

WAYNE TRACE RETAINS BLACK SWAMP TROPHY; CLOSE GAME AGAINST PANTHERS

The Raiders fell in the right place at the right time. From behind with a minute left Wayne Trace took steps forward to continue gaining first downs until they reached the end zone, putting them over the top of the Panthers and taking the game with less than a minute left. This game was a tough call Friday night. Going in, nobody was really sure who would take home the Black Swamp Trophy. Paulding seemingly had a strong team. On the other hand, Wayne Trace had a dominant reputation that preceded them in every game. However, they are younger this year. Wasting no time, the Panthers had scored a touchdown by the end of the first quarter.

The Raiders lagged behind and did not manage to bring the ball in for a touchdown. By half time, it seemed that Paulding would be easily taking home the trophy. The Panthers added another touchdown, while also scoring the two-point conversion. Wayne Trace, playing catch-up, was able to score their first touchdown in the second quarter. This brought the scores to 14-7 by half time.

The second half was when the game got really tense. During the second quarter, with an epic comeback, the Raiders added two touchdowns. The Panthers, who were beginning to sweat, only

A LIBRARY CARD IS THE COOLEST CARD - SEPTEMBER IS LIBRARY CARD SIGN-UP MONTH

Today's libraries are about more than books. They are creative educational spaces for learners from birth to high school and beyond. September is Library Card Sign-up Month, a time when the Paulding County Carnegie Library (PCCL) system joins with the American Library Association and public libraries nationwide to make sure that every student has the most important school supply of all - a free library card.

Librarians provide important resources to families whose children are at the earliest stages of development, by teaching parents and caregivers the components of early literacy which help children develop the basic tools for school readiness. As of 2010, libraries in the United States offered more than 2.3 million children's programs. For the past few years, your county library system has loaned over 200,000 items.

Older students can access high-speed Internet, digital tools and the opportunity to work with trained professionals on how to use them. Libraries also provide equity of access to digital tools and media, which has become increasingly important in high-poverty areas where students are less likely to have a computer or internet access in the home.

Resources at any of the PCCL locations are available to anyone who has a library card.

For more information on how to sign up for a library card, visit any of the PCCL locations or call 419-399-2032.

THE SURPRISE TORNADO OUTBREAK OF AUGUST 24TH

By: Joshua Steiner

On Wednesday, August 24th, 2016, I was walking back from my atmospheric thermodynamics class (ironic isn't it?) around 4:00 p.m. when I heard the news that a tornado had touched down in Kokomo, Indiana. A few minutes later, two tornado warnings were issued for the northern section of Indianapolis. One of the tornado-warned cells was close to the Butler University campus. For the next thirty minutes, I was tracking the movement and development of these storms across east and north-central Indiana. I was surprised at how quickly these storms were developing and how unexpected these storms even were. Earlier in the morning, the Storm Prediction Center in Norman, Oklahoma had only issued a marginal risk outlook for the Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes region.

A few days before, forecast models were only depicting a weak warm front sitting across the region bringing a few scattered showers and thunderstorms. I knew something was different about this event when I heard the news about the Starbucks that had collapsed in Kokomo from a powerful EF-3 tornado.

Around 4:40, I met a friend of mine at the Panera Bread on High Street in Columbus, OH for dinner. By this time, I wasn't thinking much of the severe weather situation out west. I reasoned that condi-

JOSH EHLINGER COMPLETES EAGLE SCOUT PROJECT

Village Officials, Mayor Ray DeLong and Village Administrator Sara Keeran, congratulate Josh Ehlinger for his work to beautify the Maumee River pathway along the park along with Scout Leaders Al Manilla and Mark Greenwood

Riverside Park in Antwerp is a beautiful facility for kids to play and to even have Day in the Park. The Veterans' Memorial is a monument to those who gave their lives. The park has many wonderful amenities. Now it has another plus: Along the river a beautiful walking trail ready for everyone to use.

The path along the river, on the side of the bank has been in disrepair and overgrown for many years. Antwerp Senior Josh Ehlinger decided early in the year to make this a priority and fix this problem after recommended by Mark Greenwood.

Previously his brother, Andrew, had also taken on an Eagle Scout project of rebuilding the horseshoe pits six years ago. Josh has followed in his brothers footsteps.

Josh has lived in the community his whole life and has been a great asset with many friends. He has been in scouts, one form or another, since he was being pushed in a stroller according to his mother, Kathy.

The pathway measures about 3/10 of mile and about 200 hours have been put into it to clear roots, trash, and weeds. It's very nice now and will continue to stay this way as long as it's used.

With that said, the Cross Country course for Antwerp is now being re-routed through this section. Josh just happens to be on the Cross Country Team too.

In the future Josh is looking to expand his knowledge in the Computer Science. He's not for certain where he intends to attend but he has time yet to decide.

Mark Greenwood and Al Manilla both said they were proud of Josh and that he did a great job. Josh had help with this nature project from other scouts in Troop 143 and also with friends and family, but much of the work was performed by him.

It's great to see young people work so hard to make their community a great place to live. Josh, you did a great job and you have set high standards for others in the area.

STUDENT WHO LIVED IN DUMPSTER FEATURED IN LIFETREE CAFÉ FILM

Perseverance in the face of seemingly insurmountable obstacles will be discussed at Lifetree Café on Thursday, September 8th from 7:00 - 8:00 p.m.

The program, titled "I Lived in a Dumpster: How a Homeless Teenager Rose to the Top of Her Class," features a filmed interview with Karina Sanchez, a woman who overcame multiple obstacles, including homelessness, to graduate from high school with a 4.3 GPA and receive scholarship offers from some of the America's top universities.

"I remember feeling so terrible; no one wanted me," says Sanchez, who completed her high school career while secretly living in a Dumpster behind the school. "But I thought I could do it and I would be okay."

During the program, Lifetree participants will have the opportunity to consider times they have faced obstacles and how they responded.

Admission to the 60-minute event is free. Lifetree Café is located at The Bachwell Center, 116 N. Washington Street, Van Wert, OH. Please park behind the courthouse and enter on Court Street.

Lifetree Café is a place where people gather for conversation about life and faith in a casual, comfortable setting. Questions about Lifetree may be directed to First United Methodist Church at 419/238-0631 or first-church@wcoil.com.

DEBRIS PICK UP SCHEDULED

The Paulding County Commissioners, along with the Paulding County Engineer, have approved debris pick-up for those individuals in Crane Township who were impacted by the August 24, 2016 tornado.

Pick-up will occur on Monday, August 29, Tuesday, August 30 and Wednesday, August 31 between the hours of 7:30 a.m. - 2:30 p.m.

Debris must be taken to the roadside in front of the impacted residence and must be separated into piles by category:

1. Woody Debris - tree branches, brush, moderate sized limbs
2. Construction Debris - brick, stone, lumber, wall-board, glass, roofing, metal, tions weren't altogether ripe for a much bigger outbreak. It was too cloudy and the atmosphere was hardly unstable. Shear wasn't particularly impressive and neither were other parameters normally associated with the development of tornadoes. After a few minutes of talking, I kept getting notifications from my phone about developing severe weather. I first heard about the tornado warning for Allen County sometime after five o'clock. When I heard the news, I quickly opened my radar app (specifically Radar Scope, which is an amazing app and I would recommend it to anyone-- it can be purchased from the app store for about $10) to see what was going on. I saw the rapidly rotating storm that was forming over northeastern Allen County. I had never seen such a strong couplet on a radar image in our area before and I knew something was about to happen. It was just a few minutes later that the National Weather Service announced that there was a confirmed tornado on the ground near Doty Road and Brush College Road north of Woodburn. Even more concerning was the fact that the supercell was very well developed and moving east-northeast. I knew that if the storm even made a slight shift to the right of its projected track, something that is common among strengthening supercells, it would impact the town of Antwerp.

Fortunately, the storm would shift in a northeasterly direction, impacting homes several miles north of town. The town was spared, but, unfortunately, many homes were not. The storm continued to cycle through its development stages and dropped another tornado to the north of Defiance and later Napoleon, where the National Weather Service issued the first tornado emergency in the state of Ohio since 2012. This was not the only long-lasting supercell that impacted northwest Ohio that evening. The same storm cell that had impacted Kokomo eventually began tracking northeast through Adams, Van Wert and Putnam Counties, dropping at least two or more weaker tornadoes. The surprising number of storms that were tornado-warned for this event was unexpected. The number of tornadoes that formed from this outbreak was also incredible, given the time of year. August isn't generally known for its tornado outbreaks in our area.

What this event showed me and many meteorologists in the area is that our knowledge of severe weather and especially tornadoes is rather limited. Furthermore, our conceptual models of what conditions allow a tornado outbreak to form were severely challenged by this event. The lack of decent sunshine, rain and storms in the morning, and a weakly sheared/weakly unstable atmosphere made many believe, including SPC forecasters, that any severe weather that formed later in the afternoon would be severely limited, if not non-existence. The fact that tornadoes did form and caused damage across many parts of the area showed us that there factors we had missed in our analysis of the event.

The showers and thunderstorms that had impacted parts of northeast Indiana and northwest Ohio earlier in the day had caused the weak warm front to the south of the area to stall out instead of surging northward. Not only this, but the cooling from the rain generated a weak boundary that would allow for the development of localized shear and vertical 'helicity', both elements that are necessary for the development of tornadoes from severe thunderstorms. This air-cooled "outflow boundary" (as meteorologists usually call it) would set up an environment more favorable for tornadoes later in the day. The only other issue was the lack of sufficient atmospheric instability. The leftover clouds from the showers and thunderstorms prevented any major heating from occurring. By mid afternoon, most areas were only in the low 80's and some areas only made it to the upper 70's. However, the warm-front was lifting northward, bringing a surge of moisture and stronger atmospheric instability. Instability went from being nearly non-existent in the late morning hours to at least a modest level by mid and late afternoon. And that's all that's necessary in an environment with low level shear and helicity already in place. As soon as storms were able to fire along the boundary, they quickly became tornadic, rather unexpectedly, leading to the worst tornado outbreak the area has seen in at least several years.

The most important thing that we can learn from this event is that we should never let our guard down. For several years now, we have seen very little severe weather. The last major severe weather outbreak that the area was a part of was in November 2013. Since then, we've seen sporadic severe weather, but nothing substantial.

One of the positive things about this event is that it showed how prepared the area was for violent weather. It can be easy to be dismissive of tornado warnings after so many false alarms, but it's always beneficial to know what to do when an actual tornado comes along and does real damage. It was a miracle that there were few injuries, if any, even from the stronger tornadoes that impacted Allen, Paulding and Defiance Counties, as well as Howard County (Kokomo). The more research and the more effort we put into tracking tornadoes, studying them and warning the public about them, the more we can reduce the likelihood of deaths and injuries from future tornado outbreaks.

Loved ones, I would like to tell you about the people that I worship with at the Oakwood Church of Christ. We do not claim to be a perfect church, but we strive to be a church sound in doctrine, active in good works, and united in the bond of peace. At this place of worship, we believe the Bible is the inspired word of God. Therefore we insist upon Bible authority for everything that we teach and practice. We believe that we ought to teach what people in the first century were taught, believe what they were taught to believe, and do what they were taught to do. At the Oakwood Church of Christ we will never intentionally do or say anything that would make you feel uncomfortable. We will not ask you to believe anything unless we can give you Bible authority for it. This is also how the Paulding and Defiance Church of Christ are.

Ol' Baldy says bye for now, but continue to pray, study, and read your Bible. "Luv Ya!"

SECRETARY HUSTED PRAISES APPELLATE COURT'S RULING IN EARLY VOTING CASE

The 6th Circuit Court of Appeals issued a decision in Case Number 16-3561, upholding current Ohio law and previous cases and settlements by ruling that Ohio's early voting start date is constitutional, overturning a previous ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Michael H. Watson. The following may be directly attributed to Ohio Secretary of State Jon Husted:

"Ohio offers a generous number of days, hours and ways to vote - making us one of the easiest states in which to cast a ballot. This issue has been dragged through the courts by political activists twice over the course of several years, and both times, it has ended with the same result: Ohio's laws are fair and constitutional.

"I hope the Democrats will end their wasteful lawsuits so we can all move forward with this election."

CENTRAL LUTHERAN SCHOOL CARE MINISTRY PROJECT

Second and fourth grade students at Central Lutheran School kicked off their annual Care Ministry Project with a visit from a very special guest. Joe Boway spoke to these students about his life in Liberia, Africa and his decision to leave his homeland during the country's civil war. Since coming to the United States and becoming a teacher, he has returned to Liberia many times and has helped create 13 Lutheran schools there that now serve over 3600 students. Students at Central will be raising money and collecting school supplies and books for Joe to take with him to Africa in January and again later in the school year. Teachers have also used financial grants from Thrivent Financial to purchase supplies for this project. Many thanks to Joe for his ministry and to the families of second and fourth graders at Central for their help with this important project.

LEGALISMS

By: Rev. Gerry Weesner, Maples United Methodist Church

“Indignant because Jesus had healed on the Sabbath, the synagogue ruler said to the people, ‘There are six days for work. So come and be healed on those days, not on the Sabbath.’ The Lord answered him, ‘You hypocrites! Doesn’t each of you on the Sabbath untie his ox or donkey from the stall and lead it out to give it water? Then should not this woman, a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan has kept bound for eighteen long years, be set free on the Sabbath day from what bound her?’” Luke 13:14-16 (NIV).

This Scripture tells about an occasion when Jesus encountered a heartless legalist. It happened where Jesus had been teaching in a synagogue, sometime during or after the service, Jesus’ eyes focused upon a woman who had a physical problem. She was bent over and, as Luke tells us, had been in that condition for some 18 years. The merciful heart of Jesus compelled him to do something about the situation. He called to her and said, “Woman, you are freed from your infirmity.” Then he laid his hands upon her, and instantaneously she was able to straighten up. Luke tells us “she praised God.” Was everybody happy about the occasion? One would think so, but not everyone was pleased. The ruler of the synagogue was incensed. He was so indignant that he spoke out loud to everyone.

“There are six days on which work might be done; come on those days and be healed, and not on the Sabbath day.” The words were addressed to the woman and others who were there to worship but intended for Jesus. The words were the words of a legalist; he was so intent on a legalistic interpretation of the fourth commandment that he had no room for compassion, mercy, or love.

Jesus saw the failures of such legalism every time he encountered it. He called those that were legalists’ hypocrites, blind guides, and full of iniquity. Jesus lambasted those who exercised stringent, often mean-spirited rules over people and neglected justice, love, kindness.

We should carefully note that Jesus never broke the Sabbath; he broke only the legalistic interpretation of Jewish law concerning the Sabbath. The Sabbath is given for kindness, for the acknowledgment of God in praise and prayer. Nothing in this story impairs the need for centrality of worship in man’s life. The Sabbath is meant to bring renewal, rest, and inspiration through worship. It is meant to be a great blessing, a day to celebrate the love of God, love for our family, and love for our fellow humans. “The Sabbath,” said our Lord, “is made for man, not man for the Sabbath.” God wants justice, love, and compassion to win over heartless legalisms.

THE LOBO TANK BUSTERS

By: Stan Jordan

We left the air base this morning and headed up toward the Berlin area. After we were over Germany a couple hundred miles, we got a radio call from Col. Bainebridge. He said, "Go to channel 7 and one of Patton's men wants to talk to you."

So I dialed in channel 7 and said, "This is Lobo one, this is Lobo one go ahead." It came back, "This is Rooster, the call me The Big Rooster, and we need help. We are about 3 miles south of Borgum and the scouts tell us there are six King Tigers tanks waiting for us at the very south end of town and can you boys take them out?"

So I answered and said, "We'll give it a whirl." We made a swing to the right and came in line at the south side of that city to see what it looked like.

Well, it was a good setup for the Germans. They had dug holes and the tanks were about half buried and they would be able to take out any type of allied tank or truck that came along.

So, we looked them over then went up to about a thousand feet altitude and talked it over. We could not come at them from the sides and it was impossible to knock those tanks out from the front. So we came right down at their rear. We hit four of them at once, aiming at the engine area. We swung back upstairs and two of them had been hit and two other rockets missed.

So I headed down again and I waited until the last second and then fired my rocket.

I got a good hit and the fire flew out, that back area was split apart a bit and it was burning.

By now we had destroyed two and done some damage on two more, but there were two we hadn't touched yet, and they were throwing a lot of anti-aircraft at us.

We came back at them in single fire this time and we put two rockets in each tank with a lot of damage. We used twelve but we destroyed six King Tiger tanks.

I got on the radio and called Rooster and told him we had done away with the six foxes that were after his chickens.

He thanked us for all our help and he was anxious to take that town. I told him we had four rockets left, if he still needed a little help yet.

A LITTLE ON THE WINDMILLS

By: Stan Jordan

I have been talking with some of the windmill workers, the drivers and the crane men. These boys are all highly specialized.

They just finished a job of 95 windmills at Waverly, Kansas. They are to erect 48 windmills in the area by the end of the year.

I understand the base of the windmill is 70 feet in diameter, 11 1/2 feet deep and holds 550 yards of concrete.

It is 305 feet to the hub. The is 17 feet high and made overseas and shipped into Toledo. There are three blades of 184 feet each. It is 489 feet to the highest tip of the blade.

The blades make 13 revolutions per minute.

There is a new type of blade, that's bigger and better. Some are made in Colorado and some are from overseas. The controllable pitched propeller is up to 90 degrees is all done electronically and automatic.

Each tower puts out 35,000 volts and has a fiberoptic wire to a central station and each tower can talk to each other. This is a highly organized control system.

HOW TO ENJOY YOUR VEGETABLES

By: Stan Jordan

1) You take a red ripe tomato right out of the garden and wipe it off good on your shirt, then you lick a small spot on the tomato and sprinkle a little salt on that spot and sink your teeth into it. Then you repeat the last part of that sequence over and over until it is all gone. Now there will be a lot of tomato juice between your fingers and you just wipe that off on your trousers. You wipe your face off on your hanky. I did not say this was good for you, I said it was good eating.

2) You take a carrot right out of your garden and you wipe it off very good and get all the soil off. Then you start at the small end and keep chewing until you come to the carrot top. Now you can repeat this action as many times as you want.

3) You pull up a nice green onion and clean all the dirt off, plus those fuzzy little roots. Then you eat that white bulb part and as much of the green onion top as you want.

4) You go over to the next row and pick a big green bell pepper you wipe this hard firm baby off and then take your pocket knife and maybe cut it in pieces or just in two. Then you take this one half piece and sprinkle a little salt on it and then you eat it or make a sandwich with buttered bread.

5) Now there are at least a dozen more vegetables that you can eat right out of the garden just by wiping them off and maybe a little salt to your taste.

6) Now a ripe watermelon requires a little different action. You take your melon and go over and set it on a picnic table under the shade tree. You cut yourself a nice slice of watermelon, you can eat the heart our of the melon with no seeds to worry about. When you cut the other part of your slice of melon you have a zillion of seeds to worry about. If you see one, you can use your fork and dig it out easily. Now if you don't see one and he gets into your mouth you run him around and spit him out. Some guys can spit a seed maybe 10 to 12 feet away, but at the same time you might lose your dentures. Some people have their own style of eating and spitting and are very good at aim and distance but not a wrong way to eat a melon.

7) Now a muskmelon or cantalope requires about the same style. You need to be under a shade tree with a knife, fork and spoon. You cut the melon in fourths and get rid of all the seeds. A little salt here also helps. There is no wrong way to eat a melon.

A trip to the garden is always enjoyable and sometimes manners go astray.

PAULDING SWCD 5th GRADE SET TO RETURN SEPTEMBER 9th!

By: Patrick Troyer, Education Specialist, Paulding SWCD

The Paulding Soil & Water Conservation District is excited to announce that the 4th annual 5th Grade Field Day is set for Friday, September 9th at the Black Swamp Nature Center and Paulding County Fairgrounds. This Field Day is for all 5th grade students from Oakwood, Paulding, Antwerp, and Payne Elementary as well as Divine Mercy Catholic School fifth graders. The students will be divided into groups where they will visit eight different stations throughout the day. Students will spend the day learning about forestry, wildlife, water quality, farm safety, agriculture, geology, GPS, and recycling.

Speakers for each station are experts in their fields and the presentations will feature hands-on activities for the students. Students will be served lunch at the fairgrounds, which was made possible through sponsorships and donations to this countywide event.

Each student will receive a 5th Grade Field Day commemorative t-shirt listing the sponsors of this event. The Paulding Soil and Water Conservation is very excited for this event as it will truly be a fun and educational day for the 5th Grade students in Paulding County.

The following organizations sponsored this very educational event: Cooper Farms, Van Wert Foundation, Paulding Putnam Electric, and the Paulding County Area Foundation. Paulding County Ag Society provided the livestock barns for the event, Flat Rock Dairy donated milk for lunch, and Ag Credit donated water. Fifth Grade Field day would not be the success that it is without this support!

 added a single touchdown. By the fourth quarter, the score was 21-20, with the Raiders maintaining the small lead. Paulding, unable to break down the Wayne Trace defense line, kicked the ball and was able to score the field goal, adding another 3 points to their score. All the Panthers began to cheer and congratulate one another, as they had taken back the lead, and the clock was almost run down. However, the Paulding celebration came too soon, as the Raiders kept on fighting and pushed back the Panther defense, bringing an additional touchdown to the Wayne Trace score. With only about a minute left on the clock, the Panthers decided they would not give in just yet. Any hopes of a Panther victory were crushed when the Raiders were able to intercept a Paulding pass, taking back possession. The game ended with a final score of 28-23 and Wayne Trace retaining the Black Swamp Trophy. This makes the 6th year in a row that the Raiders have held onto the trophy. On the Paulding side, two of the leaders included Preston Ingol (180yds Rushing and 31yds Receiving) and James Mourey (31yds Passing). Preston was also one of the top scorers of the game. On the Wayne Trace side, individual leaders include Caleb Schultz (93yds Rushing), Trae Sinn (220yds Passing), and Eli Sinn (67yds Receiving). Congratulations to both teams on a great game.

BULLDOGS ARE OFF THE LEASH

On Friday, August 26, 2016, the Bulldogs faced the Lakers on New Haven's home turf in a game of football. New Haven started the game strong, ending the first quarter with 20 points, not giving even a little footing to Lakeland. The Lakers lagged that first quarter, scoring only 7 points. By half time, New Haven lost a little momentum and only brought in two touchdowns. However, they still remained dominantly in the lead, as Lakeland did not score at all in the second quarter. Coming back from half time, the Bulldogs kept on gnawing, garnering an additional 3 touchdowns, while the Lakers only managed to add a single. However, in the fourth quarter, Lakeland made a comeback, bringing in two touchdowns while New Haven only scored one. Unfortunately for the Lakers, this was not enough to take the game. The game ended with a final score of 62-26, leaving the Bulldogs victorious on their home field.

25 ANGLERS CONVICTED FOR ILLEGALLY POSSESSING LAKE ERIE WALLEYE

Twenty-five individuals were recently charged and convicted in Ottawa County Municipal Court following an investigation of out-of-state anglers exceeding the walleye daily bag limit, according to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR).

ODNR Division of Wildlife officers had received several complaints concerning a group of anglers from Wisconsin who were fishing Lake Erie and exceeding the daily bag limit of walleye.

In May, state wildlife officers and investigators along Lake Erie contacted the suspects. Officers discovered that nearly all of the walleye had been cut into chunks in an attempt to disguise how many fish had been kept. Because of instances like this, Ohio law states that fillets must be kept whole until anglers reach their permanent residence, or until the fish are prepared for immediate consumption. During the investigation, officers seized more than 500 pounds of walleye meat. Twenty-four individuals from Wisconsin and one individual from Ohio were issued 46 summonses for possession of cut fillets, and two summonses for keeping more than the limit of walleye.

The defendants were found guilty and ordered to pay $1,472 in fines and $1,856 in court costs. All of the seized walleye were forfeited to the ODNR Division of Wildlife and were donated to people in northwest Ohio through several outlets, including the Erie County Care Facility, the Ohio Veterans Home in Sandusky County and the Luther Home of Mercy in Ottawa County.

This project was a success because concerned citizens took the time and made the effort to notify state wildlife officers. Ohio's fish and wildlife resources are managed as a public trust on behalf of all Ohioans, and state wildlife officers enforce wildlife rules to ensure future generations are able to enjoy those resources. The willingness of law-abiding citizens to provide information concerning illegal taking of wildlife is necessary for officers to effectively enforce wildlife laws.

The ODNR Division of Wildlife encourages anyone who is aware of a possible violation of wildlife laws to call the Turn In a Poacher (TIP) line at 800-POACHER (800-762-2437) or to submit information online at wildohio.gov. All information received by the TIP program will remain confidential.

ODNR ensures a balance between wise use and protection of our natural resources for the benefit of all. Visit the ODNR website at ohiodnr.gov.

As summer draws to a close and parents and kids are easing back into their school routines, Girl Scouts of Western Ohio is inviting girls to join the fun and register for Girl Scouts. Girl Scouts gives girls a supportive space to take chances, try new things, and learn to succeed through failure—improving all aspects of their lives.

When girls are given a safe and supportive environment to take chances, despite the potential for failure, they're able to experience the emotional impact of risk without damaging consequences. Girl Scouts is the premier place to provide girls with a safe environment for trying new things and overcoming fears, making them greater challenge-seekers, more academically proficient students, and, eventually, more successful adults.

Feeling empowered to take action is difficult for girls, but experiencing the benefits of girl-led programming like Girl Scouts can lead to significant growth in girls' leadership skills—and, according to the Girl Scout Research Institute, Girl Scouts have more leadership experiences than other girls and boys. Of girls, 84 percent say that they learned or did new things in Girl Scouts, and 80 percent reported that in Girl Scouts they were able to do things that they could not have done in other places. Through experiences like these, girls become more active and engaged learners, develop a positive sense of self, and learn resourceful problem solving.

"We live in a competitive culture, where girls often measure their success or failure against others," said Angela Tennaro, director of regional services for Girl Scouts of Western Ohio. "Girl Scouts provides girls a level playing field, where they are encouraged to be themselves, set their own goals, and face challenges in a safe environment—free from competition and judgment. As a result, girls gain confidence and become stronger challenge-seekers who are more likely to feel academically engaged and competent."

Research shows that embracing failure as a learning opportunity, rather than viewing it as a detractor from success, improves all aspects of a child's life, particularly academics. The Girl Scout Research Institute (GSRI) found the variety of activities offered through Girl Scouts—from planning and leading projects to participating in community service and outdoor expeditions—allows girls to gain skills and confidence that also help them do well in school.

Children are resilient and will problem solve until they master a challenging situation, bouncing back if success isn't immediate. According to a new study published by the American Psychological Association, kids perform better if they know failure—trying again when it doesn't go as planned the first time is part of the learning process. Research shows "helping children to interpret difficulty, not as a sign of intellectual limitation but as the normal learning outcome," enhanced how they tackled tough tasks and lowered their negative emotional response to these activities.

While Girl Scouts is open to all girls from kindergarten through grade 12, anyone over the age of 18 can become a Girl Scout volunteer. Girls cannot experience the positive impact of Girl Scouts without adult volunteers, and each adult who volunteers has the opportunity to make a real difference in the life of a girl. Girl Scout volunteers come from all walks of life; they are men, women, young professionals, retirees, college students, and more. Both girls and adult volunteers can join at any time of the year.

LATTA MEETS WITH OHIO INDUSTRY AND POLICY LEADERS TO DISCUSS THE INTERNET OF THINGS

Congressman Bob Latta (R-OH) participated in a forum hosted by Ice Miller LLP to discuss the benefits, hindrances, and policies relating to the Internet of Things (IoT) in Columbus on August 25. Latta is co-chair of the House Energy and Commerce Committee IoT Working Group and Ice Miller is a leader on public policy and legal issues relating to IoT. Also joining the discussion were representatives from the cities of Columbus, Dublin, and Marysville and industry leaders from the health care and technology sectors. Columbus was recently designated a U.S. Department of Transportation Smart City and was awarded a $50 million grant to become a national leader of intelligent transportation systems (ITS). The goals of ITS are to improve safety and enhance mobility of our transportation systems, and the IoT will play a critical role in reaching those objectives.

"It's clear from these discussions that the Internet of Things has the potential to reshape our economy and way of life in a positive way," said Latta. "But with any rapidly developing technology, there are obstacles and policy decisions that need to be considered to ensure that we have an environment that cultivates innovation, not stifles it. With Columbus becoming the national leader of intelligent transportation systems, it's exciting to

OHIO'S 2016 FALL HUNTING SEASONS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Ohio hunters are invited to enjoy early waterfowl seasons for Canada goose and teal that begin on September 3rd, according to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR).

Hunters are reminded to check regulations for changes to rules, season dates and bag limits as the 2016 fall seasons begin. A summary of Ohio's hunting and trapping regulations is available where licenses are sold, at ODNR Division of Wildlife offices and at wildohio.gov.

This year, squirrel, dove, rail, snipe and gallinule seasons open up the 2016 fall hunting season, which all begin September 1st. Doves may be hunted sunrise to sunset, except for areas posted otherwise, from September 1st, through November 6th. The daily bag limit is 15 doves, with a possession limit of 45 after the second day.

One notable change this year includes a modification to the opening date of the early waterfowl seasons. The early Canada goose and teal seasons begin September 3rd. Canada geese may be hunted from sunrise to sunset September 3-11 with a daily bag limit of five birds. Teal may be hunted from sunrise to sunset September 3-18 with a daily bag limit of six birds. Possession limits after the second day for both teal and Canada geese are three times the daily bag limits.

Ohio's popular archery season for deer begins later in the month on September 24, and runs through February 5, 2017. Deer hunting hours are 30 minutes before sunrise to 30 minutes after sunset. Bag limits are determined by county. The statewide bag limit is six deer, and only one deer may be antlered regardless of location or method of take. Deer bag limits are determined by county, and hunters cannot exceed a county bag limit. Additional details about deer hunting rules are contained in the 2016-17 Ohio Hunting and Trapping Regulations booklet.

The ODNR Division of Wildlife is responsible for protecting and managing Ohio's fish and wildlife resources for the benefit of all Ohioans.

ODNR ensures a balance between wise use and protection of our natural resources for the benefit of all. Visit the ODNR website at ohiodnr.gov.

know that Ohio will be on the forefront of implementing the Internet of Things into people's daily lives. In addition, today's discussions will be invaluable to the IoT working group as we look to develop a forward-thinking strategy towards new technology."

"As we heard during our discussion with Congressman Latta, the Internet of Things (IoT) is already having a significant impact on our society, our clients, and our public sector," said Judy Okenfuss, Chair of the IoT Group at Ice Miller. "The IoT industry is poised for explosive growth over the next decade. The discussions we are having with industry experts now, and the standards we will be setting, are critical endeavors to position our State and our Country for the safest and most intelligent use of data and technology in the 21st century."

Latta also participated in a manufacturing Internet of Things roundtable last week at Owens-Illinois, Inc. headquarters in Perrysburg. More information about that forum is available here.

The Internet of Things is technology in which physical objects and machines are embedded with Internet connectivity in order to allow them to process data and communicate in real-time with their surrounding environment. IoT can be used to gather information and improve efficiency and effectiveness in the manufacturing, agriculture, health care, and technology fields that can save money and resources. According to one study, the IoT will create $14.4 trillion in global net profit between 2013 and 2022.

Ohio home and information on why Ohio is so important in the race to the White House.

"It's important that we have an engaged and educated electorate, especially in Ohio where the hopes of presidential candidates rise and fall," Secretary Husted said. "We want people to register, we want people to be involved and we want people to vote. This is a new and innovative way we can approach our young people and lay the groundwork for civic engagement among Ohio's future decision-makers."

WHAT IS YOUR HOPE?

reader the opportunity to learn more about the makeup of Ohio so they can better understand how the Bellwether State is composed.

Chapter 4: 2016 Presidential Election will eventually display information about all Major and Minor Political Parties, independent and write-in candidates who are on the ballot in Ohio as presidential candidates. Information will include personal and professional background information about the candidates. This update will be added after the form of the 2016 General Election ballot is certified by the Secretary of State.

Chapter 5: Election night Live Feed will display a live election result feed on November 8th where users can track election results as they become available to officials.

Ohio: Pathway to the Presidency includes several quizzes so the reader can test how much they've learned after each chapter.

Secretary Husted was joined at the launch of Ohio: Pathway to the Presidency by Todd Kleismit of the Ohio History Connection. The group provided historical documents that are now viewable in the iBook as well as assisted with gathering and fact-checking information on Ohio's eight presidents.

"We are so pleased that Secretary Husted asked the Ohio History Connection to partner with his office on Ohio: Pathway to the Presidency iBook," said Todd Kleismit, director of community and government relations for the Ohio History Connection. "The educational components are excellent and I am confident that Ohio students will enjoy using the iBook as they learn more about Ohio history, voting and why being an informed and engaged citizen is so important."

The iBook was authored at no cost to the taxpayer through a partnership between Secretary of State staff and Jason LaMar of Columbus State Community College. LaMar is also an Apple Distinguished Educator and designed the iBook. The Apple Distinguished Educator program works to make a positive impact on education and learning around the world through the use of technology.

The Secretary of State's office will work with schools and educators throughout Ohio this fall to implement the use of Ohio: Pathway to the Presidency in curriculum as a tool to present the state and nation's history in a fun and interactive manner.

HORSEPLAY HOLIDAY WEEKEND!

The Jim Schmidt family of Dealers is proud to announce they are the title sponsor of this year's Horsepower Holiday Weekend at the Defiance County Fairgrounds in Hicksville, Ohio. The event starts on Friday September 9th and runs through Sunday the 11th. If you have not made it out to one of these events yet there are a couple things you are going to need to know.

First off, it's loud, no, I mean really LOUD! Some of the vehicles competing in this year's events have 4000 horsepower engines. It's so loud that the group putting on the event, is giving away free ear plugs all over the town of Hicksville to anyone who doesn't like noise.

The second thing you need to know is that these racers throw a rooster tail of dirt clods 40 feet in the air and you don't want to be the recipient of any of them. Yes, there are crazies that like to sit down by the track and duck the flying debris when it comes their way, but I suggest you grab a seat in the grandstands and save the bumps and bruises.

Thirdly, if you like a nice peaceful camping setting there are a few spots down on the other end of the grounds that you can quietly camp with your family after the show ends. Now, don't go wandering into the rowdy camping area unless you're ready to stay the night. Friendly folks back there wander from campfire to campfire until the sun comes up and you don't want to get caught up in that crowd.

Finally, don't bring your toys. You'll just wear them out. Not only can you compete in four different events that have both stock and modified classes, but, as long as you can ride slowly, they'll let you ride them around so you can see all the events. This just puts undue wear and tear on that unit that has been peacefully sitting in your garage.

Oh yeah, while we're at it, if you don't like guns and outdoorsy stuff you'll hate the fact that Schnelker Marina is not only bringing their dirt toys, but their fishing and outdoor division, which will include a display of their newest firearms.

On the outside chance that this does sound like your kind of weekend, call for more information or check out their website at www.horsepower-holiday.com or follow them on Facebook for up to the minute details.

PPEC MEMBERS TO VOTE ON CODE OF REGULATIONS REVISIONS

The Paulding Putnam Electric Co-op (PPEC) Board of Trustees is recommending changes to the Code of Regulations (By-Laws). PPEC Members will begin receiving detailed election packets in the mail the week of September 5. New this time around, members will also have the option to vote online or via telephone. "This is a very exciting election for the cooperative. For the first time members will have three options in how they vote. They can vote by mail (which we have done for many years); they can vote on-line and they can vote by calling in. We have set-up special website access and a special phone line that allows members these options. I am very hopeful that these additional voting options will allow many more members to vote," said CEO/General Manager George Carter. The instructions for voting will be sent with the election packets via U.S. Postal Service.

The Code has been revised and updated many times since 1936, but this was the most substantial update in recent history with eighteen proposed changes and one stand-alone vote all recommended by PPEC's Board of Trustees. The focus of the changes is to look to the future of the Cooperative, so the board felt it was important for members to vote on whether or not to eliminate term limits for trustees. "Term Limits are a very sensitive topic in all areas today. The board felt very strongly that the membership should have the right to voice their opinion, finally, on this issue," stated Carter.

Other changes recommended by the board are to change masculine references to be more gender neutral, change the code to reflect the electronic age, and another recommendation by the board, which is currently not required, is for the CEO/General Manager to be a member of the Cooperative.

PPEC members are encouraged to vote, with the ballots needing to be returned by Sept. 20. The complete list of proposed changes is posted on our website at www.PPEC.coop.

WARRIOR FOOTBALL ROLLS TO 2-0

Woodlan scored early and often Friday night in Lagrange as the Warriors routed Prairie Heights 53-0 in week two of the high school football season.

In what was a dominating effort on both sides of the ball, the Woodlan offense totaled 496 yards in the contest.

However, the Woodlan defense was even better, limiting the Panthers to 35 yards of total offense.

Woodlan's defense opened the scoring with a safety before the Warrior offense took over.

Tre'Von McCarter caught touchdown passes of 49, 48 and 16 yards to lead the Warrior attack and quarterback Justin Durkes finished the night of 18 of 21 passing for 249 yards, including four touchdowns.

Donald Guerrant also had a ten-yard reception for a score with Jack Rhoades rumbling for 205 yards on 20 carries.

Woodlan took control of the game early on, opening a 27-0 advantage after one quarter of action before pushing the margin to 33-0 at the intermission. The Warriors posted a 46-0 lead entering the final stanza.

Woodlan returns to action on Friday as the Warriors will host Allen County Athletic Conference rival Heritage in the home opener.

The Patriots are 1-1 on the season after a season opening 42-0 loss to New Haven before last week's 27-13 win at Norwell.

In that game, Heritage's Jeshua Foser ran the ball 32 times for 254 yards and a pair of scores to lead the Patriot victory. It was the sixth consecutive time that Heritage has beaten Norwell.
