SURPRISE SEVERE WEATHER IN PAULDING COUNTY

By: Josh Steiner

On May 18th, 2017, a few scattered thunderstorms impacted Paulding County, bringing sporadic straightline wind damage to parts of the county. The two main areas impacted were near Haviland and Cecil. In Haviland, some power poles and tree limbs were snapped from the first storm. The second storm caused more significant damage to a barn at the intersection of 114 and 87. The damage from both was determined to be due to straight line winds in the 80-85 mph range according to the National Weather Service. In Cecil, a barn sustained significant damage around 4:29 p.m. EDT (according to the NWS) from the first series of storms. The NWS says that there is evidence of weak

MONTHLY SILHOUETTE SHOOT @ ANTWERP CONSERVATION CLUB

On Saturday may 6th 21 shooters gathered at the Antwerp Conservation Club for our first 2017 monthly silhouette shoot.

Silhouette shooting traces its roots back to Mexico, where competitors would shoot at live animals, we don't do that, today's matches are shot at animal cut outs or silhouettes of animals.

The course of fire is easy, you shoot offhand (standing, unsupported) at 10 chickens at 25 yards, 10 pigs at 50 yards, 10 turkeys at 75 yards and 10 rams at 100 yards. Our silhouette targets at 1/5 full size, and we use .22LR guns (or small bore guns as we call

This type of match is very fun for the competitor, as this is a shooter's match, not an equipment race, a $3000 high end target gun is no more competitive then a $125 gun you learned to shoot on as a

A first year competitor will average 13 out of 40 targets hit, and our competitors were just above that average with 2 young ladies scoring deap in 20's, besting several adults with years of shooting behind them. This match was extremely rewarding to me as I had the pleasure of teaching a family of 6, who had never shot before, proper gun safety, proper rifle handling, and then marksmanship on our range. The competitors that day stepped up and offered their rifles, and helped coach these new members in this match. The kids were excited to shoot in a match, and the girls out scored the boys.

Our monthly 22LR silhouette match is held the 1st Saturday of each month and the general public is welcome to participate. Please make plans to join us.

LAWN CARE FOR THE HOMEOWNER

Grubs

Summer is getting closer and one of the biggest problems that your lawn could face is grubs. In this article, I want to explain the types of grubs, their typical life cycle, and products that control them so you can have a healthy, grub-free lawn.

The typical "white grubs" you see in the lawn for our area are the larvae of Japanese beetles, May and June beetles, European chafers, or Turfgrass Ataenius beetles. The adult insects lay eggs in the lawn in late summer. The eggs hatch into white grubs, which tunnel underground and eat the roots of grass plants. Late summer and through fall is their most active period. The grubs will continue eating until cold weather. The cold weather forces them deeper underground where they spend the winter. When spring arrives, the grubs come back up to the grass-root level. In spring, they will continue eating grass roots for a short period

before pupating and emerging from the soil as adult beetles. Once they emerge as adults, their destructive life cycle starts again. Each beetle has its own particular life cycle, but they generally follow this pattern. Most grub damage is done in the late summer and fall; however, the damage is usually not apparent until the following spring. In severe cases, so many of the grass roots are detached by the grubs that the lawn can be cut up and rolled back like a carpet, exposing the grubs and their destruction to the naked eye. Besides the rampant damage grubs can do on their own, they attract other animals. For instance, skunks see grubs as a viable food source and will dig up your turf to eat them. By applying a grub control, you will help prevent lawn damage. There are several products on the market that help in the control of grubs. The most common control is Imidacloprid (Merit). Merit or Imidaclorprid is a neurotoxin and kills by blocking the nervous system activity of the insect resulting in slow death by starving. To take effect, it is ingested or absorbed by the insect. Imidaclorprid achieves upwards of 90% control of grubs. Although it is most effective at killing grubs, Imidaclorpid also has some effect to kill off sod webworms, armyworms and cutworms. It is somewhat weather-durable, but can break down in extremely waterlogged soil before affecting the grubs. Because it is susceptible to sun degradation, it should be watered in after application to be effective (just not to the point that the soil becomes waterlogged). Merit lasts from 15 to 19 weeks which makes timing critical for application and full season control. If timed properly in spring, the application should last effectively throughout the

Mr. Lake's vehicle sideswiped the Amborski vehicle causing Mr. Lake to drive off of the right side of the road. Once in the ditch, the Lake vehicle began to overturn when it slid across both lanes and came to final rest on its top. The Amborski vehicle came to rest in the middle of the road.

Seatbelts were in use at the time of the crash and alcohol is not believed to be a factor. Both drivers declined treatment at the scene. The Amborski vehicle had four occupants, however no injury was reported. U.S. 224 was closed for approximately 7 hours for recovery and clean-up efforts, but has since been re-opened. The crash remains under investigation.

WATCH FOR MORE TICKS THIS YEAR!

With a mild winter, ticks like the Blacklegged Tick will be seen in greater numbers this year outdoors. Be sure to watch yourself and pets each time you are outdoors. Photo Credit: Orkin.

By: Patrick Troyer, Education Specialist

Have you ever taken a stroll through the woods or grassland only to have a small insect attached to your body or maybe even to your pets? If you have been so lucky, there is a good chance that you made friends with a tick. What are these creatures, where are they found, what do they feed on, and how do I get rid of them? Let me answer all those questions for you so you may be informed on your next nature walk.

With the warmth that we have experienced this winter, there is no doubt that ticks and other irritants will be found in increased numbers this season.

Ticks that you may be familiar with are most likely the Blacklegged Tick and the Dog Tick. According to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), most ticks will experience four life stages which consist of an egg, six legged larvae, eight-legged nymph, with the final stage being the adult. Once the eggs hatch, the tick will need blood with every succeeding stage for it to survive. The CDC writes that some tick species require a large number of hosts to get their blood and that it can take three years in some cases to complete a lifecycle. Most ticks will die because they are unable to find enough hosts to supply them with their blood needs for each feeding.

What do ticks like to feed on? Commonly, ticks will feed on a variety of mammals, birds, reptiles, and amphibians preferring a new host with each stage of their life cycle. According to the CDC, the larva will feed on birds and mice; nymphs will feed on deer, humans, squirrels, dogs, and cats; adults will feed on humans, deer, dogs, and cats. Humans face the greatest risk of encountering a tick during the late spring and summer so this is the time you want to be vigilant with ticks. The Ohio Department of Natural Resources writes that blacklegged ticks are active throughout the year in Ohio as the adults will be found in spring, fall, and winter; nymphs will be in the spring and summer, and larvae in the late summer. Skin where ticks attach to your skin will become red and irritated.

According to the US National Library of Medicine, you are most likely to encounter ticks in areas with tall grass, leaf litter, and event shrubs. If you must go into these areas outdoors, be sure that you wear clothing which covers exposed skin and that is lightly colored so a tick does not attach to you, tuck your pant legs into your socks, and check pets as well as children regularly for ticks removing any found. Additionally, the CDC notes that keeping the lawn frequently mowed, stacking wood neatly in a dry area, and even putting any play equipment for your kids in sunny locations and away from the edges of your yard are all great tips to decrease your chance of finding a tick on you or your children. You might wonder how ticks find you and their other hosts. Ticks identify their hosts by detecting the breath of the host, body odors, body heat, moisture, and even vibrations; picking a place to wait by frequently used paths. The CDC writes that ticks may also use the "questing method" in which they hold onto grass with their third and fourth legs with their first pair of legs ready to climb on the host and once the host encounters the area where the tick is waiting, the ticks make their move onto the host's

With ticks, we are not only concerned with them feeding on our blood but also with the disease they can carry known as Lyme Disease. Lyme Disease can pop up at any given time in Ohio but we will see it show up when the nymphs become active in the spring and summer. According to the Ohio Department of Health, Lyme Disease comes from a bacteria called Borrelia burgdorferi and is passed to humans through a bite from the blacklegged tick. With this disease, some symptoms you may notice include: fever, headache, fatigue, and skin rash. This disease has popped up more frequently as we see an increased blacklegged tick population in Ohio. The Ohio Department of Health notes that we had 112 confirmed cases of Lyme Disease in 2015 compared to just 58 in 2005.

Matt Mongin, a Christmas tree grower in Greene County, was quoted in a recent article in the Ohio Country Journal in which he says if you notice the tick right away and remove it, then your chances of encountering Lyme Disease will be rather low. It is when the ticks have been on your skin for a couple days that your chances increase, Mongin says.

The best way to get rid of a tick that attaches itself to your body is to use a pair of tweezers to pull the ticks head off your skin then wash very good with alcohol, or soap and water. Using any form of heat or matches is not a practice that is recommended, according to Matt Mongin.

The next time you are outdoors with your children or pets, don't forget to be vigilant once you come back inside for ticks. It is always nice to enjoy the outdoors and the beauty it has to offer, but there are always a few things that we need to be aware of when venturing outdoors.

and data cited here comes from this webpage from the National Weather Service: https://www.weather.gov/ iwx/SevereWx_20170518 In terms of the technical aspects of the event, and why it was so surprising, is that these storm cells were spawned by weak convergence along a drifting cold front in far northern Indiana. May 18th was a surprisingly warm and slightly humid day across the area, with many areas hitting their first 90 degree day (officially at Fort Wayne International Airport), but only isolated storms were expected by the nighttime. Based on previous forecasts, atmosphere expected to become unstable by early afternoon, with CAPE values, or Convective Available Potential Energy (a measure of how volatile the atmosphere is in terms of convection) reaching 1500-2250 J/kg along and south of U.S. 24. Values above 1000 J/kg are generally considered to be enough for decent thunderstorm development when the conditions are However, severe weather wasn't really anticipated because the wind shear throughout the atmospheric organized and longer-lasting than storms that form in environment where the wind does not change with height. Even though the "environmental shear" on Thursday was relatively weak, a few thunderstorms became severe because the mid-levels of the atmosphere were relatively dry. The dry air creates a greater potential for evaporation of cloud water. As cloud water is evaporated, the air begins to cool, making it heavier. This enhances the downdraft thunderstorm. Every thunderstorm has a downdraft, but in the thunderstorms where evaporation enhances the cooler, heavier air aloft, the downdraft may become more powerful leading to something called a microburst. Microbursts are localized zones where the downdraft accelerates towards the surface, causing localized wind damage in isolated regions. This is exactly what we saw in Haviland and Cecil this past Thursday. In fact, when the storm came through Antwerp, I was watching the storm from my front porch and noticed the wind becoming rapidly stronger in a very small amount of time. Even though the wind wasn't severe in the town of Antwerp, it was from the same storm that later caused the storm damage in Cecil. One of the things that we can learn from this event is that severe weather doesn't alway occur on a widespread, regional level. Localized, isolated severe weather poses some of the biggest challenges to the local forecasters as it is often difficult to pinpoint locations that are more likely to see severe weather on a given day when the probability of severe weather is unlikely. For the most part, this is due to the lack of a more detailed observational network in rural areas, which is especially the case for northern Indiana and northwest Ohio. As long as these challenges are still present to the forecaster, it is even more important that everyone becomes more aware of the weather and the challenges it may pose to you and your community on a daily basis.

PARSON TO PERSON

By: Dr. James Bachman Dear Parson,

How did Bible-time farming methods differ from today's methods?

Obviously, the equipment differed greatly. One of the major differences was not using all the artificial chemicals for weed and pest control. Though the chemicals often seem to improve the profit, they often have bad side effects on helpful soil creatures and people.

God had other ways to increase crop production, mostly based on His blessing for obedience and sacrifice (Leviticus 26:3-5) "If ye walk in my statutes and keep my commandments, and do them; Then I will give you rain in due season, and the land shall yield her increase, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit. And your threshing shall reach unto the vintage, and the vintage shall reach unto the sowing time: and ye shall eat your bread to the full, and dwell in your land safely." He also required them to let the land rest every seventh year (Leviticus 25:3-4). They still had enough because of God's promise to bless the sixth year with a double-sized harvest to see them through (Leviticus 25:20-21).

Today most farmers push and deplete their land for ongoing annual crops. They try to build it back up by adding more artificial chemicals instead of trying to live all out for God and trust Him to bless their crops.

Another recent trend is no-till farming. Lack of aeration, greater use of burn down chemicals and more soil compaction are all contrary to God's tilling plan (Genesis 2:5, 3:23, 4:12; II Samuel 9:10; Proverbs 12:11, 13:23, 28:19; Jeremiah 27:11).

Who could know more about farming than the Creator of the land, plants and environment?

A PORTRAIT OF A MOTHER

By: Rev. Gerry Weesner, Maples United Methodist

"I have been reminded of your sincere faith, which first lived in your grandmother Lois and in your mother Eunice and, I am persuaded, now lives in you also." 2 Timothy 1:5 (NIV).

There is no question but that motherhood, especially in our day, is a difficult and demanding vocation. It is an art and part of the trouble is that a mother is compelled to undertake the task with no previous experience. Especially with a first child, the mother faces the experience forced to learn as she goes along. And most mothers would confess a need for a model, some indication of what should be done and how to do it.

All motherhood begins in awe and, perhaps, more than a little fear. Something essential is missing if these emotions are not involved.

On May 17th, the Antwerp Conservation Club awarded two $250 scholarships to local high school seniors. There were 11 applications received for these two scholarships. The applications came from seniors at Antwerp, Hicksville and Paulding schools. The committee was impressed by the quantity and quality of the applications. It was a tough decision to narrow it down to just two. The recipients of the 2017 ACC Scholarships are: Emily Butzin graduated from Antwerp Local Schools. She is enrolled at the University of Saint Francis this fall and pursuing a degree in nursing. Ethan Friend graduated from Hicksville Exempted Village Schools. He is enrolled at the Ohio State University and pursuing a degree in Entomology.

Not only does parenthood launch a person into an uncharted wilderness, with no nice, easy paths to follow, but it confronts one with a frightening sense of responsibility.

Anna Quindlen is the author of a series of columns in The New York Times in which she shared her feelings as a mother. At the time of the writing of the columns she was the mother of two young sons. "One night the younger of the two sought reassurance that all was well; and this quest led him to the bed where 'two terribly fallible people toss and turn, the closest thing he knows to God.' This is what no one warns you about when you decide to have children. There is so much written about the cost and the changes in your way of life, but no one ever tells you that what they are going to hand you in the hospital is power, whether you want it or not ... Their father and I have them in thrall simply by having produced them. It would be a strange kind of person who did not feel to some degree the awe and wonder of the acceptance and joy." It has never been easy to be a mother. The responsibility has always been awesome but there are some senses in which it is more difficult today than ever. Changes have swept over society, over us, and through home and family, altering both structure and expectations. Guidance is needed and here we look to scripture.

God bless our mothers' and their love, caring, and devotion for their children and families.

This year's theme focused on trauma-informed care for abuse, neglect, and dependency cases and featured Summit County Juvenile Court Judge Linda Teodosio, who provided a view from the bench. Judge Teodosio joined presenter Dr. Robin Tener, executive director of Northeast Ohio Behavioral Health, who has developed trauma-informed systems in communities throughout the region.

As a result of the training, teams created countywide plans to incorporate in their communities that identified how best to work with traumatized youth, where courts and child welfare systems intersect, and the impact of trauma on proceedings for dual status/crossover youth, meaning the youth is simultaneously involved in a child welfare case and a delinquency case in juvenile court.

"I'm pleased we could utilize this important training to develop a plan enabling us to better serve those in our county who have experienced significant trauma," said Judge Wehrkamp. "We each play a distinct role in the management of abuse, neglect, and dependency cases, and it is vital for everyone involved to be mindful of the impact trauma has on the lives of individuals in our community."

PPEC EMPLOYEES VOLUN-TEER TIME TO HELP VAN WERT HUMANE SOCIETY

On Saturday May 13, 2017 employees from Paulding Putnam Electric Cooperative (PPEC) spent the morning giving back to their community. Each year PPEC does a community service project, this follows one of the Cooperative Principles, "Concern for Community." This year they volunteered at the Van Wert County Humane Society. It isn't the normal way of volunteering by playing with the dogs or feeding the cats, instead the employees painted the garage, replaced and moved the flag pole, landscaped around the building, fixed the quarantine units and made a new mailbox. Judy Wygant is a member of the C.R.E.W. (Community Relations & Employee Wellness Committee) a committee that works together to plan special events for PPEC with wellness and community service. "The Humane Society is a wonderful organization that gets very little recognition. Countless animals are abandoned and face starvation, painful injuries and illness. Without this organization these animals would be on the streets with no hope. I was extremely excited to help them in any way

The Humane Society was grateful for the twenty-five employees that took time out of their Saturday morning. "Whether it is big or small, we care and will do what we can to help. There was a huge change from the time we started, to the time we finished on Saturday. When all of the employees work together it makes things look easy and it turns out to be a great success," stated C.R.E.W. committee member Jeff Fer-

For four years now, Paulding Putnam Electric Co-op has conducted community service projects, Peter Niagu, a member of the C.R.E.W. committee commented on why the employees felt it nec-essary to step up, "I feel giving back to the community is extremely important to the cooperative, because it is the very reason why Electric Coops exists today. 80 years ago, the community came together to form the Electric Cooperative, strengthening the lives of our members. This is why it is extremely important to continue giving back to the community strengthening it as we did 80 years ago. We should never forget what it means to be part of Paulding Putnam Electric Cooperative and where we came from."

You can find pictures from the service day on PPEC Facebook and our website www.

AFTERMATH OF LAST WEEK'S STORM

As of Sunday, May 21st, Paulding County remained under a State of Emergency as a result of the Straight Line Wind Storms that were experienced Thursday night. American Electric Power has crews replacing poles and restringing power lines throughout the day. Roads continued to be closed: State Route 114, County Roads 107, 60, 48 and Over 200 cases of water have been donated by Van Wert Wal Mart. Water is being provided at the Scott Fire Station on Blaine Street and Grover Hill Fire Station on South Main Street. If there are any other needs in these communities please contact Paulding County EMA (419) 399-3500.

The National Weather Service continues to investigate the velocity of winds of the three separate storms that hit the area Thursday night.

MY TRIP TO PHILLY

By: Stan Jordan

I just got back from a trip to Philadelphia to see my old buddy Ben Franklin. All the talk around there is about the coming Revolutionary War.

My other old buddy, Juan Valdez, was there also, you know he is the guy that rides the burrow and sells coffee. He is something like a front man for the coffee people. The first night we had a table at the Red Bull, an old type English pub. The main refreshment there is Grog.

In between a lot of stories, or wild tales, grog is served by the pint in a pewter mug.

Of course a number of Ben's girlfriends were all around him and he was telling about his latest trip to Paris and some unlikely stories of him and Madam Pompedoor.

After a few pints of grog and a number of Ben's tall tales of romance, I started to drink coffee with Juan Valdez. A lot of those folks had never drank coffee, usually

There were a lot of the Green Mountain Boys there. Those are the farmer types Infantry from up north.

If these soldiers can fight like they can drink, we will win that war with the British. Because a lot of the customers were soldiers, the pub stayed open very late and Juan and I decided to go to bed somewhere. Because of the late hour there was no room at the inn, so Juan and I slept with the burrow in the delivery stable.

Before we left, Ben was dealing with one of the ladies for a place to sleep.

See ya!

Memories As it seems to me now, we could see gulls at anytime flying about the boat. On Friday morning about 9 a.m. Sept. 1 we caught the first glimpse of New York. We docked about 11 a.m. after passing through custom house where our belongings was searched, we again were herded into small groups, each one with a number tied about his neck. Ours was no. 8. Men carrying banners bearing large numbers would come along and we were told by signs and otherwise to follow the banner bearing our number, about seven o'clock that evening we were put aboard our train leaving for Ohio. Nothing to eat since breakfast aboard the ship I was just about starved. Mother had bought a link of bologna of which I ate my share. Mother being to tired and sick to eat. We rode all night, on Saturday mother bought some oranges so we each had an orange the she divided the rest of the bologna. That was the menu for Saturday. Sometime during Saturday night or early Sunday morning we arrived at Toledo. It was here that I saw my first electric street car. We left Toledo about on our final leg of our journey, we arrived in Antwerp about 9 a.m. Sunday- Sept 3- 1893, tired and hungry. We were met at the station by Henry George Sr. who at that time had a grocery store in the brick building on the west side of Main Street adjoining the railroad on the north. He had been asked to keep watch for us. A three-seated spring wagon took us over to the house of my uncle John F. Miller, with whom my father had made his home since his arrival, our guide on the trip was Henry George Jr. After the usual greeting a meal was prepared and I can't recall of ever eating a meal that tasted so good, my first piece of apple pie was eaten at that time. After I was filled up, I was ready to explore. Our first trip was back of the barn on the farm of J.F. Miller the woods started at the barnyard, saw and ate my first wild grapes. we then went north to the creek that was through his farm and which was dry at this time of the year, we followed it 80 rods west, during that time I killed 13 snakes, garter-black snakes a ribbon of snakes. this creek was at the head of the old six mile reservoir, which was located just east and south of Antwerp. At the time when this reservoir was drained this ditch was dug to drain that pair of swamp extending to the Indiana state line.The soil was very fertile, the black muck two and three feet deep, was covered with button wood or beaver brush, wild cane, flag and swail grass. Our first year was spend in clearing this muck land, we formed in large logs, buried completely in this muck, many of them well preserved, smaller logs and chunks plainly showed the rounded cut of the beaver, which proved that the beaver was common here at one time but I can't recall of ever hearing any of the old hunters saying about catching beaver so evidently this wood had been preserved for perhaps a century or more.

Although this land at that time had been drained for about 6 years it was common to plow up large snapping turtles buried in this muck, snakes were also very common, being mostly garter snakes, or water snakes, milk snakes, ribbon snakes, a few red bellies and an occasional Blue race, the ribbon snake, as I recall, seemed the most common of all, two to three feet long and very slender. Our first crop in this muck usually was onions and potatoes and what potatoes very large and usually hollow, some of them weighing from two to three pounds each. What they made up in size they lacked quality. For the first four years we made our home across the road from the farm home of my uncle J.T. Miller. A week after arriving in this country I started to school at the Overmeyer School near our house, it was fortunate for me that my first teacher, E.D. Murphy was able to speak some German, so we got along just fine. It was rather embarrassing for sometime while I was getting started, to have the other pupils about my age and for that matter all the pupils in the room, (this being a one room country school where children from 5 years to well over 20 years of age all sat in one room) I don't think there was any studying in the land cleared and ready for farming the coming spring. During this time, about 1896, in October a neighbor of ours, Sam Hetrick, asked my folks for me to go along on a trip to Fremont, Ohio for company. I don't believe I ever will forget it. This trip was made with an old team of horses and a large wagon, we left about 3 o'clock in the morning and driving until after dark we spend the first night in Napoleon, Ohio a trip that now can be made in less than an hour, this was a very interesting trip. Our route after leaving Defiance was along the old Wabash Canal which at that time was still being used, the boats being pulled by mules walking on the banks of the canal, at this time it seems like very slow transportation. I don't remember what the boats were loaded with. It took us nearly three days to make the trip on our return home we come by way of Bowling Green through oil fields that were just booming about this time. Activity was everywhere, drilling and pumping it seem now that there was a derrick on every acre of land. It took us nearly three days for the return trip and I certainly enjoyed every day of it.

I had already finished and

BASEBALL AND I

By: Stan Jordan

On Saturday, May 13th, I was given the honor of throwing in the first baseball of the Antwerp Little League 2017 ball season. It was the first real nice day for a long time and there was hundreds of people at the Little League Ball Diamond. Lots of little ball players, older ones, moms and dads and lots of grandparents also. I had a speech ready, but I forgot to say it, so I will just give it now. "With the throwing of this ball, the 2017 Antwerp Baseball season is officially opened...Play Ball!"

There was a few minutes of history of baseball in Antwerp by Becky Keys. She has done a fine job of collecting data and memorabilia of baseball right here in Antwerp. That was very interesting as I knew some of the original Antwerp Reds ball players.

Before television arrived, some of the hours of entertainment here locally was filled in by watching baseball, softball, fast and slow pitch. Yes that was a couple of eras gone by. I love to sit and let my mind wander back to some of those night and day games. Maybe our living pace was slower then, but it sure leaves a lot of fine memories. I was very impressed my how nice the entire ball park looked. The concession stand and all the fixtures were all painted up nice, the diamonds were all dragged and limed. In short, the officers and the volunteers of the Antwerp Ball Association really done a fine job. I am very proud to be a part of today's I want to thank Jeff Cline, the president of the association, for all of his help on that Saturday. Let me tell you a little history of the Cline boys. There were four boys who lived on my route and attended Antwerp High School. One of the boys, Eddie, was a very good baseball pitcher. He went on and was affiliated with the major leagues. He lives over by Oakwood now. Eddie is Jeff's uncle, so baseball runs in Jeff's blood. There were four Cline boys, Eddie, Richard, Jim and David.

We had a number of families that was big in baseball. The Carrs, the Reebs, the Billmans, the Lichty's, the Schilbs', the Donell's, yes I could go on and on.

I hope that old timers can look down and see the beautiful ball park. It is something to be proud of.

SAM RIVERS, INDIAN AGENT CHAPTER 33: GET-TING SAM TO THE FORT

By: Stan Jordan

As soon as Rooster arrived and before he could talk, Callie pulled him over to the barn and showed him the situation they were in.

Rooster was a lot cooler than Callie and he knew it was up to him to take charge and do all the work and make all the plans to take Sam over to Fort Kearney to see an army doctor.

First Rooster said, "I will take and fasten a rope from the team to that bear's back legs and drag him out to the garden area. Maybe the wolves and other animals will clean him up and leave Sam's winter meat alone." It is a moonlit night and that helped because Callie has the lantern in the house rounding up the bear skins and blankets to make Sam a bed in the

Rooster hooked up that team to the wagon and put a lot of hay in the wagon bed to make a softer bed for Sam. Rooster fed and watered his horse, Rocket, and let him rest a bit. Rooster got Sam into the wagon, but Sam didn't move

They emptied all the water buckets, put out the fire, loaded the little one-burner oil stove and coffee pot. They both stood and named everything they would need, and knew if it was packed. After a last minute check, Callie told Rooster how glad she was that he came along. She had no idea what she would have done without his help and guidance. They got started around nine o'clock. Thank goodness there was a bright moon.

Callie laid down in the wagon with Sam for a while but the frozen trail made it too bouncy for her, so Rooster fixed her up with a bear skin and another one for her to sit

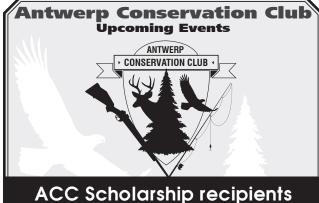

Again she told the soldier, "I don't know what I would have done without you. God answered my prayers."

They plodded along for hour after hour and Rooster said, "Let's stop now and let the horses rest and have some coffee and cookies." They did that as soon as they forded the Loup River.

They started south now, heading for the Fort. It's getting daylight now.

Callie had dozed off a couple of times and leaned up against Rooster for support. After a few more hours of bouncing they could see the Fort in the distance still a couple of miles, but it sure was a welcome sight as it was getting dark out.

Lisa Noneman has been working in the area for years. In Paulding she worked at various activities including realty. One of Lisa's favorite activities has been art and over the past several years she has been working to create the job she loves: flowers and art. The new business, opened in early May at 4415 Bull Rapids Rd., Woodburn just behind her husband, Lowell's business called Noneman Machine, is called The Fat Hen.

The Fat Hen is a small business that prepares silk flowers for any event such as weddings, funerals and everything in between. In addition to the arrangements there are houseplants available to give life to your home.

What you may not know is that she also has art classes on the side. The initial front room may be small at this location, but she has a much larger area that is useable just for this sort of activity. One such event being planned is for art classes and canvas parties.

Beth Woods of Indiana Wild and Woodburn Chamber President stated, "The Woodburn Chamber and Council welcome The Fat Hen and wish Lisa the best of luck for many years as she starts her business in downtown Woodburn."

Ms. Noneman loves all kinds of medium including water color, acrylic, oil, and digital. Lisa's work was featured in the magazine "Digital Studio" published in the spring of 2017.

Lisa realized the need for a flower shop in Woodburn and pushed to make it possible. Business hours for the Fat

Hen are 10:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. Tuesday - Thursday; 12:00-6:00 p.m. Friday and Satur-

CLICK IT OR TICKET CAMPAIGN STARTS MAY 22

Ohio State Highway Patrol and Law Enforcement Will Show Zero Tolerance

As summer kicks off and families hit the road for vacations, the Ohio State Highway Patrol is reminding motorists to Click It or Ticket. Aimed at enforcing seat belt use to help keep you and your family safe, the national seat belt campaign will take place May 22 through June 4, concurrent with one of the busiest travel and holiday weekends of the year.

"Our law enforcement personnel see firsthand the loss of life when people refuse to buckle up," said Lieutenant Bob Ashenfelter. "It's such a simple thing, and it should be an automatic next step after sitting down in a vehicle." As the Memorial Day weekend approaches and the summer vacation season ramps up, "We want to keep our community members safe, and make sure people are doing the one thing that can save them in a crash: buckling up. If the enforcement crackdown wakes people up to the dangers of unrestrained driving and gets them to buckle up, we'll consider it a success."

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, nearly half of the 22,441 passenger vehicle in 2015 were unrestrained. At night from 6 p.m. to 5:59 a.m., that number soared to 57 percent of those killed. That's why one focus of the Click It or Ticket campaign is night-time enforcement. Participating law enforcement agencies will be taking a no-excuses approach to seat belt law enforcement, writing citations day and night.

Nationwide almost twice as many males were killed in crashes as compared to females, with lower belt use rates, too. Of the males killed in crashes in 2015, more than half (52%) were unrestrained. For females killed in crashes, 42 percent were not buckled up.

"Did you know someone who was killed in a crash because they did not buckle up?" asked Lieutenant Ashenfelter. "Please, help us spread this life-saving mes-

Ashenfelter. "Please, help us spread this life-saving message before one more friend or family member is killed as a result of this senseless inaction. Seat belts save lives, and everyone—front seat and back, child and adult—needs to remember to buckle up, every trip, every time."

A Braatten single scored the opening Woodlan run of the inning before a Patriot error allowed the second Woodlan run to score.

Heritage then sealed the victory by adding another run in the top of the seventh to set the final score at 8-5.

WARRIORS DROP PAIR TO PATRIOTS, RAILROADERS!

Woodlan's high school softball team hit the road for a pair of games last week as the Warriors visited both Garrett and Heritage.

On Monday, the Railroaders used a seven-run fifth inning to post a 12-7 victory while Woodlan dropped a 9-3 decision on Tuesday at the home of the Patriots.

Tied at 2-2 after three innings, the Warriors got a single run when Kayla Reidenbach drove in Clare Yagodinski to make it 3-2 Woodlan.

Garrett answered with two runs in the bottom of the inning to go in front 4-3 before scoring seven times in the fifth to break open the game and grab an 11-3 lead.

The Warriors did make

PAULDING FFA IS LIVING TO SERVE Paulding's Community Carden COMING SOON.

Food for All: Community

Last summer, members from the Paulding FFA Chapter traveled to Washington D.C. to attend the Washington Leadership Conference (WLC). During the five-day event, attendees learned how to become effective leaders by learning their purpose, how to value people, how to take action and how to serve others. FFA members left WLC with the knowledge and the confidence to act in ways that help their schools, community and their country.

ty and their country. One challenge the students were offered was to return to their local communities and develop a "Living to Serve" plan. Once returning home Paulding FFA members wanted to put their plan into action. The Paulding FFA members developed a plan to create a community garden for Paulding, with food donations going to the Paulding Food Pantry and to the NO-CAC Summer Food Program for children. Since then, the members have been working on organizing the garden and getting ready for the planting season. They presented their idea to the board at St. Paul Lutheran Church and received permission to have the garden located on their property. Since that time, students have applied for, and received, funding from 3 different organizations. A $400 grant was received through the National FFA Foundation, $1000 was received from TSC Grants for Growing and another $1000 from Paulding Putnam Round Up grant.

Several agencies have agreed to partner up with the FFA chapter to help make the most out of the garden. The agencies include NO-CAC Summer Food Program, Ann's Bright Beginnings, Caring and Sharing Food Pantry, Paulding FFA Alumni, and St. Paul Lutheran Church, as well as community volunteers. Once the produce is harvested, it will be donated to the Caring and Sharing Food Pantry in Paulding. Members are planning to grow corn, tomatoes, peppers, beans, onions, carrots, broccoli, eggplant and lettuce. Recipes and nutritional brochures will be provided for the families at the Caring and Sharing Food Pantry. The Paulding FFA members and volunteers will help maintain the garden throughout the summer, but community members are also welcome to help with the garden. Community members are encouraged to become involved. Anyone can donate used garden tools, compost, manure, as well as join us for upcoming work days or volunteer to be a weekly gardener. Weekly gardeners will be responsible for watering, gardening and delivering produce for their assigned week. Two work days will be held to complete the garden design and plant the 32' x 40' garden. The first work day will be held May 29 from 9:00 a.m. - noon and again on June 6 from 4-7 pm. If you have any questions about the garden or are interested in volunteering, please contact Susan Farr at 419-

DOMINION TRIALS DESCEND UPON PAULDING SCHOOL

Paulding HS & Hicksville HS participated in the 2nd Annual Dominion Cup Trials on May 16, 2017.

By: Josh Steiner

On Tuesday, May 16, 2017, Paulding High School hosted the Dominion Trials, with senior students competing against Hicksville High School seniors in order to win the Dominion Cup. The tournament is part of an effort by area high schools to make school more interesting and perhaps competitive for students, encouraging them to do better in their academic and athletic lives.

Some of the games involved in the competition on Tuesday involved academic skills, creativity and athleticism, including games like Jenga, tic-tac-toe, "Guess Who" and dodgeball. The games began at 9:00 a.m. and lasted till 1:30 p.m. when Hicksville had to leave. By the end of the day, Hicksville and Paulding were tied with a score of 150-150. For the tie-breaking game, one student from each school was selected to compete against the other in an ultimate game of rock-paper-scissors. Eventually, Paulding won the tie-breaking game, bringing Paulding's score to 155 and allowing them to win the competition against Hicksville.

One student, Aaron Horstman, says that he really enjoyed not only the tournament games on Tuesday but also the entirety of the tournament over the school year because it encouraged team work and cooperation among fellow students in their respective grades and because it appealed to his competitive spirit.

Ultimately, the goal of these games and of the school year was to encourage students to get more out of their academic careers and also to encourage all students to participate in something, even if they weren't involved in other extra-curricular activities.

Principal Todd Harmon, stated that the tournament games were sponsored by Marco's Pizza, who also provided the trophy for the winning school in the competition.
