIS 500 COM-MUNITY PARADE SET FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 2012 ON BROADWAY

Plan to come out and help New Haven celebrate the history of the Indianapolis 500 on Saturday, April 28, 2012. After a special tribute to our military, the green flag will wave and start the parade at 11:00 a.m. on Broadway and Main. The Parade will continue down Broadway and end at Schnelker Park. More events will continue in the park along with a car show until 4:00 p.m. The parade will feature classic Indy race cars, the Corvette Club, Mustang Club and other vintage vehicles. The parade will also host an Indy 500 Princess and a former Indy 500 Queen from New Haven. Come say hello to various sports mascots. The Racing Shriners are always a crowd pleaser as they show off their driving skills with their mini-Indy 500 race cars. The Shriners' Horse Patrol also plans to participate this year. Former race car driver Merle Bettenhausen will serve as the parade Grand Marshall followed by a meet and greet and autograph session. Additional activities will be held in Schnelker Park, including group contests, events for kids and booths hosting various organizations.

WHAT IS THAT PURPLE WEED?

By: Jim Lopshire, Extension Educator

As I was walking around my home last week, I noticed the usual yellow dandelion flowers in bloom and the abundant growth of purple flowers of henbit and/or purple deadnettle. These two plants are not new to the area but seem to be plentiful this spring. Henbit and purple dead-nettle are two broadleaf weeds that are commonly found in the lawn in spring. They are often confused with one another and there is a good reason for that. Both plants are in the mint family and in the same genus. Henbit and purple dead-nettle are cool-season annual weeds, which means, they start their life cycle in the fall with seed germination, flower in the spring, and start to die back as the temperatures rise in early summer. If you look and feel the stems of these weeds, you will notice that they do have a 4-sided square stem.

Another thing in common, is that both grow very low, prostrate to the ground making them harder to mow down. They also have purplish pinkish colored flowers that grow in whorls around the stem. The leaves are also oppositely arranged on the stem of both plants but that is where things start to differ between the two.

The leaves on the henbit are more rounded in shape and have a serrated edge to them. The leaves on the henbit plant do not have a petiole or stem attaching the leaves to the main stem of the plant. If you look at the purple deadnettle plant, it also has an opposite leaf arrangement, but the leaves have a pointed tip and they also have a small stem that attaches the leaf to the main stem.

From an agricultural standpoint, these two plants have significant consequence in soybean fields. They are both strong hosts to the Soybean Cyst Nematode, and heavy infestations tend to occur in crop fields where these weeds have been allowed to grow.

Control in the home landscape is a matter of preference. Pre-emergent products should be applied in the fall after these annual weeds have gone to seed. Handpulling and mulching is the best method for eradication in controlled landscape beds. Regular mowing through the season will control these weeds in turi grass.

A chemical control may still be necessary to further reduce a henbit and purple deadnettle population in the lawn. A three-way herbicide containing the active ingredients 2,4-D, dicamba, and mecoprop (MCPP) is recommended. Herbicides should be carefully chosen according to turf species and all label instructions followed. Chemical controls for henbit and purple deadnettle should be applied in fall or early spring for best results. Keep in mind that herbicide effectiveness is reduced as weeds mature.

If you have any questions on the lawn care, contact the Paulding County Extension office at 419.399.8225 for more information.

By: Sue Knapp

Same Name, New Owners'—that is the theme of the Past Time Cafe. Mike Iler along with wife, Marcy, always wanted to own a restaurant. When Past Time Cafe came up for sale the Iler's jumped on their chance. The smoke damage from the Barnes Hotel did not stop this couple from having their dream.

Mike and Marcy have replaced the ceiling tiles, waxed and stripped the floors and washed everything down. It took more than one washing down to get rid of the smoke smell caused by the fire.

The Iler's have kept the historical décor with a few additions from their own collection. You will see old license plates of the area, street signs, pictures and memorabilia. Be sure and look at the napkin holders!

Mike worked at Spec Temp for many years and Marcy works at St. Joe Hospital in Fort Wayne on weekends.

Mike will be on hand at the cafe and Marcy will be there during the week.

The menu will have a few changes, though the 'famous sausage sandwich' will still be available. Mike commented, 'You are invited to come in and visit with us. We will provide good home cooked meals in a timely manner." A special will be provided on Opening

Mike and Marcy are lifelong Paulding residents. They have four daughters: Macy, Morgan, Miranda and Molly. They are members of Divine Mercy Parish and the John Paulding Historical Society.

Opening Saturday, April 28th, Part Time Cafe hours will be 6:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 6:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. Saturday, closed Sunday. Carry-out is also available. Their phone is 419-399-2720, and the location is 107 W. Perry St. in Paulding.

RECIPES FROM A GREAT-GRANDMA

By: Sue Knapp

Who doesn't like chocolate, coffee and sugar? This combination is really good when you need a pick me up or just... something. Sometimes you just have to give into the urge.

This recipe was handed to me by Angel Steiner. She thought they sounded good as part of a breakfast. Sounds good to me!

Coffee Walnut Chocolate Chip Muffins ½ c butter

½ c brown sugar

½ cup white sugar

3 T instant coffee 2 tsp vanilla extract

2 eggs

3/2 c milk 1¾ c flour

½ tsp salt

1 T baking powder 34 c chocolate chips

1½ c chopped walnuts 1. Preheat oven to 350 and grease/flour a 12-muffin tin.

2. Cream butter with sugars, coffee and vanilla. 3. Beat together eggs and milk. Combine flour, salt and baking powder. Alternately add the wet and dry ingredients to the butter mixture until just combined.

4. Add chips and walnuts. Divide among muffin tins,

6. Cool 5 minutes and then remove from tin and cool on filling until almost full. 5. Bake for 20-25 minutes.

Winning the Battle for a Generation column by: Rick Jones, Defiance Area

Various news outlets have been reporting on a disturbing trend among teenage and even preteen girls: "Am I Pretty or Ugly?" videos.

The young girls are posting short video clips on Youtube and then asking people, "Am I pretty or ugly?"

One such clip had over 4.5 million hits and 114,000 comments (and those hits and comments are growing every day). The responses ranged from "U have nothing to worry about" to harsh and degrading comments.

In an insightful blog post, Sharon Hode Miller writes, "As I watched these videos, I wanted to reach through the screen and hug their tiny Miller claims that many women in our culture struggle with the same "Am I pretty or ugly?" question. So Miller urges women to remember that their real beauty is fixed and unchangeable in Christ.

"The end goal," she writes, is the 'blessed self-forgetfulness' that Tim Keller describes—a forgetfulness that frees us from fussing over ourselves so that we can worship and serve God."

Additionally regarding beauty, the scriptures speak volumes about our dignity and self-worth as matters settled long ago by the living God... Psalm 139:13-14 (NIV), "For you created my inmost being; you knit me together in my mother's womb. I praise you because I am fearfully and wonderfully made; your works are wonderful, I know that full well."

These teachers from the New Haven area of East Allen County Schools have recently been named 2012 Teachers of

Kim Faley

Kim Faley, Highland Terrace Elementary – "My favorite teaching moment is watching a struggling student at the beginning of the year becomes proficient by the end of the year. I enjoy seeing that sense of accomplishment and pride in those children. Mrs. Faley has been teaching second grade with EACS for 10

Gretchen Grau

Gretchen Grau, New Haven Middle School – "My favorite teaching moment is when students come back and tell me what they have learned in my classroom that has benefited them somewhere else in their life." Ms. Grau has been teaching Math and Science for 19 years, 14 of those years with EACS.

Lindsey Franz

Lindsey Franz, Meadowbrook Elementary - "I love that I have my students for two or three years. This way I get to watch them grow and mature over time. The best part of my job is seeing a student really grasp a skill or concept after months of working on it. I like helping them gain that sense of pride!" Ms. Franz has been teaching with EACS for seven years.

Becky Moening

Becky Moening, New Haven High School - "I love the interaction with students. I love how everyday is different. I love how students tell me they hate math but love my class and they work so hard to succeed. I love making a difference in the lives of students!" Ms. Moening teaches mathematics and has been with EACS for eight years.

LOCAL BUSINESS PITCHES IN FOR SPRING CLEANING ON INDIANA HIGHWAY THIS WEEKEND

Throughout Indiana this April, volunteers are strapping on safety vests and getting their hands dirty. They are picking up trash along state roads and U.S. highways as part of Trash Bash - the month-long kickoff for the Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) Adopt-A-Highway program. Saturday, April 14, at 9:00 a.m., volunteers from Target Fort Wayne NE did their part by cleaning the state's rightof-way along SR 37, from I-469 to Black Road.

In 2011, more than 1,500 Adopt-A-Highway volunteers worked more than 4,500 hours to help collect more than 11,000 bags of trash from 796 miles of state road and highway rights-of-way.

Everyone is encouraged to clean up and prevent litter on Indiana's highways:

—Don't litter: Set a good example for everyone, especially children. Be responsible: Carry a trash bag in your car instead of tossing trash out the win-

—Report it: Report areas where people have illegally dumped garbage.

Adopt it: If you are involved in a civic group, scouting organization or sports program, encourage the groups to adopt-a-highway. Visit http://www.in.gov/indot/2598.htm for details or contact the Fort Wayne District toll-free at 866-227-3555.

ODOT KICKS OFF BUSY 2012 CONSTRUCTION SEASON

Department Ohio Transportation (ODOT) Director Jerry Wray today officially launched the 2012 road construction season and announced approximately 800 transportation preservation projects throughout the Buckeye State. Total cost: $1.8 billion. However, the state still needs more than $1.6 billion to finish additional phases of 35 major new expansion projects in communities throughout Ohio.

'We sometimes forget how a well-maintained transportation system supports the state's overall economy," Wray said. "With more than $438 billion in goods shipped annually by trucks – the third largest of any state - a reliable transportation system is not only the lifeblood of Ohio businesses but also the catalyst for future expansion and job creation."

The 800 preservation projects include resurfacing 3,700 miles of interstate and state routes as well as repairs, upgrades, improvements and maintenance to hundreds of bridges, culverts, guardrails, interchanges and hillsides. Currently, ODOT maintains and preserves nearly 50,000 lane miles of interstates and highways - enough to make two trips around Earth.

Within the local area of ODOT District 1, a total of 32 projects totaling more than $39 million will be constructed this season. ODOT District 1 is responsible for state highways in Allen, Defiance, Hancock, Hardin, Paulding, Putnam, Van Wert and Wyandot counties.

Headlining the local construction program is the first phase of the reconstruction of Interstate 75 through Lima and Allen County. Phase 1, which began in February, will replace the Fourth Street and Reservoir Road bridges over Interstate 75 in Lima. Work on the mainline of I-75 will not begin until next year. In addition, the resurfacing of approximately six miles of U.S. 30 in Allen County from Ohio 65 to Napoleon Road, and the resurfacing of approximately three miles of Interstate 75 in Hancock County from County Road 99 to County Road 109 will also take place. ODOT is funded by state and federal motor fuel taxes. The agency's first priority is the preservation and maintenance of its current transportation system. Any money left over goes toward constructing major new transportation projects approved by the state's Transportation Review and Advisory Council (TRAC), a bi-partisan group responsible for approving funding for the State's largest transportation projects.

In January, ODOT announced a $1.6 billion shortfall needed to complete future phases of 35 major new expansion projects through 2018. However, ODOT anticipates having only $100 million per year to spend on new construction after all preservation needs are met. In 2011, the TRAC received 72 applications for new transportation projects totaling an additional $10 billion.

PH: 419-258-2000 • 260-246-8843 • info@westbendnews.net

Since then, the agency has announced plans to seek innovative and alternative funding sources to help ease the financial crunch. On top of reducing agency costs and improving efficiency, ODOT plans to pursue the commercialization of non-interstate rest areas and seek sponsorship and naming rights for certain infrastructure projects saving $100 to 200 million annually. Billions more could be generated or saved by leveraging state-owned assets - like the Ohio Turnpike and exploring public, private partnerships.
