Congressman Bob Latta (R-Bowling Green) voted in favor of H.R. 1406, the Working Families Flexibility Act of 2013, a bill to provide employees with more flexibility in the workplace by providing them with the ability to choose between overtime pay or comp time.

"This legislation updates our outdated laws to create a fairer standard that offers private sector employees with the same options that are granted to public sector employees," said Latta. "Let's get Washington out of the way of working families who are trying to achieve a worklife balance and give them the flexibility to put their family

Congress updated the Fair Labor Standards Act in 1985, allowing public sector employers to offer their employees the choice between paid time off as compensation for working overtime; however, this law was not extended to private sector employees and under current law such practice is prohibited.

SWEETWATER CHOPHOUSE RECEIVES TURKEY ON THE MENU AWARD

Chophouse Sweetwater and Chef Aaron Weible have been honored with the 2013 Turkey on the Menu (T.O.M.) Award. The award, presented by the National Turkey Federation (NTF), recognizes Sweetwater Chophouse for their innovative use of turkey as a full-service restaurant. Their use of turkey meat in appetizers, entrees and sandwiches stands out as one of the most creative in the coun-

"The T.O.M. awards truly illustrate how diverse food service establishments are embracing turkey," said NTF president Joel Brandenberger. 'Its versatility and great taste have empowered chefs to use turkey in so many interesting and truly creative ways. The T.O.M. award honors these innovators, and gives them industry-wide recognition they so deserve."

Weible and Sweetwater Chophouse, located at Eagle Rock Golf Club, have been serving up a variety of unique and delicious turkey products since opening in the summer of 2011.

"I enjoy challenging myself to create unique items," said Weible. "I love to fuse different types of cuisine together to give it my own flare. It is fun to create turkey dishes that are distinctive, not your ordinary items and I'm always looking for new ways to use turkey as I create new recipes."

The Southwest Turkey Wrap and Turkey Meteor Wings are customer favorites at the restaurant, which also serves lunch every day. The latest turkey dishes to land on the Sweetwater Chophouse menu are Turkey Duet, a slow braised turkey confit with parmesan risotto and Turkey Gouda Manicotti, a fresh take on the Italian staple drenched in a roasted jalapeno cream

Weible is thrilled to have been recognized by the NTF for his culinary creativity, providing customers with lean and delicious meals. "We are very honored to have received this award," said Weible. "We truly enjoy using our passion for culinary arts to provide customers with lean and delicious turkey creations."

ANTWERP COMMUNITY BAND ANNUAL SPRING CONCERT

Ah, winter is gone at last! First Easter, then daffodils, tulips, lilac, with green reasserting itself as a vibrant, not a faded color, balmy air, showers, school vacation, graduation, weddings, all are part of the rites of spring. Another sure sign that the season has finally arrived? Antwerp Community Band's annual spring concert! All of the West Bend News' readers are invited to the concert at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, May 23, 2013, in the Auditeria at Antwerp Local School. The program will open with J.S. Bach's "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor" - you may not recognize the title, but you will know the music! Alternately ponderous and delicate, heavy-treading, then light footed, it's a real challenge for musicians. The band will then follow with Mozart's exuberant "Impresario" overture, an irrepressibly cheerful little celebration all by itself. Next up is the richly harmonic "Blessed Are They" from Johannes Brahms' "German Requiem". Closing the first half of the program will be Roland Barrett's "Ghost Dances", a more recent composition that is a musical evocation of the massacre of native Americans at Wounded Knee in 1890.

PAGE 3 - WEST BEND NEWS - MAY 15, 2013

After intermission, the community band will play Gustav Holst's three-movement "First Suite in E Flat for Military Band" and then a series of Duke Ellington favorites like "Satin Doll", "Mood Indigo", "Caravan" and "In a Sentimental Mood" as arranged by the former "Tonight Show" conductor Tommie Newsom. The concert will close with Gary Fagan's "Aquia Hills".

Please come out on Thursday evening, May 23, 2013, at 7:00 p.m. in the Auditeria for what will be an entertaining evening with something for every musical taste. There is no charge for admission.

cial self-esteem building, the

"I can do anything" spiel, or

I am a sinner. Those seem like difficult words to say in our society. It doesn't fit in with our artifithe "I am perfect the way God made me" talk. They say that the first step in Alcoholics Anonymous is the most difficult step: admitting that you are an alcoholic. But you can't progress through the other steps until you admit that first one.

Prior to having GPS, most ladies could relate to being driven around in a car in which the driver was lost, wouldn't admit it, nor would he stop to ask for directions. The first step to finding your way is to admit that you are

But we have trouble admitting our faults. For some reason, we like to pretend that we are Superman. Never wrong. Never weak. Never mistaken. Except, unlike Superman, we have no kryptonite. Or at least we like to pretend that. We might not dress up in a Superman outfit anymore. We have grown out that. But we like to dress up in pride and arrogance and pretend we're perfect.

The word "sinner" has such a bad connotation attached to it that we don't want to take that label on ourselves. But taking that bad connotation and applying it to ourselves is exactly how spiritual growth begins. Like the first step in Alcoholics Anonymous and finding your way when you are lost, the most difficult step in growing spiritually is also that first step: "I am a sinner."

This inability to acknowledge sin has permeated our culture too. We can't call anything a sin because that would be intolerant to people living in sin. We can't instruct what right living should look like because we might offend those who have chosen a different path. We are labeled as being hypocrites and judgmental when we call something a sin; attacks that discourage us from teaching the right course of action that brings freedom because that would be intolerant to those that may have chosen a different way to live.

Now, we have a few exceptions. We can call rapists or pedophiles sinners. There may be a few more actions that our society easily labels "sin." But these things that we can call sin have to be the loftiest of sins. Never mind the contradiction in the crowd that teaches tolerance turning around and being intolerant toward the things they believe are significant enough to call sin.

This shows that the real issue isn't whether we can be intolerant toward sin; it's what we think is sin. All people are intolerant toward the things that they view as sin. Some are even intolerant toward sinners. The real issue is whether we believe there is or what we believe is sin.

ing among Christians, "Hate the sin. Love the sinner." It's origin is unknown, but its meaning has roots in Scripture. Jude wrote, "But you, beloved, building yourselves up in your most holy faith and praying in the Holy Spirit, keep yourselves in the love of God, waiting for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ that leads to eternal life. And have mercy on those who doubt; save others by snatching them out of the fire; to others show mercy with fear, hating even the garment stained by the flesh." (Jude 1:20-23 ESV).

Keep yourself in God's love, but hate the garment stained by sin. Hate the sin. Love the sinner. Our natural instincts tells us to hate the sinner. We want to hate the pedophile, the rapist, and the Boston bomber. But then we are reminded, "Hate the sin. Love the sinner." And those who aren't wrestling with this don't understand hating the sin and loving the sinner. They think we are hate people because we think that something is a sin, or they think we are too loving when we choose to love those who are, from our perspective, the most disgusting.

Which leads to me. I am a sinner. I can still be loved despite my sin. For while I was a sinner, Jesus died for me. He didn't die for me because I was perfect. Actually, His death is meaningless to me if I live pretending that I am perfect. He died for me because He loved me. And He didn't just die for me; He died for all of us. So that in Him, we can move beyond the mistakes (sin) we have made into the life that He has called us

On the other side of that first step, when we stop to ask for directions, is the destination we were made to head toward. Don't believe in a lie that keeps you remaining lost. You aren't perfect. You aren't the best person in the world. You aren't God's gift to humanity. You are a sinner, like me and everyone else, in need of grace and a change in direction toward the path that God designed us for.

WHAT KIND OF A SON OR DAUGHTER HAVE YOU BEEN TO YOUR MOTHER?

Winning the Battle for a Generation column by: Rick Jones, Defiance Area

I read this week about two children who ordered their mother to stay in bed one Mother's Day morning. As she lay there looking forward to breakfast in bed, the smell of bacon floated up from the kitchen. After a good long wait, she finally went downstairs to investigate. She found them both sitting at the table eating bacon and eggs.

'It's a surprise for Mother's Day," one explained, "we decided to cook our own breakfast."

What kind of a son or daughter have you been to your mother?

My mother and I didn't always get along when I was young. Maybe it was a personality conflict, maybe it was because I brought back sad and what must have been difficult memories. There had been the death of an older sibling, a catatonic breakdown that led to my mom being institutionalized, or maybe it was the fact that she gave birth to me in that hospital's psychiatric ward. Whatever led to our battles, the exchange of hateful, regretful words and other stuff, I never knew what it meant to love and honor my mother until the day Jesus Christ came into my life. I came to love my mother, to respect her, her courageous decision as a very young mother to leave her home, her native Canada to raise her family in the United States. Well into college I made efforts to learn to love her, to pray for her and above all, to ask Jesus to help me be the son that I never was but should have been. Though I should have and could have been more of an example, when I became a Christian, I prayed for my mother and when I learned of her death I buried my face in my wife's arms and I wept and wept.

My bed became the altar for my tears and the Lord gave me the courage and joy to do one more for my mom though she had passed on. God put a message in my heart and at the request of my mother before she died, I preached her

This Mother's Day I beg you to recall with me the scriptures admonition to children, Ephesians 6:1-3 (NIV), "Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. 'Honor your father and mother'-which is the first commandment with a promise—'that it may go well with you and that you may enjoy long life on the earth.

2nd ANNUAL PLANT EX-CHANGE

We are at it again! Come bring your surplus perennial plants to the Antwerp Community Church (704 S. Erie St.) parking lot on Saturday, May 18th from 9:00-10:00 a.m. No cost. Bring up to five perennial plants and hopefully go home with new plants. If you bring three, you go home with three. As you are weeding/pruning/thinning consider exchanging with other gardeners. It will only take about an hour of your busy Saturday. Bring your excess plants in any pot, box, carton, or even bags. If you can label them, that would be great. We will sort by plant type: herbs, grasses, bulbs, ground cover, etc. If you have any questions, call Jeanie at 419-786-9044.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Paulding High School Junior Class would like to recognize Mr. Shawn Gerber and Mrs. Sandy Dobbelaere for their role of being our prom advisors. They both have gone above and beyond what was expected. They have spent countless hours organizing and decorating for prom. Mr. Gerber was our fundraising guru. Without him we would not have had enough money to buy the decorating supplies and our prom would have been super unorganized. Mrs. Dobbelaere was our art genius. She can create anything with cardboard, paint, and glue. We came in on Saturdays and after school to make all of our decorations. The Junior Class appreciates everything that they both have done for us. They helped us raise money even when we had to set up at cold, rainy football games. Without their help our prom would not have been as awesome and successful as it was. We will all remember our prom as the best prom ever and we couldn't have done it without them.

PAULDING CHAMBER ANSWERS CONCERNS OVER RUNNING FLAT ROCK CREEK FESTIVAL IN 2013

The Paulding Chamber of Commerce will be running the Flat Rock Creek Festival September 20-22. Founders of the fall festival Bill and Patty Vance are stepping down after 21 years of service to our county. Executive Director of the Paulding Chamber, Erika Willitzer says it's hard to measure up what the Vance's have accomplished for our county. Countless non-profit groups have reaped the benefits of the well-attended festival by selling food or other goods. In return, those groups use the funds for their specific causes. It's truly amazing and admirable what they have done for our rural community, added Willitzer.

The Paulding Chamber of Commerce Board understands that residents might have reservations over another group administering the festival, but we want the public to know that we're not taking this new role lightly and we intend to run it with the same integrity the Vance's have done for so many years.

One of the toughest hurdles the festival has to face is financial. While many might perceive this fall festival

as having an abundance of funds, the fact is the festival takes a lot of money to put on each year. Just last year the festival had expenses of roughly $56,000. One expense example is the horse pulls. They cost anywhere from $7,000 to $10,000 each year. Meanwhile, the festival only has around $28,000.00 currently in its bank account for operational costs. The festival depends on gate and vendor fees each year to cover the rest of the expenses. If a rainout or low attendance occurs this could be detrimental to the festival continuing for years to come.

The Chamber Board is aiming to make the festival financially sound and we're working hard at this because we know how much it truly means to people. "It's more than a festival, it's a place where families reunite and old friends catch up on old times. It's a reflection of the past and a renewed spirit for the future," said Willitzer.

In order to cover expenses, the Paulding Chamber Board has decided to ask for corporate sponsorships, raise camping fees, and ask that flea & craft vendors pay an electric fee for the entire weekend. All other vendor fees will remain the same. Every food vendor will be treated equally and will pay 10 % of their net profits and that contribution to the festival is the same as last year. We're hoping by making small changes, we'll be able to cover the cost and have an operational budget that covers all of expenses in

So what will you find when you attend the Flat Rock Creek Festival this year? You'll be getting the same spirited experience, you've grown to love over the years. All the entertainment has been booked and your favorites will be returning. "Spike and Bulldogs", Spittin Image, Stockdale Band and more will all be back to set the mood at the festival, and when it comes to exhibitors, the tractor pulls and horse pulls are also confirmed to attend. The Paulding Chamber Board encourages questions and you can always contact Executive Director, Erika Willitzer via email: Paulding-Chamber@Gmail.com. The Chamber Board looks forward to taking on the festival and we hope the public understands that this is our first year managing the festival, so a little patience and understanding would be greatly appreciated by all the vendors, campers, and attendees that have made Flat Rock Creek Festival a tradition for years.

ODNR ANTICIPATES GOOD FISHING AT LAKE ERIE IN 2013

Lake Erie anglers should enjoy diverse fishing opportunities in 2013, according to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR). "When you consider the mix of species and sizes that are seasonally available to Ohio anglers, we are optimistic about the fishing prospects this year," said Jeff Tyson, Lake Erie fisheries program manager for the ODNR Division of Wildlife. 'Weather is always a wild card at Lake Erie, but if conditions are similar to those in 2012, anglers should have excellent seasonal opportunities this year to catch

walleye, yellow perch, smallmouth bass, white bass and steelhead."

Lake Erie walleye and yellow perch fisheries are managed through an interagency quota system that involves Ontario, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio jurisdictions. Each jurisdiction regulates their catches to comply with quotas and minimize the risk of overfishing these species. Quotas for the upcoming fishing season are determined through consensus agreement by these jurisdictions through the Lake Erie Committee of the Great Lakes Fishery Commission, which were recently announced for 2013. The walleye daily bag limit is four, and the yellow perch daily bag limit is 30 per angler in Ohio waters until April 30. The daily bag limit will be six walleye from May 1 through February 28, 2014. From March 1, 2014, through April 30, 2014, the daily walleye bag limit will be four. A 15-inch minimum size limit is in effect during the entire season for walleye. The yellow perch daily bag limit is 30 from May 1 through April 30, 2014, with no minimum size limit.

Walleye:

Ohio walleye anglers in 2013 will catch fish mostly from the 2010, 2009, 2007 and 2003 hatches. Walleye from the 2011 hatch continue to show good growth based on 2012 fall surveys and many individuals will be near or over the 15-inch minimum size limit during the 2013 fishing season. Walleye from the moderate 2010 hatch will range from 17-22 inches, while walleye from the 2007 hatch will range from 18-25 inches. The 2003 and 2007 hatches are likely to carry most of the Central Basin fisheries. These walleye will complement the larger 22- to 30-inch fish from the strong 2003 hatch. Large walleye from strong hatches in the mid-1990s will provide "Fish Ohio" opportunities (greater than 28 inches).

Yellow Perch:

Expect good perch fishing in 2013, with the largest fish in the eastern areas of the Central Basin. Perch anglers should encounter fish ranging from 7- to 13-inches from the 2011 through 2007 hatches in this year's fishery, with major contributions from the 2007 and 2008 year classes. Fish from the large 2003 year class are still present, particularly in the central basin, and will provide some of this year's trophy perch opportunities.

Smallmouth Bass:

Smallmouth bass fishing in 2013 is expected to be fair. Bass catch rates in 2012 were the highest observed since the mid-1990s. Smallmouth bass caught should be excellent size (14 to 22 inches, weighing up to 6 pounds). Bass fishing is best in areas with good bottom structure, which is the available habitat across much of the entire Ohio near shore area. All black bass (smallmouth and largemouth) must be immediately released from May 1 - June 28. Beginning June 29, the daily bag limit for bass is five, with a 14-inch minimum length limit.

Steelhead:

Steelhead anglers should enjoy another year of great fishing in 2013 in Ohio's Lake Erie open waters and in tributaries. Peak summer steelhead action on Lake Erie can be found offshore from June through August between Vermilion and Conneaut, with catches measuring 17 to 29 inches. Most Lake Erie anglers troll for steelhead in deep waters using spoons with dipsy divers or downriggers until fish move close to shore in the fall. The daily bag limit remains at five fish per angler from May 16-Aug. 31, and two fish per angler between September 1 and May 15, 2014. A 12-inch minimum size limit is in effect throughout the year.

White Bass:

White bass continue to provide excellent seasonal fishing opportunities in the Maumee and Sandusky rivers and in the open lake. The 2013 catch will be dominated by fish from the 2010 and 2011 year classes. Fish from 2005 could be as large as 16 inches. Anglers should focus on major Western Basin tributaries during May and June and near shore areas of the open lake during the summer. There is no white bass daily bag limit or size limit.

Other Species:

Largemouth bass fishing efforts and catch rates have increased significantly. Bays, harbors and main lake shorelines offer excellent fishing for panfish, as well as largemouth bass. Anglers may also catch an occasional northern pike or muskellunge in vegetated areas.

Anglers are reminded that fishing conditions on Lake Erie can change hourly and adjustments are often necessary to improve success. Anglers should take into account factors such as water temperature, cloud cover, water clarity, boat traffic, wave action, structure, currents and the amount of baitfish in the area. Anglers are also reminded to carefully monitor Lake Erie weather and to seek safe harbor before storms approach.

Updated Lake Erie fishing reports are available at wildohio.com or by calling 888-HOOKFISH (888-466-5347). Information is available from ODNR Division of Wildlife staff from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at the Fairport Harbor station (440-352-4199) for the Central Basin and at the Sandusky station (419-625-8062) for the Western Basin.

OLD DAN & I CHAPTER 36: THE 589th FIGHTER SQUAD-RON AT ZAMBOANGA

By: Stan Jordan

We are here at Zamboanga. This is a state in the Philippines. I know there are a couple of states, one of them Pampanga. We are stationed here now. We arrived a couple days ago. We had to clean out parking areas for our trucks and planes. This is a small jungle with a small landing strip. We are on one of the Philippine Islands that is also a state. We are about 300 kilometers south of Manila. The fighting in the jungle and water is between us and Manila. The heat is terrific. Just a little manual labor and you're sweating badly. We used bolo knives to clear out our parking area. We left on dawn patrol this morning and flew up almost to Manila familiarizing ourselves with the area. We didn't see any Japanese airplanes at all. We used up all of our rockets and 40mm shells on various ground targets. We returned to our airfield and refueled.

Then this afternoon we were scrambled and a bunch of Kamikaze Zeros was coming down the slot. We met them about 5,000 feet above Mindoro. The zeros meant to get through to our Navy but we meant to stop them. It was quite a battle for quite a few minutes. They were determined to hit the ships of some type. We could see a couple ships were burning but we were also doing a good job on the Zeros but not good

I'll bet this went on for a good 35-40 minutes. The Japs either completed their journey or we shot them down. We could not get them all.

Gen. Norm had been with Col. Chamberlain and flew the 'heavy water' to New Mexico. That whole deal was so hush-hush that the Gen. and the Col. Hardly left the airplane in New Mexico. After they landed the plane a work crew came took the canisters, waived goodbye and left. After we signed the papers we left.

In our big C-54 we were told to go to San Francisco and pick up mail for the APO's. We felt like we were on a mission because the plane was loaded with mail bags for the boys. I don't think any of our boys got mail because we haven't been here long enough yet for our mail to reach us. When our mail plane landed back at Laytee Gulf we were immediate heros.

We were on dawn patrol this morning and we shot up a few buildings south of Manila. That whole area there is lots of heavy fighting. The Japanese show a lot of resistance. The American boys have been fighting at the federal prison for days now.

After chow we came back to our tents and we rigged up some tables and played a lot of euchre. Gen. Norm said, "Boys, we can rest a couple of days, we don't have any hushhush stuff going on."

224 sightings reported were confirmed by ODNR Division of Wildlife personnel.

The number of total sightings in 2012 increased from 152 in 2011. Five black bears accounted for 62 sightings in 2012, although a majority of these were unconfirmed. The number of confirmed sightings is similar to recent years; 60 were confirmed in 2011 and 64 in 2010. Twenty-one counties had confirmed sightings in 2012 from an estimated 35 bears. Northeast Ohio had the most sightings: Portage County had the most total sightings (36) and Trumbull County had the highest confirmed sightings (10). Portage County had six confirmed sightings, while Ashtabula, Geauga and Mahoning counties had five There were 39 nuisance reports in 2012, and 17 were confirmed. Nuisance or destructive behavior includes damage to bird feeders, beehives and garbage containers.

Black bears were sighted during every month of 2012, and 80 percent of the sightings were reported from May to September. Three sightings of a sow with cubs were unconfirmed, and two sightings of lone cubs were also unconfirmed.

The black bear is native to Ohio and on the state's endangered species list. All black bears in Ohio are protected by state law.

Black bears are usually fearful of people. Bears do not attack or kill children or pets as long as the bear is given its space and not cornered. Enjoy bears from a distance. People should remain calm if they see a bear, and they should not approach it. SIGN-UP BEGINS MAY 13 FOR CRP PHEASANT PRAC-TICE IN OHIO

Steve Maurer, the Ohio Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director, announced today landowners and operators in designated geographical areas throughout Ohio will have the opportunity to offer cropland for enrollment in a Continuous Conservation Reserve Program pheasant practice entitled State Acres for Wildlife Enhancement (SAFE), also known as CP38E-4D. Pheasant SAFE utilizes a wildlife management practice specifically developed by conservation organizations and agencies located within Ohio to establish and restore habitats to support declining populations of game bird species. The program specifically targets declining pheasant and quail populations in areas of greatest impact. Offers for enrollment in Pheasant SAFE practices may be made at any of the above FSA county offices in which the land is located. Offers are automatically accepted provided the land and producer meet certain eligibility requirements. Offers under this practice are not subject to competitive bidding; however, Ohio is limited to enrollment up to 28,700 acres on a first come, first served basis. The applicant may elect a contract period between 10-15 years. Pheasant SAFE allows for enrollment of whole fields.

Typically CP38E-4D practices receive a Signing Incentive Payment equal to $100 per acre, 50% cost share assistance for eligible practice establishment costs, a Practice Incentive Payment equal to about 40% of eligible establishment costs, and annual rental payments. Annual rental payments are calculated using soil rental rates, which are similar to cash rent rates.

Technical assistance will be provided by Federal, State and private professionals to help participants select proper seed species, locate practice areas, and establish and manage the practice cover. Seed mixes for the practice cover will be specifically designed to attract and benefit pheasants and other grassland species.

For more information on Ohio's Pheasant SAFE project, visit your local FSA county office or go online to read the factsheet at: www.fsa.usda.

Ohio State Senator Cliff Hite (R-Findlay) hailed a new survey on state business climates by Chief Executive Magazine as further evidence that Ohio's economy is back on track as a result of the progrowth strategies created in the Statehouse over the past

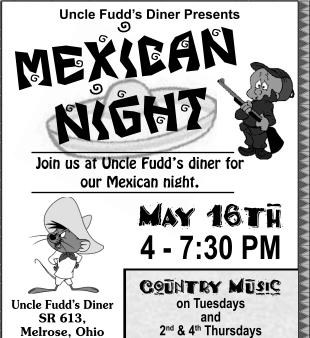

Chief Executive Magazine annually surveys U.S. CEOs to determine the most business-friendly states. In 2013, Ohio advanced 13 points to 22nd place, up from 35th in 2012. Ohio's improvement was better than any other state in the union.

"I am excited to see the vast improvement in Ohio and we will continue to keep working until we put Ohio on the top of the list," said Hite.

In 2011, Ohio balanced an $8 billion budget deficit without raising taxes, eliminated the death (estate) tax, reduced income taxes by $400 million, and performed an audit of all state agencies in an effort to eliminate waste. As a result of Ohio's Common Sense Initiative, the state has drastically reduced regulation submissions, creating a healthier environment for Ohio's businesses who act as the driving force for job creation.

A New Haven police officer is credited with saving a young boy from a burning second floor apartment early Friday morning.

Sergeant Brent Bolinger was the first emergency responder at the Cameron Court Apartments on Seiler Road around 2:30 Friday morning.

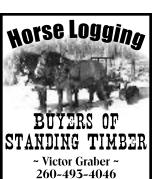

Bolinger told NewsChannel 15 he was aware two people trapped in the back room of a burning apartment. Bolinger said flames were shooting out the front window so he raced around back.

"I had the woman lower the young boy to me," Bolinger said. "I was able to grab him and remove him from the building.'

Firefighters were just arriving as Bolinger pulled the boy to safety. Crews put a ladder to the window and were able to rescue the woman before flames reached the room.

Neither the woman or the boy were injured.

New Haven Adams Township firefighters quickly put water on the fire and were

VETERANS TO RECEIVE FI-NANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

Senate Enrolled Act (SEA) 177, legislation expanding in-state college tuition opportunities for veterans, was signed today by Gov. Mike Pence at Indiana University-Purdue University Fort Wayne. Members of the Indiana General Assembly were in attendance including State Representatives Bob Morris (R-Fort Wayne), David Ober (R-Albion), Phyllis Pond (R-New Haven), Dennis Zent (R-Angola), and Martin Carbaugh (R-Fort Wayne). "As a veteran, I understand how difficult it can be to return to the workforce or continue education after finishing time in the service," said Rep. Zent. "This bill will make it easier for veterans to continue their education. As a society, we owe it to these men and women who have sacrificed so much for our freedom.

The bill allows honorably discharged veterans and active National Guard members to receive in-state tuition if they enroll in a state college within a year of moving to Indiana. Veterans wishing to apply must enroll in a state college no later than 12 months after they are discharged from the military. Additionally, they will have to establish state residency within their first year.

"Our veterans deserve the highest amounts of respect for their dedication and sacrifice to our country," said Rep. Carbaugh. "Allowing them in-state tuition for higher education is a small way to say thank you and to assist them during the next stage of their

I am determined to continue to support ways to assist these brave men and women find employment opportunities and high-quality jobs through furthering their education," said Rep. Morris.

Currently, there is no law qualifying veterans to receive in-state tuition if they move out of state or are stationed overseas, and this bill will expand opportunities for them to access a more affordable college degree.

There are countless instances over the years in which the Guard has been called to assist Hoosiers in a time of need. We have seen communities reunited following the destruction from tornadoes or flooding, and we have the Indiana National Guard to thank for that," said Rep. David Ober. "Our continued well-being and safety is reliant on the brave men and women in uniform who protect our freedoms on a daily basis. This legislation is just one way to help them following their service." "The countless men and women who serve our country make so many sacrifices to defend our inalienable rights," said Rep. Pond. "This piece of legislation is a small token of our appreciation to their dedication.' SEA 177 was sponsored by Rep. Jim Baird (R-Greencastle) in the House and cosponsored by Rep. Dennis Zent (R-Angola), Rep. Gail Riecken (D-Evansville) and Rep. Justin Moed (D-India-"Indiana is committed to

COMMUNITY REINVEST-MENT AREAS

Community Reinvestment Areas (CRA's) are geographic areas that provide for Real Estate Tax Abatements with each CRA having its own boundaries and guidelines.

CRA tax abatements are for new real estate taxes that are generated by new investments of real property for retail, residential and industrial property, similar to real estate tax abatements on Enterprise Zone Agreements. The CRA agreements must be approved before construction begins and may offer up to a 100% tax abatement for up to 15 years on new real estate taxes with a Compensation Agreement attachment.

Paulding County Economic Development, Inc. (PCED) administers the CRA agreements, maintains records for the County and sends reports to the State of Ohio.

The PCED office has tabulated data over the years on Community Reinvestment Area Agreements made in the Paulding County from reports sent annually to the Ohio Department of Development, now known as Jobs Ohio. Over the years, we have written 92 CRA Agreements in Community Reinvestment Areas in Paulding County. The total monies invested as itemized in these 92 agreements by new business and/or expansions totals $6,591,219.00.

Paulding County Economic Development is the office responsible for economic development programs for businesses in Paulding County. Our goal for the community is to not only provide tax abatement for new businesses. but also for expansions of existing businesses. If tax abatements didn't exist in Paulding County, businesses would locate where there are incentives. Economic development is a very competitive business. EACS BOARD APPROVES $95,000

Questions about the liability for and process used to bring what is called a "change order" to a renovation of Woodlan schools collided with real-world timeline pressures at the East Allen County Schools board meeting Tuesday evening.

The board, by a 4-3 vote, passed a measure that would see nearly one-fourth of its approximately $430,000 fund for change orders for the conversion to a K-12 school of the site that currently houses Woodlan Junior-Senior High School and Woodlan Intermediate School — in essence, money used to pay for work not initially covered in a construction bid — spent on removing up to 18 inches of soil that has been deemed unsuitable due to moisture content in the main parking lot and building pad areas.

At issue, brought forth during the discussion of the agenda item, was exactly who was responsible for the soil's condition — was it pre-existing? Did permitting delays impact the amount of moisture in the soil? Was the soil tested properly before the construction bid was finalized? Which of those conditions, if any, should EACS be

The answers to those types of questions aren't trivial, considering the change order approval is expected to cost $95,000 — with the renovation project not even truly started and with all involved fully aware that, like any other large-scale construction project, concerns will likely arise that would prompt EACS to use more of the $430,000 allotted for changes.

Under questioning from the board, Kirby Stahly, EACS' business manager, could not say that a delay in the vote, even for two weeks at the next scheduled board meeting, would not cause a significant disruption to a rigid work schedule that has Woodlan's renovation being finished for the 2014 school year — which meant that the agenda item would be voted

SPRING FROST FREE DATE

By: Jim Lopshire, PC Extension Educator

Frost-free days are your gardening window of opportunity. Plants have time to mature, blooms to form and fruit or vegetables to ripen.

Frost free dates are based on historical data compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture, and should be used as a reference. Frost occurs when water vapor freezes on a surface when the temperature reaches 32 degrees Fahrenheit or below. It usually occurs on a clear night when heat radiates up from the ground. Tiny ice crystals form when water vapor condenses. Similar to dew, the temperature at ground level is the key. The temperature there is often colder than the air temperature just a few feet higher. Tender plants need to be covered for protection from frost.

Freeze involves a 32 degree Fahrenheit surface temperature that lasts for a significant length of time. Frost is not necessarily present. Vegetation damage is usually a result. A hard freeze is usually defined as 25 degrees Fahrenheit or below. The term killing freeze or frost depends upon the hardiness of the plant and the level of exposure.

Although 32 degrees Fahrenheit is used to identify frost, visible frost can be seen on the ground and on objects when the reported temperatures are slightly above 32 degrees Fahrenheit. On calm, clear nights, the cold, dense air collects near the ground. Under these conditions, the temperature near the ground can be a few degrees cooler than at the 5-foot height of the official National Weather Service temperature sensors. Open, grassy areas are usually the first to experience frost, while areas under trees are more protected. Homeowners can protect plants by covering them when a frost is expected. Plants near heated buildings sometimes are spared too. Because of the abundance of warm buildings and trees, we often see frost in the countryside but not in The safe planting date can vary from one location to another based on the microclimatic effects of urban areas, natural terrain, moisture, sunlight, and wind exposure. Also note the current weather conditions and projections as well as your site's conditions to determine the correct planting date for a specific crop and variety.

The spring safe planting date for our area, based on the average date of the last normal freeze in the spring is May 20 which has a 10 percent chance of frost occurring. According to the Ohio Agronomy Guide, May 10 is the spring date with less than a 50% chance of having temperatures of 32 degrees or lower for our area. With this in mind, enjoy a bountiful growing season!

INDOT TO HOLD PUBLIC HEARING

The Indiana Department of Transportation will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, May 22, 2013, at 6:00 p.m. in the Park Hill Learning Center Auditorium, 1000 Prospect Avenue, New Haven, Indiana 46774. The purpose of the public hearing is to offer all interested persons an opportunity to comment on current design plans for the proposed State Road (SR) 930 intersection improvement at Green Street located in New Haven, IN. The project proposes reconstruction of the SR 930 intersection at Green Street. A slight elevation of Green Street to the north of the intersection is intended to improve the sight distance from Green Street. The new proposed intersection will consist of one through lane in each direction with dedicated left and right turn lanes on all approaches with curb and gutter. A 5 foot sidewalk will be constructed on the west side of Green Street, both north and south of the intersection of SR 930. A closed storm sewer system would be utilized for drainage and new signals would be placed. Construction of the project will require approximately 1.8 acres of new permanent right of way. At this time, it is the intent to maintain SR 930 open to traffic during construction; however Green Street north of SR 930 will be closed for a short duration due to the change in grade, however maintenance of traffic plans are preliminary. The tentative timetables for the right of way acquisition and construction will be discussed during the formal presentation. Public statements for the record will be accepted following the presentation. All comments collected before, during and for a period of two weeks after the hearing will be evaluated and addressed in the final design study report. The preliminary plans will be available for review prior to and following the formal presentation. Conversations will not be part of the official record. With advance notice INDOT can make accommodations for persons with disabilities and persons requiring auxiliary aids for the hearing and visually impaired. In addition, accommodations for Limited English Proficiency (LEP) persons such as language translation services / interpreters can be made, with advance notice. Please contact the INDOT Office of Public Involvement at (317) 232-6601 by Monday, May 13, 2013 should accommodations be needed.

MARESTAIL CONTROL

By: Jim Lopshire, PC Extension Office

Soybean producers have a list of weeds that cause the most yield loss from competition for light, nutrients, and water. This list is a result of a fall weed survey completed by OSU Extension personnel in various counties around the state. The survey determines the weed species not controlled in an herbicide/weed management program.

In Paulding County, 90 soybean fields were surveyed in 2012 prior to harvest to determine which weed species were most often not controlled during the regular season. The top soybean weed problems identified in the survey were common ragweed, common lambsquarters, and marestail.

Marestail is quickly establishing itself as the newest weed problem in northwest Oho. In 2012, five northwest Ohio counties reported 50% or more or their fields surveyed as having large patches of eight or more plants scattered in the field.

Marestail has quickly become a problem weed because seeds only germinate on or near the soil surface. No-till soybeans planted into cornstalks without any tillage provide an ideal environment for germination and early growth. Tillage would bury the seeds and prevent germination and Young plants will remain in a low-growing rosette stage through late April, followed by stem elongation or bolting and growth to an upright mature plant. Plants that emerge the previous fall will start bolting earlier than spring-emerging plants. Pictures of marestail at various growth stages can be found at the following URL: http://www.ppws.vt.edu/ scott/weed_id/erica.htm. The control problem occurs because glyphosate is not effective on marestail plants that have already bolted and produced elongating stems higher than six inches. In addition, many marestail populations have become glyphosate resistant.

Herbicide programs must consist of a spring burndown to ensure soybean fields are free of marestail by planting time and residual pre-emergent herbicides to ensure marestail control for another six to eight weeks. Their spring burndown should be a mix of glyphosate and another herbicide to ensure that the field is free of marestail at the time of soybean planting and prevent the development of herbicide resistant weeds. The herbicide 2,4-D is probably the most effective, however, farmers are reluctant to use 2,4-D because in order to prevent crop injury they have to wait at least seven days before they can plant soybeans.

The extension publication, Control of Marestail in No-till Soybeans, provides specific information on herbicide selection, timing and rates. This fact sheet may be found at: http://agcrops.osu. edu/specialists/weeds/marestail/marestailfact09_000.pdf.

STUDY UP ON COLLEGE SAVINGS VEHICLES

Financial Focus by: Gabe Pollock, Edward Jones Advisor

Another school year is drawing to a close — so if you have young children, they're one year closer to the day when they head off to college. And both you and your children need to prepare for that day. Your kids can do so by developing good study habits. As for you, it's never too soon to start preparing for the high costs of higher education.

Just how costly is college? According to the College Board's figures for the 2012-13 academic year, the average cost for one year at an in-state four-year public school is $22,261; for a private school, the comparable expense is $43,289. And if college costs continue rising faster than the general inflation rate, these figures will increase substantially in the years ahead.

Of course, it's entirely possible that your kids will receive some scholarships or grants, which can significantly lower your out-ofpocket price tag. Nonetheless, it's probably a good idea not to count on your offspring getting a "full ride" to school — which means that you may want to start exploring college-savings vehicles.

Fortunately, you have some attractive options, one of which is a 529 plan.

When you contribute to a 529 plan, your earnings accumulate tax free, provided they are used for qualified higher education expenses. (Keep in mind, though, that 529 plan distributions not used for qualified expenses may be subject to federal and state income tax and a 10% IRS penalty.) Furthermore, your 529 plan contributions may be deductible from your state taxes. However, 529 plans vary, so be sure to check with your tax advisor regarding deductibility.

A 529 plan offers other benefits, too. For one thing, the lifetime contribution limits for 529 plans are quite generous; while these limits vary by state, some plans allow contributions well in excess of $200,000. Plus, a 529 plan is flexible: if your child, grandchild or other beneficiary decides against college or vocational school, you can transfer the unused funds to another family member, tax and penalty free. While a 529 plan may be a good choice for building resources for college, it's certainly not the only choice. For example, a Coverdell Education Savings Account, like a 529 plan, can generate tax-free earnings if the money is used for higher education expenses. However, you can typically only put in a maximum of $2,000 per USDA in a better position to carry out its mission, while implementing sequester budget reductions in a fair manner that causes as little disruption as possible.

Guest Column from Representative Tony Burkley

Legislation that passed out of the Ohio House in April helps businesses and employees manage layoffs in a way that softens the blow for everyone involved. Rather than having to face being let go, under what is called "SharedWork Ohio," a worker can remain employed and simply have some hours cut back.

The workers whose hours are cut continue to earn normal pay for regular hours, but they can collect unemployment for the hours they no longer work.

Consider the difference. Someone who is laid off loses that source of income and has to look for another job. But under a shared work system, that individual can continue to learn the skills of the job and earn a paycheck. Because the unemployment benefits are only a small part of the equation under this program, it also puts less strain on Ohio's unemployment compensation system.

SharedWork Ohio is not an attempt to somehow defeat the laws of economics. What the program does is simply provide other avenues for making decisions during difficult times. The hope is that these other avenues will help businesses weather the storm of tough economic conditions without having to resort to mass

As with many pieces of legislation, it is important that there be proper oversight so that the system is not abused. Employers who wish to participate in the program must submit a plan to the director of the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services. The plan must be proposed in lieu of layoffs and cannot be greater than the cost of a traditional layoff. In other words, employers cannot take advantage of the SharedWork Ohio program as a way to make more

But it does give businesses the opportunity to take a more moderate stance. Business owners have to make difficult decisions in order to remain competitive, but SharedWork Ohio allows those employers to take a more moderate approach when making these choices.

Twenty-five other states have already adopted shared work policies to help them deal with unemployment concerns. By becoming the 26th, I think Ohio is providing extra stability to a situation that can sometimes be very painful for families.

INDEPENDENT SURVEY RE-VEALS PAULDING-PUTNAM ELECTRIC CO-OP TO BE IN TOP TIER AMONG COM-PETITIVE POWER PROVID-ERS IN OHIO

Paulding-Putnam Electric Cooperative has earned the distinction of being one of the lowest cost providers of electricity in Ohio.

A recent independent survey of rates from all types and sizes of utilities across the state showed Paulding-Putnam to have lowest rates among electric cooperatives, in addition to having a rate structure competitive with large investor-owned power companies.

This is quite an achievement for a member-owned and non-profit electric coop, serving in mainly rural areas where households per mile of line are fewer and commercial-industrial load less than in urban areas.

In fact, the survey published April 7 by The Columbus Dispatch showed Paulding-Putnam's monthly bill for 1,000 kilowatthours (kWh) of electricity to be lower than Ohio Power Company, an American Electric Power (AEP) subsidiary with more than 600,000 consumers. The Ohio Power Company bill cited in the survey was $129.38, while Paulding-Putnam's charge for the same amount of electricity was $116.08.

According to the survey, Paulding-Putnam's 1,000kWh bill also was lowest among Ohio's 24 other electric co-ops, many of them larger and with more commercial-industrial load.

The Dispatch survey ranked power companies, municipal utilities and electric co-ops.

The range of rates showed the disparity between urban service territories, where household density is high and demand for electricity is great from businesses and industries, and rural settings, where consumers and revenue per mile of line are less and operational and maintenance overheads are higher due to distance and

For example, electric coops in Ohio serve 40 percent of the state's landmass, but average only seven members per mile of line. Investor-owned electric utilities average 31 consumers per

"Our rates our very competitive," said Paulding-Putnam Manager George Carter. "We have worked hard to hold the line and become as efficient as possible."

With 13,000 co-op members spread over 1,700 miles of line in two states - and only 38 total employees to serve them - Paulding-Putnam has proven a commitment to controlling costs and pursuing efficiency at every level. This was done without sacrificing safety or service.

'For several years, we have managed to hold the line by exploiting operational savings and implementing smart fiscal policy. The co-op's Board of ees challenged management and our employees to find ways to do more with less during a very difficult economic period," Carter said.

The national recession pinched power sales and lowered revenues - while the cost of wholesale electricity increased by an average of $20 per month due to completion of $1 billion in environmental upgrades at the power plants supplying co-ops in Ohio.

Carter said Paulding-Putnam found ways to cope without adjusting distribution rates, thereby fulfilling its commitment to the membership and community. Remaining competitive, however, means reviewing the rate structure and costs of service to keep the coop fiscally sound and able to maintain a high-level of service reliability.

"Our commitment remains unchanged. We intend to remain competitive from a rate and quality service perspective. In order to do so, some adjustment will be necessary based on detailed analyses of our current costs and strategic goals," Carter explained. 'We will continue to look out for the best interests of our members, as Paulding-Putnam has done in the past. We accomplished our purpose of wringing out all the cost savings possible. As a result, even one of the state's largest and most influential newspapers recognized our efforts," he said.

"FROM THE VANTAGE POINT": VANTAGE RAISES $2500 FOR RELAY FOR LIFE!

Vantage students walk for a cure during their own "mini-relay" on campus on Friday, May 3.

In a terrific team effort, Vantage students and staff pulled together to raise $2500 for the Van Wert County Relay for Life!

Many events and activities were held, beginning in March, to focus on raising money for a cure.

Cosmetology tors Amy Grothouse and Susie Smith teamed up with academic teachers for "Mani-Pedi" day. Students who donated to the cause were allowed to get a manicure or pedicure during their academic class. Over $1400 was raised just with this one

Then there were Friday Morning Munchies for the staff, which brought in another $200.

The "big event" was the mini-relay for life held during lab time on Friday, May 3. Each program donated $25 to be a part of the walk. Since construction is complete, a spacious area behind the building was turned into a walking track for the day. Snacks and soft drinks were sold, and students walked for 2½ hours. Again, Cosmetology students played a part in the day by selling Colors for a Cure hair extensions, raising additional money.

For every lap the students walked, they received a colored bead (representing all the different types of cancer) for their lanyard. Over 9,000 beads were handed out!

One final event, the Harlem Shake Challenge will take place over the next few days at lunchtime. Students and staff members were encouraged to put together a team and videotape their version of the Harlem Shake. Everyone will have a chance to vote for their favorite video by donating money. The video that raises the most money will receive a pizza party lunch!

Amy Grothouse and Beth Evans are co-team leaders of the Vantage Relay for Life team. Evans said, "It was just awesome to see all the students walk the first lap together. Before the walk began, students who had relatives or friends touched by cancer were asked to raise their hand. There were a lot. They all understood why we were doing this and its im-

REP. POND: END OF SES-SION RECAP

"We delivered on our promises to protect taxpayers and promote jobs and education," said Rep. Pond. 'Among the highest priorities this session was the budget, in which I was pleased to see a positive and steady growth rate forecasted for Indiana moving forward. The sunny prediction enabled the General Assembly to increase its funding for priorities like K-12 education and workforce development."

Rep. Pond co-authored HB 1012 which fosters new educational opportunities by lessening the time a school corporation is required to wait to sell an abandoned school building. Under current law, school systems are building available for sale or lease to a charter school for a period of four years.

"Reducing the amount of time the building must be on the market allows possible purchasers to develop a plan for the use of the building," said Rep. Pond "For example, St. Joseph School in Monroeville has seen a spike in enrollment in recent years. They decided to buy a vacant elementary school building from East Allen School Corporation, but discovered they were violating the law since the vacant building had not been listed with the Department of Education for the required four years." Another education-centered bill established the Indiana Career Council as a means to increase the cohesion among the various participants in the state's education, job skills development and career training system. The council seeks to match these groups and agencies with the currently existing and future needs of the state's job market. It will then provide recommendations to the General Assembly concerning proposed changes to the state's education, job skills, and career training system to increase coordination and information sharing among state, local and private agencies, groups and associations.

"The legislation enacted this session is sure to keep Indiana on the right path as we've tackled the issues that matter most: education, infrastructure and economic growth," said Rep. Pond. "Indiana is poised for more success in the coming years, and I look forward to being a part of that process."

LATTA INTRODUCES LEGISLATION TO PROTECT AMERICAN FAMILIES AGAINST COUNTERFEIT PHARMACEUTICALS

Congressman Bob Latta (R-Bowling Green) introduced H.R.1919, Safeguarding America's Pharmaceuticals Act of 2013, a bipartisan bill to strengthen and secure our nation's pharmaceutical distribution supply chain to protect American families against counterfeit pharmaceuticals. This legislation is a result of collaboration and input from stakeholders throughout the pharmaceutical supply chain. H.R. 1919 was coauthored by Rep. Jim Matheson (D-UT).

Currently, standards for the pharmaceutical distribution supply chain vary by state. This bill will establish a national standard of tracing requirements for manufacturers, wholesale distributors, pharmacies and repackagers based on changes in ownership. Further, the bill establishes a collaborative, transparent process between the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and stakeholders to study ways to even further secure the pharmaceutical supply chain.

"Pharmaceutical distribution occurs nationwide and it is estimated that within the United States there are more than 4 billion prescriptions filled each year. By replacing the current patchwork of multiple state laws with a uniform national standard we improve safety, eliminate duplicative regulations, and create certainty for members of the pharmaceutical supply chain," said Congressman Latta. "When an individual takes a prescribed medication they should have full confidence that the medication is real and will not impose harm. It is of utmost importance that we implement commonsense solutions to safeguard our distribution supply chain against counterfeits and improve security and integrity throughout the supply chain. This legislation is an important step forward to ensure greater patient safety for all Americans."

Over the past year, the FDA has issued three warnings that counterfeit drugs, including those intended for cancer patients, had infiltrated our nation's pharmaceutical supply chain, potentially reaching some of our nation's sickest patients. Important provisions contained within this legislation • Establishing lot-level

- tracing requirements for manufacturers, wholesale distributors, pharmacies and repackagers based on changes in ownership. • Requires the affiliates of
- the supply chain, including third-party logistics providers to undertake verification and notification activities regarding suspect or illegitimate products. • Require members of the
- supply chain to only transact with registered or licensed • Requires the FDA to es-
- tablish and report to Congress on pilot projects and hold biannual public meetings in order to foster collaboration with stakeholders regarding moving to unit-level trace-

SECRETARY HUSTED AP-POINTS HALLE PELGER AS ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE & CHIEF OF STAFF

Secretary of State Jon Husted announced on May 6, 2013 that he is promoting Deputy Chief of Staff Halle Pelger to serve as both his Assistant Secretary of State and Chief of Staff. In her new duties, Pelger will oversee dayto-day operations and a staff of approximately 150. She will also serve in the Secretary's stead in case of his absence. "From running a smooth 2012 Presidential Election to rolling out the red carpet for new Ohio businesses, Halle has been instrumental to all the success we have enjoyed over the first two years in the Secretary of State's office," Secretary Husted said. "She is a trusted advisor with great personal and professional integrity - the best person to lead my team moving forward."

Pelger began her public service career as a communications intern in then-Speaker Husted's office and within six months, was promoted to serve as his legislative aide and liaison to the constituents of the 37th Ohio House District. Later, she would broaden her role, serving as Executive Assistant for both the Speaker and the Chief of Staff. After taking a leave of absence to consult on the Ohio House Republican campaigns in 2008, she became the Executive Assistant to the Chairman of the Ohio Republican Party. In the 2010 election cycle, she served as the Deputy Campaign Manager in Husted's successful bid for Secretary of State. Pelger has served in the Secretary of State's office as Deputy Chief of Staff since January 2011.

Pelger will succeed Assistant Secretary of State/Chief of Staff Scott Borgemenke, who recently accepted a position as Senior Vice President of Advocacy at the Ohio Hospital Association.

A native of Canton, Ohio, Pelger graduated Magna Cum Laude from Miami University with a degree in Political Science and a Minor in Economics. Pelger lives in Dublin.

WBESC BOARD MEETING MINUTES 4/10/13

The Western Buckeye ESC Governing Board held its regular monthly Board meeting at 6:00 p.m. on Wednesday, April 10, 2013 at the Paulding ESC office. Board President Mr. Nick Miller welcomed Board members and school personnel to the meeting.

Treasurer Gary Ginter reviewed the current financial reports, investments and the monthly expenditures with the Superintendent Brian Gerber has indicated to the Western Buckeye ESC governing Board that he will retire prior to the State Teacher Retirement System (STRS) pension reform in 2015. Nick Miller, Board President, stated, "Mr. Gerber has always been open and forward with us in communicating that STRS pension reform will force him to make a decision regarding his future. Brian in-formed us (BOE) that he plans to retire at the end of the 2013-2014 school year. As a Board we are not in the market or interested in searching for a new super-intendent. Mr. Gerber has led us through the last biennial budget and will continue to lead us through the new biennial budget. We have been able to control cost, effectively serve our partner schools, and operate in the black. The Board and Brian agreed on a plan enabling him to come back and serve as our Superintendent in a part-time role for the 2014-2015 school year." P. James Grubaugh, who has served on the Board for 43 years stated, "Brian is a fiscal conservative who has a strong background in curriculum and is well networked both at the state and national level. In this economy, I want an experienced ultra financial conservative leading our organization." Board member Jerry Zielke, "I was glad we could work through this process and create a win-win situa-tion. Board member Billy Poe II echoed the other Board members' comments and added, "I just want to do what is best for the Western Buckeye Educational Service Superintendent Brian Gerber was appreciative of the Board and was humbled by their support. "I will work part time as their Superintendent during the 2014-2015 school year and we will evaluate this model throughout that year. The money saved on my salary and benefits will keep us operating in the black. If I feel like I'm not getting the job done, I will fire myself." Ron Treece summed it up by saying, "I've known Brian Gerber for many years, and he will get the job done whether he works full time or part time. There is no question about that!"

In the business portion of the meeting, the Board approved the following Consent Items - WBESC:

ESC believes that each child in the State of Ohio should have access to a high-quality education, and it works toward achieving that goal for all students in the district it

WHEREAS, the Western Buckeye ESC complies with all state and federal laws, rules, and regulations; and WHEREAS, the State of Ohio has enacted significant programmatic and administrative changes to the K-12 edu-cational system over the past two years with the goal of improving quality and accountability, and such changes are set to be implemented in a concentrated

WHEREAS, the Western Buckeye ESC agrees with the vision and purpose of such changes; provided, however, that such changes may be implemented in an effective and conscientious manner.

NOW THEREFORE, the Western

Buckeye ESC states its official position that the timeline provided for making such changes is unrealistic for imple mentation at a high-quality level, par-ticularly when looking at the vast number of changes enacted as a whole, rather than as each of its individual parts. The Western Buckeye ESC's position is that the concentrated timeline currently in law may compromise the results sought, but that the long-term goal of improving the quality and accountability of education for Ohio's youth could be realized if school districts are given the opportunity to implement these changes in a more reasonable timeframe.

. Motion to approve the following resolution opposing HB59, urging the State of Ohio to maintain state subsidy of ESCs and maintaining the current governance structure of Ohio Educational Service Centers: WHEREAS, Ohio Educational Ser

WHEREAS, the Bill (HB 59) also proposes to eliminate publicly elected ESC boards of education and replace such boards with a yet-to-be determined gov-ernance model using appointed members from all client groups, thereby eliminating public accountability and transpar-ency for ESC operations and potentially diluting the educational mission of ESCs; NOW THEREFORE BE IT RE

SECRETARY OF STATE HUS-TED IMPROVES PROCESS FOR VOTERS UPDATING ADDRESS UNDER FEDERAL MOTOR VOTER LAW

Secretary of State Jon Husted issued Directive 2013-10, providing Ohio's boards of election with guidance on conducting general maintenance of the state's voter rolls as required under federal law. To improve the process for voters, Secretary Husted announced that, for the first time, voters receiving a notice to update their voting address as part of this process will be able to do so online.

"Providing Ohioans with more convenient ways to update their voting information will help to ensure the state's voter rolls are more accurate and current," Secretary Husted said. "Upto-date voter rolls save time, money and improve the integrity of the election." Under the National Voter Registration Act, passed in 1993, states are required to compare their voter rolls against the National Change of Address (NCOA) database compiled by the U.S. Postal Service every two years. Matches identify voters who may have moved since the records were last compared in 2011, and may need to update their voter registration information. Once a list is compiled, boards of elections will send each voter a confirmation notice to the address on file in the NCOA database.

Historically, voters have only had the option of updating their address by filing out and returning confirmation cards by mail. This year, Secretary Husted is requiring boards of elections to use a new form that includes a web address to allow voters to go online to update their voting address. The ability for voters to update their voting address online is possible following last year's successful launch of the Online Change of Address system, which is part Secretary Husted's comprehensive online voter resource tool - MyOhioVote.

It is also important to note that voters who have not participated in an election cycle, but also have not moved, will be included in the mailing to confirm that they are still registered. Voters in this category will need to complete the paper form provided and return it by mail to their county board of elections. Former residents who have moved out of the State of Ohio may return the confirmation notice by mail to cancel their Ohio voter registration.

Launched in August 2012, the Online Change of Address system allows Ohio's registered voters to update their voting address online. In order to update an address online, individuals must already be registered to vote and provide four identification security keys that exactly match what's in Ohio's Statewide Voter Registration Database, including: their last name, Ohio driver's license number, the last four digits of their Social Security number and their date of birth. The Online Change of Address tool, coupled with improved data sharing with the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles, has enabled the secretary of state's office to update approximately 300,000 voter addresses to date.

After completing the online process, the voter's county board of elections will send out a notice providing the voter with their new polling place and precinct information for future elections.

To avoid being required to cast a provisional ballot due to having an outdated address on file, voters are reminded that all updates to their registration information must be completed no later than 30 days prior to Election Day.

HOUSE REPUBLICAN LEGISLATIVE PRIORITIES ACHIEVED

Speaker of the Indiana House of Representatives, Brian C. Bosma (R-Indianapolis), announced the end of session, or Sine Die on April 26th, closing out a year of priorities achieved. The House Republican agenda, which was released in October, centered on making Indiana a stronger state for future generations, by focusing on fiscal integrity, job growth, and enhanced education opportunities for every Hoosier.

House Republi-The cans' "Own Your American Dream" plan focuses on three key concepts: financial security, matching Hoosier workers with high paying jobs, and making education investments.

"This year's budget will put education funding at historic levels; a vital investment in the future of children's lives and our state," said State Representative Phyllis Pond (R-New Haven). "We've been unequivocally generous in crafting our budget to cater to invest in Hoosier children. With the proper training and skillset, we hope to bridge the skills gap and build a stable economic environment as Indiana continues to grow."

Bridging the Skills Gap 'We have focused over the past decade on creating the best environment in the Midwest through policies that encourage and incentivize companies from all over the world to relocate and grow in Indiana," said Speaker Bosma. "HEA 1002, the Indiana Career Council (ICC), develops a workforce that will better prepare Hoosiers for the needs of a globally dynamic marketplace," said Bosma.

According to the Indiana Vision 2025 report published by the Indiana Chamber of Commerce, more than 930,000 Hoosiers lack even the most basic skills to thrive in today's economy.

Designed to improve coordination, communication and vision for Indiana's workforce training and career preparation systems, the ICC is a panel that will bring the principal stakeholders in the state's workforce development efforts together to create a stronger plan to move Indiana forward. Members of the ICC will be charged with aligning the education skills and training provided by Indiana's educational, job skills and career training systems with the existing and projected needs of the state's job market. The legislation also puts into law a longitudinal data system to track the effectiveness of the state's educational and workforce programs.

Leaders in Classrooms; Leaders in Life

"We've tailored our education system to fit the needs of a fresh generation," said Rep. Pond. "Our agenda expanded accessibility to educational resources and offering Hoosier families a choice in where their children attend school. No child should be burdened with a system that doesn't allow them to reach their full potential and thrive in an enriching, dynamic curriculum. We've moved to make Indiana competitive on a global scale in the field of education and arm our students with the proper tools to be successful upon graduation."

Currently, there are nearly two and a half STEM jobs for every one unemployed person in Indiana. Despite the economic downturn, these jobs have remained in demand, and will only increase as technology marches on. HEA 1001 creates a STEM Teacher Recruitment Fund and new stipend programs for teachers that are in high demand.

In Indiana, 61 percent of children (ages 3-4) are not enrolled in a preschool program. Only six states have a higher percentage of children not attending a preschool. The budget cre-

"We have worked together to address these issues instead of passing the problems on to future generations to handle. Through our commitment to fiscal integrity, quality jobs, and providing strong education opportunities to our children, the American Dream can be a reality for future generations of Hoosiers," said Speaker Bosma.
