OHIO WEEKLY FLU HOSPITALIZATIONS CONTINUE TO RISE ODH MEDICAL DIRECTOR URGES FLU SHOTS AS NEARLY 1,000 PEOPLE HOSPITALIZED

The Ohio Department of Health (ODH) reports that the number of new influenza- related hospitalizations rose again last week. The 994 hospitalizations from February 2 to February 8 marks a new high for the 2019-2020 flu season and a 19% increase over the previous week.

These numbers bring to 5,457 the total hospitalizations since the season began at the end of September, and are more than double the hospitalizations reported during the same week of last year's flu season. The current report can be found here.

"One in 12 Americans is likely to get sick from flu this season," said ODH Medical Director Mark Hurst, MD. "The next person hospitalized could be you, your child, or another loved one. Protect yourself and everyone around you by getting a flu shot and following other precautions."

Adult flu deaths are not reported to ODH; however, two Ohio children, girls ages 11 and 16, have died from the flu this season.

The virus can be especially dangerous for people who are very young or elderly, people with compromised or weakened immune systems, people with chronic health conditions, and pregnant women. If you are in one of these categories and develop flu symptoms, Hurst advises, seek medical care right away.

Certain antiviral medications can ease flu symptoms and are especially important for people in high risk groups. While ODH remains on vigilant watch for COVID-2019 (coronavirus disease 2019), state infectious disease experts also are monitoring flu-related activity -- from lab data to emergency department visits to thermometer sales -- in an effort to keep Ohioans healthy. They will continue to do so through the end of flu season in May.

They advise the following to help prevent flu, caused by contact with respiratory droplets from the cough or sneeze of an infected person:

- Stay home when you are
- · Avoid close contact with people who are sick.
- Cover your mouth and nose with a tissue or sleeve when coughing or sneezing.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth after touching objects.
- Practice good habits, including disinfecting surfaces, getting plenty of sleep, and managing stress.

Symptoms typically start one to four days following exposure and include fever, cough, sore throat, runny nose, body aches, headache, and fatigue.

"Along with severe illness, flu can lead to missed work and education, limit family time, and diminish quality of life," Dr. Hurst said. "We encourage workplaces, schools, nursing homes, and other facilities to protect Ohioans by ramping up cleaning and disinfecting efforts and supporting other prevention habits."

You cannot get the flu from the flu shot, and it is recommended for everyone older than 6 months. If you have had issues with the flu shot before, talk to your medical provider about options that might not cause problems.

OHIO EPA BEGINS TESTING DRINKING WATER UNDER OHIO PFAS ACTION PLAN

Ohio EPA announced that it has begun collecting samples to test for the presence of certain per-and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS) in Ohio's drinking water.

The testing, which is being conducted as part of the statewide PFAS Action Plan, will determine if the chemicals exist in any of Ohio's 1,500 public water systems. Approximately 250 schools and daycares with their own public water systems are being tested first.

'Children are considered a sensitive population when exposed to environmental contaminants like PFAS," said Ohio EPA Director Laurie A. Stevenson. "We need to ensure the water that children drink at these schools and daycares is not contaminated with PFAS above the Ohio PFAS Action Levels."

PFAS are manmade chemicals used in products such as carpeting, upholstery, cookware, food packaging, and firefighting foam. PFAS can be transported through rainwater run-off or migrate through soil, posing potential contamination threats to surface and ground waters.

Although there are currently no national drinking water standards for PFAS nor mandates for its testing, Governor Mike DeWine called for the development of the PFAS action plan to identify the extent of PFAS chemicals in Ohio's drinking water systems. If PFAS is detected in a public water system, Ohio EPA will work to help the system to implement preventative and long-term measures to reduce PFAS-related risks.

Ohio EPA will provide the test results to each public water system and publish the data publicly on Ohio's interactive PFAS website, pfas.ohio.gov under the 'data' tab. Once a sample is collected, testing is anticipated to take several weeks due to the complex nature of analytical methods.

Ohio EPA expects to complete sampling of Ohio's 1,500 public water systems, including those that serve communities, schools, daycares and mobile home parks, by the end of 2020.

Ohio EPA and ODH are also working together to provide the public with eaucational information and resources regarding PFAS, including information for individuals that have private drinking water wells.

For more information on PFAS and Ohio's PFAS Action Plan, visit pfas.ohio.gov.

CHOW LINE: EATING FEW-ER TRANS OR SATURATED FATS BETTER CHOICE FOR HEART HEALTH

I'm focusing on improving my nutrition as part of my overall health resolutions for this year. Do you have any tips on how to make heart-healthy food choices? February is a good time to focus on healthy food choices and heart health, as the month was designated

American Heart Month by former U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1963. As such, health care advocates, including the American Heart Association, take this time every year to promote consumer awareness of hearth health and the impact that foods can have on your health. This is significant considering that heart disease is the No. 1 killer of American consumers. Limiting unhealthy foods and making wise food choices are important parts of developing and maintaining a heart-healthy lifestyle. One way to do that is by realizing that your everyday food choices can make a big difference for your heart, writes Dan Remley, an educator in family and consumer sciences for Ohio State University Extension. "Heart-healthy eating includes choosing food with less saturated fats and trans fats," Remley writes in Everyday Food Choices Make a Big Difference for Your Heart, a blog post at Live Healthy Live The site, which can be found at livehealthyosu.com, is a free information resource that offers science-based consumer information and insights. It's written by OSU Extension educators and specialists in family and consumer sciences who promote health and wellness. OSU Extension is the outreach arm of The Ohio State University College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES).

"Saturated fats are usually solid at room temperature and are found mostly in animal products," Remley writes, noting that "trans fats or trans fatty acids are formed when vegetable oils are made into margarine or shorten-

For example, the fat in most red meat is more saturated than the fat in chicken, turkey, and fish, he writes. Meanwhile, trans fats are found in foods made with "partially hydrogenated vegetable oil" or "vegetable short-

The Dietary Reference Intake (DRI) recommends adults eat no more than 22 grams of saturated fat per day for a 2,000-calorie diet. The DRI was developed by the Institute of Medicine and represents the most current scientific knowledge on nutrient needs of healthy populations.

"Buying leaner cuts of meat and removing the skin from poultry can help reduce fat content," Remley writes. "Read labels to check for trans fats, but be aware that food manufacturers can indicate that there are 0 grams of trans fats if their product has less than .5 grams per serving."

The American Heart Association recommends these other tips to lower your saturated and trans fats intakes:

- Eat a diet that focuses on fruits, vegetables, whole grains, low-fat dairy products, poultry, fish and nuts, while limiting red meat and sugary foods and beverages.
- Choose naturally occurring unhydrogenated vegetable oils such as canola, safflower, sunflower, or olive oil.
- Look for processed foods made with unhydrogenated oil rather than saturated fat or hydrogenated (or partially hydrogenated) vegetable oils.
- Use soft margarine as a substitute for butter, and choose soft margarines (liquid or tub varieties) over harder stick forms. Look for "0 g trans fat" on the Nutrition Facts label.

- · Limit your intake of doughnuts, cookies, crackers, muffins, pies, and cakes, which are examples of foods high in trans fats.
- Limit commercially fried foods and baked goods made with shortening or partially hydrogenated vegetable oils. These foods are very high in fat, and that fat is likely to be trans fat.

21, 1839, in New Rochester. In the matter of the estate of the late Samuel Banks - the same case where the earliest records from the Probate Court were found - the judges appointed William Banks and Martin S. Runyan "full power and authority ... to administer all and singular the said goods and chattels" of Banks' estate.

In the next session, held in April, 1840, Judge Emery D. Potter granted Reason Spurrier, W. Saylor, and Richard Banks licenses to keep taverns in their Carryall Township homes for a fee of $6 each, and he awarded Abraham Davis and Horatio Curtis tavern licenses at New Rochester for $10 apiece.

The first two bills of indictment handed down in Paulding County charged Moses Hanshaw with assault Shopkeeper N.E. Harper snatched Paulding County's earliest chancery records from a trash fire as officials were moving from the old courthouse into the current one in the late 1880s. He then kept the book for himself for a brief period of time before it made its way back into the courthouse. Photo courtesy Paulding County Bicentennial Committee.

house, a very old and fragile book was discovered in the Clerk of Courts' records on a shelf in the basement in a dark and windowless room.

This careworn book is not as thick as many of the other volumes, but it is almost as tall and wide. Its pages are ragged with age and the marks of water damage. Inside the front cover is glued a handwritten note that reads, "This book is the private property of N.E. Harper. I dug it out of a bonfire in the street when they were burning up rubbish from the old brick offices before tearing them down in 1887 after they had moved into new courthouse. Signed N.E. Harper, Paulding, Ohio."

Somehow these old chancery records, snatched from a fire by a shopkeeper, made their way back into the courthouse. To think this then 50-year-old volume that had already survived the county seat being moved three times - from New Rochester to Charloe to Paulding – makes one grateful for the records that have survived.

Harper saw the value in this book, which details Paulding's first court sessions after the county had been incorporated and began conducting its own business in 1839. Associate Judges Nathan Eaton, John Hudson and Gilman Mudgett presided over the court's first session held on November and John Bowman with selling liquor without a license. In April 1841, Hanshaw pled guilty to the charges and was fined $5.05. Bowman also pled guilty and was fined $15 plus costs. Making his way through the swampy terrain to hear these cases was no easy task for the judge. According to an early Toledo newspaper clipping adhered to a page in this volume, Judge Potter of Toledo was elected in 1839 for the Thirteenth Judicial District, which included Paulding and nine other counties in northwestern Ohio. Judge Potter then "purchased a magnificent horse on which he traveled about his district. He was compelled to swim streams and wade through deep mud in the almost trackless wilderness to reach places where it was his duty to hold court. He was occasionally compelled to camp out at night or stop at the rude log cabin of a pioneer in making the arduous journeys over his territory. A saddlebag contained his briefs, library and wardrobe."

Besides the rescued early court book, the Clerk of Courts maintains an extensive amount of records. One of the more unusual is a "Record of Strays" volume, which lists descriptions of animals that wandered onto the property of others. Within this book are entries like, "Taken Up! Notice is hereby given, that on the 2nd day of June, 1892, the undersigned took up a stray, being a twoyear-old steer, roan color, medium size, horns sawed

Across the hall and still on the courthouse's first floor, the Auditor's vault holds "Section 16" records dating to 1848. In The Official Ohio Land Book Dr. George W. Knepper explains that support for public schooling was provided by the Land Act of 1785, which set aside Section 16 in every township for the "maintenance of public schools within said township."

Recorded in the "Section 16" volume on the "Brown Township" page on July 20, 1848: Royal Cooper paid $18.89 in taxes and Shadrick R. Hudson paid $37.41 in support of their school.

The next earliest tax records in the Auditor's office can be found in the "Auditor's Duplicate 1864" volume. Many familiar Paulding County names -Gordon, Hughes, Simpson, Tate, French, Snook - can be found in this book dating back to the Civil War era. For the year 1864, Auglaize Township had the highest total taxes levied, $18.60, and Jackson Township the least,

Back in the courthouse basement are the Board of Commissioner's County records. The earliest volume found there is "Journal 1862." Much of the early business recorded in this volume has to do with the building of roads and bridges. In that year, David Naveau petitioned for the "establishment of a county road forty feet in width commencing at the west corner of the lock one mile west of Junction and on the north side of the Wabash & Erie Canal; thence running east along Section 24 down to the Junction and crossing the canal at Griffiths Store to intersect the street running near said store.'

Also that year, plans for building a bridge over the Auglaize River were made. Brown Township had collected more than $1,000 to fund the project and Brown Township had collected around $700, together totaling enough for work to begin. The county commissioners approved that the auditor publish a notice for sealed proposals for bridge construction for 30 days in the Paulding Independent

The county commissioners also established rules for traveling on roads and bridges. Rules for crossing the Maumee River bridge near Antwerp included, "That no person shall ride or drive any horse or horses stage coach or other vehicle over this bridge faster than a walk; anyone violating this order shall pay for each offense five dollars, provided that the United States Mails shall not be subject to this penalty." Carrying fire over the bridge in anything other than a lantern could incur a fine of $5, driving more than ten head of horses or cattle over the bridge at one time could cost the offender $10, and drawing timber over 45 feet long and 12 inches square at one time might set a settler back $25. Also in 1862, the board of commissioners determined that the courthouse needed repairs, "by lathing and plastering several offices, making two outside hall doors ... The old stairs in the hall to be removed and converted into a room for books, and the chimneys to be overhauled and rebuilt. The boards on the outside of the building that are off or become loose to be repaired."

In another notation, "The Board of Commissioners finding that F.T. Mellinger, county Sheriff, has taken more than ordinary care of the courthouse yard in preventing animals from pasturing or running in it. Therefore, the board gives him the privilege of cutting and appropriating to his own use the grass now growing on the same."

Back on the main floor, books stored within the vault in the Treasurer's office only date to the early 1900s. In 1904, the biggest business taxpayers in the village of Paulding were Paulding National Bank, Farmers Banking Company, Cincinnati Northern Railroad, Central Union Telephone Company, and Paulding Gas, Light and Fuel Company.

Another early book records taxes collected on roads named Payne Pike. Dunakin, Hook, Reeb, Hubbard, Nindeville and Mussel-

BRYAN, OH — Replacing old lights with energy-efficient LED bulbs isn't cheap but if you're a member of a not-for-profit electric cooperative, it may be more affordable than you think. Thanks to North Western Electric Cooperative's (NWEC) Commercial and Industrial (C&I) Custom Lighting Program, businesses receiving electricity from the co-op, like dairy farm GreenTop Acres, are eligible for rebates when making significant energy-efficient lighting upgrades, as well as other improvements. GreenTop Acres, located in Mark Center, took advantage of this program, receiving an $19,950 check from NWEC after finishing installation of new LED lights to replace existing tungsten-halogen lighting. In total, GreenTop Acres reduced its energy use by 12,750 watts - reducing their initial wattage by more than 62%.

NWEC's C&I rebate programs allow commercial and industrial members to apply for rebates toward energy-efficiency lighting projects and equipment purchases and installation. Rebates cannot exceed 50% of project costs (excluding labor), up to a total maximum rebate amount of $25,000 for lighting and $5,000 per rebate application for the improvements program. Rebates are limited and available on a first-come, first-served basis.

Pre-approval is required prior to installation by contacting NWEC at 800-647-6932. To learn more about NWEC's C&I rebate programs, visit https://nwec. com/content/member-services-0.

PAULDING FFA RECEIVES LIVING TO SERVE GRANT FROM NATIONAL FFA ORGANIZATION

The Paulding FFA chapter in Paulding, Ohio has been awarded a Spring Semester-Long Living to Serve Grant in the amount of $1,200. The nationwide program provides grant money to local FFA chapters to support semester-long service-learning projects that address needs related to community safety; environmental responsibility; hunger, health and nutrition; and community engagement during the fall semester.

The Paulding FFA plans to help address hygiene insecurities by creating a hygiene closet that will be accessible to all high school and middle school students if they are in need of any hygiene item. Students are currently receiving donations from students at their school to get startup products for the closet, and will later use the grant money to grow the closet.

Last year, the National FFA Organization's Living to Serve Platform provided over $500,000 to FFA chapters across the United States, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands. Living to Serve Grants are sponsored by CoBank, Tractor Supply Company, Cargill, Chevrolet and CSX. For more information and a complete listing of sponsors, visit FFA.org/livingtoserve.

The National FFA Organization provides leadership, personal growth and career success training through agricultural education to 700,170 student members who belong to one of 8,612 local FFA chapters throughout the U.S., Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

PARSON TO PERSON

By: Dr. James Bachman Dear Parson,

Can anyone anoint the sick, or does it need to be a pastor?

The Bible does not state that a layman cannot anoint the sick, but it does say, "Is any sick among you? Let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord." – James 5:14. The two likely reasons for the elders or pastors handling this are:

1. They generally have more faith. Verse 15 says, "And the prayer of faith shall save the sick.'

2. They generally have more skill and experience in dealing with sin. Sometimes sin is the cause of physical sickness: 1 Corinthians 11:30 - "For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep." John 5:14 -"Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee." If that is the case, the sin needs to be discovered, confessed and forgiven by God. Go to the pastor first!

If the sickness persists, doctors can be contacted. Matthew 9:12 - "But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick. If the prayers and physicians do not resolve the sickness, you should claim God's abundant grace daily to see you through, and rejoice to know that God will do some great things through your sickness. 2 Corinthians 12:9 - "And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me." Romans 5:3-4 - "And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience; And patience, experience; and experience, hope."

WHY DID THE JEWS AND SAMARITANS HATE ONE ANOTHER SO MUCH?

By: Lonni Lambert, Oakwood Church of Christ

The nation of Israel was divided into two nations in the days of Rehoboam (1 Kings 12). Israel was composed of the ten tribes to the north, and Judah was made up of Judah and Benjamin. The animosity between the Jews (inhabitants of the Judah, the southern kingdom) and Israelites began immediately after the division, as Samaria was the capital city of the northern kingdom (with Jeroboam as her first king). Rehoboam assembled an army to make war against Israel to reunite the kingdom, but God intervened through His prophet Shemiah (1 Kings 12:21-24). Later, in speaking of the reign of Abijam, Jeroboam's son, 1 Kings 15:6 says "there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all the days of his life."

Immediately after the division, Jeroboam changed the worship of the Israelites in 1 Kings 12:25-33. No longer did the inhabitants of the north travel to Jerusalem to offer sacrifice and worship (cf Deuteronomy 12:5-14). Instead, Jeroboam set up idols in Dan and Bethel.

Later, after Israel's fall to the Assyrians, they began to intermarry with the Assyrians, contrary to Deuteronomy 7:3-5. This is why the Jews hated the Samaritans as 'dogs," or "half-breeds."

The Samaritans were also a continuous source of difficulty to the Jews who rebuilt Jerusalem after returning from Babylonian captivity (Ezra 4, esp v 10; Nehemiah 4, esp v 2).

Eventually, the religion of the Samaritans evolved to the point that they held only the Pentateuch (Genesis-Deuteronomy) as being the law of God, rejecting all the books of poetry and prophecy. Furthermore, they claimed their copy of the Pentateuch was the only original copy (a claim still made today by what few Samaritans still survive). Obviously, this was/ is a claim rejected by the

FIRST UM CHURCH OFFERS "FRIDAYS AT FIRST"

First United Methodist Church in Van Wert will once again be offering "Fridays at First" beginning February 28. The purpose is to allow anyone the opportunity to come and go at will from 12 noon until approximately 12:45 pm and meditate while familiar hymns of our faith are played on the Noehren Pipe Organ. Organist Gloria Wendel will be playing beloved hymns and anyone may enter the sanctuary to escape the outside world and draw closer to Once you enter the presence of the First UM Sanctuary, you will enjoy hearing many cherished hymns. You are welcome to stay the entire time or leave as you wish or need. The hope is that you will be drawn into His presence for time of prayer and meditation. The entire sanctuary will be open and seating is entirely up to you. There will be no spoken word or any order of worship. Psalm 95:2 says Let us come before Him with thanksgiving and extol Him with music and song.

You might want to take a few minutes away from work or lunch and sit for a time to be refreshed emotionally, spiritually, and physically. You are welcome to come into

His presence just as you are. The pipe organ at First United Methodist Church was designed and installed in 1977-78 by renowned organist and organ builder Dr. Robert Noehren of Ann Arbor, Michigan. It was dedicated Sunday, November 19, 1978 with an organ recital by Dr. Noehren. Gloria Wendel was the organist, Dr. Robert Scheidt was the organ committee chairman and Wayne Compton was the contractor. The Rev. William C. Stewart was Senior Pastor. The total cost of the organ, excluding construction, was $110,000

An organ fund has been established for the upkeep and repairs to the organ which is now over 40 years old. The purpose of "Fridays at First" is not to raise funds, but to offer a peaceful atmosphere for people to meditate and enjoy hymns of faith. However, if you would care to donate to the organ fund, a donation basket will be available just inside the entrance.

Pastor Chris Farmer, organist Gloria Wendel and Director of First Impressions and Worship Arts Paul Hoverman welcome you to First Church each Friday from 12:00-12:45 p.m. beginning February 28. Please use the wooden tower doors on Central Avenue to enter and exit.

OVERCOMING EVIL

By: Doris Applegate

Do you feel overwhelmed by the way things are changing in our country? You are not alone! We see the darkness but we must remember that our light shines bright in darkness.

The following verse tells of these days we live in:

When evil seems to boil Around our weary heads When goodness tries to show the way

Among these evil 'trends' We wonder, oh we won-

How hearts can hold such hate

Turn their backs on what is right And be so bold in what they 'state' Trying now to over turn

Rip apart truths always

For their shame they will

We all reap 'seeds' that

In 2 Timothy 3 we are told how evil men will be: "Lovers of themselves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, truce breakers, false accusers, traitors, heady, corrupt minds, reprobate concerning the faith" Read the chapter for yourself - there is more there. Paul says that "evil men will wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived" Paul urges the christians to "stay true to the faith of Jesus Christ" this is what we all must do who love the truth: "Stay faithful to the end."

Yes, the end will come and the righteous will shine forever in the Kingdom of God.My "earnest plea" is for us to become knowledgeable in the Bible. We don't want to be ignorant of what can improve our lives now and later. Why do we neglect the very and most important thing given for our success?

Come on, there is no better time than now to pick up the Good Book and learn. Don't let Satan take away the very thing we all need. Will you read God's letters to you or discard them as if nothing? Proverbs 2:6 says: "For the Lord giveth Wisdom; Out of His mouth cometh Knowledge and Understanding!"

Amen

Radio club members refine their skills regularly and can play a quiet but significant role during an emergency. Most counties have amateur radio clubs. According to Fred Pieper, club president, "Although club members view their involvement as a hobby (they reach out and talk to fellow amateur radio operators from their community, around the state, nation and internationally), most are also available upon request to provide communication

Amateur radio clubs have partnerships with such agencies as the American Red Cross, National Hurricane Center, National Volunteer Organizations Active in Disaster, Department of Homeland Security Citizen Corps, Salvation Army and Civil Air Patrol and the National Weather Service.

WOMEN MAY NEED Extra Steps to Reach Financial Security

Bryan Post, Edward Jones Financial Advisor

International Women's Day 2020 is observed on March 8. This special day celebrates the social, economic, cultural and political achievements of women. Yet, women still face gender barriers as they seek to achieve their financial goals. How can you address these challenges?

To begin with, you need to be aware of what you're up against. The wage gap between men and women has closed somewhat, but it hasn't disappeared. Full-time female employees earn about 82 percent of what men earn, according to the Census Bureau. Over a 40-year career, a woman who worked full time would lose, on average, more than $400,000 because of this wage gap, according to the National Women's Law

Furthermore, a woman turning age 65 today can expect to live, on average, until age 86.5; for a 65-year-old man, the comparable figure is 84. Those two and a half years can amount to a lot more living expenses.

Plus, by taking time off from the workplace to raise children and care for elderly family members, women often end up with lower balances in their 401(k)s and IRAs than men.

So, what can you do to help even the playing field, in terms of building adequate resources for retirement? Here are a few suggestions:

• Contribute as much as possible to your retirement plans. During your working years, put in as much as you can afford to your 401(k) or similar employer-sponsored retirement plan. Most people don't come anywhere near the 401(k) contribution limit (which, in 2020, is $19,500, or $26,000 if you're 50 or older), and you might not be able to reach it, either, but strive to do the best you can. And every time your salary increases, bump up your annual contribution. If you are able to "max out" on your 401(k), you may still be able to contribute to an IRA. If your income exceeds certain limits, you can't contribute to a Roth IRA, which offers tax-free withdrawals of earnings if you meet certain conditions, but you may still be able to fund a traditional IRA, although the tax deductibility may be reduced or eliminated. • Use Social Security wisely. You can start taking Social Security as early as 62, but your checks can be larger if you wait until your full retirement age, which will likely be between 66 and 67. And if you're married, you may be able to choose between claiming your own benefits or receiving 50% of your spouse's benefits, which could help you if your spouse has considerably higher earnings. (Your spouse does not lose any benefits if you choose this route.)

• Look for every opportunity to save and invest. As mentioned above, women often lose out on some retirement savings when they take time away from the workforce to raise families and eventually become caregivers for elderly parents. But even if you aren't working full time, it doesn't mean you have no chance to boost your retirement savings. If you can do any paid work, whether it's part time or as a consultant, you can contribute to an IRA - and you should.

It's not easy to overcome the structural disadvantages women face when seeking to reach financial security. Taking advantage of the savings and investment possibilities available can help you make progress toward your goals.

4 AND 20 BLACKBIRDS

By: Nancy Whitaker

I know I am guilty. I love pie. Pie can finish off a good meal and I have even observed people eat their pie first at dinners. Sitting here thinking about pie makes my mouth water for a piece of butterscotch, cherry, pumpkin, or peanut butter.

Have you ever went to a dinner and for dessert there was a big table full of all kinds of pie? If you are anything like me, you might go up and look at the gorgeous pies and get the piece you want first. (yes I have done it)

A local restaurant offers free pie with an entree every Wednesday night.

If you don't get there early, you might not get your choice of pie. I got lucky this week and got a piece of peanut butter. It was very good.

Of course, today's pie making is not like it used to be. I remember my grandma rolling out pie crusts and using plain old lard.

The more lard the better, and the more sugar added, the better.

There are still some people who make their own pie crusts, but I found out it is easier to buy frozen crusts. Do they taste as good? (that is determined by dedicated pie eaters)

In researching different kinds of pie I might want to make, I found some very strange ones.

Included were: camel pie, vinegar pie, beef and beer pie, green tomato pie, green grape pie, sweet chicken pie and ostrich pie.

Then do you recall the nursery rhyme "4 and 20 blackbirds baked in a pie? Of course we know we have chicken pot pie, but I can't seem to call it a pie. If it isn't sweet, fruity or creamy, it is just not pie.

One time when I was a

One time when I was a new wife, I made a mulberry pie. I was so proud of it, but I did not know you had to take the stems off the berries.

My poor husband couldn't eat it because of the stems and I was so humiliated I cried. No more mulberry or elder berry pie making for me.

Wouldn't' it be fun to be Wouldn't' it be fun to be a pie tasting judge? If there is ever a pie contest I hope I get to be a judge.

Now, for some reason, some people call pizza a pizza pie. I know my grandparents kept saying, "We want to try one of those Pizza Pies." Then when they first tasted it they were disappointed that is wasn't a pie.

Did you know that the Amish serve raisin pie at funerals? They may have a reason to serve it, but I do admit, "raisin or mincemeat pie is just not one of my favorites.

Lots of us have good old recipes for pie. What is your favorite kind of pie and how do you make it? Do you ever buy frozen pie crusts? Shall we eat our pie first?

Let me know and I'll give you a Penny for your Thoughts.

ME AND THE DNR

You know about 2 years ago, I called the DNR in Findlay (that is where our DNR man is located) to talk to him about having seen beaver in the Maumee. She does it every time she walks through a cemetery.

The President is walking out of the White House and heading toward his limo, when a possible assassin steps forward and aims a gun.

A secret service agent, new on the job, shouts "Mickey Mouse!" This startles the would-be assassin and he is captured.

Later, the secret agent's supervisor takes him aside and asks, "What in the world made you shout 'Mickey Blushing, the agent replies, "I got nervous. I meant to shout... 'Donald, duck!"

An elderly man in Louisiana owned a large farm for several years.

He had a large pond in the back. It was properly shaped for swimming, so he fixed it up nice with picnic tables, horseshoe courts and some apple and peach trees.

One evening the old farmer decided to go down to the pond, to look it over, as he hadn't been there for a while.

Before he went, he grabbed a five-gallon bucket to bring back some fruit.

As he neared the pond, he heard voices shouting and laughing with glee. As he got closer, he saw it was a bunch of young women skinny-dipping in ĥis pond.

He made the women aware of his presence and they all went to the deep end.

One of the women shouted to him, "we're not coming out until you leave!" The old man replied, "I didn't come down here to watch you ladies swim naked or make you get out of the pond naked." Holding the bucket up, he said..."I'm here to feed the alligator!"

Some old men can still think fast.

A young guy from North Carolina moves to Florida and goes to a big 'everything under one roof' department store looking for a job.

The manager says, "Do you have any sales experience?" The kid says, "Yeah. I was a vacuum salesman back in North Carolina." Well, the boss was unsure, but he liked the kid and figured he'd give him a shot, so he gave him the job.

'You start tomorrow. I'll come down after we close and see how you did."

His first on the job was rough, but he got through it. After the store was locked up, the boss came down to the

"How many costumers bought something from you today?" The kid frowns and looks at the floor and mutters, "One." The boss says, "Just one?!!! Our sales people average sales 20 to 30 customers a day. That will have to change, and soon, if you'd like to continue your employment here. We have very strict standards for our sales force here in Florida. One sale a day might have been acceptable in North Carolina, but you're not in the mountains anymore, son."

The kid took his beating, but continued to look at his shoes, so the boss felt kinda bad for chewing him out on his first day. He asked (semi-sarcastically), "So, how much was your one sale for?"

The kid looks up at his boss and says, "$101,237.65."

The boss, astonished, says $101,237.65!?! What the heck did you sell?"

The kid says, "Well, first, sold him some new fish hooks. Then I sold him a new fishing rod to go with his new hooks. Then I asked him where he was going fishing and he said "down the coast" so I told him he was going to need a boat, so we went down to the boat department and I sold him a twin engine Chris Craft. Then he said he didn't think his Honda Civic would pull it, so I took him down to the automotive department and sold him that 4X4 Expedition."

The boss said, "A guy came in here to buy a fish hook and you sold him a boat and a TRUCK?!"

The kid said, "No, the guy came in here to buy feminine products for his wife, and I said, "Dude, your weekend's shot, you should go fishing!"

THE GORDON BLOCK

By: Stan Jordan

The word "block" Mr. Ehrhart used lots of times, but here it is not a city block, just a few buildings. In 1877 Mr. L.S. Gordon arrived here in Paulding County and done some work over in Paulding in a couple of offices. Then he came to Antwerp and he and a brother started a hardware on the northwest part of Main

They were in business in a wooden building to start with. But, L.S. Gordon and his brother H.H. Gordon used the Bee-Argus office room to make their plans to build their new building. After they moved in, it was considered the best hardware store around. After L.S. Gordon died, ued the business. After a few years, H.H. Gordon passed away and his son E.V. Gordon was the manager for years. Crystal found a few facts on the Gordon boys.

his brother, Harry, contin-

Harry H. Gordon was born in New York State in 1841, He joined the army in New York State for the Civil War, served a couple of hitches and ended up a first sergeant. He is buried in the cemetery at Antwerp. He died April 6th 1930 at the age of 89.

Lewis Gordon was born in 1835 and died in 1894.

Edwin V. Gordon was born in 1875 and died in 1937.

They were all gone or retired and they had sold out to the Gaisford boys when in 1941 they had a big fire and destroyed the building. The Gaisford brothers were Ivan and Dick. Leroy was not in the hardware business.

Sometime after WWII, the Bee-Argus moved into the last building on that block.

THE NORTH END OF MAIN

By: Stan Jordan

Let me ramble around this end of town on what I remember and guess about some of it.

Well first, on your right, is now the F.E. Reeb store, but earlier, it was Derck & Reeb and in the 1930's it was Ray Reeb. Eventually it became the home of the Bee-Argus, probably in the 1950's. I assume this photo was taken in the 1920's, going by that newer model of car parked along side of the curb. That is a pretty sharp car for that time. There must have been a 'doin's' coming up as there are some men on the City Hall stringing a flag for the

I want to draw your attention to the bottom floor of the town hall. That was a ravine across there and that must have been some job bringing in all that dirt to make that street level. There is also a 3 foot tile that runs east and west under there, it drains to the east.

That little white building south of the town hall, I will tell you what I think I know about it. Now, jumping over into the late 1930's I think

Bert Major Sr. had a shoe repair shop there and by 1939 it was a small restaurant called Bert's Lunch, a kids' hang

South of the little white building in 1932 became the Chevrolet dealership of Harry Parent and Jack Leinard. Harry sold out in the mid 1930's and moved to New Haven or Ft. Wayne. Then at that time on south of Leinard's garage was P.B. Hipkin Tin Shop then Sidenbender Ins, then ABE's Lunch and there has always been a gas station on that corner as long as I can remember.

In the late 1940's or 50's Leinard's done a lot of remodeling and expanding. Getting back over to the right side of the street, at this time, south of the F.E. Reeb store, the next two buildings were Gordon Hardware. It started in the 1870's and burned down in 1941. About that time, 1941, that side of street was the Lutheran Church, the Bee-Argus, Ehrhart's studio, Harry Ely's store, a beauty parlor and then Schilb's Fur-

In looking this scene over, it is taken after 1930 because of the lights and phone wire. It is before 1941 because the Gordon Brothers Hardware is still in business. I would be going to school on Archer Drive and I don't remember that many buggies in town. Maybe a team and wagon or Much like what Antwerp's Marching Band does every July to learn their new music, the Sankt Goarshausen school band has a camp for four days to practice their music intensively. From Saturday to Wednesday at the beginning of February, we stayed in a youth hostel in Sargenroth on the opposite side of the Rhein River from our own. Youth hostels are common organizations in Germany that offer inexpensive room and board for youth groups and families. They are not as nice as hotels, but they have the basics (beds, bathrooms, food, games rooms, and sometimes even swimming pools).

The group, called Big Band, consists of four trumpets, four trombones, two flutes, two baritone saxophones, three tenor saxophones, two alto saxophones, one guitar, one bass guitar, a piano, and a drum set. Together, that makes 21 students between the ninth grade and the thirteenth grade who came to this camp. Every day, we played from 9:00 A.M. until 9:00 P.M. with pauses for meals in between. Lunch was always a hot meal with soup, pasta or rice with sauce, and dessert, and in typical German fashion, breakfast was cereal, or fruit, as well small rolls with meat and cheese, and evenings also had rolls with meat and cheese with a salad

hearsed our individual parts in sectionals and then spent the evenings rehearsing in the whole group. The next day, all of the wind players called the "Bläser" worked on putting their parts together. We could really hear a difference between how we sounded at the beginning of the camp and the way we sounded then after working on all of the pieces. There are many well-known songs that we play such as "Don't Stop Me Now," "Runaway Baby," "Maneater," and "I'm Still Standing." I play as the first trombone in the band with three other trombonists. There is Aimee, in my grade, second player, in the ninth grade Ricardo, third, and Alex, also in my grade, as the fourth trombone. In our sectional, we worked on specific parts of songs that we were having trouble with. We got help from an alumni trombone player named Tilman, who is now in college but played with the band a few years ago. It was difficult sometimes, but ultimately we were very productive, and there was a great deal of improvement in the band's playing. We had to stay focused and pay close attention to what we were doing because the pieces were often challenging. The camp really let us all get better with the music and come together as one band. Our time in Sargenroth was super fun and let us all bond like a family. When we were not playing our instruments, we were talking together, making jokes, and playing games. We stayed up late every night, and on the last night, a few of us even took a short road trip to get McDonald's. In Germany, McDonald's is pretty similar and a little more expensive. At this time, they had a special: 20 chicken nuggets for five euros which was a steal. The five days together in Sargenroth were definitely productive and also fun, I feel that we all got closer and sound better as well. The Big Band is going to South Korea in August and this camp was a good way for them to already start preparing for this trip.

DEFIANCE - The Wayne Trace Lady Raiders picked up the second district title in school history last Saturday at Defiance High School. The Raiders tangled with the Ottoville Big Green and when the dust cleared it was the Raiders winning out 60-49. Earlier in the season Ottoville defeated the Raiders in overtime and it was the Big Green who knocked the Raiders out of tournament play last year.

The game was highlighted when Claire Sinn set the school mark for most points by a Lady Raider. Sinn, who finished the night with 24 points and nine rebounds, surpassed 2016 graduate Erin Mohr who had held the record with 1,447 career

In the Ottoville matchup it appeared the Raiders would run away from Big Green. Wayne Trace took an early lead and moved out to an 11 point margin after one quarter of play 19-8. The red, white, and blue lead by as many as 18 in the second period before settling for a 35-22 advantage at the break.

However, the third quarmomentum quickly turned to Ottoville who whittle the Raider lead down to five with 5:00 remaining 36-31. The Raiders responded with a Claire Sinn basket and a free throw from Gracie Shepherd and two throws from Rachel Stoller to put the Raider lead back to double-digits at 41-31. Ottoville secured the final twopoints of the quarter to send the Raiders into the fourth quarter holding a 41-33 lead.

Ottoville trimmed the Raider lead to five (36-31) in the early going but would get no closer. Two Claire Sinn free throws at the 3:30 mark had the Raiders up 51-40. The final nine Raider points came from the foul line to ice the big win and the district title for the Raiders.

Also scoring for the Raiders: Rachel Stoller 12 points, five rebounds; Miriam Sinn nine points; Gracie Shepherd six points, seven rebounds; Katrina Stoller six points; Katie Stoller three

Carmen Rottenberg served as Administrator since May of 2018 but led the agency since August of 2017. LETTER TO THE EDITOR

"God Said This"

The Democratic party wants power (Psalms 5:8 1-11 The living Bible 58)" justice "You high and mighty politicians don't even know the meaning of the word: Fairness" which of you have any left? Not one!

All your dealings are crooked: you give justice in exchange for bribes. These men are born sinners, lying from their earliest words. They are poisonous as deadly snakes, cobras that close their ears to eth most expert of charmers.

O, Lord, break off their gangs. Tear out the teeth of these young lions, Lord. Let them disappear like water into thirsty ground. Make their weapons useless in their hands, let them be as snails that dissolve into slime, and as those who die at birth, who never see the sun. God will sweep away both old and young. He will destroy them more quickly than a cooking pot can feel the blazing fire of thorns beneath it. The godly shall rejoice in the triumph of right. They shall walk the bloodstained fields of slaughtered, wicked men. Then at last everyone will know that good is rewarded and that there is a God who judges justly here at earth. God always has the

REP. BANKS STATEMENT ON SENATE DEMOCRATS BLOCKING PRO-LIFE BILLS

After Senate Democrats filibustered the Pain Capable Child Protection Act and the Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act, Rep. Jim Banks, member of the House Pro-Life Caucus, released the following statement:

"Democrats in the House and Senate are completely out of step with mainstream America's respect for the sanctity of human life.

"Democrats blocked the Pain Capable Unborn Child Protection Act that would prohibit abortions past the 20th week of pregnancy when studies show unborn children begin to feel pain. 64% of Americans support the bill, and the US is only one of seven countries in the world that allows abortions 20 weeks into a pregnancy. It doesn't matter if you use scientific, democratic, global or moral standards. By any measure, the Democrats' radical pro-abortion stance is shocking.

"Democrats also blocked the Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act today, which mandates that doctors must attempt to save newborn survivors of failed abortion attempts. I've yet to hear a reasonable explanation for Democrats' opposition to this bill, and I don't expect to. Democrat support for infanticide is an indefensible stain on Congress and this entire nation."

They will discuss cooperative approaches to promoting agricultural innovation and global trade as foundations of global food

"Last May, agricultural leaders from Argentina, Brazil, Canada, and Mexico joined me on the margins of the G-20 in Niigata, Japan, to affirm our intent to work together to champion global agricultural trade based on sound science. We represent some of the most productive farmers on the planet and have a common responsibility to feed our growing world population. Only by continuing to embrace innovative and transformative technologies are we as a world going to be able to produce enough food, fiber, and fuel for the future," Secretary Perdue said. "I'm delighted we are able to come together once again to continue building the momentum and furthering our dialogue at this year's Agricultural Outlook Forum.' The 2020 Outlook Forum is themed "The Innovation Imperative: Shaping the Future of Agriculture." The Forum's plenary panel and several breakout sessions will focus on the central role science and innovation play in driving future growth and addressing challenges facing farmers.

The Forum is USDA's oldest and largest annual gathering. It brings together more than 1,500 participants from the U.S. and around the world, including producers, processors, policymakers, government officials, and nongovernmental organizations. VAN WERT CIVIC THEATRE PRESENT

Shiloh Wittwer, and Trent Gossett (back) travel down the road in the next VWCT production.

By: Mary Ann Falk

Van Wert Civic Theatre announces their next production, Leaving Iowa by Tim Clue and Spike Curtain time is 8:00 p.m. on March 5, 6, 7, and 12, 13, 14 with Sunday matinees at 2:00 p.m. on March 8 and 15. Director Doug Grooms and his cast promise an evening of laughter and smiles and a few tugs at the heartstrings. Leaving Iowa is a show about the classic family vacation in a car. Don Browning, played by Trent Gossett, is on a journey to take his father's ashes to his childhood home. The journey takes an unexpected detour, and Don begins to reminisce about family road trips of the past. During the flashbacks of Don's memories, we see

Dad (Ed Eichler), Mom (Lisa Eichler), and Sis (Shiloh Wittwer) in the car with Don as they travel along through vacations of the past. On each of the stops, the memories are reenacted with the help of Dolores Foreman, Daniel Sanderson, and Courtney Wendel who play various characters throughout the show. While this family's car trip banter is unique, audience members who have ever taken a family road trip will recognize their

COMPACTION OR POOR SOIL STRUCTURE?

I have a long-standing feud with engineers about soil compaction. Engineers insist that soil compaction is caused by wheel traffic (true) but it also comes from excessive tillage, rain (think hard driving rains) and gravity (to a lesser degree). Soil compaction is poor soil structure due to a lack of roots and active carbon (soil organic matter, SOM) from root exudates. Tillage adds soil oxygen that promote bacteria that breaks down the good soil structure (macro-aggregates, macro's) or soil that crumbles. The glues that form the macro's comes from plant roots and microbial waste or byproducts. Bacteria wastes are important for cementing soil particles into micro-aggregates (micros) while fungi are important for producing glomalin that cement micro's together into macro's. Micro's are the building blocks to good soil structure, but without the glues, they cause poor soil structure or compacted soils. A balance of soil bacteria and fungus are needed for good soil structure. Tillage promote bacteria populations over fungal populations, reducing glomalin and root exudate production. These glues in the soil have two major functions, they promote good soil aggregation and they serve as a food source for the microbes. Tilled soils are high in oxygen and bacteria which consume these glues as a food source. Micro's alone tend to set up like a brick wall. Farmer who excessively till their soil (get it too fine) often find that after a rain, the soil sets up like concrete because the soil becomes too dense. Macro's promote water infiltration, good drainage, and good soil

Here is a simple experiment that gardeners, farmers, and school children can perform. Take a shovel and dig 6-8 inches in a tilled garden or field. You will find a compacted area or hard pan within 6-8 inches. On vertically tilled soils, you may find two areas, one at 2-4 inches (vertical tillage) and one deeper (6-8 inches) from plowing 40-50 years ago. Soil compaction/poor soil structure can last a long time, reducing vields 30% or more each year. Find an undisturbed area at the edge of a road ditch, a wooded area, or the corner of a field. Compare the soil structure. Soils with good soil structure have a dark rich color, high in SOM (smells great), have large soft peds (micro's glued together into macro's) that crumble. In undisturbed soils, you should not find any hard pans.

There are two ways to deal with soil compaction or poor soil structure. Mechanical solutions are short-lived lasting one year and contribute to long-term soil compaction or poor soil structure. A ripper or subsoiler will increase water infiltration 18 inches but it burns up SOM and leaves the soil suspectable to soil erosion. The biological approach may be slower (takes 2-3 years, roots penetrate about 1 foot/year) but it is longer lasting, increasing SOM by becoming a major storehouse for soil nutrient, and reduces soil erosion. Cover crop roots may increase water infiltration down 3 feet or deeper to improve water drainage. Limit or totally reduce tillage to improve soil structure. Avoid subsoiling wet soils which cause smearing and sidewall compaction. Second, plant cover crops yearly to maximize active SOM, root exudates, and glomalin that form macro's. Plant a mixture of legumes, grasses and brassica cover crops. Grass roots (sorghum, annual ryegrass, cereal rye) are fibrous and supply carbon and phosphorus. Legume roots (clovers: Balansa, crimson, red; hairy vetch; winter peas; Sunn hemp) have a deeper tap roots and supply nitrogen to balance the C:N ratio. Brassica's (daikon radish, kale, rape seed) reduce weeds and promote beneficial microbial populations. Sunflowers have deep roots while buckwheat have shallow roots (great for reducing surface compaction). Third, keep the soil surface covered with crop residue. Surface crop residue reduces heavy rainfall impact and cushions the weight of wheel and implement traffic. Crop residue also reduces soil erosion, improves water infiltration, and regulates oxygen and soil carbon levels. Removing residue, is like removing the roof on your house. The house will soon rot out and collapse just like our soils tend to break down and collapse with excess tillage and a lack of live roots. I'll grant the engineers 2 things: Heavy wheel axle loads AND tillage are major problems causing soil compaction, but it takes Biology and live roots to improve soil structure!

AUBURN BREWING COMPANY SAYS NE-ISBDC A MAJOR ASSET IN SUCCESS STORY

The Northeast Indiana Small Business Development Center (NE-ISBDC) is passionate about making our region the best it can be. The center focuses on helping small business owners succeed, and an outcome of this success is that communities flourish. Auburn is one such city that has reaped the benefits of the NE-ISBDC's mission.

In late 2016, Josh and Emma Metcalf met with Nicole Heffelfinger, the business advisor who helped them in making their business, Auburn Brewing Company, operational. She was instrumental in providing statistics and other necessary data to help the Metcalfs develop a sound business plan. Nicole also provided the couple with critical market research and helped them complete appropriate documents to ensure quick loan approval.

Josh and Emma insisted their business meet a few unique criteria, including being located in a downtown historic building, and that they would support their community through

"We developed our 'Beer 4 Good' program to help give back to our community. Each year, our customers its that we partner with throughout the year. We don't have final numbers yet, but we donated over $16,000 to those partners in our first year of business," explained Josh Metcalf. "The NE-ISBDC is a major asset to our company. They helped us secure essential financing, and our operational costs are in line with the plan we developed. We're even exceeding our conservative sales numbers. I've sent numerous existing and hopeful business owners to work with the NE-ISBDC because my experience was so positive." They're really great people who love giving back to their community. Their story is really cool, too," said Hefflefinger. "They were very adamant about purchasing and restoring a historic property because these buildings are an important part of any community." Another way the couple gives back to the community is by their involvement in the Big Brothers/Big Sisters organization.

The NE-ISBDC works every day helping small business owners find success and see their potential. They also understand that starting a business is a big investment emotionally and financially, so most of the services they provide are

CHOW LINE: THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN BROTH AND STOCK

My dad asked me to pick up chicken stock from the store for a meal that he wants to make for dinner. When I got to the store, I bought chicken broth and brought it home. He sent me back to the store because he said stock and broth aren't the same thing. But aren't they really? No, they are not.

Your dad is correct. There is a difference between broth and stock, and depending on which recipe he was making, the difference between the two could have an impact on the outcome of the meal. This is because, generally speaking, broth is lighter and more flavorful, while stock is thicker.

To understand the difference, it's important to understand what stocks and broths are. Stocks and broths are liquids used to make sauces, soups, stews, and other recipes. The main differences between stock and broth are the use of bones or meat, the length of cooking time, and the type of seasonings added, writes Jenny Lobb, an educator in family and consumer sciences for Ohio State University Extension.

"Unless it's a vegetable stock, stock is made using bones, water, and a mixture of aromatic vegetables including onions, carrots, and celery. It's simmered for two to six hours and generally has added seasonings," Lobb wrote in Broth versus Stock, a blog posted at Live Healthy Live Well.

The site, which can be found at livehealthyosu. com, is a free information resource that offers science-based consumer information and insights. It's written by OSU Extension educators and specialists in family and consumer sciences who are concerned with health and wellness. OSU Extension is the outreach arm of The Ohio State University College of Food,

Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES). The boiling of the bones-generally chicken, beef, or pork-allows the bone marrow and collagen to be released from the bones, thus making stock much thicker than broth. However, "broth, on the other hand," Lobb writes, "takes less time to make, and contains meat (unless it's a vegetable broth), vegetables, and seasonings, and is generally simmered on the stove top for no more than two hours." Stock is typically used in sauces, gravies, stews, and as a braising liquid for meat, while broth works well as a base for soups, stir-fry dishes, dumplings, stuffing, and for cooking grains and legumes, she said. "Although broths and stocks can be purchased in cans and cartons at the grocery store, it is fairly easy to make your own at home," Lobb said, noting that, "making broths and stocks from scratch can be a cost-saving activity if you save and utilize meat and vegetable scraps that would otherwise be thrown away."

And with the cold days ahead during the remainder of this winter, soups and stews are a great comfort food to keep you warm on

OHIO EPA ANNOUNCES H2OHIO FUNDING FOR WASTEWATER INFRASTRUCTURE PROJECT

Ohio EPA announced that it is awarding $500,000 in H2Ohio funding to help improve sanitary sewer services for hundreds of residents in Miami County.

Ohio EPA is providing the funding to the village of West Milton as part of Gov. Mike DeWine's H2Ohio initiative. The money will support a planned project to construct sanitary sewers in the village of Ludlow Falls, where failing home sewage treatment systems have caused high coliform readings in nearby Ludlow Creek.

"Ohio's communities rely on wastewater infrastructure to protect public health, which is why my H2Ohio plan aims to assist communities that need help building infrastructure," said Governor DeWine. "This project will directly impact more than 200 people in Ludlow Falls and help improve the water quality in Ludlow Creek."

The project consists of constructing 9,600 feet of sanitary sewers, a pump station, and 7,300 feet of forcemain to capture wastewater from Ludlow Falls and send it to West Milton's existing wastewater treatment plant.

"Throughout the state, addressing infrastructure needs, such as the extension of centralized sanitary sewers, is a key goal of H2Ohio," said Ohio EPA Director Laurie A. Stevenson. "Governor DeWine's H2Ohio plan enables Ohio EPA to extend its available funds to help more communities like West Milton and Ludlow Falls address their water and sewer needs."

The West Milton project is also receiving grants from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the Community Development Block Grant Program, and the Ohio Water Development Authority. Ohio EPA has also provided $500,000 in principal forgiveness for the project from the state revolving loan fund.

As part of the H2Ohio

As part of the H2Ohio initiative, Ohio EPA has also awarded a total of $2 million in funding for drinking water infrastructure projects in Pike County, Coshocton, and New Waterford. An additional $1 million in H2Ohio funding has been awarded for wastewater projects in Pomeroy and Williams County.
