DILIGENCE CATCHES BOMB SCARE SUSPECT!

It was in high school lunch period when the students heard they had to rush out of Antwerp Local Schools on Tuesday, January 27. Why? "It's a bomb. We must evacuate the school!" The teachers and administrators began moving the young people to their appropriate bus numbers on this cloudless day. Kindergartners and some of the other elementary classes missed their lunch.

FIRST EPIC SNOWFALL OF 2015

By: Josh Steiner

After a winter that has been relatively cold and snowy across the area, I think many of us are ready for the nice, warm, and even wet weather of March and April. This is especially true after the area was recently hit by a strong blast of winter weather, hitting the area with heavy snow, ice, and gusty winds. Now we're all hoping that winter ends soon, even if Punxatawney Phil disagrees.

On January 31st through February 2nd, the lower Great Lakes region, including northwest Ohio, northeast Indiana, and southern Michigan, was hit by a crippling winter-storm. Stretching from Omaha, NE to Albany, NY, heavy snowfall and freezing rain shut down major highways and cities, with up to 20" of snow observed in many locations. The I-80/I-90 turnpike had travel restrictions due to the dangerous conditions. Hundreds of flights were canceled at Chicago O'Hare and Midway airports, as well as at Fort Wayne, Detroit, and Cleveland. Many schools were closed on February 2nd due to snow-covered and in some cases, impassable roads.

The storm was just as significant across northeast Indiana and northwest Ohio. Reported total snowfall across the area ranged from as little as 6" in Putnam County to as much as 13" in Allen and Whitley County, IN. In Antwerp, 10.6" of snow was measured, while in Fort Wayne and Defiance, as much as a foot of snow was reported. Across far northern Indiana, snow totals ranged from 15-20", making it the most significant snowstorm since the Groundhog's Day blizzard of 2011 and the New Year's blizzard of 1999. The storm also produced strong, gusty winds across the area, leading to significant blowing and drifting snow well after snowfall had ended on the night of February 1st and into

Though it may have inconvenienced students and parents, safety was thought of first in this emergency situation. Parents were kept informed as the situation unfolded through the Honeywell Alert system the school has been using for weather delays and cancellations. Now we know it's also used for tier one alerts such as this.

Some parents said they did not receive the messages. If parents are not on the list they can easily sign up at the school website: antwerpschools.org and from there they can choose "Instant Alert" and sign up for different levels alerts. Some people may not want to know of every warning and they can simply check the 'high importance' box to keep informed of the safety emergencies.

From the time of announcement to the time when it was proclaimed to be safe, the school and officials worked from their drills of evacuation training performed regularly at the school.

The unnamed suspect who was arrested is a 15 year old juvenile male, with a previous record and this has now violated his probation. According to Chief Clemens there are possibly more being investigated as accomplices.

The case has been sent to Paulding County Prosecutor Joe Burkard for pending charges.

ALICE (Alert, Lockdown, Inform, Counter, Evacuate) training has been implemented with all county emergency personal as a coordinated effort by the Sheriff's Office.

Clemens stated, "We take safety serious for the students and the teachers. Everyone worked very well together. I am very pleased with the Sheriff putting these practices in place for when the real thing hits like this!"

Pat Ross commented on being pleased with the operation, "The training the teachers, administration and bus drivers went through has paid off. The students were escorted timely to the buses and then transported safely to the offsite location. I'm very appreciative of all the staff, aids, Sheriff, and police. Everyone worked well together for the safety of the children. People need to think what they are doing to others when they do

Even with the few small hiccups, I'm sure everyone is glad the young people are safe. The feedback the school is receiving is being used to hone this to be more effective if it might occur again. Hope-

TED WIESE INSPIRES ANTWERP STUDENTS

On January 30th, middle and high school students at Antwerp Local enjoyed learning from one of America's best youth motivational speakers, Ted Wiese. His interactive presentation focused on leadand team-building.

Students were definitely inspired by his "be part of the solution, not the problem" message. The workshop was made possible by the hard work of the student council and the financial support of the Academic Boosters.

the morning of February 2nd. Drifts as high as three to five feet were reported in some locations, especially in northern Indiana. Blowing and drifting lead to travel emergencies and restrictions area wide, with many roads becoming impossible to drive on or even impassable.

Where did this storm come from? Why did it form? And can we expect more to come for the rest of the winter?

It began with an upper-level disturbance that moved onshore British Columbia Thursday night, January 29th. Forecast model guidance had suggested that the disturbance would dive southeast into the United States and produce a swath of light to moderate snow from the Central Plains to the East Coast. At most, snowfall of 4-6" was expected across parts of the Midwest, southern Indiana, Ohio, and into Maryland and Virginia. However, by early Thursday morning, forecast guidance began to shift the track northward, foreshadowing the development of a much more powerful storm system.

By January 30th, the development of the storm was fairly certain. The upper-level disturbance across British Columbia would still dive southeast, but it would also interact with a weak upper-level low across the American Southwest. This interaction would strengthen the disturbance, fueling it with abundant moisture from the Pacific Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico. Forecast models were then showing a significant snowstorm stretching from Chicago eastward into Pennsylvania. Snowfall totals of 16-20" of

eeds

Serving Since 1920

snow were indicated by forecast models, especially from Chicago to the Fort Wayne area. National Weather Service forecasters indicated that if 16-20" of snow were to fall, it would be one of the area's heaviest snowstorms to ever impact the region. However, the NWS was not going to predict such high totals due to the uncertainty

By Saturday, January 31st, forecast models were making some uneasy. While they had retained the record-breaking snowfall amounts, models were showing differing placement of the heaviest snow. They were now indicating that the heaviest snow would fall just to the north of our area. For this reason, the National Weather Service kept snowfall amounts in the 10-15" range when they issued the Winter Storm Warning. Not only this, but there was also the possibility that blizzard conditions would be present across the area. The National Weather Service refrained from issuing a blizzard warning due to the fact that the strongest winds were not expected to impact the area until after the snow had ended, but they did note that near blizzard conditions would be possible during the heaviest began falling across the area by 11:00 p.m. that night. Light to moderate snow fell through most of the night, with most locations reporting 2-4" by Sunday morning. As the low-pressure system developed, however, a break in the snow was observed in many locations, especially east of I-69. Very light snow fell for most of the morning across Paulding and Defiance Counties, with heavier snow just off to the west. By noon, moderate to heavy snow had shifted back into the region, dropping visibilities and making roads hazardous.

Moderate to heavy snow fell through most of the afternoon, mostly north of U.S. 30. With the strengthening low-pressure system, warmer air was drawn northward into the Lima and Van Wert areas, causing some of the snow to mix with or change over to rain. Surface temperatures rose into the mid and even upper 30's across these locations. This was something that surprised forecasters, as the warm air was not expected to reach this far north. By late afternoon, cold, Arctic air seeped southward into the area, changing all precipitation to snow, and allowing another period of moderate to heavy snow to blast the area. By 9:00 p.m., only light snow was being reported across the area, with storm total accumulations approaching a foot in many locations. This was especially true north and west of U.S. 24.

This winter storm will not likely be forgotten. Although we didn't see nearly as much snowfall as areas north and west of us did, the 8-14" of snow that many of us did see was enough to shutdown schools and businesses across the area. This certainly reminded us that we are still in winter, and still in an area that is prone to major winter storms.

DINNER & A MOVIE AT WOODBURN UNITED METH-ODIST CHURCH

On Wednesday, February 11, 2015 at 6:00 p.m., Woodburn United Methodist Church will continue hosting our monthly Dinner and a Movie Night. The fun will begin at 6:00 p.m. with an Italian supper. We will be having homemade cavatini with garlic bread and a salad provided by the Womacks. We'll also have red velvet cupcakes with cream cheese frosting, fresh fruit for our diabetic friends (dessert provided by the Pattersons), and a lot of good fellowship.

After the dinner, we'll adjourn to the sanctuary to view the inspirational movie, God's Not Dead. As the internet says, "This is the story of an Evangelical college student who finds his faith challenged by a philosophy professor who believes that God does not exist. It stars Kevin Sorbo, Shane Harper, David A. R. White, Dean Cain, Newsboys, Willie Robertson, and Korie Robertson." At the end of the movie, there will be a drawing for a door prize, but you must be present to win this prize. There is no charge for this uplifting evening of food, fun, faith, and fellowship. Woodburn United Meth-

IF YOU WERE TO FIND A $1000 BILL IN A BOR-ROWED BOOK?

Winning the Battle for a Generation by: Pastor Rick In my first year at Bible

College I learned a lot of new things, some that I've carried with me the rest of my life. One of those "new things" I learned was the "Supremacy of Scripture," that the Bible in the final authority for the believer in "faith and practice." However, many in our day have lost the allure, the permeating power and presence of scripture in daily living. Imagine with me that you what you can find in an old used book. Used and rare booksellers discover countless objects inside books as they sort and catalog books for resale. According to the huge online bookseller Abe-Books.com, they've found a host of strange and exciting objects in used books, including forty $1,000 bills, a Mickey Mantle rookie baseball card, a marriage certificate from 1879, a baby's tooth, a diamond ring, social security cards, credit card receipts, shopping lists, business cards, postcards, a World War II US ration book (with stamps remaining), World War II discharge papers, a pair of scissors, a valid driver's license, a cockroach (dead), and a strip of bacon.

We've been doing it for about two years since opening the store. The display quickly took over the back wall and now it's spreading to other places, and there's a backlog of stuff that we haven't put up yet. There are postcards, shopping lists, and concert tickets but my favorites are the cryptic notes. They are often deeply personal and can be very moving.

LATTA, WELCH REINTRO-DUCE BIPARTISAN LEGIS-LATION TO STRENGTHEN ENERGY STAR PROGRAM

Congressman Bob Latta (R-OH) and Congressman Peter Welch (D-VT) reintroduced the Energy Star Program Integrity Act, bipartisan legislation to promote continued development of energy efficient appliances through the Energy Star Pro-

"Energy efficiency is a critical component of our national energy strategy," said Latta and Welch. "The Energy Star Program Integrity Act will strengthen the Energy Star Program, which has already proven to be a successful tool in advancing the development and use of energy efficient technologies and promoting economic expansion and job growth for participating manufacturers. This legislation is the product of impacted stakeholders and will balance the program's incentives and agency oversight with consumer protections." Under current procedures, when an Energy Star product is disqualified from the program, a reinstatement process is initiated whereby the manufacturer and the administering agency resolve the cause for disqualification. Within this process, it is determined whether any consumers have been harmed and if compensation is warranted. Since this process has proven successful, the Energy Star Program Integrity Act simply codifies the existing process. This modest fix will help to deter

that could chill participation in the Energy Star program.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

This letter concerns the increase of factory farms in Paulding County. We now have a lot more manure problems than we can handle as far as air, water and soil contamination. They are hauling it in from other counties (why?). It lies in some areas like pools of oil on top of the ground and sometimes you can't step out of your door without the odor pushing you back in the house. This CANNOT be healthy for anyone. It's on the road, along the road, in the air and everywhere. Zylstra Dairy in Harrison Twp. wants to increase its hear to 2,000. It will have to expand its existing manure storage pond to 23 million gallons as well as its solid manure storage to 66,200 cubic feet. They are near the Zuber Cut-off ditch which is near our property. What happens if that overflows? I am concerned now about the quality of water we are using in our pond for the house even though we use filters, etc. This is not fair to the land owners all around these dairy farms and other factory farms that produce so much waste and dead animals. The mink farm, that is in Paulding County (I've heard) sends the pelts back to Russia and uses the bodies to refeed back to the mink. Are the dead poultry birds reground back into poultry feed? I know alot of everything goes into dog food: the whole bird (feathers, feet and all), odds and ends and scraps of different kinds of meats and even plastics have been found in it. It is public knowledge that even our own USA people that ate ground meat from some grocery stores had a mad cow disease a few years ago because the spinal cords of diseased cows were ground into the ground meat along wit the snouts, ears, and everything possible. So what happens to the dead animals from these factory farms? When there are thousands of animals on each farm, you realize that there are animals that die all the time. What do they do with them? You know that we have a huge fly problem now too. It's scary to thing that they could be coming from rotting meat somewhere near your home.

I heard from an attendant to one of the recent factory farm meetings in the fall of 2014, that Mr. Cooper that was there said they intend to put 17 hog farms in this area in the future. When the crowd groaned, he said, "Well, you like pork chops, don't you?" I, for one, have not purchased any pork chops since I heard that. I do not want to see anymore factory farms in Paulding County.

I grew up on a farm with all kinds of animals. I helped milk cows; it's not that I am not accustomed to farm smells, but I don't like them coming two miles down the road and taking over my space where I've lived for 50 years. It scares me that the almighty dollar can ruin the common person and the politicians cannot or will not do anything about it.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Commissioners' Office understands and appreciates the concerns expressed in the most recent letter to the editor. A feasibility study was completed by Poggemeyer Design Group in 1994 for the installation of an elevator and an exterior ramp to the Court House. The study concluded that the addition of an elevator would be best placed on the west side exterior of the building. This in turn would cause other structural issues along with degrading the appearance of the building. The study also concluded that a ramp to the ground floor would have to extend 54 feet out either the north or south sides of the building. This ramp would only allow access to the ground floor offices without the installation of an elevator. Because the installation of an elevator would cause additional issues with the building and affect the historical appearance, it was decided to address the accessibility in a different route. Without breaking any Federal and State laws, anyone needing service through one of the Courts can receive said service at the County Annex Building. The County Annex is completely handicap accessible. The other offices have adopted a policy of curbside service. If any individual is unable to gain access to the court house and wants to do business there, they can call any of the offices and a representative from that office will meet them at the curb to serve their needs. This practice has been in place since the feasibility study was completed. As far as the new handicap parking places, we also recognize that handicaps can be in different degrees of severity. We would hope that the additional spaces help those with less severe handicaps conduct business within the court-

GIRL SCOUT CAMP REGIS-TRATION BEGINS

Registration begins today for Girl Scout Camps located throughout Western Ohio. Camps are open for girls in grades K-12 who can choose from one day, overnight, or longer stays at one of the Girl Scout camp properties throughout the Girls can select from a nenu of exciting activities available for various age groups including archery, swimming, watercrafts, acting/drama, hiking, adventure trips, and much more.

"Girl Scout Camp is open to every girl everywhere," said Vicki Proctor, Outdoor Program and Partnerships Team Leader for Girl Scouts of Western Ohio, "You don't have to be in a troop to go to camp, but you do have to be an official member. It's a fun way for girls to spend their summer connecting with nature, making new friends, and creating lasting memories."

Financial assistance is available. A portion of the annual Girl Scout Cookie Program helps to provide the financial assistance, or "camperships", in addition to maintaining camp facilities, training staff and volunteers, and supplying activity resources and tools.

"Going to camp is often the first time girls are away from home on their own," said Proctor, "We provide a safe environment and trained, caring adults who really teach girls how to be independent. They learn how to wake up on their own, make their bed, attend activities on time, and keep track of their belongings things some girls have never done before." Benefits of Outdoor Experience:

According to a recent study by the Girl Scout Research Institute, More Than S'mores, girls benefit immensely from time spent outdoors. Girls who regularly spend time outdoors eclipse their peers who spend less time outdoors in environmental stewardship, more readily seek challenges, and are better problem solvers—all important traits in twenty-first century leadership.

Outdoor experiences are also particularly beneficial to girls of comparatively low socioeconomic status (SES). More Than S'mores finds that lower-SES girls who have regular outdoor exposure through Girl Scouts are likely to credit Girl Scouts with helping them become Registration Now Open: Girl Scout Camps are located within Allen, Defiance, Miami, and Warren Counties. A complete list of prices, dates, times, and topics can be found in the 2015 Girl Scout Camp Brochure, located on the organization's website at gswo. org/camp.

THE LOBO TANK BUSTERS

By: Stan Jordan

We four pilots were over the Caen area pretty early this morning. We caught a German convoy that had not arrived at its destination yet and we shot it up pretty good.

Over a period of a few weeks, we have learned what we can do or not do with a rocket. We use them on bigger targets and use our canons and machine guns on trucks and smaller vehicles.

Well, just to the west of Caen was a small village sitting across a paved highway. The Americans medium tanks were slowly going up to the town, but had stopped moving because there was a road block on the outskirts of the village.

We could look down and see that the lead tank had stopped and the tank commander got down and put out his colored panels. This tells us that there are no American troops ahead of those panels and we are free to shoot up

So, we buzzed the town and found that the Germans had used logs to make a barricade across the road and if our tanks would pull up the Germans 88mm cannons would have that area zeroed in and they would massacre our boys.

Two of our pilots flew over to the convoy on the other highway and had a ball. They shot up lots of trucks and supply vehicles. I stayed right there to take care of the road block and Lt. Ames went looking over on the hillside for the German cannons.

The road block was anchored on both ends by logs buried in the ground. They had spent a good deal of time and this was a good road block and I was determined to blow it up. I put one rocket on the right side and the logs just split apart. Then I made another pass and put a rocket about a third of the way across the road block. Then I did the same thing on the other end of the road block. I used all four of my rockets to get that road block out of the road.

While I was doing this, Lt. Ames found a couple of German 88 mm canons over on the hillside and he blasted both of them. So, now the tank commander could pick up his colored panels and drive through the road block on towards Caen.

There were a few German troops around the road block but I think they surrendered to the tank commander.

We went back to our airbase and the crewmen got our planes ready for the dawn pa-

We set and talked about all we done today and we had a pretty good day. I'm sure the tankers were talking about us

BEAT THE WINTER BLUES BY BIRD FEEDING

Got the Winter Blues? Winter time can be a down and dreary time as many of us spend the majority of our time inside, but the birds can bring beautiful melodies and thoughts of springtime into your home. Bird feeding is one of the most popular backyard hobbies, enjoyed by millions of people. The effort is quite simple and most always successful—a bird feeder filled with seed placed in just about any environment will result in at least one or more types of birds taking advantage of the food source according to the Ohio Department of Wildlife.

Winter time can also be a difficult time of year for many birds. The natural food supply has been consumed or is hidden by snow. Most insects are dead or dormant. Water can be hard to find, and food needed to provide the energy to keep birds warm might be scarce. Birds are warm-blooded, which means that they maintain their body temperature within a certain range even when the temperature around them changes. On cold, wintry days, most birds fluff up their feathers, creating air pockets, which help keep the birds warm. The more air spaces, the better the insulation.

Feeding birds in the winter helps them to survive until spring time when can find their own natural food sources again. Feeding birds isn't a lifelong time commitment as the birds have a natural instinct to travel to different food sources available to them. During the winter months, it is best to provide high energy foods to the bird such as seeds and suets. Oil sunflower has twice the calories per pound than striped sunflower. Suet is a great food to offer many of the birds that will visit backyards in the winter. Suet is a high energy, pure fat substance which is invaluable in winter when insects are harder to find and birds need many more calories to keep their bodies warm. Peanuts are another great food to offer birds in the wintertime. Peanuts have high protein and fat levels and are often an ingredient in suet products. Feeders should be located out of the wind. The east or southeast side of a house or near a row of trees is ideal. It is best to have a perching spot such as

READING DOES A BODY

The Nurturing Well by: Jill

Lots of things are good for us. Eat your veggies and fruit. Get enough rest. Brush your teeth. Dress according to the weather. Wear sunscreen. Exercise daily. And the list goes on. These are all things that we do physically, on the outside. And they are things we often tell our children. So when I told my seven-year-old that reading was good for her, she couldn't seem to wrap her mind around it. "It is?" she questioned. I'm guessing that things we put into our mind seems different than things we physically put into and onto our bodies for "good" reasons. Or perhaps it's because she enjoys doing it. How can anything we enjoy doing be "good" for us? Some people love reading so much they become bookworms. They are the ones you see at their child's sports practices with their nose in a book, seemingly antisocial. They are the ones who neglect cleaning their house, procrastinate on writing assignments, forego exercise, or become sleep-deprived because they are obsessed with reading. Sometimes they read so fast that they barely remember the titles. These so-called bookworms prefer reading over most other options that come their way. They have to literally refrain from visiting the library, buying bargain books, borrowing books from friends, or downloading them (if you are an electronics fan) in order to get anything accomplished. They love everything about books including the way they look, the way they feel, the way they sound when turning a page, and even the way they smell. (This may or may not be me.)

While I could write pages about the benefits of reading, I will stick to a few of the top

1. Keeps your mind active. When we read, we imagine the people, the landscape, and the feelings behind the characters. Therefore, reading forces our minds to work. Reading is one way we teach children language skills. Studies indicate reading can keep dementia at bay.

2. Improves writing skills. Reading helps us become better writers because we expose ourselves to new words. When we constantly see words, we learn more vocabulary and the correct spelling of words. We learn how to properly use punctuation and put words together to form sentences and paragraphs.

3. Provides entertainment. A good book is essentially a cheap form of entertainment. It's typically cheaper than a night out at the movies or a nice dinner at a restaurant. Even better, this form of entertainment can last for days instead of hours. Furthermore, you can take this form of entertainment with you just about anywhere. For those who prefer to read by electronic means, you can download a book in a matter of

4. Helps you relax. Diving into a good story can take you away from the stress of reality.

5. Teaches you new things. Reading provides us an abundance of knowledge that covers nearly everything we could ever face in our lifetimes and more. Reading helps us follow directions, learn about current events, and so much more.

So many good things come from reading. However, it can be time-consuming and addictive, so be aware of the clock when responsibilities loom. Otherwise, read on!

ANTWERP ATHLETIC BOOSTERS BEGIN NEW BASKETBALL EVENTS

By: Derek Reeb

Recently, the Antwerp Athletic Boosters have created two activities for varsity basketball games, hoping to create excitement, involvement, and support for

The first activity, involves an Honorary Athlete that is selected to present the game ball before each varsity basketball game. This is similar to someone throwing the first pitch at a baseball game. Currently, students participating in Mini-Archers basketball are entered into a random drawing. The Athletic Boosters are looking into expanding this to include all elementary students. The student presents the ball to the referee to be used for tip-off at the varsity game. The honorary student and his/her parents get free admission to the game. The first Honorary Athlete was Derek Hines, a second grader in the Mini-Archers basketball program! He is the son of Ryan and Lori Hines and has an older brother, Dylan, and a younger broth-

The other regular event is a drawing called the "Hot Shot". The winner is drawn and announced during the first quarter of the varsity game, and the chosen person comes to the floor between the first and second quarters to try their luck. The shooter will have 20 seconds to shoot a lay-up, then a free throw, then a 3-pointer, in that order. They must make the lay-up shot to try the free throw, then they must make the free throw to shoot for the 3-pointer. The shooter will receive Subway gift cards depending on how many shots they complete. They will get a $5 gift card for making the lay-up shot, $10 if they make both the lay-up and free throw, and a $20 card if they make all three shots in 20 seconds.

Come out to support the Honorary Athletes and try your luck on the floor!

special one for the students and staff at the St. Rose of Lima School in Monroeville, IN. The occasion was two-fold. It was National School Choice Week and National Catholic Schools Week. The first celebrates the diverse educational options available to parents and their ability to choose the educational environments for their children. At the beginning of the week, all students were presented with bright yellow School Choice scarves. These attention-getters spark curiosity, giving the students and staff the opportunity to discuss the reason behind them. The second celebrates Catholic education in the United States. For this special week, the school celebrated daily in many fun and unique che mine, tine!

Did you know?

The first box of chocolates made specially for Valentines day was produced by Richard Cadbury in the 1800's.

In the U.S.A. 15 % of women send themselves flowers on this day.

Red roses are related to love because the color red stands for romantic strong feelings.

The best Valentine gift ever given its the Taj Mahal in India, which was built in the memory of the Mughal Emperor Shahjahan's wife.

In Wales, spoons were made out of wood, and given on Valentines day. The favorite decorations were hearts, key holes and keys, which meant: "You unlock my heart".

The heart its the most common symbol of this holiday, because it was believed that the soul lived inside of it.

The only countries that celebrate Valentines Day are: U.S., Mexico, Canada, Australia, UK and France.

People believed that if you signed your Valentine letter with other than the line "From your Valentine", you would have bad luck for the whole year.

The x became a synonymous of kiss, because during the medieval time, when people could not write even their name, they used to put an X, then kissed it to prove they were honest.

The women in days of old believed that if they saw a Robin flying on this day, they would marry a sailor, if they saw a Sparrow, they would marry a poor man, but would be happy, and if a Goldfinch was what they saw, they would marry a rich man.

Myth: Chocolate is high in caffeine. Fact: While eating chocolate may perk you up, chocolate is actually not very high in caffeine. A 1.4-ounce chocolate bar or an 8-ounce glass of chocolate milk both contain 6 mg of caffeine, the same amount as a cup of decaffeinated coffee. (For reference, regular coffee contains about 65-135mg of caffeine.)

Myth: Chocolate is loaded with saturated fat and is bad for your cholesterol.

Fact: Stearic acid, the main saturated fat found in milk chocolate, is unique. Research has shown that it doesn't raise cholesterol levels the same way that other types of saturated fats do. In fact, eating a 1.4 ounce chocolate bar instead of a carbohydrate-rich snack has been shown to increase HDL (good) cholesterol levels.

Myth: Chocolate lacks any nutritional

Fact: Chocolate is a good source of magnesium, copper, iron and zinc. It also contains polyphenols (an antioxidant also found in tea and red wine) that have been associated with a decreased risk of coronary disease. An average chocolate bar contains about the same amount of antioxidants as a 5-ounce glass of red wine.

A daily serving of dark chocolate, which contains more antioxidants than milk chocolate, can also help lower blood pressure and improve insulin resistance according to a joint study between Tufts University in Boston and the University of L'Aquila in Italy. The findings do not suggest that people with high

A Day for Love & Expression - Valentine's Day 2015

Valentine's Day 2015 is approaching fast, so be prepared with gifts and various ideas to let your special someone know how much you love and care for them. Like every year, Valentine's Day will be celebrated with full enthusiasm, charm and happiness all over the world. The definition of love varies from person to person, but this February 14th, people are not going to define love - they are going to celebrate it.

People will try to express their feelings towards their loved ones through innumerous Valentine's Day ideas. Everyone seems to try and out-do one another when it Day gift-giving. But, nothing is comes to Valentine's Day gift-giving. But, nothing is wrong with a little competition, right? Finding the perfect gift doesn't have to be a harrowing feat. Try looking right around the corner to your local shops for help. Don't be afraid to get creative!

For that special guy in your life, what about a luxurious watch, a leather belt, or a fascinating tie? We all know that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, so it's a safe bet that anything food related would be an absolute hit.

For your lovely lady, a vase of flowers, a box of her favorite chocolates (and if she's really lucky, a teddy bear, too!) are classic staples for Valentine's Day. If she's an avid reader, try going for a new book. What about a gift card to your local coffee shop for a quick and delicious pick-me-up in her day? Pamper her with a relaxing trip to the spa or salon. Of course, you can also take it a step further with sparkly diamond jewelry just for her.

The perfect give can create beautiful moments and lasting memories between you and your sweetheart, but don't forget that Valentine's Day is also a day for people to take a time out from their busy schedule and be thankful for their loved ones.

blood pressure consume dark chocolate in lieu of taking their prescribed medication, but that the flavonoids in dark chocolate may have a positive effect on blood pressure and insulin resistance.

Myth: Chocolate causes cavities. Fact: Candy alone is not responsible for cavities. Cavities are formed when bacteria in the mouth metabolize sugars and starches from any type of food (soda, candy, juice, bread, rice and pasta) to produce acid. This acid then eats through the enamel of the tooth, causing a cavity.

Myth: Chocolate causes headaches

Fact: While sited as a common cause of migraines, a study by the University of Pittsburgh has shown no link between chocolate and headaches. The results of that doubleblind study of 63 participants known to suffer chronic headaches were published in the neurology journal Cephalalgia. Chronic headaches were once thought to be caused by amines in foods (including histamine and beta-phenylethylamine) such as cheddar cheese, peanuts, cured meats, chocolate and alcohol, but this study eliminated chocolate as a possible headache cause.

Myth: Chocolate causes acne. Fact: Regardless of what your parents or grandparents may still say, studies in the past twenty years have eliminated chocolate as a cause of acne. In fact, many dermatologists doubt that diet plays any significant role in the development of acne. Acne is now believed to be caused by a combination of high bacterial levels and oil on the skin.

Myth: Chocolate causes weight gain.

Fact: Any food can be part of a healthy diet if consumed in moderation. An average chocolate bar contains 220 calories, which is low enough to be a part of a weight control diet if other high-calorie foods are eliminated. Enjoying the occasional piece of chocolate may reduce the risk of severe bingeing, which can occur when you feel deprived of your favorite foods.

Chocolate's bad reputation is slowly changing and research now shows that chocolate can be a part of an overall healthy lifestyle, when consumed in moderation. If you keep your portion sizes small and select dark chocolate whenever possible, the occasional treat can be a guilt-free part of your diet.

At this level, all of the teams are top quality and have very solid line

"It is not very often in Paulding County that you can travel a short distance and see quality wrestling at the regional level. We are fortunate that we were seeded high enough to be able to host, and that the

MORE PLANS FOR NEW BASEBALL FIELD AT ANT-WERP SCHOOL DISCUSSED

By: Derek Reeb

The Antwerp Athletic Boosters Board of Directors met on Wednesday, January 28th to discuss several ideas. One of the main items on the table was planning a new baseball diamond for youth, high school, and community teams. This campaign has been strongly approved by every member of the Board, so frequent news of it can be expected.

The Boosters are currently working with school officials to get the details set in stone. Board member Scott McMichael is working with the Antwerp High School CAD (Computer-Aided Design) class in order to create a small model of the planned diamond. In this model, there will be new restrooms, bleachers, storage sheds, batting cages, concession stands, and of course, a large baseball/softball field. The location of the diamond will be near the current softball field. Kauser Excavating prepared the ground in the fall before the winter freeze began. They plan to have everything situated conveniently in one location to be more easily accessible to everyone, and will be ADA (American Disability Act) compliant. Athletic Boosters President Jason Landers said, "There are more plans being explored to enhance our athletic facilities across the board." The School Board has recently created a committee to aid the Athletic Boosters in doing so.

The design for this construction comes a few years after the school track received its badly needed upgrade. Estimates range from $150,000 to $175,000. Boosters will begin to fund-raise once plans are finalized and a cost is established, and they expect this project to take about five years. Be on the lookout in the future for ways to donate and help with this community project.

HOUSE WORKS TOGETHER TO COMBAT HUMAN TRAF-FICKING

Congressman Bob Latta (R-OH) joined his colleagues in the U.S. House of Representatives in passing several pieces of legislation to combat human trafficking and provide protection to the victims of this abuse and exploitation. Human trafficking is a $32 billion a year industry, which affects millions of children, women and men across the United States and throughout the world. In addition, Toledo has some of the highest human trafficking rates in the "Human trafficking is a rapidly growing problem that demands our immediate attention," said Latta. "Instances of human trafficking are multiplying across the country and taking root in our neighborhoods and communities with more than 1,000 victims in Ohio each year. These votes in the House are critical, bipartisan steps to combatting this epidemic at home and abroad, and I applaud my colleagues for working together to end this modern-day form of slavery."

WOODLAN FALLS TO INVINCIBLE LEO

Leo's Adam Davison blocks Andrew Krahn's pass in the game at the Strautman Field House. More pictures at west-

The Lions hit the Warrior court on Friday, January 30 for the boys powerhouse team. Leo has gone undefeated for this season and is well on their way to a state game.

This game began with Leo dominating the first period of the game. The Warriors were not dead, and Woodlan would get back in the game. Between Adam Davison and Jeremy Davison, they scored nearly half of all of Leo's points for the game.

The second quarter hurt Woodlan the most. Warriors only added 9 while Leo added another 25and the half ended at 17-40 with the Lions nailing a 3 point shot at the half time buzzer.

Coming back out after the half, Leo added another 25 points. Woodlan had their highest scoring period, hitting 19 in the third and the top scorers being Loren Hahn and Andrew Krahn.

The fourth period Woodlan brought Leo's offense under control and stopped the bleeding, though it was too late for any serious progress. The game finished with a 30 point difference, Leo taking

ANTWERP JH WRESTLERS GO 2 FOR 2 AT GMC TOUR-NAMENT

The Antwerp Junior High wrestling team recently competed at the GMC tournament on January 31, 2015. The Archers only have two junior high wrestlers, but both were able to come home with conference titles. 80 pound 8th grader, Aidan McAlexander, remained undefeated on the year by going 2-0 on Saturday with two pins to win his 1st GMC tournament title. Also placing 1st on the day was 8th grader Tyler Bauer at 104 pounds. Bauer was 3-1 on the day with 2 pins. Tyler also made history for Antwerp by becoming the 1st junior high wrestler to be a 2-time GMC Champion. These 2 wrestlers have set a very high bar, not only for themselves but for the future wrestlers coming into junior high. They are extremely hard working individuals on the wrestling mat and even better role models away from the mat. These young men have made great accomplishments so far this season and throughout their junior high careers. Be sure to catch Aidan and Tyler wrestle their last junior high meet on February 12, 2015 when they battle Wayne Trace and Paulding at Paulding High

Dear Miss C, I feel guilty even asking this one. But my neighbor has an elementary school aged child. Right after school the child comes to our house to hang around. I think the parents work (but I am not 100% sure). We like this child a lot, but they won't go home. This child spends at least five days (sometimes more) a week and even has supper with us. The child's parents don't seem worried about where they are in the evening. They just don't seem to take responsibility for daytime hours. Sometimes the child even brings homework or books and just sits on our deck and reads. What should I do? -Caring Neighbor

Dear Caring Neighbor,

I believe you have two choices. One, you can tell this child he or she is welcome at your home, then set a schedule for when the child can or cannot be at your home...then stick to those boundaries. Or Two, you can realize that this behavior shows a need, and address it. It's likely that this child is afraid to be alone in an empty house. Perhaps you could find a way to incorporate this child into your normal afternoon schedule? Are your children doing homework in a certain place at a certain time? This child can too! Are your children doing chores? You could assign chores to this child as well. But perhaps you should talk to the parents. You might share with them that you are happy to include their child in your afternoon plans. These simple actions and conversations can change a child's life. An adult recognizing the child has a need, and helping with this need has helped many a child in overcoming life's bumps. Blessings, second grader Elle Clem.

LITERACY NIGHT FAMILY FUN

Elementary hosted its first-ever Family Literacy Fun Night on Monday, January 26th. The goal of the event was to spotlight the importance of family involvement in the reading process and to equip parents with literacy tools and information that help students become strong readers. Parents and students enjoyed a free meal, a presentation by guest author Paul Orshoski, community guest readers, crafts, and other literacy centers. Students had the opportunity to meet

Mr. Orshoski and have him autograph a book. During the event, each student received a free book, several students won raffle drawings, and students had the chance to pose as a reading superhero in a photo. National Junior Honor Society members greeted guests, helped with the activities, and provided childcare. The collaboration of the elementary teachers, administration, and the library staff, made this inaugural event was a very successful one.

BUSHELS BRING EMPOWERMENT

The Grabill-Leo growing project of Foods Resource Bank has completed twelve years of production.

Foods Resource Bank

is a multi-denominational charitable organization that engages US farmers, churches and community groups whose fund raising efforts help poor farmers around the world to grow their own food.

Overseas projects include irrigation, fertilization, improved seed varieties and animal husbandry. FRB works through partnering agencies in over 30 countries.

This year about 40 members of this community provided land, crop inputs, trucking, labor, machinery and cash to plant and harvest corn, soybeans and wheat. Through these efforts the Grabill-Leo growing project sent $75,000.00 to FRB, designating $28,000.00 to be directed through Mennonite Central Committee projects.

The Grabill-Leo committee wants to offer a BIG recognition to those that made 2014 a successful growing project. Also, recognizing the local Amish churches for their financial contributions. Through our local farming model, every dollar that is invested becomes approximately four dollars helping poor farmers become sustainable farmers. For more information, please contact Kevin Roth at 260-627-2296.

STAR*QUEST UPDATE

By: Gene Stringer

The year 2015 opens with bright prospects for the Star*Quest Project to achieve our long-sought goal of building a new modern observatory at Jefferson Township Park. Our current financial status as of December 31, 2014:

The Star*Quest Design Team is meeting with Viridian Architect and our new contractor, Robert Koors Builders, to explore ways to address the shortfall of $27,000 through donations and gifts-in-kind. We expect to sign a contract soon which will prioritize building tasks and establish a timeline for building the observatory. As soon as we have a timeline I will be asking for volunteers to perform those tasks which have been identified.

Our grand opening may slip to May or June, according to the contractor's estimate. If you are wondering how you can volunteer your time to the Star*Quest Project you can contact the following team leaders:

their CPR unit.

At Vantage Career Center, students find the "best of both worlds". They receive a first-class career technical education while meeting all of the academic requirements for high school graduation. In addition to Trade and Industry programs and Business programs, Vantage also offers specialized programs in Service careers described below. Due to the tremendous advances in the medical field, outstanding career opportunities are available to students in our Health Technology program. Many health care workers provide basic bedside care and take vital signs such as temperature, blood pressure, pulse and respiration. They may also prepare and give injections, collect samples for testing, feed patients and assist with bathing and personal hygiene. Students complete a State Approved Nurse Assistant Program (STNA) and learn medical terminology, medical insurance and computer skills. Health Technology students assist at the annual Vantage Bloodmobile and the United Way Day of Caring Bloodmobile. They learn a widerange of medical techniques through clinical instruction at healthcare facilities and extensive job shadowing opportunities. In this program, they develop work ethics, medical skills, and patient care skills.

In the Early Childhood Education program, high school students discover that working with young children can be very rewarding. This program prepares students to teach young children, work in a licensed child care facility, operate a day care center, or become a nanny. Students create and provide developmentally appropriate preschool materials for children, learn the day-to-day operations of a state-licensed preschool, and explore careers that deal with the education of young children. In addition to receiving instruction in planning and conducting lessons, the students apply principles of child development and child psychology as they prepare the children for kindergarten. Upon completion, students are prepared for college and immediate employment in the childcare field. The Culinary Arts program is the starting line for many students who are interested in careers in restaurant services and hospitality management. Students in this program operate the Cup and Saucer Restaurant, a full-service restaurant located at throughout the school year. This two-year program is also the foundation for students who plan to pursue further education for chef training or food service management. Students have the opportunity to become "Serve-Safe" certified and to receive the ProStart Certificate of Achievement. After graduation, students are prepared for professional culinary programs, immediate employment, and further education. Avantage (French for "new beginnings") is the name of the Vantage Cosmetology Salon, a fully certified and licensed program by the state of Ohio and open to the public three mornings a week throughout the school year. Students create, cut, style, color and recommend hair designs for clients. They use advanced techniques to deliver a wide-range of skin care and nail treatments while experiencing a full-service salon environment. After successful completion of the program at Vantage and achieving the requirements of the state board of cosmetology, they are eligible to take the state cosmetology examination and become a licensed cosmetologist shortly after graduation. They will be prepared for immediate employment in a salon/ day spa, advanced licensure, and further education.

If you are interested in finding out about career opportunities in any of these fields or have questions about the service programs at Vantage, please call Mike Knott, Student Services Supervisor at 419-238-5411 or 1-800-686-3944 ext. 2032 or email him at knott.m@vantagecareercenter.com.

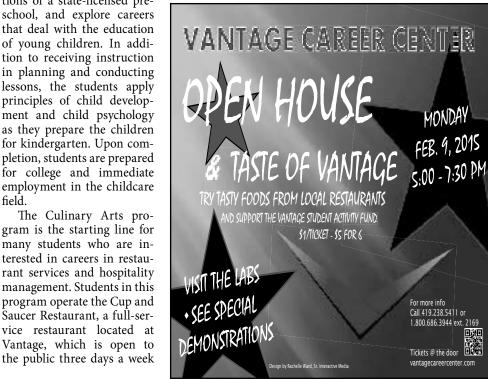

The annual Open House will be held Monday, February 9, from 5:00-7:30 p.m. If you haven't been to the new school yet, this is your chance! Tour the building, see the labs, check out the new equipment, and talk to the staff and students. If you have a sophomore who's interested in attending Vantage, there will be a Parent/Student Info Session in the Community Room at 6:00 p.m. to help answer questions you may have. Interested in going back to school yourself? Adult Education/Ohio Technical Center representatives will also be available to answer questions about Vantage Adult Ed class-

No time to cook? Help support school-wide student activities by eating dinner at Vantage. This year, several area eating establishments will be set up in the Commons and have sample size portions of food for you to try. We're calling it "A Taste of Vantage"! Mark it on your calendars for Monday, February 9, from 5:00-7:30 p.m. Enjoy some tasty treats from Fricker's, Baked to Perfection, Puckerbrush Pizza, Main Street Market (Ottoville), Remedy's Sports Bar & Grille, The Fort, and Paulding Dairy Queen.
