HOLY SMOKES! WILLIAMSON BREAKS RECORD BY 30 SECONDS

Sam Williamson breaks the previous GMC Cross Country Championship record (15:57) with a time of 15:27.

The sun was shining, the air was crisp and cool, and the eight schools of the Green Meadows Conference all converged in the Welcome Park in Grover Hill on Saturday, October 17th. Amongst the hoodies, blankets, hand warmers and gloves, the runners were all warming up for a good day of racing.

After the shedding of outer wear, the athletes assembled at the starting line. The racing began with Junior High girls who had four full teams running. Places could not be awarded since all the GMC schools did not have teams. Fairview finished the day with the top spot at 40 points, followed by Edgerton with 45, then Antwerp with 61 and Tinora with 72.

LEAVES ARE SUPPOSED TO FALL, PEOPLE AREN'T!

STEADY U Ohio reminds Ohioans that falls are not a normal part of aging

As fall foliage in Ohio comes into full color, STEADY U Ohio, the state's comprehensive older adult falls prevention initiative, reminds all Ohioans that, while leaves are supposed to fall, people aren't. Falls are not a normal part of aging, and most falls can be prevented by knowing the risk factors and making simple changes to your home, health and habits to reduce or eliminate them.

Autumn brings with it some unique falls risks for many Ohioans. Here are some tips for avoiding them:

- · Leaves, branches and other debris from trees can make walkways slippery or hide tripping hazards like uneven surfaces, edges and steps. Keep walkways clean, and if you can't see that the surface is clear and flat, pick
- If winterizing your home includes cleaning gutters, changing light bulbs or other tasks that require you to get up high, use a step ladder or a step stool with a handle, and maintain three points of contact (two feet and a hand, or two hands and a foot) at all times. Do not climb on chairs or other furniture that was not designed for that purpose. • Shorter days mean less

- direct sunlight and less sunlight overall, thus, you may need more light to get around your home safely. Invest in extra lamps, nightlights and exterior pathway lights to make sure you can always see where you are walking, especially around doorways and stairs. Use the highest-wattage bulbs recommended for your fixtures. • Don't let cooler weather
- and shorter days limit your activity. Exercise that builds and maintains strength and balance is important to prevent falls year-round. Ask your doctor or physical therapist about indoor exercises that can help you maintain strength and balance when you can't venture out.
- Keep shoes and walking aids (canes, walkers) free of dirt and mud. Dry them off immediately upon coming in from wet conditions. Remember, wet shoes are just as dangerous as wet floors.
- If your autumn plans include attending one of Ohio's great fall fairs and festivals, stick to paved surfaces as much as possible; watch for trash, hoses and cables on walkways; drink plenty of liquids to stay hydrated; and consider attending at off-peak times, when the crowds are

CANCER RESEARCHER SEES CONNECTIONS BE-TWEEN CANCER AND LYME DISEASE

Neil Spector, MD knows cancer. As a leading researcher, he led the development of two targeted cancer therapies which were FDA approved. He is currently the Sandra Coates Chair in Breast Cancer Research at Duke University. Dr. Spector also knows Lyme disease. In 2009, he faced his own mortality when a physician informed him he would die without a heart transplant. Dr. Spector's heart had been destroyed by an undiagnosed case of Lyme disease.

His work as a cancer researcher, and his first-hand experience with Lyme disease, has led him to this conclusion: Lyme disease is "the infectious disease equivalent of cancer." Cancer is not one specific disease and neither is Lyme, says Spector. "We talk about Lyme Disease as if it is ONE disease caused by one uniform strain of Borrelia when we know there are at least 16 pathogenic strains of the bacteria that cause disease in the United States."

Both cancer cells and Borrelia burdoferi (the spirochete which causes Lyme disease) are equipped with mechanisms to resist therapeutic interventions, says Spector. And, both pathogens have what Spector calls a "sweet tooth." The pathogens love glucose as a source of energy. While cancer specialists design personal treatment plans for cancer patients, notes Spector, Lyme disease treatments are still one-size-fits-all. "And as we have all witnessed via the media, Ms. Foster and Ms. Lavigne, like most Lyme patients, suffer due to the lack of understanding of Lyme and its co-infections," he says. In a talk before the International Lyme and Associated Diseases Society (ILADS) annual conference, Spector called for more "out-of-thebox thinking" on how to diagnose and treat Lyme disease and its co-infections.

"I am not taking sides in this debate," says Spector. "As a patient and physician-scientist involved in cancer research and drug development, I have a unique perspective on the way Lyme disease is currently diagnosed and treated, and the gaps in our understanding of the disease beg for more research fund-surance coverage is also a factor in access to health care. A measure of stability is whether a person has been covered continuously for the past 12 months. One in 10 Ohioans ages 18-64 (10 percent) who were insured at the time of OHIP had been uninsured at some point in the previous 12 months. Certain groups are more likely to experience insurance instability. Three in 10 Ohio adults (30 percent) living at or below 138% of the Federal Poverty Level were uninsured at the time of the survey or at some point in the past year. This is a significant drop from 39 percent in 2014.

Insured residents say they are healthier: There is a strong connection between adults' self-reported health status and whether they have health insurance. Healthier adults were less likely to have been uninsured at any point in the past year. One in 10 Ohioans ages 18-64 (10 percent) who reported excellent or very good health were uninsured currently or at some point in the last year, compared with 14 percent in 2014. By comparison, nearly 3 in 10 adults (28 percent) who reported fair or poor health were uninsured currently or at some point in the past year. This is a decline from 33 percent in 2014. About the Ohio Health Issues Poll; The 2015 Ohio Health Issues Poll (OHIP) is funded by Interact for Health. OHIP was conducted July 15-28, 2015, by the Institute for Policy Research at the University of Cincinnati. A random sample of 811 adults from throughout Ohio was interviewed by telephone. This included 448 landline telephone and 363 cell phone interviews. In 95 of 100 cases, the statewide estimates will be accurate to ±3.4%. There are other sources of variation inherent in public opinion studies, such as non-response, question wording or context effects that can introduce error or bias. DETOURS ON THE WAY

By: Rev. Gerry Weesner, Maples United Methodist Church

Jesus left that place and went to the vicinity of Tyre. He entered a house and did not want anyone to know it, yet he could not keep his presence secret. In fact, as soon as she heard about him, a woman whose little daughter was possessed by an evil spirit came and fell at his feet. The woman was a Greek, born in Syrian Phoenicia. She begged Jesus to drive the demon out of her daughter. 'First let the children eat all they want,' he told her, 'for it is not right to take the children's bread and toss it to their dogs.' 'Yes, Lord,' she replied, 'but even the dogs under the table eat the children's crumbs.' Then he told her, 'For such a reply, you may go; the demon has left your daughter.' She went home and found her child lying on the bed, and the demon gone." Mark 7:24-30

Jesus takes a detour from his normal itinerary and ends up in Gentile territory. Jesus has gone out to Sidon to get away from the press, to retreat from the crowds who follow him. But while in Sidon, out among the Gentiles, Jesus is confronted by a Syrophoenician woman who wants Jesus to heal her daughter. Unfortunately, she is a foreigner, a stranger to the promises of Israel. It's not that Jesus doesn't want to help suffering people, but his primary mission is to the children of Israel. 'What you say about dogs is true,' this gutsy mother replies, 'but even dogs are allowed to clean up the children's crumbs.' You are wise and faithful, Jesus tells her. Then he heals her daughter. One thing that stands out clearly and impressively is the persistence and ingenuity of love shown in this mother's appeal for her afflicted daughter. She wanted Jesus to cast the demon out of her daughter and would stop at no rebuff.

J. Vernon McGee suggests that Jesus made this detour into Gentile territory specifically to answer the faith and needs of this woman. Jesus was in a new world where geography is not closed but open, where the future is not clearly mapped out but is subject to detours demanded by the unpredictable geography of God's grace. That's faith, the belief that God does order life, gives direction, puts odd people, and strange circumstances together into an orderly whole. Let us put ourselves into Jesus' hands, and not be startled if he leads us by a strange way. We can be sure he will lead us right, that he will bring us to that which may not be what we think best, but what is truly best for

LIFETREE EXPLORES HOW TO CAPITALIZE ON TURN-ING POINTS

How to make the most of life's transitions will be discussed at Lifetree Café on Thursday, October 22 from 7:00 - 8:00 p.m.

The program, titled "Reboot Your Life: The Art of Turning Your Life Around," features a filmed interview with Vinh Chung, a Vietnamese immigrant and author of "Where the Wind Leads." After their empire of rice mills in Vietnam was confiscated by a communist regime, Chung's family made a risky decision to leave the country in search of a better life. "If we stayed behind, my parents saw there would be no future for their children," says Chung. "With oppression from a new regime and being forced to live in a little place with no electricity or running water, my parents realized they had to do something about it."

Chung visited Vietnam 20 years after his parents' departure and shared his experiences with Lifetree during the filmed interview.

Admission to 60-minute event is free. Lifetree Café is located in The Bachwell at 116 N. Washington Street, Van Wert, Ohio. Please enter through the handicapped accessible door on Court Street. Parking is available in the courthouse lots. Lifetree Café is a place where people gather for conversation about life and faith in a casual, comfortable setting. Questions about Life-

MVNU BECOMES PARTICI-PANT IN SARA INITIATIVE

MVNU was recently welcomed as an institutional participant in The State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement (SARA) initiative. The SARA initiative is an agreement among member states that establishes comparable national standards for interstate offering of postsecondary distance education courses and programs. It is intended to make it easier for students to take online courses offered by postsecondary institutions

Council for State Authorizabased in another state. Marshall A. Hill, Executive Director of the National congratulated and welcomed MVNU as an institutional participant in SARA. "A great deal of work has gone into the development and implementation of the SARA initiative. We know that SARA will increase administrative efficiency and lower the costs of obtaining authorization to provide postsecondary distance education in states that join. These benefits will result in increased access as institutions like yours are able to more widely distribute academic programs and accept enrollments from students in many other states," Hill said.

Dr. Randie Timpe, Assistant to the President for Effectiveness and Planning at MVNU, explained that as each state has their own authorization process and application, the process can take up to 18 months, and can include costly

"An institution that becomes an SARA participant then can speed the process and decrease the expenditure of seeking individual state authorizations," Timpe said.

SARA is a completely voluntary initiative that benefits institutions that offer online or other distance education courses to students in several states because that institution may have less paperwork and fewer fees to pay. The advantage is that it allows institutions to enroll students in distance programs without having to go through the individual authorization process, which can be time consuming and costly.

Mount Vernon Nazarene University is a private, fouryear, intentionally Christian teaching university for traditional age students, graduate students and working adults. With a 327-acre main campus in Mount Vernon, Ohio, and several convenient Graduate and Professional Studies locations throughout the state, MVNU emphasizes academic excellence, spiritual growth and service to community and church. MVNU offers an affordable education to more than 2,100 students from 28 states and 16 countries/U.S. territories.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

As Woodburn residents head to the polls for the Nov. 3 general election, we should all remember some of the characteristics most important in an effective City Council member: thoughtfulness, honesty, loyalty, and hard working ethics. If elected 1st District Councilman, I will use these characteristics to maintain the integrity of the office and work to continue Woodburn's growth while still maintaining its small town atmosphere.

I have grown up, married, and raised a family here. My wife, Carol, and I are the proud parents of 3 children and 6 grandchildren. I am a Registered Nurse, have served 31 years in the Army National Guard, and over 40 years on the Woodburn Fire and EMS. My commitment to our great country and community will continue. I ask for your vote on November 3rd. Ín return, I will, to the best of my ability, provide community leader-ship to help protect the welfare of Woodburn's residents, improve the quality of life and continued growth of the Woodburn Community.

See you at the polls! –Mike Martin

EDITOR TO THE LETTER

We at the West Bend News do our very best to promote and exemplify the young people in our readership area. They are important to the future of community in our small towns. We make a point to make it to as many home games and events as our schedules will allow, and we depend on our readers and neighbors to supply us with news and information that we may happen to miss. West Bend News is a community news forum that spreads "good news for good communities". We accept news submissions from people and organization from local and surrounding areas to be published in the newspaper and established on our website and Facebook page.

This past week we received an anonymous letter criticizing our lack of publicity for a major feat by a volleyball player at Antwerp High School. To you Mr. Anonymous, we have one question:

If you wanted to be able to read about this fantastic accomplishment in the newspaper, why did you not submit it to us or give us a call and let us know? You are our eyes and ears, we need concerned citizens such as yourself helping us to promote the good news from our small towns.

It takes more than a few to have a good community, it takes all of us doing our small part to have a good community.

Sincerely,

—WBN editors

INDESTRUCTIBLE SOCCER BALLS FOR KENYA

Students at Central Lutheran School recently learned of the need for indestructible soccer balls in Kenya. The terrain and living conditions there make it nearly impossible to keep a soccer ball in working condition for longer than a few hours. When students realized that children in Africa love playing ball outside with friends just as much as they do, they were inspired to help. Students paid $1 for a "dress down day" and raised $613.39! The Kenya Mission Team from Emanuel Lutheran Church has 20 soccer balls to take with them, and 53 balls have been purchased online and will be shipped to Kenya on December 14. Central students were excited to sign their names on the soccer balls and look forward to seeing them presented to students in Kenya via Skype.

THE LOBO TANK BUSTERS

By: Stan Jordan

On today's mission, we went north up to southern Belgium. This is fall now and most of the leaves are gone from the trees and the Germans are fighting hard against Patton's troops as they are nearing some German soil.

The German border in this area is close to Belgium. The first German city is named Aachen. Hitler has told his troops to hold this town till the death, don't let the allies get a foothold on German

The fighting for this town has been going on for many weeks: the buildings are down to just rubble and there is a Kraut behind every pile of

The fighting is room to room and both sides have lost a lot of boys. The Germans are sworn to keep the village and the allies are determined to take it. We have been told to destroy everything we see that the Germans can use.

The railroad yards in town have already been blown to bits, so we followed the rails here to the German home land and up to the Rhine Riv-

We caught a freight train going east with a lot of flat cars loaded with all sorts of vehicles. The first thing we got was the engine, and the train stopped and became like a sitting duck. The rail cars were loaded with old tanks and some big guns and trucks.

We used our machine guns on the trucks and smaller stuff. The tracer started most of them to burning. We had dropped our extra fuel tanks when we got here and were running low on ammo and fuel and we met up around 500 feet and started back to our Anthony air base. We got home without any trouble and the crew here loaded up our P51's for our morning

Down at the mess hall, they had army stew. That is one of my favorites and I had my share. We didn't play cards tonight, we talked about today's mission and tomorrow's mission will just be another seek and destroy.

SOME MORE ON MARIJUA NA FOR MEDICAL USE

By: Stan Jordan

A few weeks ago I took a negative stand on the legalization of marijuana in the State of Ohio. I have never been told of anyone who had been helped by using marijuana for medicine.

My co-worker Sarah Klingler brought me a few pages of a story off the CNN News by Sandra Young about a baby girl being helped by a type of marijuana for her severe seizures. This was dated August 7, 2013.

The little girl was three weeks old and started to have an unknown type of seizure affliction. They would not stop and no one knew what her trouble was. She made many trips to the hospital and was near death a number of times.

Her name is Charlotte and they call her Charlie. Her parents have left no stone unturned to find some relief for her and them. She is a twin and her twin is fine with no problems.

After five years of terrible seizures without any help, they figured she has a rare form of seizure called Dravet Syndrome. She had been in and out of hospitals for two and a half years. She had been close to death a number of times and she was slipping away again.

When she was 2 ½ years old her parents took her to a children's hospital in Colorado. They told her she didn't have a SCNI gene mutation that is common in Dravet Syndrome cases. Then they took her to Chicago to see a Dravet specialist. He put her on a special diet and this helped her a little bit but the side effects were very bad.

In November of 2000, the State of Colorado voted in an amendment to which required the state to set up a medical marijuana program. There are eight medical conditions that allow doctors to use cannabis strain of marijuana but the average of these users are 42

Her father heard of a boy who had been taking cannabis that was low on THC. a compound in marijuana that is psycho active.

She had lost the ability to walk, talk and eat. Her parents were about at the end of their string again.

They had heard of a place in Colorado where some people with seizures have been helped, but none of her doctors would sign off and let Charlie be treated with marijuana because no one knew what the side effects would be.

They met with a Dr. Margaret Good and she said Charolette had been so close to death so many times, she has much brain damage by other medicine that it was easy to recommend the use of cannabis. The mother, Paige, soon heard of the Stanley brothers, one of the states largest growers and distributors of marijuana. They breed all types of and know and understand its use better than anybody else.

A bitterly cold night began the evening for Wayne Trace vs Hicksville football game at the Raider Field. The seniors for the home team were announced: Gabe Wobler, Noah Stoller, Luke Miller, Austin Winebrenner, Scott Wenninger, Corey Davis, Clint Sinn, Connor Arend, Justin Speice, and Austin Kuhn.

The first quarter began with the Aces scoring the first touchdown, by Senior Dillion Fuller attacking the south goal. It looked as though the game. Not the case! The next touchdown, coming in the second quarter, was scored when Wayne Trace's Gabe Wober passed the ball to Seth Saylor for a 7 yard touchdown. The two point conversion was also good giving the Raiders a 1 point lead.

The guest team from the north literally struggled with penalties, but they successfully intercepted several Wayne Trace passes from Wobler.

The second half had Hicksville scoring three more touchdowns: Travis Lysaght, Dillion Fuller, Payton Tunis. Logan Neidhardt also added a 3 point field goal.

For the Raiders, the second half was also productive. Cole Shepherd ran a 51 yard field goal and he also ran a 40 yard touchdown.

The Raiders lost the ball three times while Luke Miller intercepted one of Hicksville's passes. The Aces 104

USDA INVESTS IN LOCAL-LY-LED CONSERVATION PROJECTS THROUGH NEW REGIONAL CONSERVATION PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

Created under the 2014 Farm Bill, the Regional Conservation Partnership

Program (RCPP) is a new, comprehensive and flexible program that is designed to build strong and diverse partnerships, multiply the federal conservation investment and target conservation goals on a regional or watershed scale. RCPP empowers local leaders to work with multiple partners-such as private companies, local and tribal governments, universities, non-profit groups and other non-government partners-along with farmers, ranchers, and forest landowners to design solutions that work best for their region. Local partners and the federal government both invest funding and manpower in projects to maximize their impact. In its first two years, RCPP has energized local-state-federal partnerships and is creating new opportunities for innovation that reap benefits for individuals and entire communities.

RCPP draws on local knowledge and networks to fuel conservation projects. Partners are in the driver's seat with technical and financial help from USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS). State, local and regional partners join with agricultural producers to achieve specific, measurable results such as:

- clean and abundant water resources to provide drinking water for communities, irrigate crops, and provide habitat for wildlife;
- healthy soils that are resilient to drought and are the foundation for the production of food, feed and fiber for the nation and for export; and
- enhanced wildlife habitat to benefit at-risk species such as salmon and sage grouse, and support a diversified rural economy.

Funding

Partners may propose RCPP projects in one of three available funding pools: state-level, multistate and national, and critical conservation areas (California Bay Delta, Chesapeake Bay Watershed, Colorado River Basin, Columbia River Basin, Great Lakes Region Longleaf Pine Range, Mississippi River Basin and Prairie Grasslands). Of the total USDA investment available, 25 percent is allocated for state-level projects, 40 percent for multi-state and national projects, and 35 percent for projects in the critical conservation areas.

NRCS is maximizing the program's reach by calling on partners to match the NRCS requested funding, elevating the agency's $1.2 billion investment over five years into a $2.4 billion investment. Not only do partners bring funding, but also new partners, technical expertise and local knowledge.

RCPP in FY 2015

In January 2015, USDA delivered more than $370 million to 115 high-impact conservation projects across all 50 states and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. Water quality was the most common project objective; ranging from locally focused efforts to help producers meet water quality regulations to watershed-scale efforts that drive tangible improvement in major water bodies.

BOOKS, BASEBALL, AND THE BOOKMOBILE!

Take one former NFL defensive player, Tim Green, a passion for encouraging reading, free books and a bookmobile, and you have a recipe for an awesome program. Tim Green, former Atlanta Falcons player, has expanded on the NFL fitness theme of Play 60, which encourages young people to get outside and play each day, by adding Read 20. The combination of outside play for an hour and reading for twenty minutes provides a strong habit of fitness for both body and mind. Green's motto is "Reading is weightlifting for your mind." Mr. Green was recently a speaker at the Ohio Library Council Children's and Teen Services Conference. In lieu of an honorarium, he provided copies of his book, Baseball Great, to be made available to libraries via grants. The grant proposister to win the free book at each of the Bookmobile stops. INDOT PREPARES FOR SNOW, ICE WITH PRE-WIN-TER INSPECTIONS

Indiana Department of Transportation crews began preparing for the winter months with pre-winter inspections this week. By the end of October, INDOT inspectors will have travelled to each of the Fort Wayne District's 14 units to perform the annual inspection of snow and ice equipment.

During the inspections, INDOT's yellow trucks undergo a full bumper-tobumper examination and inspectors look for mechanical defects in need of repair. Special attention is paid to the trucks' steering, engine and brakes. Any problems are noted and will be addressed by INDOT mechanics prior to the first snow or ice event. To view a video of inspections at the Fort Wayne Unit, visit https://youtube/rZ5aktsX-

The preventative maintenance is an important way INDOT prepares for the winter months. Plow drivers also take part in mandatory snow and ice training each year, and most are already familiarizing themselves with their snow routes. INDOT Fort Wayne District is responsible for 140 snow routes in 17 counties in Northeast Indiana, maintaining 4,799 lane miles of roadway, 525 lane miles of interstate and 742 state bridges.

Ashley and Thomas W.L. Ashley United States Courthouse in Toledo, Ohio be included the Fiscal Year (FY) 2017 budget request.

The Federal Judiciary has recognized Toledo's need by placing the courthouse at the top of the Federal Judiciary Courthouse Project Priorities list. The Congressmen asked the President to ensure this remains a top priority of the Federal Judiciary.

"After visiting the James M. Ashley and Thomas W.L. Ashley U.S. Courthouse, it is evident that the building is severely outdated, does not meet minimum security standards, and lacks adequate space to function efficiently," said Latta. "The renovation of the Federal Courthouse is necessary for the judges, federal prosecutors and staff to effectively serve the Northern District of Ohio."

"The employees and community members who utilize the James M. Ashley and Thomas W. L. Ashley United States Courthouse deserve a functional and safe building," Brown said. "Federal funding for renovations will help ensure that the men and women working inside the courthouse can continue to serve the public."

"By making necessary renovations to the Toledo Courthouse, we can preserve the historic integrity of the building while also ensuring the safety of those working in the courthouse," said Portman.

USDA TO INVEST $30 MILLION TO HELP PROTECT WETLANDS IN SIX STATES

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture will award $30 million to projects in six states to protect, restore and enhance wetlands on private and tribal agricultural lands. The projects are being funded under the Wetland Reserve Enhancement Partnership (WREP), a program authorized by the 2014 Farm Bill.

'Through locally led partnerships like these, USDA is targeting conservation in the places that make sense, allowing us to address local concerns," Vilsack said. "These projects will improve water quality, prevent flooding, enhance wildlife habitat and meet increasing conservation challenges on over 19,000 acres of wetlands." Created by the 2014 Farm

Bill, WREP is a special enrollment option under the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program's Wetland Reserve Easement component. Through WREP, which is administered by USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), states, local units of governments, non-governmental organizations and American Indian tribes collaborate with NRCS through cooperative and partnership agreements. These partners work with tribal and private landowners who voluntarily enroll eligible land into easements to protect, restore and enhance wetlands on their properties.

Wetland reserve easements allow landowners to successfully enhance and protect habitat for wildlife on their lands, reduce impacts from flooding, recharge groundwater and provide outdoor recreational and educational opportunities. The voluntary nature of NRCS' easement programs allows effective integration of wetland restoration on working landscapes, providing benefits to farmers and ranchers who enroll in the program, as well as benefits to the local and rural communities where the wetlands exist.

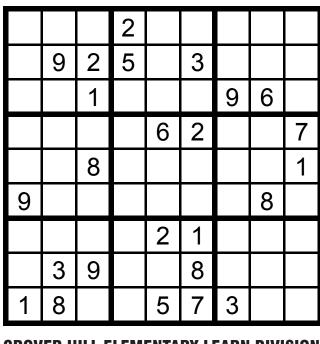

NRCS awarded grants for projects in Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, Mississippi, Nebraska and Tennessee.

2015-2016 WREP Projects: Iowa: Partners will acquire and restore prairie pothole wetlands and associated tallgrass prairie uplands on five sites within Prairie Pothole Joint Venture Priority Areas and Ducks Unlimited Living Lakes Initiative Emphasis Areas. Partner contributions will nearly double the acres of wetlands that will be protected and restored. NRCS plans to invest $3 million in this project.

Kentucky: Partners will acquire and restore wetlands in high priority small watersheds to reduce sediment and nutrients entering the Mississippi River. Coordination with the Kentucky Indiana Bat Fund, The Nature Conservancy and other partners will provide protection of adjacent forested wetlands, increasing the impacted area and quality of protected habitat provided for wildlife. NRCS plans to invest $9.4 million in this project.

Mississippi: Partners will expand an existing project to increase the acres acquired and wetlands restored in the Mississippi River Basin. These additional wetland acres will provide habitat for fish and wildlife, improve water quality by filtering sediments and nutrients, reduce flooding, recharge ground water and provide outdoor recreational opportunities. NRCS plans to invest $5.1 million in this

Missouri: Partners will enhance 9,500 acres of existing wetlands and restore 500 acres of critically imperiled wet prairie habitats on existing USDA easements improving a total of 10,000 acres. Strong partner support across 30 counties will build on the success of ongoing conservation easement programs in the state. NRCS plans to invest $2.4 million in this proj-

Nebraska: Additional partners will build on the success of two previous WREP projects to acquire and restore the state's playa wetlands and mixed-grass prairie buffers. By modifying irrigation and grazing practices this project will provide a unique twist on traditional easements with innovative partner input that links production agriculture land with conservation easements. NRCS plans to invest $1.7 million in this project.

Tennessee: Partners will acquire and restore wetlands in a Hypoxia Task Force priority watershed of the lower Mississippi River, reducing the sediment and nutrients entering the river while improving wildlife habitat. The project area also includes areas along the Mississippi River in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Kentucky and Missouri. Twenty-six of the 35 counties in the project area are identified by the USDA as Persistent Poverty Strike-Force Counties, where assistance to combat rural poverty will be targeted. This is the second phase of work that began in 2012 that is on track to enroll 15,000 acres by 2016. NRCS plans to invest 8.4 million in this project.

WREP partners contribute a funding match for financial or technical assistance. These partners work directly with eligible landowners interested in enrolling their agricultural land into conservation wetland easements.

Today's awards build on the more than $330 million USDA announced in fiscal year 2015 to protect and restore agricultural working lands, grasslands and wetlands. Collectively, NRCS easement programs help productive farm, ranch and tribal lands continue in agricultural production and protect the nation's critical wetlands and grasslands that are important to water supplies and home to diverse wildlife and plant species. Under the former Wetlands Reserve Program, private landowners, tribes and entities such as land trusts and conservation organizations have enrolled 2.7 million acres through 14,500 agreements for a total NRCS and partner investment of $4.3 billion in financial and technical assistance.

WASTE NOT WANT NOT IN THE FUTURE: 2016 FU-TURE CITY COMPETITION

It is time for middle schools to register students for the 2016 Future City competition, which allows students who are our future leaders, along with a teacher, and a professional mentor from the local community to join forces and develop a model of their take on how to make the world a better place. Last year, 19 middle schools participated in the state competition for 2014-2015, and Ohio's Future City organization hopes to see more students become problem-solvers this year.

The upcoming competition will ask students to focus in 2015-2016 on new, imaginative solutions for getting rid of things, looking at typical solutions in a new way for collection, separation, procession, recycling, health and safety, energy efficiency, environmental impact and cost. The theme, Waste Not Want Not, will allow students in 6th, 7th and 8th grades to learn how today's engineers and city planners deal with solid waste management, as they research cutting edge technologies and imagine plausible, futuristic solutions for future generations.

The winning Ohio team will represent their state at a national final Future City™ Competition, a program of DiscoverE, during National Engineer's Week, Feb. 21-27. The national finals team champion will receive a trip to U.S. Space Camp in Huntsville, Ala. provided by national finals host Bentley Systems,

In addition, nearly three in four girls who experience learning by doing and who are part of a girl-led program say that, because of Girl Scouts, they've become a leader in more activities with their friends and classmates, as well as in their community. "When girls lead, the world succeeds. Girl Scouts is the largest organization in the world where girls call the shots and take charge of their own future," said Anna Maria Chávez, CEO of Girl Scouts of the USA. "A troop who loves rollercoasters might invite an engineer to join them at their local amusement park to learn about what makes their stomach drop in real time, while another troop might be interested in what happens when you recycle a bottle, and plan a visit to their town's recycling plant. By doing what they're interested in and deciding how to learn more, they are developing leadership skills that aren't offered by any other extracurricular activity.' Hands-on learning opportunities and girl-led experiences within Girl Scouts supplement the academic learning girls receive in school. These fun and empowering experiences have been shown to boost girls' social and emotional skills, which are not generally part of a school curriculum, as well as improve academic performance. Additionally, since learning by doing is best facilitated in small environments, Girl Scouts' 3:1 adult volunteer to girl ratio gives girls the optimal experience to tap into their interests and talents, and the opportunity to explore fun new things like STEM, entrepreneurship, and the outdoors. GSRI reports girls who experience learning by doing and are part of a girl-led program are more likely to develop confidence, healthy relationships, critical thinking, problem solving and positive life skills.

Girl Scouts also provides benefits that directly complement all of the great work girls are already doing in school every day. Girls who experience learning by doing and who are a part of a girl-led program learn not to avoid things that are hard for them, but rather to take these challenges head on, practice creative problem solving, learn from mistakes, and grow-all skills that will help girls succeed throughout school and life.

While Girl Scouts is open to all girls from kindergarten through grade 12, anyone over the age of 18 can become a Girl Scout volunteer. Girls cannot experience the positive impact of Girl Scouts without adult volunteers, and each adult who volunteers has the opportunity to make a real difference in the life of a girl. Girl Scout volunteers come from all walks of life; they are men, women, young professionals, retirees, college students, and more. Both girls and adult volunteers can join at any time of the year. To join Girl Scouts or learn more about volunteering, please visit: www.girlscouts. org/join.

GIRL SCOUTS INVITES NEW GIRLS AND VOLUNTEERS TO JOIN IN THE FUN

Are you looking for quality, after-school activities for your child that fire her imagination, inspire her curiosity, and send her back to school eager to learn more? Girl Scouts of Western Ohio is inviting girls to join the fun and register for Girl Scouts. Providing countless opportunities for making friends, trying new things, and exercising leadership skills through activities like building robots, participating in the Girl Scout Cookie Program, playing sports, and more, Girl Scouts is an exciting way to engage girls all year round.

'Now that kids have settled into their school routines, families are now thinking about how they are going to allocate their free time after school," said Angela Tennaro, director of regional services for Girl Scouts of Western

Ohio. "Girl Scouts gives girls and adult volunteers a positive, life changing option. And that's not just talk. We have statistics that show our girls excel for years to come following their Girl Scout Leadership Experience."

National studies from the Girl Scout Research Institute (GSRI) show it's not just what girls do, but how they do it that makes Girl Scouts so beneficial. Girl Scouts is unique because girls get to learn by doing, and they do so in a girl-led environment. This means that, in addition to girls learning in a handson and active way, they are encouraged to choose their activities, decide which topics they want to explore, and determine how they want to go about exploring them. Girl Scouts is the largest girl-led organization in the world, and it is a significant contributor to its members' success in and enjoyment of life.
