COUNTY AUDITOR RE-CEIVES CONTINUING EDUCATION AWARD

Paulding County Auditor Claudia J. Fickel is a recipient of the "Distinguished County Auditor" award, presented by the County Auditors' Association of Ohio (CAAO). The award recognizes County Auditors who have completed 100 or more hours of continuing education during their term of office. Ms. Fickel was recognized and received the award from CAAO President George Kaitsa, Delaware County Auditor, during the CAAO Summer Conference in June. In recognizing this achievement the CAAO notes, that when you consider the time commitments on County Auditors in general, it is truly an accomplishment for a County Auditor to have over 100 hours of credit.

Section 319.04 of the Ohio Revised Code requires County Auditors to complete at least 24 hours of continuing education during their term of office. Ms. Fickel obtained her training in topics such as Recent Trends in Real Property Valuation, Financial Audits, Budget Commission and Tax Levies, and two mandatory classes in ethics and substance abuse.

SUMMER HOLIDAY SHAP-ING UP NICELY IN BRYAN & EDGERTON

By: Sally Whitford,

swhitford@cityofbryan.net Hey Moms! It's not too late to get your kids off the couch and out of the house for a couple of hours. The FREE lunch program is still going on through August 14th for kids 1-18. Kids under five years old should be accompanied by an adult. There is NO registration required Just show up, have fun, and eat a great lunch catered by Susie's Catering who serves the hot lunches for both Bryan and Edgerton.

In Bryan, it is at Mattie Marsh Park 410 E. Trevitt Street. Lunch is served from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. with all kinds of fun activities after until 12:45 p.m. On rainy days, the program is held at the First Lutheran Church 210 N. Cherry Street, Bryan.

In Edgerton, the lunches are at the Edgerton Village Offices, 321 N. Michigan Street, from 11:45 a.m. till 12:30 p.m. with activities following until 1:00 p.m.

I spoke with Elizabeth Schlosser, State Supervisor, for the program and Stephanie Widney, one of the volunteers about the program. The program provides a hot lunch for an average of 50 plus kids each day Monday through Friday. They told me Monday is the busiest day. Sadly, the reason for this is many of these kids are hungry because they don't get enough to eat over the weekend. Mind you, that's not the case for all of the kids there, but there should not be any kids in this town that are going hungry!

This is an awesome program that helps fill a need when kids are out of school for the summer and there is no school lunch. For many kids, the lunches they get during the school year may be the only meal they get for that day. So weekends and summer time leaves many hungry. This program seeks to fill that need and also offers a safe and fun environment for the kids during the week for a few hours each day; where they can do some fun activities and hang out with other kids.

On July 3rd, fireworks in Defiance begins at dusk. Fireworks will shoot off from Kingsbury Park. Come on down to Kingsbury Park or Pontiac Park or the Fort Grounds in downtown Defiance. There will be food vendors and carnival rides as well as the fireworks. Come on out and enjoy some family fun. July 4th is the 2014 River Run 5K. You can still register on Race Day at 7:30 a.m. The race will begin at Kingsbury Park at 8:00 am. For further information, contact Alicia Rakes at 419-784-4747.

Also on July 4th, the Bryan Kiwanis Fly-in Breakfast at the Williams County Airport located at 16280 County Road D. Bryan.

Many planes fly in just for breakfast. Last year over 700 breakfasts were served. Parking is free and airplane rides are available for a fee. This is great fun, before he passed away, my Dad loved to go to this every year.

Until next time, have a great and safe 4th of July!

State University. As part of his EMA duties, Mr. Bohn plans to spearhead a traffic study to track hazardous materials being transported through Paulding County to assure the safety of the residents. He commented the public needs to be 'aware' and not 'afraid' of Haz-Mat passing through the county. He is anxious to work hand-in-hand with first responders, fire chiefs, and Paulding County's EMS/EMT units. Mr. Bohn would also like the opportunity to educate the public and schools about EMA and its function. His goal in building the Paulding County EMA is to 'do more with less and work together'. Mr. Bohn emphasized the importance of having a strong LEPC. He fully expects it to take two years to get both the EMA and LECP back on track. Mr. Bohn believes in working with the media as a tool to inform and educate the public. The Paulding County EMA is under the direct supervision and jurisdiction of the Paulding County Commissioners however, they will look to the Paulding County EMA Advisory Board for recommendations. Mr. Bohn noted emergencies need to be handled as a team effort. He stated the public needs to be educated on the procedures to follow, realizing that every potential disaster is handled differently. He will be in direct communication with neighboring EMA directors for guidance on the dayto-day activity. The Commissioners are pleased with the EMA Director Search Committee's recommendation to appoint Mr. Bohn. Changes in the activities of the EMA will take time; however, the county residents will soon begin to see results.

Larry Lee, E. Lee Construction, Inc. - Mr. Lee met briefly with the Commissioners. Together, they viewed the exterior of the Courthouse.

Bruce Cleveinger, Don Breece, and Cindy Torppa – Mr. Clevinger, Mr. Breece, and Ms. Torppa met with the Commissioners to discuss the change in directorship of the OSU Extension. Mr. Breece is retiring and he introduced Ms. Torppa as our new regional director. She will be serving a 20-county area in northwest Ohio. The trio discussed the current status of Paulding's OSU, noting we currently have an Ag Educator and a Program Assistant for 4-H. They also noted there is currently an OSU Extension presence in every county in Ohio.

WHAT NUMBERS MATTER THE MOST TO YOU?

Winning the Battle for a Generation by: Rick Jones, area Pastor & former Ex. Dir., Defiance Area YFC

What numbers matter the most to you? The state route you travel to go to work, the hours you work, your age, or the numbers of years you've worked? What about the amount of money you are paid for your work, your hourly wage, or your annual salary? Perhaps it is the number of years you have went to school, college or post graduate work.

Recently I was honored and blessed be so many dear friends for the number of years I have worked for Defiance Area Youth for Christ, 36 years. There were so many kind words, cards and gifts given as a way to show appreciation for the number of years I have served with Youth for Christ.

But those numbers are not the numbers that matter most. For example, a young rescue diver asked his mentor about the number of lives he had saved that had spanned over his heroic life-time of rescuing lives. The old wise mentor responded, "The number 22 is the number that has mattered the most to me over my years of rescue, that is the number I lost, the number I could not save.'

Numbers too, mattered to Jesus, so much so that in the scripture reference below we read... Jesus left the ninety nine to "go and look for the one that wandered off....

Matthew 18:10-14 (NIV), "What do you think? If a man owns a hundred sheep, and one of them wanders away, will he not leave the ninety-nine on the hills and go to look for the one that wandered off? And if he finds it, I tell you the truth, he is happier about that one sheep than about the ninety-nine that did not wander off. In the same way your Father in heaven is not willing that any of these little ones should be lost."

What numbers really matter? How about the one that has wondered off or the one who is lost or the one God may have you to go to and reach out to.

LATTA PRAISES HOBBY LOBBY DECISION

Congressman Bob Latta (R-OH) today released the following statement after learning the Supreme Court's decision in Burwell v. Hobby Lobby:

"Freedom of religion is a bedrock principle of our nation guaranteed by the First Amendment of the Constitution," said Latta. "I am extremely pleased that the Supreme Court decision in Burwell v. Hobby Lobby recognizes that the Obamacare mandate tramples on that right by illegally forcing Americans to choose between violating their faith and conscience or jeopardizing their livelihood. All Americans should be able to live and work according to their beliefs without fear of punishment by the government, and today's decision reaffirms this critical pillar of our nation's foundation."

tridge from a Howitzer shell. These are the items he used to make his statue. Of course, he had to take the powder out of the live shells and the only tools he had to do this and to use was a hacksaw blade, a rattail round fine, emery paper, and a pocket knife. He used these tools to structure his piece of art.

It took time and a lot of patience but Ralph completed his project and made sure it would fit together only to wrap it up and send it home to his mom. It sat in storage for 40 years until Ralph put it together.

Ralph now has the statue (a replica of the P38) in his apartment. The piece will be sent to the Montpelier Fairgrounds in the War Veterans Memorial Museum where it will be displayed.

Ralph, thank you for sharing your piece of art with us. Your memory will live on for all those viewing your statue.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF THE GREAT "LAND HURRICANE"

By: Joshua Steiner

The massive storm that swept through the area on Friday, June 29th, 2012, will not soon be forgotten by many folks around the northwest Ohio and northeast Indiana region. Packing winds of over 80 mph, the derecho [pronounced "day-RAY-cho"] raced through, uprooting trees, tearing off roofs, and knocking down hundreds of power-lines across the region. But it wasn't just our area that was impacted by this record-setting storm. The monster caused widespread and intense damage from northwest Indiana all the way to the East Coast, making it one of longest and most intense derechoes to ever impact the United States east of the Mississippi River. In total, the storm caused over one billion dollars in damage and cut-off electricity to more than three million people.

In any given year, northwest Ohio and northeast Indiana are usually impacted by one or two derechoes over a long distance was the fact that a weak, Canadian cold-front had settled across the area. North of the front, temperatures had dropped into the lower 90's, with dew points in the low-mid 60's. South of the front [the front was basically along the U.S. 30 corridor], temperatures were in the mid-upper 90's and dew points were in the low-mid 70's [Fort Wayne had reached the mid-90's with a dew point in the low-mid 70's by noon]. The incredibly hot and humid air mass present south of the front caused instability levels to sky-rocket. One of the parameters used to measure instability is known as CAPE [or Convective Available Potential Energy]; normal values of CAPE range from 1000-3000 J/kg on any given summer day. On this particular summer day, values were as high as 5000-6000 J/kg, especially in Southern Ohio. When instability levels are this high, thunderstorm formation can be explosive and deadly, which is exactly what happened. At the same time, the intense levels of instability in the atmosphere allowed the thunderstorms to force the dry-air downward into the lower-atmosphere, which is what contributed to the very strong wind gusts that were observed at the surface. Because of the hot, humid atmosphere south of the front, the storm system was able to be maintained all the way to the East Coast. This was unusual because most storm systems of this magnitude require a great deal of windshear throughout the atmosphere, and on this particular day, there was little or no shear.

The most damaging aspect of this storm system was the fact that it hit with little or no warning. Early in the morning on Friday, June 29, Storm Prediction Center forecasters noted that thunderstorms were possible across the area, but they were not originally expecting severe weather.

They believed that the cap, a warm-layer in the mid-levels of the atmosphere, would inhibit widespread thunderstorm formation. However, by the mid-morning hours, the SPC realized that storms were already breaking through the cap and becoming organized over northeast Illinois and northwest Indiana, which lead them to include the threat of severe weather.

By this time, the thunderstorms had already organized and were racing eastward at speeds of up to 70 mph, giving little or no advanced warning time to those in the path of the storm. That is why severe thunderstorm and tornado warnings were only issued minutes in advance of the strongest wind gusts impacting areas. The local NWS did not realize that the storm system was developing so rapidly and had to race to issue warnings in advance to protect lives and property.

The problem was made worse by the fact that people were also caught off-guard. The storms were not forecasted in advance and were only able to be tracked after it had already done considerable damage. The damage it caused was further compounded, especially when hundreds of thousands of people were without power during one of the worst heat waves that has ever hit the eastern United States. The record heat and humidity contributed to several deaths after the storm was over with.

The good news is that this system isn't one that we will likely see again for several years, if not decades. The aftermath of this massive storm has caused us to realize how important it is to remain prepared and protected during forecasted severe weather events, and hopefully a re-analysis of the event by forecasters around the nation will help to improve forecasts of similar events and save lives in the future.

RALPH KRILL'S MEMORIES

By: Sue Knapp

Sit down and talk to Ralph, and he is full of stories and memories of the life he's led. He's was in the Philippines and Korea. He came home to marry his high school sweetheart and have three children. He now resides at Van Crest at Antwerp and enjoys helping his fellow residents and working in his raised gardens beds.

But it was while he was overseas that he saw a piece of art and he couldn't get the piece out of his mind. He started collecting pieces of glass from a shot down plane, and several live P50 caliber machine gun bullets, MI rifle carbines and a 105mm carin the summer. However, derechoes as violent as the one we experienced in late June 2012 are rare across the area. Derechoes, by the Storm Prediction Center definition, produce signif-icant wind damage [winds of 60 mph or greater] over a distance of 200 miles. However, this derecho produced winds in excess of 70 mph over a distance of more than 800 miles. The Storm Prediction Center received around 900+ wind reports from the system that day. This made the event unique, rare and not likely to occur again for many years. So what factors lead up to this impressive event?

One of the major factors in the production and the sustenance of the system

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

People wonder why there are so many bad accidents on the new route 24 when it is such a wide open visible road. Very simple, stupidity by people who obviously shouldn't be driving as I witnessed on one Sunday morning. Of course, I call my car the "idiot magnet" because no matter where I go around here I have to deal with some incompetent driver in some way. I was coming home from Defiance (where I got gas for $3.19—hear this Paulding?). And as usual, I was turning onto Road 115. As I approached there was a car ahead of me. A van was coming from the north, stopped and then went across in front of this car very nearly causing a bad accident. As I pulled into the turn off lane another van came from the south and after stopping pulled in front of me and stopped, preventing me from turning till all the traffic passed so she would proceed. I had the right of way to turn off this major highway, but this ignorant woman obviously doesn't know or care about the laws.

You idiots coming from these side roads need to realize that not only are these cars traveling at close to 70 mph, but they have the right of way to turn off this highway before vou enter or cross it. It's too bad law enforcement officers can't give tickets for stupidity, they wouldn't have enough room in their cars to carry all they needed. This highway, great do, and don't want to be one of their victims just because they may be in a hurry to get someplace that's probably not that important. Some of you people need to get your head out of your posteriors and realize your actions can be deadly on this road just as anywhere else. A great road but needs to be respected too.

Speaking of dumb things, where did they get the "grass" seed that they reseeded our lawns (that were torn up in the road project). Our yards look terrible as it is mostly weeds not grass. Did the town get a really good price on this stuff? Most of us had really nice looking lawns, now they look awful. Just the way things are done around here, suck as much money out of us as possible but get things done as cheap as possible then no one can account for where the money went.

THE SUCCESS OF CHIP MAGNET COMPUTERS

What a year since our last story in the West Bend News newspaper. As many of you know Chip Magnet Computers took over "The Computer Depot" in early 2013. Many of you know the owners, Amanda and Ramy. Since the summer of 2013 Amanda was in labor for just under seven days in October. On October 15th at 2:12 p.m., the surprise turned out to be a very healthy premature baby boy weighing in at 4 pounds and 0.5 ounces. Their baby boy spent three weeks in the NICU to only eat and grow.

They are very appreciative to everyone who prayed for Adam and Amanda in the hospital and those of you who gave generously to Adam from books and cards, to endless toys and clothes. From the bottom of their hearts they cannot express enough gratitude for everything done for this family. Since Adam's first day home, it has been non-stop excitement!

From all of Adam's firsts to the continued success of the business, it has been a fast but enjoyable journey. Before they found their new office, Chip Magnet Computers was doing strictly in-home computer repairs and were determined to keep their reputation high with their clients.

Amanda continues working hard to find time to put into the business while taking care of Adam. Gradually she devoted a few minutes a day which soon turned to a couple hours. Meanwhile, Ramy had to take a second job thinking that was the answer to make enough money for diapers and put away into savings. Soon enough, they realized that the other job was a mistake. "We need full devotion to this company, if we are going to survive in this big city we need to give our entire work time to this company." A few months later, Amanda and Ramy leased out office space in Fort Wayne; a big victory for a small business from a small village! Just like in Antwerp, word spread like a wildfire in Fort Wayne. Amanda and Ramy are receiving continued blessings with the business and with their son Adam. Adam is developing ahead of schedule despite his premature age. He is hitting milestones sometimes ahead of children who were born maturely. They believe Antwerp gave them a strong foundation. Antwerp is a strong-willed, blessed city with genuine people. Because of that, Chip Magnet Computers is successful

BEYOND THE ABYSS

By: Winslow Myers

Nothing more clearly illustrates the absurdity of murder for political ends than this moment of chaos in Iraq and Syria. Imagine spaceships of an advanced alien civilization hovering over that vast desert area and assessing the state of our human endeavors on the basis of the welter of alliances and rivalries to-ing and fro-ing below, leaving trails of blood and traumatized children. As borders arbitrarily set by colonial powers a century ago dissolve, the strategic hopes of strong nations are undercut by vicious tribal rivalries going back almost a thousand years. The so-called superpowers are paralyzed, helpless giants armed with useless nuclear weapons. Moral pygmies who initiated unnecessary wars based on shameless lies have the unmitigated gall to blame those in office for events the liars themselves set in motion.

Time magazine lays it out as clearly as possible in its June 30 issue; it boggles the mind: the U.S. and Iran support Iraq. Iran, Iraq and Shia militias support Assad. The U.S. and the Gulf States want to contain Iran and prevent it from going nuclear. The Gulf States, the U.S. and Sunni militants want to defeat Assad, but the U.S. and the Gulf States have also sent money and arms to extreme Sunni groups in Syria that intend future harm to the U.S. The Kurds, Iran, the U.S. and Iraq want to defeat ISIS, even as the Kurds have benefited from the chaos created by ISIS. Millions of innocent citizens across the region have been displaced, their children hurt in every way, terrorized and starved, with doctors and teachers and business leaders unable to exercise skills essential to the web of civil society.

All of this bloodletting, confusion, and waste has the war profits from that conflict, could have still made billions and actually have done something positive in that part of the world.

When it becomes this difficult to discern who are the good guys and who are the bad, the whole "us and them" paradigm blurs and fades into smoke. The common interest becomes, fundamentally, what's good for children: Syrian, Iraqi, Kurdish, Iranian, Israeli, American. Brought up short by the helplessness of being unable to distinguish between alliances and enemies, is this not the moment for us to say enough-how much greater proof do we need that war and murder never work? Instead, there is an all-too-pervasive climate of opinion in the American government-industrial-media complex that more war and murder are the only answer to war and murder.

How to respond to evil and chaos with something other than more evil and chaos is one of the great historical conundrums. But one part of the answer is the nature of this moment, in the largest perspective of the unfolding of geological time. More and more of us are defining our primary identity not in terms of nation or tribe or religion, but instead in terms of the whole delicate, gorgeous, threatened planet now seen as the outcome of billions of years of evolutionary development. This is new—an encompassing story that has enormous potential to unite the diversity of humans into a larger community.

Meanwhile a hierarchy of needs still operates, and the primary need of the tornapart Middle East is security, in the bare-bones form of simple cessation of slaughter. It would make zero sense to approach a young, fiery Kalashnikov-wielding adherent of ISIS and plead that he look up at the stars: "Look at who you really are, a descendant of these trillions of galaxies. It is out of this one unfolding universe that our sacred texts of Islam and Christianity and Judaism arose. We are one species. Shia and Sunnis may have a long history of enmity, but go back far enough and they are one, polarized by abstract illusions of difference that are meaningless in terms of this astronomical creativity out of which you came."

PAGE 5 – WEST BEND NEWS – JULY 2, 2014 This felt sense of oneness is the great message that bears in upon us from both our biggest challenges and our biggest opportunities-challenges like ocean acidification, rain forest destruction or nuclear proliferation, opportunities for vast networks of communication and understanding represented by the Internet. Global climate chaos encompasses not just physical weather but spiritual weather as well. Though the horrors of Iraq and Syria represent a sickening step backward from the possibility of reconciliation among the tribes and religions of the world, the context of reconciliation surrounds us and points the way ahead, supporting and guiding our creativity toward a world that works for everyone. Great possibilities are known, but the wrong voices are loudest. Let us listen for the smarter, smaller, softer, kinder ones.

AREA CALENDAR AND EVENTS

By: Stan Jordan

Well, that long winter of 2013-14 is finally over. It was a record breaker in a number of categories. All at once summer is here.

Some of our area events are already over: John Paulding Days and the Paulding County 4-H Fair have gone by already; along with Antwerp's Rib Fest, and New Haven's Canal Days, as well as the open house at the Advanced Chassis.

Big Boy$ Toy$ Cruise-In is on July 12, and Larry Copsey expects a record crowd this year. The Maumee River Raft Race will be held in July also.

I talked with Mrs. John Zielke about the Ice Cream Festival at the Bethel Church. It will be held July 19. I also talked to Vince Bennett, and he told me they are putting on a big utility room on the back of their church and a big patio out front. All should be ready in time for the Ice Cream Social.

Antwerp's Chamber of Commerce will hold their big Day in the Park in August.

Some old fuddy-duds say we have nothing going in this area. Gee whiz, I'm already tired thinking about all the action! See Ya!

PAIGE ZUBER RETIRES FROM THE ANTWERP SCHOOL SYSTEM

By: Stan Jordan

Paige was born in 1948 at the old Paulding County Hospital. Her parents were Vernon and Ruth Major Clinton. There was two children in the family. She graduated in AHS in 1966. Then she attended IU in Fort Wayne and graduated there as a Dental Assistant. She worked in Dr. Bricker's dental office for 10 years. She married Lee Zuber in June of 1969, and they will have been married 45 years this month.

They have three children: Erika has three children and lives in Antwerp; Erin has two children and lives in Antwerp; and Ryan has three children and lives in Antwerp. Paige tells me she has eight grandchildren: four boys and four girls.

She started to work in the Antwerp School System in 1987. She worked in the Resource Room as a teacher's aide. She loves the school, the staff and the children, and she knows she will miss them all.

I ask about her hobbies and she says she doesn't have any, 'I'm not a fisherman nor do I have a green thumb," she commented. She loves to spend time with the children and grandchildren. She loves to travel with her husband, Lee. In the summer, all 16 of them travel to the Outer Banks in North Carolina for a vacation and they have done this for over 12 years.

We talked about her grandfather, Bert Major. Sr., who used to write for the local paper about Antwerp's early history. She has all his writings in

AMERICAN RED CROSS EXPANDS LIFESAVING COURSES

The American Red Cross of Northwest Ohio has added Advanced Child Care training to the roster of lifesaving health and safety courses available during the months of July and August.

Advanced Child Care

Advanced Child Care Training is a course designed for people 16 years and older who are looking to become nannies or sought-after babysitters, or who might be caring for kids for the first time. It combines two hours of selfpaced online learning and six and a half hours of in-person training and skills testing. The online portion of the course uses advanced simulation learning to give the course-taker an immersive and engaging learning experience. This technology simulates child care and emergency situations so course takers can practice techniques and critical thinking skills. Course takers also get many helpful resources, such as activity ideas for various ages, downloadable sheets on things like spoon-feeding infants, lesson summaries and templates for résumés and business cards. Participants also receive Pediatric First Aid, CPR and AED training and certification. Advanced Child Care Training is not a licensing program and does not meet all state requirements for child care centers or dav care providers. "More than 80% of parents say they would pay more for sitter trained in CPR, first aid and child care skills," said

Tim Yenrick, regional CEO for the American Red Cross of Northwest Ohio. "People who take the new Advanced Child Care course learn meal planning, age-appropriate activities, drowning prevention, and much more. Plus, the first aid, CPR, and AED certification is included in the course, so it's a great value too."

Babysitter's Training

For youth looking to improve safety awareness and supplement their summer résumé, the Red Cross also offers Babysitter's Training. Designed for students age 11 and older, the course provides the knowledge and skills necessary to safely and responsibly care for infants and children up to the age of 10. Topics include: responding to emergencies with first aid, rescue breathing; making good decisions under pressure, communicating effectively with parents, recognizing safety and hygiene issues; managing young children, feeding, diapering, and caring for infants; and starting a babysitting business. Online and classroom courses are available.

First Aid and CPR

With an emphasis on handson learning, the Red Cross First Aid/CPR/ĂED courses teach attendees the skills to save a life. Participants learn how to respond to common first aid emergencies, how to respond to cardiac and breathing emergencies in adults, the use of automated external defibrillators (AED), and more. Attendees also receive a two year certification and access to free online refreshers upon completion. Blended learning courses are available to allow flexibility to busy participants by completing their classroom training online and testing their skills in person.

People can visit redcross. org/takeaclass or call 1-800 RED CROSS to register and learn more about available courses. Web-based courses require advanced registration.

By: Sue Knapp

On June 27, 1924, Stanley Woods Jordan was born. Who would have guessed that 90 years later he would be a seasoned writer and author of a book?

This man has become to be Antwerp's Historian, continually searching for facts and talking to people about Antwerp's history.

Stan wrote a column in the Antwerp Bee-Argus called 'Ole Smokey' and for the last almost nine years has been entertaining people with his column(s) in the West Bend News.

Stan's birthday celebration lasted pretty much all week. Country Time Market (Antwerp) hosted a surprise birthday party for him during the lunch and supper hour. At noon the place was full of well wishers celebrating with Stan his 90 years. His friend, Ray Keck, even wrote a poem for Stan, and Gene Scarborough penciled a drawing of Stan while he was sitting there.

His week continued with a trip to Cosmos Restaurant in Fort Wayne at noon on Thursday and supper with his sister and brother-in-law, and the Gross side of the family at Country Times Market.

Friday brought a birthday party hosted by WBN at Papa Oley's for lunch and that evening Stan's immediate family celebrated at Logan's Steak House in Fort Wayne. A big surprise was waiting for him there as his grandson, Eric, had flown in from Arizona. He did get to rest on Saturday, but on Sunday he had supper with his family. Stan has not let any grass grow under his feet. He has had a lot of adventures in his life. Just sit and talk with him, and he'll come up with stories and, yes, jokes galore. It is not over for Stan yet, he has a lot of adventures and story telling in him yet.

As stated previously, he did write a book and it is published. Billy Metzger Journal relates the adventures of a 16 year old boy on a wagon train on the Oregon Trail. This story first appeared in the West Bend News as a weekly chapter. The story had 40+ chapters.

The book is on sale at the West Bend News right now. A book signing is in the planning. Watch the paper for the upcoming date.

Stan, this last week has been overwhelming for you. But you will never know the impact you have had on people's lives you touched. I am blessed to know you and to be included in this adventure you call life.

INDOT AWARDS $102 MILLION STATEWIDE FOR LOCAL PROJECTS

The Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) awarded $102 million in federal transportation funding to cities, towns and counties, including $70 million for road construction, $17 million for bridge construction, and $12 million for bicycle and pedestrian, and nearly $3 million for safety projects. INDOT sets aside 25 percent of the federal highway funds appropriated by Congress each year to fund larger local transportation projects. Metropolitan Planning Organizations distribute federal road, bridge and safety funds to local communities within the state's larger urbanized areas. INDOT distributes these funds outside MPO areas. In addition, INDOT distributes Transportation Alternatives funding for non-motorized projects such as trails and Safe Routes to School projects.

To receive federal funding, communities must pay at least 20 percent in local matching funds and meet other federal requirements.

Awarded projects would be designed, developed and have purchased land according to federal standards prior to bid during the state fiscal year beginning July 2017. In February, INDOT awarded $86 million in federal transportation funding for local projects that would be bid beginning July 2016.

A complete listing of awarded projects and more information about INDOT's local public agency program is at www.in.gov/indot/2390. htm.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association will hand out total of $55,000 in college scholarships to 49 recent high school student-athlete graduates following selections made recently by each of the OHSAA's six District Athletic Boards. The OHSAA's annual college scholarship program is now in its 22nd year.

"In addition to being excellent students, these 49 young people are leaders in their schools and in their communities," said OHSAA Commissioner Dr. Dan Ross. "They truly represent what it means to be a student-athlete. Their families and schools are to be commended for helping them achieve so much already, but their futures are even brighter as they now move on to college. We are very proud of them.'

More About the Scholar-Athlete Selection Process

Scholar-athlete recipients are selected based on a point system which rewards students for grade point averages; class rank; ACT or SAT scores; varsity letters earned; and individual and team athletic honors. The number of scholarship recipients from each district are based upon the number of schools within the district. The recipients were selected by special committees within each of the OHSAA's six athletic districts. Individuals who receive athletic scholarships from NCAA Division I or II institutions or appointees to military academies are not eligible for an award.

SEN. KRUSE TO SERVE AS Vice-chair of Interim Education committee

During the summer and fall, State Sen. Dennis Kruse (R-Auburn) will serve as vicechair of the Interim Study Committee on Education.

"This year, the education committee will study Indiana's preschool pilot program, which was approved during the 2014 session," Kruse said. "Committee members will examine the impact of preschool on long-term student success to determine whether the pilot program should be expanded statewide."

Kruse was also appointed to the Education Commission of the States and the Education Roundtable.

When Indiana's part-time legislature is not in session, lawmakers are assigned to interim study committees that meet to review the state's top issues, as identified by the General Assembly during the prior legislative session.

Study committee topics are assigned by the bipartisan Legislative Council, comprised of 16 voting members — eight from the House of Representatives and eight from the Senate.

WHAT IS HIP 2.0?

By: IN State Sen. Dennis Kruse (R-Auburn)

As you may have heard in the news, Gov. Mike Pence recently presented an idea to expand Indiana's consumer-driven healthcare program, the Healthy Indiana Plan (HIP). Under the new plan known as HIP 2.0, coverage would expand to assist as many as 350,000 uninsured Hoosiers. This is Indiana's fiscally responsible alternative to the broken Medicaid system.

The original HIP was crafted in 2007 to help low-income Hoosiers afford health insurance while encouraging personal accountability. Since its creation, HIP has served more than 100,000 Hoosiers and consistently achieves a member satisfaction rate of over 95 percent. HIP 2.0 keeps with HIP's core principles of a consumer-driven model by offering choices to Hoosiers and their families while providing new incentives for members to take personal responsibility for their health. Among its many updates,

HIP 2.0: • Introduces a new HIP Employer Benefit Link plan that supports participation in employer-sponsored insurance plans.

• Maintains and increases the value of the Personal Wellness and Responsibility (POWER) account, modeled after a Health Savings Account, from which members would pay for medical services.

• Provides a new option for families to be covered by the same health plan.

• Facilitates access to employment services and rewards individuals for securing employment and moving off public assistance.

• Eliminates enrollment caps.

The new program will be fully funded through various programs, including Indiana's existing cigarette tax revenue, and will not raise taxes on Hoosiers.

Those eligible for the new program are Hoosiers ages 19 to 64 with incomes up to 138 percent of the federal poverty level, which for 2014 is approximately $16,105 annually for an individual or $32,913 for a family of four. HIP 2.0 would also replace traditional Medicaid for non-disabled adults ages 19 to 64.

There are two different plans offered under HIP 2.0:

• HIP Plus is a comprehensive benefit package that is available to all members that make their POWER account contributions. Members in this plan will have no other cost-sharing in addition to their POWER contributions, except a copayment for non-emergency use of the hospital emergency room.

Unlike traditional Medicaid, HIP also reimburses providers at 100 percent of the higher Medicare rates, ensuring more provider participation and leading to greater access to health care services.

WORK OUTSIDE? BEAT THE HEAT!

(NAPSI)—Thousands of people become sick each year and some even die from working in the heat. Heat illness most affects those who have not built up a physical tolerance to heat, and is especially dangerous for workers in agriculture, construction and transportation.

Working in hot weather can raise body temperatures past the level that normally can be cooled by sweating. Heat illness may initially appear in the form of heat rash or heat cramps—but can turn into heat exhaustion or heat stroke if preventative measures are not followed.

If your job requires working long hours outdoors this summer, make sure your employer is taking the necessary (and easy to provide) steps to keep you safe, including: scheduling frequent water breaks, providing shaded areas, and allowing enough time to rest. Remember this simple message to prevent heat illness: Water. Rest. Shade.

Want more information? The Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration has a free "app" for mobile devices, that can help. The app uses the temperature and heat index at your worksite, and displays risk levels, signs and symptoms of heat illness and what to do in case of emergency. The app, along with other important information (in English and Spanish) is available at osha. gov/heat.

By: Joshua Steiner

On Wednesday, June 25, 2014, the Northwest Ohio governor representative, Chase Eikenbary, toured the Paulding-Putnam Electric co-op headquarters in Paulding, Ohio, along with Ryan Mack, district representative, and Jerry Zielke, Paulding County Economic Development Director.

During the tour, George Carter, CEO of Paulding-Putnam Electric, showed all those in attendance the various features of the coop which differentiated the facilities from other electric companies and co-ops across the state. As part of its overall goal and purpose, the co-op has opted to harness the resources of renewable energy; specifically, solar and wind power.

Carter explained how the co-op was dedicated to disseminating accurate and reliable information about renewable energy units and their benefits to customers of the co-op. In doing so, the co-op has installed a system, known as MyMeter, so that its members can monitor their personal electricity usage on a daily basis and compare their energy usage to renewable energy production by the wind and solar-power units found at the co-op headquarters. The program also allows one to set markers for electricity usage, and there is even a feature that allows customers to receive text message notifications when these improvements were still in progress, they have seen a general positive response from co-op members and customers in using newer technology.

On the rest of the tour, those in attendance were also shown other ways that the co-op has opted to use respond in a much quicker fashion. They can also identify emergency situations, such as car accidents, during inclement weather and notify authorities as immediately as possible.

Overall, the co-op is moving in a very positive direction and hopes to accomplish much more over the coming years.

MEETING NOTES OF AP-POINTMENTS:

Scott Strahley, RCAPP; Dave Cline, Sheriff's Office – Mr. Cline began by assuring the Commissioners he hasn't dropped the ball on the electric con-sumption issue at the Sheriff's Office. Mr. Strahley and Mr. Cline have both hearn studying the problem and have come up with a combination of issues. The building has eight compressor units on the roof. They HVAC system is con-trolled by a computer program. Smith-Boughan Mechanical Services have the maintenance contract. The compressors maintenance contract. The compressors are set to kick off and on based on the computer settings. Smith-Boughan had made adjustments to the equipment to lengthen its lifespan, which pulls on the electricity. The computer system is set based on the jail being occupied and is almost impossible to regulate the temperature by room with the cur-rant duct work. The room that houses the computer server needs to be cool. Commissioner Zartman suggested that maybe wall units could be used for of-fices that are currently occupied. Mr. Strahley commented the kilowatt usage has spiked during the summer and winter over the past years. Mr. Strahley suggested that the computer system be 'tweeked' to see if it could result in a dif-ference in watt usage. Jason Landers, Paulding County

Sheriff – Sheriff Landers and the Com-missioners discussed the EMA vehicle and its equipment needs. The Sheriff also noted he may try to use a MARCS radio in the inmate transport vehicle to get better reception while crossing county lines. Claudia Fickel, County Auditor -

Claudia Ficket, County Auditor – Ms. Fickel presented the sales tax reve-nue report for May. She noted sales tax received in May was up from April and the four-year average. PAGE 10 – WEST BEND NEWS – JULY 2, 2014 WORK TOWARD YOUR OWN FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE DAY

Financial Focus by: Gabe Pollock, Edward Jones Advisor

It's almost the Fourth of July, the day when we celebrate our independence as a nation and the many liberties we enjoy as individuals. Still, we have to keep working to earn some freedoms — such as financial freedom. But by making the right moves, you may eventually enjoy your own Financial Independence Day.

Here are a few such moves to consider:

• Set free your vision. Your first step in moving toward financial independence is to establish a vision of what this freedom might look like. Ask yourself some key questions: When do I want to retire? What do I want to do during my retirement years? How can I be confident that I won't outlive my financial resources? The answers can help you develop a clear picture of where you want to go which will make it much easier to create a financial strategy for getting there.

• Liberate your full investment capabilities. Right now, you may have good investment opportunities that you are not fully exploiting. For example, are you contributing as much as you can afford to your IRA and your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored plan? And when your income goes up, are you increasing your contributions to these accounts? Both an IRA and a 401(k) offer tax advantages and a variety of investment options, so try to get as much out of these plans as you can.

• Avoid the "bondage" of Expenditures were greater than the income. The roof was questioned as to why it leaked and if it was covered under warranty from the two years past the last leak. The generator is still being worked on to meet the new fire standards. The investment record gained $923 on interest. Antwerp Exchange Bank also started paying interest on the bank account. The Antwerp Bank will also become an ACH originator and may be able to handle the payroll for the school.

ers $81,292 and $43,910 van; $79,499 bus and $39,731 van. Cardinal is the recommendation from Superintendent Pat Ross and was approved. Three older buses will be traded in and one van for one new bus.

Mike Bute, High School Principal, gave the principal's report and he congratulated the track team who went to state and regionals. Annie Miesle, Audrie Longardner, Sam Williamson were all recognized. Sam and Audrie went on to state. The OHSAA results are still tentative and will be updated if they change. The student handbook and sports handbook will be on the July agenda.

Andrea Newell, band director, gave a presentation on the Disney World trip for next year for the band and choirs for the dates of April 20-25, 2015. It's during the school year. It's been approved by Disney and they will be marching in the Magic Kingdom down Main Street. There will be about 45 students. The choir will also be performing on stage. Details will be coming soon as it is reported. It will be voted on at the July meeting.

Mr. Bute gave Tim Manz' Elementary principal's report. Parent teacher conferences will be in fall (end of first nine weeks) and spring (middle of third nine weeks) this year. The student fees will be similar at $65 per student in grades K-5. He gave congratulations to the teachers for the OHA's and he read, it is not good enough to do well, but must improve even more.

Pat Ross gave her report: Rose Reinhart resigned and that position is being posted for hire now on the State List Serve. Marilyn Mills also had put in her letter of resignation. Tim had interviews last week for Elementary positions. Several other positions were listed in the agenda. All of the buses passed inspection 9/9. Pat was very happy with the results. "We give kudos to Deb Altic. She and her crew did a great job!." said Dennis Recker.

The cleaning is moving right along with most of the school being done now.

Painting is starting this week in the school gymnasium by CR Hunt from Defiance. Each year over the next five years different sections of the school will be refurbished. Lockers are also getting a major overhaul. All repairs will be inspected and combinations will be changed.

Harold Gottke's report on technology: The high electric bill was because of the software controllers for the chillers. For the first three weeks it ran nearly non-stop. Schedules are now created and activated for all the environmental temperature and lighting systems. Technology: There will be 8 new drafting computers including new laptops and LCD monitors. Several screens were purchased from Wayne Trace for $6 each. The next step in technology would be a 1-1 student laptop ratio. The initial cost would be $210,000. The school is looking at many different options for purchasing. Dennis asked about the time frame. Pat said perhaps at the new year (Jan 2015). Teachers will also have to be trained and the implementation will have to be nearly immediately. Mark Ryan asked, "What is the goal for this project and how will the outcome be?" Pat said these were good questions that the school is working on with the technology department.

The board took a field trip the Industrial Arts/Drafting room that has been converted to help with OVA students. All new furniture has been put in (see picture).

Chad Schindler was hired as a pre-school teacher.

This year's event had 136 golfers representing more than 50 businesses. The weather held out and we had a beautiful sunny day. There were several social holes that had fun gifts and activities. One of those gifts were sunglasses with logos on the lenses prepared by Graphics Output.

This year's First Place went to the team from Rack & Helen's Bar & Grill. The Second Place was taken by the New Haven Print & Copy Team. And then Third Place went to the Hockemeyer Family Eye Care team.

Darren Peterson got closest to the pin. Andrew Bearman had the Longest Drive for Men and Lori Stinson had the Longest Drive for the Women.

There were 38 sponsors that made this event so dynamic. Comcast Business Class was the event sponsor. There were many, many volunteers who keep things running smoothly. Sponsors included:

Academics: We are anxiously awaiting all of the OAA scores, but we are most anxious about the third grade reading scores. This is the year of the Third Grade Guar-antee, which states "any student who does not meet the required score must be retained". At this time we have a few students who are at risk. The good news is that the state has decided to offer a sum-mer OAA for any third grade students who might need this extra attempt. I have contacted the parents of all students at risk and explained to them the time line from when I will receive the scores to preparing for and taking the summer OAA.

IRS MUST BE HELD AC-COUNTABLE

By: Indiana Senator Dan Coats

Hoosiers frequently tell me that they are frustrated by the way Washington exempts itself from the same requirements our government puts on hard-working citizens.

As a result, a huge trust deficit exists between the American people and Washington. One of the latest scandals that reinforces this lack of trust is the ongoing investigation into the sponsored the breakfast. Internal Revenue Service. It has been said that no agency in Washington is less forgiving than the IRS. If you are audited, the burden of proof is on you. You must provide the records to back up your financial situation. You are guilty until you prove your innocence.

However, the IRS itself continues to stonewall Congress and operate with a remarkable lack of transparency. In 2010, when the IRS targeted conservative groups - including at least one in Indiana – for extra scrutiny based on their political leanings, the agency displayed a stunning abuse of power and complete disregard for our Constitution.

The IRS should be apolitical, not a partisan watchdog. Neither those who make the law nor those who enforce the law are above the law. But nearly a year since this scandalous abuse of the law became public, we still do not have the answers on why this targeting occurred. As each day passes, it becomes less likely that the truth will ever come out.

Lois Lerner, the former director of the IRS Exempt Organizations Unit and the official at the center of the ongoing congressional investigation, refuses to testify before Congress. In recent testimony before Congress, IRS Commissioner John Koskinen claimed that the hard drive belonging to Lerner crashed in 2011. According to Koskinen, tens of thousands of her emails dating to 2009 were destroyed and permanently lost.

To claim that two years of emails, which the IRS is required by law to archive, were completely and inadvertently lost is laughable on its face. Even though we live in a day and age where virtually nothing ever disappears from the Internet, the IRS wants us to believe that these emails are lost for good.

When this scandal first surfaced, President Obama promised to work "hand in hand with Congress to get this thing fixed." Instead, the Obama Justice Department has refused to require Lois Lerner to testify and refuses to press for answers.

Given this continued stonewalling, we need an independent special prosecutor with subpoena power to get to the bottom of this situation. Appointing an independent investigator would allow access to federal computer records and determine whether these missing emails can be found on the government IT network.

One of the founding principles that sets the United States apart from other nations, that makes us exceptional, is the First Amendment to the Constitution. Under the First Amendment, Americans have the right to organize around the issues and values they believe in and they have the right to disagree with their government. This liberty is part of what energizes and fuels our democracy.

When a so-called independent agency of the federal government attacks average American citizens for expressing their beliefs, a fundamental trust is broken.

This trust must be restored. We owe it to American taxpayers to reveal the full truth of what happened at the IRS and to repair the damage of this agency's reckless actions.

PAGE 16 - WEST BEND NEWS - JULY 2, 2014 EVENTS BY TONY GETS A BIG LIFT!

Events by Tony recently made a big investment in portable catering with the Country Chef wagon.

How do you describe Tony Watson? A delightful fellow, animated, zealous, funny, passionate, fierce, ambitious, and maybe a little OCD... but in a good way!

My friend Tony has been in talks to purchase a trailer that can be used as a full cooking facility. Well, it has happened and he is excited! You cannot miss Tony's enthusiasm for starting a new endeavor and this one is no different. He and his family has started and currently operate at least three businesses including: Hometown Pantry and the Ice Cream Depot.

Tony was driving semitruck and might be gone from his family for days at a time. He wanted to do something different, something with his family.

Since he was out on his own after high school, he developed a love of cooking. With all the time his truck driving took, he hasn't always been able to fulfill this desire. After starting other food businesses, he has learned from the difficulties and pitfalls, knowing what works and what doesn't. He had been looking for a way to get into catering and onsite cooking and found the trailer named, "The Country Chef."

He loved it! Tony gave me a tour of his new outfit. Rebecca Mccroskey was working at the time, scrubbing the menu board for the next event. She said she likes to help, but it can get crazy, especially since they're just learning how all the cooking appliances work! This trailer is not your regular "county fair" french fry vendor. It is 40 foot long with a walk-in cooler. There are five sinks and a 160 gallon water tank for a complete commercially licensed cooking facility for both Ohio and Indiana. There are six pressure fryers that run on propane and plenty of storage space. Along with this trailer, Tony also has a 10' smoker and grill that he can make specialty cooked food for any event from weddings to church fish frys.

It's not just the equipment that makes the food taste good -- it's skill and patience. The chicken is all marinated in a delicate blend of spices and sauce 12-24 hours before it ever hits the cookers. All of the fish and chicken is Broaster Chicken brand, giving tasty treats and delightful dinners.

By now you are thinking, "Tony must be Superman!" Not exactly, he has his family helping him look good! Diana, Tony's better half, manages the Hometown Pantry and helps with all of the other ventures. Josh & Elayne Tressler, along with Rebecca and part time workers help with the Pantry and Ice Cream Depot.

Creating jobs in Paulding County is one of the passions Tony talks about. Why? He wants people to be employed locally if they can. If jobs are here they don't have to travel or move, being active participants in their communities.

Since Tony has started and operates businesses, I asked him what words of advice he would give someone who is starting a business. "You must research. Is there a market for your product or service?'

Large events are no problem for Events by Tony. This traveling commercial kitchen as served events as large as 1200 people with no problem. Smaller affairs, even business parties are just fine for a kitchen that completely adjusts its size for what is needed. Scheduled events coming up include the Van Wert County Fair, Flat Rock Creek Festival, Payne Fall Festival and more.

The Country Chef is up and ready to serve, just ask for Tony.

LIBRARY'S ADULT READING PROGRAM GOES TO THE DOGS!

Why should the kids have all the fun? The historic Paulding County Carnegie Library (main branch) is sponsoring the 5th Annual Summer Reading Program for adults. Paws to Read! is the "doggone fun" theme for this program that will encourage adults to read and keep track of books they have read or listened to, during the program. Readers can record in their reading logs: books, recorded books on Playaway or CD, eBooks, magazines, newspapers or even the back of a cereal box! If it is something you read, it can be recorded in your log! Registration is now open and each participant will receive a book bag and reading log while supplies last. This program is for grownups ages 18 and over (Teen readers have their very own "Paws to Read" program which started in June.). Participants who keep a reading log (provided by the library) will be eligible for fun prizes. For every library visit, the reader may add one entry for the prize drawings. Prizes will be drawn from the entries received. Readers will be encouraged to recommend their favorite authors and titles. There will also be opportunities to write book reviews for fellow readers.

This event will be hosted by the main historic Carnegie library in Paulding and concludes at the end of August. For more information regarding the Paulding County Carnegie Library, call 419-399-2032 or visit the website www.pauldingcountyliat brary.com, or you may choose to visit our Facebook site at www.facebook.com/pauldingcountylibrary.

LATTA SAYS #YES2ENERGY, YES TO JOBS

Congressman Bob Latta (R-OH), member of the House Energy and Commerce Committee's Subcommittee on Energy and Power, this week voted in favor of three energy bills that will allow the United States to better utilize its abundant domestic energy resources, promoting economic growth and creating jobs.

While the Administration has attempted to impede domestic energy growth at every turn, introducing unnecessary regulations and diminishing exploration on federal lands, the energy industry has been a prime example of American innovation at its best," said Latta. "The legislation the House passed this week will unleash the United States' abundant domestic energy resources, promote North American energy independence and curb gas prices - all while creating jobs. I urge the Senate to similarly pass this legislation, so our country can reach it's full energy potential."

H.R. 4899, the Lowering Gasoline Prices to Fuel an America that Works Act, will help ease the pain hardworking Americans are feeling at the pump by expanding production of America's own energy resources. Responsibly developing these resources not only addresses rising energy costs, but helps create good-paying American jobs, strengthens our economy, and improves our energy security.

H.R. 6, the Domestic Prosperity & Global Freedom Act, will bring certainty to the U.S. Department of Energy's export approval process, increasing natural gas production and setting a timeframe by which the agency must act on an application to export U.S. liquefied natural gas (LNG) to our allies. Increasing U.S. LNG exports would help boost the U.S. economy while increasing global energy security. The legislation is also expected to bring more than 30,000 jobs to Ohio by 2035.

H.R. 3301, the North American Energy Infrastructure Act, will update the approval process for oil and natural gas pipelines and electric transmission facilities that cross the national boundary of the United States between Canada or Mexico. This bill will build the energy infrastructure needed to fully enhance our domestic production, transport and use.
