JUVENILE COURT, SCHOOL OFFICIALS JOIN FORCES TO PREVENT TRUANCY

New State Law Promotes Collaboration to Address Poor School Attendance

The Paulding County Juvenile Court recently organized a meeting with area school administrators, the Paulding County Prosecutor's Office and other local leaders to discuss the implementation of Ohio's new truancy law. The collaborative effort will lead to the development of new procedures and programming aimed (Continued on Page 5)

PAULDING SCHOOLS "NO KID GOES HUNGRY" ACCOUNT

Paulding, OH: A national campaign that swept across the country a couple years ago showcasing school districts denying children any type of lunch if they forgot their money or had a low account balance motivated a few Paulding residents to make sure that never happens at their local district. An account specifically used for that purpose was created and is maintained at the school and has received donations from different community organizations and churches along with local residents, currently totaling approximately $2,000. Outgoing School Board member Clint Vance wants to make sure that account stays healthy during the holiday season and into the new year. Vance has decided to donate his second half Paulding board salary of $707.85 into that account. "With Christmas right around the corner, money is tight for everyone", Vance explains while also saying "families have a lot on their mind with get togethers and traveling" so he thought this would be a way to potentially ease that burden while also giving back.

The leader of Serving Simply recently visited with all of our students and shared a little bit about what they do. His message to the students was twofold: he thanked them for their contributions and he also hopes they are thankful for all they have. While we are blessed with a warm bed, toothpaste, and regular meals, the homeless do not have access to these types of things regularly. WLS is thankful for the

LUTHERAN'S WEIGHT LOSS SURGERY PROGRAM ACHIEVES NATIONAL AC-

CREDITATION

Patients in northeastern Indiana seeking surgical treatment for severe obesity and its related conditions have easy access to a nationally accredited program that meets the highest standards for patient safety and quality of care.

Dale Sloan, MD, surgical medical director of the Lutheran Bariatric Center, today announced Lutheran's weight surgery program has been reaccredited as a Comprehensive Center under the Metabolic and Bariatric Surgery Accreditation and Quality Improvement Programe, a joint program of the American College of Surgeons and the American Society for Metabolic and Bariatric Surgery. The Lutheran Bariatric Center was first recognized as an accredited center of excellence in 2008.

"Surgery is one of a series of important steps we take with our patients to help them achieve results that are lasting,' said Sloan. "Since 2005, our program has helped more than 1,500 people before, during and after they've visited the operating room better understand how to combat the disease of obesity. The ongoing journey for patients and program alike remains transformative."

The MBSAQIP standards, outlined in Resources for Optimal Care of the Metabolic and Bariatric Surgery Patient 2016, ensure that bariatric surgical patients receive a multidisciplinary program, not just a surgical procedure, which improves patient outcomes and long-term success.

Lutheran's accredited center offers preoperative and postoperative care designed specifically for their severely obese patients. The program's commitment to quality care begins with appropriately trained staff and engaged leadership who participate in meetings throughout the year to review outcomes. They seek continuous improvement to enhance the structure, process and outcomes of the cen-

To earn the MBSAQIP designation, the Lutheran Bariatric Center met essential criteria for staffing, training, facility infrastructure and protocols for care, ensuring its ability to support patients with severe obesity. The center also participates in a national data registry that yields semiannual reports on the quality of its processes and outcomes, identifying opportunities for continuous quality improve-

After submitting an application, centers seeking MB-SAQIP Accreditation undergo an extensive site visit by an experienced bariatric surgeon, who reviews the centers structure, process, and clinical outcomes data.

In the United States, around 15.5 million people suffer from severe obesity, according to the National Institutes of Health, and the numbers continue to increase. Obesity increases the risks of morbidity and mortality because of the diseases and conditions that are commonly associated with it, such as type II diabetes, hypertension, and cardiovascular disease, among other health risks. Metabolic and bariatric surgical procedures have proven to be effective in the reduction of comorbid conditions related to severe obesity? Working with ASMBS, the ACS expanded this quality program for bariatric surgery centers so that it can assist bariatric patients in identifying those centers that provide optimal surgical care.

RAY ELECTED TO IHA BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Kirk Ray, CEO of Lutheran Health Network's Kosciusko Community Hospital in Warsaw, has been elected president of the Indiana Hospital Association's Northeastern District and a member of the IHA Board of Directors. His two-year term begins Jan. 1.

"Indiana is fortunate to have dedicated health care leaders such as Kirk Ray who are committed to improving Hoosier health and health care," said IHA President Brian Tabor. "Their experience and expertise is integral as we develop strategies to help shape the future of health care in our state and our nation." Ray has served as CEO of Kosciusko Community Hospital since 2015. Previously, he served as division vice president of operations for CHSPSC LLC, where he provided operations guidance and led strategic initiatives for affiliated hospitals in Mississippi. During his career in healthcare, which spans over two decades, Ray has served as CEO of Lutheran Health Network's St. Joseph Hospital in Fort Wayne, Valley Care Health System of Ohio in Youngstown, Ohio.

DeKalb Health in Auburn. With the increasing focus on health care reform and delivery, it is critical that today's leaders understand Indiana's unique needs," said Ray. "The impact of policies at both the federal and the state level necessitates hospital leaders taking a more active role in the advancement of our health care system, which I can accomplish by serving on the IHA Board of Directors."

The IHA Board of Directors includes representatives from hospitals and health systems from across the state. These health care leaders provide insight as IHA sets longterm strategic goals, develops its public policy agenda, and works to improve the health of all Hoosiers.

SCRIPTURE OF THE WEEK

"And there were shepherds living out in the fields nearby, keeping watch over their flocks at night. An angel of the Lord appeared to them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terrified. But the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid. I bring you good news that will cause great joy for all the people. Today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you; he is the Messiah, the Lord." — Luke 2:8-11 NIV

Temporary closures are only expected at these structures, no other roadway closures will occur as a result of this project. Work on several of the structures related to this project will occur in regulated floodplains. Impacts to these floodplains are anticipated to be minor and result in no rise in localized flood levels. Ohio record Lake Trout. A new Ohio record Lake

Trout has been certified by the Outdoor Writers of Ohio State Record Fish Committee. The new state record Lake

Trout, weighing 26.63 pounds, was caught by James J. Beres of Lorain, Ohio in Lake Erie in Lorain County, Ohio. Beres caught the Lake Trout December 1, 2017, using a JT Custom Crank Bait, by trolling with 20 lb test braided line. Beres' Lake Trout is 38 inches long and 25.5 inches in girth.

His catch replaces the previous state record Lake Trout which was caught in Lake Erie by Tom Harbison on April 20, 2000 weighing 20.40 pounds and measuring 34 inches long. Ohio's record fish are determined on the basis of weight Ohio's state record fish are certified by the Outdoor Writers of Ohio State Record Fish Committee with assistance from fisheries biologists with the Ohio Division of Wildlife. Fisheries biologist Matt Faust from the Ohio Division of Wildlife's Sandusky Fish Research Station confirmed the identification of Beres' catch as a Lake Trout.

PARSON TO PERSON

By: Dr. James Bachman Dear Parson,

I am having trouble losing weight. Does the Bible have anything to say about that?

The Bible says little directly about weight loss, but I have found Bible principles that have helped me.

- 1. Let your motives be in line with the two main biblical purposes for food: strength and health. "Blessed art thou, O land, when thy king is the son of nobles, and thy princes eat in due season, for strength, and not for drunkenness!" (Ecclesiastes 10:17) "Wherefore I pray you to take some meat: for this is for your health:" (Acts 27:34a)
- 2. Control your appetite, stopping when you have eaten what your body needs - "And put a knife to thy throat, if thou be a man given to appetite." (Proverbs 23:2) "Hast thou found honey? Eat so much as is sufficient for thee, lest thou be filled therewith, and vomit it." (Proverbs 25:16) "Remove far from me vanity and lies: give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with food convenient for me." (Proverbs 30:8)
- 3. Don't hang around gluttons. Proverbs 23:20; Philippians 3:17-19
- 4. Note some warnings to gluttons - "Be not among winebibbers; among riotous eaters of flesh: For the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty: and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags." (Proverbs 23:20-21) See Deuteronomy 21:20-21.
- 5. Protect God's body and testimony – "What? Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own? For ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's." (1Corinthians 6:19-20) "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." (1 Corinthians

6. Pray and claim these two promises. "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." (Philippians 4:13) See also 2 Thessalonians 3:3.

LATTA: PASSAGE OF HISTORIC TAX REFORM LEGISLATION A BIG WIN FOR OHIO FAMILIES

Congressman Bob Latta (R-Bowling Green) joined his colleagues in passing the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act, legislation 31 years in the making that would reform the nation's broken tax code and provide needed tax relief for middle class families, grow the economy, and create jobs. The passage of the Conference Report to Accompany H.R. 1 - The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act, means it now moves to the U.S. Senate for approval. "One of the top pledges of this Congress was to provide needed tax relief to middle-class families and the small businesses that drive our economy and create jobs," said Latta. "The passage of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act will mean a family of four in Ohio's 5th Congressional District, making the median income, will keep $2,415 more of their hard-earned money. While the defenders of the status quo have used misdirection and misinformation to try to stop tax reform, our efforts to fix a broken tax code and provide needed tax relief won't be derailed.

"At the same time, the legislation has provisions to grow our economy including a new deduction for our nation's small businesses and farmers that are pass-through entities and ensuring that American businesses are on a level playing field with their foreign competitors. It's taken 31 years since the last overhaul of the tax code, and the passage of this bill is a big win for the people of Ohio."

Highlights of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act:

Provides a tax cut of $2,415 for a family of four making the median income in Ohio's 5th Congressional District.

Nearly doubles the standard deduction, allowing Americans to protect more of their income AND making it so 9 out of 10 taxpayers can file on a form the size of a postcard.

Doubles the Child Tax Credit from $1,000 to $2,000, ensuring more tax relief will go to middle-class families.

Protects graduate tuition waivers from taxation.

Protects the deduction for student loan interest.

Expands the deduction for qualified medical expenses.

Establishes a new passthrough deduction to provide tax relief to small businesses, the engines of our economy.

Eliminates the individual mandate which dispropor-

CELEBRATING OHIO WILDLIFE: BEAVER & FOXES

tion Specialist

It goes without saying that we have some amazing wildlife that call Ohio home. With bears, turkeys, beavers, coyotes, foxes and so much more, Ohio is truly the heart of it all when it comes to wildlife! In my previous installment, we looked at the deer and the wild turkey learning about their habitats, diet, and behavior. For this article, we look at yet two more of nature's creatures, the beaver and the fox.

Let's first look at the fox. In Ohio, there are two species of fox that call our state home which are the gray fox and the red fox. As you can imagine, they both are named based on their color. The red fox is more of a reddish-orange with white from its below to its underside. The gray fox has an overall gray color but has a lot of black and white mixed in giving it a salt and pepper-like appearance. Besides the color differences, one notable difference between the two-fox species comes to looking at the tail. The red fox will have a white tip to its bushy tail while the gray fox will have a skinnier tail with a black tip.

Foxes are nocturnal animals which means that they are primarily active during the nighttime hours when they hunt for their food and generally sleep during the day. According to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR), the Red Fox is a solitary creature during the fall and early winter months and generally only will roam a one to two-mile range in search for food. Some primary staples in the Red Fox diet would be mice, rats, rabbits, birds, insects, eggs, fruits, and acorns. The red fox generally is the one people tend to think of when they hear the word fox due to is rusty colored fur.

The gray fox and the red fox have a lot of similarities between them. One of the main things comes to reproduction with foxes being monogamous breeders. What does this mean exactly? According to ODNR, this means that the fox will only have one mate through their entire life time with peak breeding taking place from February to

Paulding

March for the gray fox and January to February for the red fox. Foxes will only have one litter per year and can have anywhere from 4-6 kits in every litter.

Female red foxes sometimes must make their own dens from scratch. ODNR writes that females that must do this will pick out a location that has a loose, sandy soil that has a southern exposure for warmth. Dens will be dug to depths of about four feet deep. Did you know that foxes are related to your pet dog? Foxes, just like your dog, are members of the "Canidae" or Canine family. Another interesting fact with the fox is that they do not hibernate through the winter months compared to other animals.

To say the least, the beaver is quite an amazing animal primarily due to all the adaptations that it has to best live in its environment. The beaver is the largest rodent found in North American weighing an average of 60 lbs. and measuring a length of 25 to 30 inches long. One thing is for sure with the beaver, they sure love the water! They love it so much that within just 24 hours of being born, the young called kits are already actively swimming! Kits are generally born between April to July with 1 to 4 kits being born with every litter.

Beavers generally prefer ponds that are surrounded by forests to build their homes known as dams. Among some of their favorite woods to eat are poplar, birch, and maple trees. Let's talk a little bit more about their homes which can have some differences depending on where they are built. For the most part, beavers are quite crafty when it comes to the construction of their dam such as building the entrances underneath the water. Why an underwater entrance vou ask? Well for one, they love the water and two it is one of the mechanisms they use to protect themselves from predators who are left wondering how to get into the dam.

According to National Geographic, the inside of their homes features a living quarter built above the water with wood chips on the floor to absorb excess moisture along with a vent at the top to allow for air circulation. Beaver dams are built using the wood that they have chopped up with their large teeth along with mud to hold everything So, let's now talk about the many amazing adaptations of the beaver. What is an adaptation? An adaptation is a modification of an organism or its parts which allow it to better survive its environment. Among their adaptations, beavers have webbed feet, waterproof fur, adapted lungs, ear adaptations, clear eye lids, rudder-like tails, and their large teeth. The waterproof fur makes sense given that the beaver loves to swim in the water. According to National Geographic, beavers use oil glands to keep their fur wet and slippery and rub this on their fur. This is reapplied on a regular basis to ensure the fur stays wet. The fur also is good at trapping body heat to keep the beavers

If a beaver is underwater all the time, how do they see? Beavers have clear eyelids that allows them to see through, so they have their own built in goggles! National Geographic writes that beavers also can stay underneath the water for as long as 15 minutes due to their specially adapted lungs. Do you like getting water in your ears or nose when you swim? Beavers don't either! They have small flaps of skin in their ears and nose that close when they are underneath the water!

Now to those beaver teeth! According to National Geographic, beavers have long sharp teeth known as incisors which are great for gnawing wood. The teeth are continually growing, which makes it important for beavers to keep their teeth sharpened by chewing on wood. Another adaptation of the beaver is their webbed feet. The webbed feet are like flippers that divers will wear when deep see diving. Their webbed feet between their toes come in handy when they are swimming through the water.

Lastly, is the beaver's tail. They have a large tail shaped like an oar that comes in handy as a steering mechanism and to defend themselves from predators. They will slap their large tail on the water to scare off predators! Hopefully now you have a good understanding of the beaver and foxes found in Ohio. Stay tuned for the next installment which will feature more great Ohio animals!

PHOSPHORUS RISK INDEX PROJECT

The Phosphorus Reduction Reimbursement Program is now available in critical areas throughout Eastern Allen County within the Upper Maumee watershed.

Grant funds provided to the SWCD from the Indiana Department of Environmental Management are available to participants in the project on a per acre basis.

If you have farm land in the Upper Maumee targeted watersheds, you may be eligible to participate in this project.

This pilot program is designed to help farmers keep phosphorus on their fields. The main factors that determine a farm's risk of losing phosphorus include soil type,

how close or connected a field is to surface water, slope of the field, soil permeability, soil Phosphorus test results, amount of fertilizer applied, time of fertilizer application, and fertilizer placement. Producers may be eligible invests in Main Street Ohio, a program run through Heritage Ohio. Four or five experts in downtown revitalization will be walking the streets of Paulding on January 8th and 9th to see how they can help us revitalize our downtown to make it vibrant, prosperous and full of business again. DART (Downtown Assessment Resource Team) will consist of architects, grant writers, economic developers, and others who have experience helping small rural communities. There will be a public meeting held on Monday, January 8th at 6:00 p.m., location to be determined. At this meeting the team will present their findings, give some suggestions, and have the chance to ask, and answer questions.

"Main Street Ohio has helped communities like ours become vibrant again. Everyone talks about the good ole days when the square was the place to be. We're hoping to achieve that for generations to come," says Mikayla Pieper, director of the Paulding Chamber of Commerce. Investments made by Flat Rock Creek Fall Festival, Paulding Putnam Electric, Paulding County Area Foundation, Paulding County Economic Development, State Bank, the Village of Paulding, and personal contributions insured that the first phase of the Main Street program was funded in full. A sincere amount of gratitude to these businesses, organizations, and leaders for their support as we move forward due to their generosity.

The Friends of the Chamber will be the spear head for the Main Street initiative. The goal is to give back to the community and fuel downtown revitalization through events and fundraisers. What an exciting time to be living in Paulding. A lot is happening, and many dedicated and enthusiastic leaders in the community are excited to see what 2018 will bring. Are you?

Notable Changes to Ohio's Truancy Law

- Under the new law, schools are required to send notification letters to parents and implement a student-specific absence intervention plan before a complaint may be filed in juvenile court. Previously, truancy was addressed in juvenile court, with complaints filed once students reached a certain number of unexcused absenc-

School absences are now tracked by hours, rather than days, which means that a student who is late to school or leaves early is working his or her way toward attendance interventions and possibly court involvement. Elizabeth Zartman, a Paulding County native, has been hired to serve as the county's first Diversion/ Attendance Officer and facilitated the recent meeting with school officials. WOMEN ARE PEOPLE

By: Stan Jordan

In the last few months more and more ladies are coming out and telling how and when their old boss mistreated them. Some of it was years ago and they are just now telling on that old leech of a boss they had. Lots of people think they are lying because they waited so long to tell their story. But I believe them, it just took that to find an opening or a good reason to come forward.

Some men think women are working in a man's world and that women are fair game. Let us mull that over for a bit. Men have taken advantage of women on the job for hundreds of years. Even some of our presidents were a little loose in the moral department.

Jefferson was color blind, Ben Franklin was never elected to any office, but he swung a wide loop, he didn't throw many back. Franklin D. Roosevelt had some girlfriends, Eisenhower had a girlfriend. Kennedy and Clinton both got off the beaten trail, Trump isn't any better.

The entertainment world is very bad for bosses having their way with young pretty actresses. If you want that job in a film or any other film, it will cost you a sexual favor. That has happened for years.

In the mid south, for

years, the main report was to keep their women pregnant and barefoot, that way they stayed at home. In some Asian countries, women are about as valuable as a dog, and are treated that way.

CHRISTMAS THEN AND NOW

Christmas time is here and I've got the shivers that a person gets at this time of year. You know, peace and goodwill to all. I can't write it, but it is here anyhow. Back in 1950's, 60's and 70's when I was a mailman, people done a lot of ordering from a catalog and the United States Postal Service carried a lot of parcels. A car load and maybe some in the trunk

Then they built Glenbrook and people started to go to Fort Wayne and shop and bring the parcels home and over the years, the parcel post business petered out.

But in those years, stamps were a lot cheaper and people sent out many, many Christmas cards. People got mail

Now people order by phone, on line and use a credit card and the delivery service, such as UPS, FedEx and otherwise, drop them off. People order like they used to, shop out of a book or

Stimson told U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt in May 1941 that the War Department needed additional space. On July 17, 1941, a congressional hearing took place, organized by Virginia congressman Clifton Woodrum, regarding proposals for new War Department buildings. Woodrum pressed Brigadier General Eugene Reybold, who was representing the War Department at the hearing, for an "overall solution" to the department's 'space problem" rather than building yet more temporary buildings. Reybold agreed to report back to the congressman within five days. The War Department called upon its construction chief, General Brehon Somervell, to come up with a plan. Government agreed that the War Department building, officially designated Federal Office Building No 1, should be constructed across the Potomac River, in Arlington County, Virginia. Requirements for the new building were that it be no more than four stories tall, and that it use a minimal amount of steel. The requirements meant that, instead of rising vertically, the building would be sprawling over a large area. Possible sites for the building included the Department of Agriculture's Experimental Arlington Farm, adjacent to Arlington National Cemetery, and the obsolete Hoover Field site.

The site originally chosen was Arlington Farms which had a roughly pentagonal shape, so the building was planned accordingly as an irregular pentagon. Concerned that the new building could obstruct the view of Washington, D.C., from Arlington Cemetery, President Roosevelt ended up selecting the Hoover Airport site instead. The building retained its pentagonal layout because a major redesign at that stage would have been costly, and Roosevelt liked the design. Freed of the constraints of the asymmetric Arlington Farms site, it was modified into a regular pentagon which resembled the star forts of the gunpowder age. On July 28 Congress authorized funding for a new Department of War building in Arlington, which would house the entire department under one roof, and President Roosevelt officially approved of the Hoover Airport site on September 2. While the project went through the approval process in late July 1941, Somervell selected the contractors, including John McShain, Inc. of Philadelphia, which had built Washington National Airport in Arlington, the Jefferson Memorial in Washington, and the National Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Maryland, along with Wise Contracting Company, Inc. and Doyle and Russell, both from Virginia. In addition to the Hoover Airport site and other government-owned land, construction of the Pentagon required an additional 287 acres (1.16 km²), which were acquired at a cost of $2.2 million. The Hell's Bottom neighborhood, a slum with numerous pawnshops, factories, approximately 150 homes, and other buildings around Columbia Pike, was also cleared to make way for the Pentagon. Later 300 acres (1.2 km²) of land were transferred to Arlington National Cemetery and to Fort Myer, leaving 280 acres (1.1 km²) for the Pentagon.

Away

Micah Robbins.

Even though the team has already started playing, they have not yet hit their stride, which is a good thing as they are currently below 50% on wins right now. They still have 14 more games to go and should very well raise their record as they tighten up from the delayed start.

LATTA APPLAUDS CHANGES TO THE TAX CUTS AND JOBS ACT, HIGHLIGHTS BENEFITS FOR MIDDLE-CLASS FAMI-LIES in the final compromise bill released by the Conference Committee on Friday. In addition, Latta highlighted the benefits for middle-class families in Ohio's 5th Congressional District.

Congressman Bob Latta (R-Bowling Green) applauded the changes made to the House Tax Cuts and Jobs Act

Latta had recently joined his colleagues in sending a letter to conferees asking that the final bill not count graduate student tuition waivers or tuition waivers for family members of university employees as income. The legislation released on Friday maintains the current policy of exempting tuition waivers from income and also allows taxpayers to continue to deduct student loan interest. At the same time, the bill protects the medical expense deduction and expands it by reducing the percentage of adjusted gross income that taxpayers must spend on medical expenses to qualify for the deduction from 10% to 7.5%.

The bill nearly doubles the standard deduction, which means that 90% of taxpayers will be able to file their taxes on a form the size of a postcard. The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act also doubles the child tax credit from $1,000 to $2,000 a provision that will support working families.

Starting as soon as next year, a family of four making the median income in Ohio's 5th Congressional District would keep $2,415 more annually if this legislation becomes law," said Latta. "At the same time, tax filing will be much simpler with nine out of ten taxpayers being able to submit their taxes on a form the size of a postcard.

"While I agreed with much of the legislation originally passed by the House, I'm glad the conferees have improved that legislation by keeping provisions that help college students, those with high medical expenses, and working families.

"In addition to the benefits that individual families will receive, everyone will benefit from the economic growth and job creation that will be spurred by the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act. İt's been 31 years in the making, and tax reform is long overdue. This legislation will mean more Ohioans can keep more of their hardearned money and receive the tax relief they deserve."

In addition to the previous provisions, the legislation also retains the Historic Tax

ANTWERP STUDENTS ENJOY NEW LIBRARY STATIONS

Third graders Kole Elston and Zoen King-Bauer work together to build a marble run.

Students in grades 2 through 5 at Antwerp Elementary School have been enjoying new library stations, including a marble run, Lego wall, art station, and Snap Circuits. As the school year proceeds, new stations of various robotics will be added as well, and the kindergarten and first graders will begin some basic stations during their library time. This is one way Antwerp Local School District is ensuring that its students are STEAM ready (science, technology, engineering, art, and math). Special thanks goes to Mr. Tim Manz, Director of Curriculum and Technology Integration and Innovation, for building the Lego wall and marble run and for ordering the other materials and to Mrs. Angie Carnes, the new elementary library aide, for implementing the stations.

COACH ATCHLEY'S 400TH WIN!

By: Adam Oman and Kaylee Witham

On Friday, December 1, the Harlan Hawks traveled to Wapakoneta Ohio to play in the Grand Lake Invitational tournament. The varsity boys faced off against the Harvest Temple Crusaders. The boys played hard and won in overtime 61-56. David Malcolm put up 10 points and grabbed 17 rebounds. Austin Louden added 3 assists and had 4 steals, while Kyle Graber worked hard for 42 points, 12 rebounds and 3 blocks. This win was the 400th win for Mr. David Atchley Jr.

Coach Atchley has been coaching the Harlan Christian boys' basketball teams since 1995. In 2000, he became the athletic director for the school and in 2001 he also became the Evangelist at the Harlan Church of Christ. On top of all that, in 2007 he became the Vice-Principal at the school as well. When Coach Atchley was asked who influenced him as a coach, he said that Coach Norman Dale and Dick Arnold were who he was influenced by.

He has had a few assistant coaches over the years. Mark Peters and Geoff Hostetler have helped in the past. Now, he is assisted by his oldest son Drake Atchley and also Kevin Petermen. Coach Atchley appreciates those who have helped him over the years.

Some of his most memorable players also happen to be his sons: Drake, Dakota, and Dylan Atchley. Some of his favorite times to look back on are his players' Senior Nights because of the recognition the seniors receive. Coach Atchley also enjoys seeing different people come together to work for a common goal. We asked Mr. Atchley what are some of the challenges of coaching. He said that the time spent on scheduling and working to make sure that the players and their families have all the information that they will need takes many hours, days and months to make all of these things happen. The most rewarding thing that has come from coaching for him, has been the influence he has had on many young men's lives. The time he spends with the team, teaching them the game of basketball and helping them become leaders. He loves how his players have represented the school that he is so proud to be involved with. Many of Coach Atchley's players have learned valuable lessons from him; how to be responsible for their actions and how to be leaders.

Coach Atchley has many responsibilities at the church and school, and we are so thankful to him and his family; for all the sacrifices he has made. We appreciate you Coach Atchley for all you do for Harlan Church of Christ and Christian School and your players.

Ruhl's furniture sign. Pape said that the sign is actually much larger than it looks, standing at approximately twelve feet. This was not always the home of Ruhl's Furniture and Flooring however. Originally Ruhl's was opened by Paul Ruhl in an automobile dealer's salesroom which was located at 424 Broadway Street which is next to the downtown fire station. Ruhl's opened at that spot in 1956. At that time John Pape's father worked with Paul Ruhl in the flooring sales and installation segment of the store. It was there that John Pape got his experience in furniture and flooring sales. Then in 1991 Paul Ruhl was ready to retire and wanted to sell. John Pape bought the store and it continues today.

Ruhl's Furniture & Flooring functioned in that location until 2008 when Pape decided to buy the K.P. Hall building at 511 Broadway in order to have more display space. For quite a few years both stores remained open with the flooring in the original store and the furniture in the K.P. Hall Building. Then in 2008 John Pape consolidated the furniture and flooring into the building in which it is located today.

Today Ruhl's Furniture & Flooring sells all types of furniture which can be custom ordered in the store. On the second floor is their flooring displays with a great variety of flooring styles, colors, and

MCCOLLEY PRAISES STATE FUNDING FOR LOCAL REN-OVATION PROJECTS

State Senator Rob McColley (R-Napoleon) announced that the Hyatt Block in Findlay, Ohio has been awarded state funding through the Ohio Historic Preservation Tax Credit program for renovations to the historic struc-

"The historic preservation tax credit has played a significant role for the investment in many historic buildings across Northwest Ohio," said McColley. "I am thrilled to hear Findlay will be the latest beneficiary through investment in the Hyatt Block."

The Hyatt Block is a three-story building in Find-materials. Also, you can find displays of small collectibles throughout the store which are for sale. Their furniture is of high quality and because they are part of a co-op of over 1000 stores they can keep their prices very competitive. They have a friendly down-home feeling which is reflected in their motto, "Making friends one customer at a time". Pape said, "That's what it is all about. That's why I think we have survived all these years".

Their marketing strategies also reflect that down-home atmosphere. While they do have a website which you can access by clicking here for furniture and here for flooring, Pape shared that they work primarily on referrals. He said, "We've had customers refer us even before we finish the work for them".

Being in the business of furniture and flooring from his youth, John Pape is well experienced in the selling of furniture and flooring. And while he does have several employees Pape said of himself, "I absolutely wear every hat. I receive the goods, I merchandise the goods, I sell it, and I will deliver it. I have been known to do everything".

Pape's favorite part of owning his store however is meeting all the people that come in. Not only does he get to meet people that are interested in buying but he also gets to meet people that remember the building from their youth. They love to come in and tell their stories.

Upon entering Ruhl's Furniture and Flooring one can't help but notice the buildings historical character. With wooden floors and molded tin ceiling the K.P. Hall building built in 1910 still holds some of its earlier charm. It is rumored that at one time there was a speakeasy in the topmost floor. In talking with John Pape, the current owner, he revealed that there is still a pass through window from a kitchen area located on the third floor. At this time that floor is under renovation and so was unavailable for pictures. Also on the outside of the building is the restored

White Privilege

I was just wondering what the next thing the dimms were going to be throwing into the ring. Let me see, oh, the Russian collusion with the Trump campaign, oh I'm sorry they changed that didn't they? It's now obstruction of justice! This thing about global warming, oops sorry, they changed that to climate change didn't they? They are so worried about DACA, those poor children who came to this country illegally with their illegal parents, yet they don't mind killing a greater number of babies with $535,000,000 of taxpayers money. They complain about our vote in the U.N. where the U.S. recognizes Jerusalem as the capital of Israel. They complain about the republicans jumping on the F.B.I. and the justice department for being corrupt, by the way, which they are. The current administration is getting threats from Eric Holder, the crooked ex-attorney general, Senator Warner from Virginia about firing the crooked Special Counsel Mueller. And the latest of their rants? White privilege.

I want to tell you folks a story about white privilege. I knew about a family back in the 50's and 60's when times were pretty tough for a man and his family. This one certain fellow had four children at the time. He drove a taxi in Lima, Ohio for 70 cents an hour plus tips. No welfare, it would have been called relief back then. He and his family made it. He worked the night shift and lived in a four familv apartment building. He went to bed one morning and something told him to wake up. He had a large rat not 6 inches from his face! Two days later he moved his family to rural route Venedocia.

The place was a shack, but it was home. It hadn't seen a coat of paint for decades. Water for everything was across the road some 50 yards away. He drove that old 2 door Plymouth to work at Jim Kelly Buick in Lima for $1.00 an hour. He moved again to rural route Spencerville was paying $18.00 a month rent. He and his wife had two more children totaling 6. He got laid off from washing cars and drew $28.00 A week unemployment.

He took in three different families, all relatives and housed them, fed them. He would take his two older boys with him and they would go, "scratching" which consisted of pouring through two different dumps looking for metals such as copper, aluminum, brass or iron. This was a bi-weekly journey. If he saw pop or beer bottles along the roads in the country, he would stop and pick them up along with his two sons. All for the family, he heard no complaints from his boys.

His children would ride the school bus to Jennings Elementary School, then on to Spencerville. They were constantly harassed, hair too long, hair to short, the old car in the driveway, anything and everything. They had an outhouse, carried in all the water, chopped all the wood for the pot belly stove, gleaned the cornfields after picking, worked picking apples for 20 cents a bushel, pruned the trees, pressed cider for 50 cents an hour. The man's oldest son worked nights in Van Wert dispatching at the cab office for 33 cents an hour. The man moved his family to Van Wert in 1963 on a Saturday in early September, that next Monday he went to work at the Kennedy Kit where he worked until his death.

I didn't write this to garner any pity. I know there are many who might read this probably experienced similar lives. This wasn't the entire story, much more could have been said. I know one thing, I wouldn't have changed a thing. I was the oldest son, the man, my father, he was a hard worker and no son could be prouder of his father than me. White privilege? I never had white privilege, but I was privileged.

SECRETARY PERDUE APPLAUDS PRESIDENT TRUMP'S LEADERSHIP ON REDUCING REGULATIONS

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Sonny Perdue hailed President Trump's release of the Unified Agenda and the results of regulatory reform efforts undertaken since the Executive Orders on Reducing Regulation and Controlling Regulatory Costs and Enforcing the Regulatory Reform Agenda were signed nearly a year ago. "President Trump has shown great leadership on reducing burdensome regulations," Secretary Perdue said. "Here at USDA, it is my goal to establish ongoing communications to give producers and consumers a voice on the implementation of new regulations and avoid unintended consequences associated with undermining our science-based approval process. The deregulatory actions announced yesterday generate measurable cost offsets in annualized savings and help ensure USDA's programs are delivered efficiently, effectively, with integrity, and with a focus on customer service. No longer can we afford onerous red tape that simply serves to hold American agricultural producers back from feeding and clothing the world." Background:

Regulatory reform is one of the cornerstones of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) strategies for creating a culture of consistent, efficient service to customers, while reducing burdens and improving efficiency. USDA has identified 27 final rules that will be completed in FY 2018 and result in $56.15 million in annual savings. USDA's 2017 Fall Statement of Regulatory Priorities was developed to lower regulatory burdens on the American people by implementing and enforcing regulatory reform. These regulatory priorities ensure programs are delivered efficiently, effectively, with integrity, and a focus on customer service; they maximize the ability of American agricultural producers to prosper by feeding and clothing the world; and they provide all Americans access to a safe, nutritious, and secure food supply.
