KNOW THE WARNING SIGNS OF SUICIDE

By: Jennifer Dempsey, Prevention Specialist,

September is National Suicide Awareness Month. In 2018, 1,836 Ohioans died by suicide and in 2019 suicide was the second leading cause of death in Ohio residents aged 10-34. These statistics prove how important it is to be educated about the characteristics and warning signs of sui-many people are reached by the hands of suicide, but yet it's not something we talk about with each other very much. Even though we have made progress with reducing the stigma of mental health, we still have a long way don't really want to die, but they feel like they can't handle whatever is going on in their lives. It's important to know the warning signs of suicide and to be willing to have those tough conversations with our friends and family members.

People who die by suicide

When someone dies by suicide, most people around them are in shock because they didn't realize the person was feeling that way. While some people are very good at hiding their emotions, chances are they did show signs of being at risk for suicide and those around them didn't realize it.

Characteristics that make it more likely for someone to consider or attempt suicide are called risk factors. Not everyone who encounters situations like this are at risk, but it is always something to be aware of. Some risk factors associated with suicide include:

- Substance use disorders or alcohol use
- Feelings of hopelessness or helplessness
- History of abuse or • Previous suicide attempts
 - Loss of employment or fi-
- nancial loss
 - Loss of relationships
- Access to lethal means (firearms or prescription medications)
- Impulsive or aggressive tendencies • Inability to ask for mental
- health help due to stigma or
- Major physical illness or
- Lack of access to mental health or substance abuse care
- Loss of someone close to These characteristics can affect how someone behaves and they can show warning signs of suicide. Especially be on the lookout if these behaviors are new, have increased in severity or are linked to a characteristic mentioned previously. Warning signs in-

- Talking about wanting to hurt themselves or wanting to
- Trying to access lethal means such as purchasing a

- Giving away prized pos-Not doing activities they
- previously enjoyed • Inability to concentrate
- Change in eating habits: weight gain or weight loss
- Sudden improvement after a period of sadness

If you notice any of these characteristics or warnings, it's important to have a conversation with the person.

First, show that you care about the person. Tell them that you have noticed changes in their behavior and that you are worried about their well-

Secondly, ask them about suicide. It's important to be direct when you ask. Ask them, "Are you thinking about killing yourself?" or "Are you thinking about suicide?" I know that it's very hard to ask questions like that, but it's very important to get straight to the point. Before you have this conversation with someone, you can practice saying the question out loud to make it easier to say. Lastly, assist the person in getting help if they express thoughts of suicide. Stay with them until they find a professional to talk with. Ask them if it's alright if you sit with them while they talk with someone on the phone or offer to drive them to a hospital or clinic that can help. After the crisis, please remember to follow up with them to see how things are going and to offer further A great resource to direct someone to is the 24-hour crisis line. Anyone who is struggling can call 1-800-456-HOPE (4673) and someone will be able to help them. They can also text 4HOPE to 741-741 and be connected with resources. It's important to look out for those around us. So many people struggle with mental health issues or are downtrodden from life, but they put on a happy face for the world to see. It's okay to need help and it's okay to ask for help. If you see characteristics or warning signs of suicide in someone, please talk with them and assist them with getting the help they need. Suicide is preventable if people are aware of others around them and are willing to have those tough conversations with them. Every life matters and is valuable.

Drunk as Cooter Brown

Penny For Your Thoughts By: Nancy Whitaker

I love the south and my grandparents were both from the southern states. Of course, my Granny, could make great sugar cookies, sweet tea, dandelion greens, fresh green beans, bake super pies and could forecast the weather using various nature signs.

I grew up with not only her cooking and weather prediction ability, but with a lot of her "southern slang" and many old wives tales.

It has been unofficially reported that conversations south of the Mason-Dixon line will confuse anyone who is not born there.

I have heard most of the southern slang, but never comprehended how they came to be and foremost what they meant. One of them is, "We're living in high cotton." What has high cotton got to do with anything? Well if you are from a cotton growing state, it means your tall cotton bushes are loaded with white fluffy balls which are easier to pick and will yield a good harvest. In other words, you feel rich and successful. I always wondered if there was a saying that pertains to "living in low cotton?

I am sure we have all heard the expression, "Madder than a wet hen." I found out that hens enter into a phase of broodiness which means they will stop at nothing to sit on their eggs and get very agitated when anyone tries to gather them. In fact, farmers used to dunk hens in cold water to break their broodiness and no one wants to be around any hormonal female, especially if she has just had an ice bath.

Have you ever used the term, "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear." I really don't get up close and personal with a pig, but their ears appear to be soft and shiny. But, if you tried to make it into a Coach bag, everyone would still know that it is still a pig's ear.

The saying, "You look hard

The saying, "You look hard rode and put up wet," is not a sexual innuendo, but is a crucial step in horse grooming. When a horse runs fast, it works up a sweat, especially under the saddle. A good rider knows to walk the horse around so it can dry off before going back to the stable. A horse will look sick and tired if you forget this step, and is compared to someone who misses sleep or drinks too much.

Who is "Cooter Brown?" What does the words, "He's as drunk as Cooter Brown' mean? Apparently old Cooter Brown was a folklore character from the south who lived on the Mason-Dixon line, which was the border between the North and South, during the Civil War. To avoid being drafted by either side, Cooter decided to stay drunk throughout the entire war, making him ineligible for battle. Inebriated Southerners have measured their drunkenness by him ever since.

I simply have never heard the saying, "She's as happy as a dead pig in the sunshine." Of course I don't make a habit of looking for deceased pigs, but it has been said that when a pig dies, presumably in a sty outside, the sun dries out its skin. This effect pulls the pig's lips back to reveal a toothy "grin," making it look happy even though it's dead. This phrase describes a person who's blissfully ignorant of reality. I don't even know anyone like that. Do you?

1? Do you remember "Carter's

Y of the Month!

Small - $500

Little Liver" pills? The saying, "She's got more nerve than Carter's got Liver Pills," comes from a pill peddling company in the late 19th century. The Carter Company advertised and pushed their so called liver pills so hard that this is where the saying came from. Now, back in 1951 the Federal Trade Commission made Carters drop the term liver from its advertising, claiming it was deceptive, but the saying hung around and became a southern phrase.

I think I may use this phrase

I think I may use this phrase when I am asked how I am feeling, "I'm finer than frog hair split four ways." Even those below the Mason-Dixon know frogs don't have hair, and the irony is meant to highlight just how dandy you feel. The phrase reportedly originated in C. Davis' "Diary of 1865."

"He thinks the sun comes up just to hear him crow," is a good saying also. I think my cat thinks the same thing. In the south and all over, this means that a crowing cocky rooster thinks the sun comes up just because he crows. Similarly, an extremely cocky man might think the same when he speaks, sings or does anything, that everyone should listen to him. I know several people like this, so I will have to remember this saying.

My mama always said, "Bless Your Heart," another term that southerners drop constantly. Now I am hearing the saying is not really religious, but a passive way to call someone an idiot.

Depending on your inflection, saying "bless your heart" can sting worse than any insult. I remember going into a grocery store one time and showing my Mama pigs ears and pig feet. She stood there to tenderly, bowed her head and said "Bless it's little heart."

Have you ever used any of the sayings? Have you ever heard anyone use them? Have you ever heard of Cooter Brown? Let me know and I'll give you a Penny for Your Thoughts.

MILITARY HISTORY IN PAULDING COUNTY By: Mark Holtsberry

One of Paulding County's finest officers who devoted a career in the military, Claude R. Miller, was born in Grover Hill, Ohio, September 22, 1905. One of five children born to the parents of Joseph and Anna (Baker) Miller. Raised in Latty Township, Claude went to Grover Hill School. By 1920 the family was living on Maple Street, Grover Hill. At the age of 20, in 1925, Claude chose to enlist in Company A 148th Infantry Regiment, 37th Division, National Guard at Paulding, on May 10, 1926. Claude was a private. Showing devotion to duty and faithful service, he was promoted through the various enlisted grades.

He met a gal from Richland Township, named Alice Jennie Hale, the daughter of Charles and Myra (Bosworth) Hale. Claude and Alice married in Richland Township, Hamilton County, Ohio, October 11, 1927. With this marriage, three children were born, Claude Hale born May 1, 1929, Harold John born August 17, 1930, and Robert Joseph born June 15, 1933.

The 1930's found Claude as a teamster working at a coal yard. The family lived in Payne, Ohio on Hyman Street. Claude still was serving in the National Guard. He attained the rank of 1st Sergeant and by 1936. Claude was promoted to 2nd Lieutenant on March 20, 1936. By 1940, Claude and family was living in Paulding at 520 West Perry Street, living with Alice's father Charles.

Claude was promoted to 1st Lieutenant on June 1, 1940. Claude was inducted into Federal Service, October 15, 1940. He was sent to Camp Shelby, Mississippi for extensive field training. Claude and his unit were moved by rail from Pennsylvania to San Francisco where they were sent by ship to the Southwest Theater of Operations, May 26, 1942. During bitter fighting near the Munda Airstrip, New Georgia, Solomon Islands, July 31, 1943, while commanding officer of Company C. 148th Infantry, Captain Miller was killed instantly by a Japanese sniper. Also killed was Company B. commanding officer. Colonel Lawrence Hipp stated that he himself, was about 200 yards away from Captain Miller at the time of his death. Captain Miller's remains were buried in Fort McKinley United States Military Cemetery, Manila, Philippine Islands. He is located in Row 2, Grave 84.

His wife, Alice, never remarried. She passed away February 12, 2007 at the age of 99 at Hawthorn Court in Paulding. She was buried in Live Oak Cemetery. Their son, Claude, passed away January 14, 2015 in Great Falls, Montana and is buried within the boundaries of the Big Sky State. Harold passed away January 18, 2018 in Marion, Indiana at the Veterans Hospital.

Their son Harold served in the National Guard and also in the United States Navy, retiring as a Petty Officer. He was buried in Live Oak Cemetery. Their son Robert also served in the National Guard and retired from Magnavox, Ft. Wayne. He passed away June 20, 2020. He is buried in St. Paul Cemetery.

PREPARE YOURSELF FINAN-CIALLY FOR ILLNESS...JUST IN CASE

All of us hope to live long, healthy lives, so we do what we can to take care of ourselves through proper diet, exercise and avoiding unhealthy activities. However, none of us can predict our future, so it pays to be prepared for anything – including a serious physical illness or the onset of some type of mental incapacity, such as Alzheimer's disease.

Of course, you may never face these infirmities, but you should be aware that they could upset your long-term financial strategy and place considerable stress on your loved ones. What steps can you take to head off The deadline for the West Bend News is Fridays at 5pm for the following issue. these threats?

First, make sure you know what your health insurance covers and how much you might have to pay out of pocket for treatment of illnesses such as cancer or kidney ailments. If you're on Medicare (supplemented with Medigap) or Medicare Advantage (Medicare Part C), you'll want to know all about deductibles, copayments and coinsurance. However, if Alzheimer's or another type of dementia is involved, Medicare may not cover the costs that could be incurred in an assisted living facility, so you may want to consult with a financial advisor, who can suggest ways of protecting yourself from longterm care costs, which can be quite high. Your next move is to make sure you have adequate liquidity. It's hard to predict how many out-of-pocket costs you could incur when coping with a serious illness, but it's a good idea to have enough cash readily available, rather than dipping into your 401(k) or other retirement accounts. So, if you're retired, you might want to keep up to a year's worth of living expenses in a liquid, low-risk account.

Here's another important step: Update your estate plan. Hopefully, if you have a serious illness, you'll be able to recover. But it's still a good idea to review your estate plan to ensure everything is in order, such as your will and your living trust, if you've created one. If you've kept up your life insurance, you'll also want to ensure your premiums are still being paid. And don't forget to review your beneficiary designations on your 401(k), insurance policies and other financial documents, since these designations can supersede the instructions in your

As part of your estate planning, you may want to include a durable power of attorney for finances, which allows you to name someone to manage your financial affairs if you become incapacitated, and a durable power of attorney for health care, which lets you name someone to make medical decisions for you if you're unable to do so yourself. You may also create a health care directive or living will to express your wishes if you don't have a power of attorney for health care, or the person named in a power of attorney for health care can't be reached in an emergency. And since estate planning can be complex, you'll certainly want to work with a legal professional, and possibly your tax and financial advisors, as well. You might think it's some-

You might think it's somewhat grim to prepare yourself financially in case you become seriously ill or if your life is touched by Alzheimer's or another mental infirmity. But it's a positive move – you're protecting yourself and your loved ones from whatever life may throw at you.

PARSON TO PERSON

By: Dr. James Bachman Dear Parson,

Concerning Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem in Matthew 21, I am confused about the Lord sitting on an ass, and the colt of an ass. What is the significance of

There is much speculation about the details. The ass or mule is a strong animal used in Bible times for carrying things, pulling things and for riding. Perhaps the mother mule was needed to help calm her young colt. Most likely Christ rode the mother first and then the young colt. It is likely also the young colt helped show Christ's meekness (see Matthew 21:5).

However, the true and main significance of this event was to fulfill the prophecy of Zechariah 9:9. Matthew 21:4-5 says, "All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass."

This was not only unusual, but another true sign that Jesus was the coming King. However, His next coming as King of the earth will be on a white horse. Revelation 19:11-- "And I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he doth judge and make war. His eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns; and he had a name written, that no man knew, but he himself."

THE SAFETY ZONE

By: Doris Applegate

The following Psalm is personalized for those who are in Christ Jesus and is the ONLY place of safety to be found. Let Psalm 91 be an everyday encouragement and perhaps you could cut this piece out and keep in a handy place for easy reference.

Psalm 91 says: "Because I dwell in the secret place of the most high, I shall also abide under the shadow of the almighty. I will say that the Lord is refuge, my fortress, my God and in Him will I trust! Surely He shall deliver me from the snare of the fowler and the noise some pestilence, covering me with His feathers and under His wings I shall

His truth shall be my shield and buckler so that I will not be afraid of the terror by night, the arrow that flieth by day, the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor the destruction that wasteth at nooday. A thousand shall fall at my side and ten thousand at my right hand, but it shall not come near me. Only with my eyes shall I behold and see the reward of the wicked. Because I have made the Lord my refuge, even the most high my habitation; there shall no evil befall me, neither any plague come near my dwelling. He shall give His angels charge over me, to me in their hands, lest I dash my foot against a stone. The lion, adder (snake) and dragon (satan) I will walk and trample on. Because I have set my love upon the Lord (Jesus) He will deliver me. He will set me on high because I have known His name. Whie I call upon the Lord He will answer me. He will be with me in trouble, deliver me, honor me, satisfy me with long life and show me His salvation!

This is why it pays to serve the Lord.

Amen.

STATEMENT ON MIKE DEWINE'S DEAFENING SI-LENCE ON PROTECTING CHILDREN FROM CRITICAL RACE THEORY

Former congressman Jim Renacci released the following statement on Mike DeWine's silence on HB 322 and 327, legislative bills that would protect our children from being indoctrinated by Critical Race Theory.

"Mike DeWine has been conspicuously silent on the pair of bills making their way through the state legislature that would protect our schoolchildren from being indoctrinated by Critical Race Theory. But we already know DeWine has been forcing Critical Race Theory into schools and supports teaching our children they should feel guilty about simply existing and that they are born racist. Seven of the eight members of Ohio's State School Board that DeWine appointed all supported and voted for CRT to be part of the curriculum. This is another example of DeWine dividing Ohioans and endangering our children—through racial stereotyping and segrega-tion—instead of bringing everyone together."

When (President Donald) Trump was in the White House, I was privileged to be in the Oval Office when several economic decisions were made," Moore said. "I didn't always agree with the decisions he made. Most of the time I did agree, but not always. He welcomed the debate. We would debate, and the president, he would make the decision.

"I truly believe every decision Donald Trump made in the Oval Office put America first," Moore continued. "He always asked the question 'will this benefit American businesses and American small companies?'

Moore said he has deep concerns about bills coming President through Biden's administration.

"The ($3.5 trillion) reconciliation bill is the single worst bill," he said. "This is an extremely dangerous bill. We have to stop it. This bill will bankrupt our country."

The amount of debt piling up in the nation is a major concern, Moore added. He said in the last month Trump was president there already was a $1 trillion COVID relief bill in place. He said Biden added another $1.9 trillion relief bill to the mix.

Phone: 419-258-2000 • Email: info@westbendnews.net "But that was truly a blue state bail-out bill," Moore said. "Did you know the red states of America -- and Ohio is a red state-- have an unemployment rate that is 2 ½ percent lower than blue states? There is a massive divide between red state governments working and blue states collapsing."

He said he also has concerns about the $1 trillion infrastructure bill.

'That is not an infrastructure bill," Moore said. "One $1 out of every $5 has to do with infrastructure. It is a new green deal. They want to get rid of our oil, gas and coal industries ... Then they say we now need a $3.5 trillion social welfare bill, which is the Great Society times two. It's really a $5 trillion bill.

"You are talking about $12 trillion of spending in one year," Moore said, adding that Ohio's state budget is only $85 billion. He added that taking into account inflation that spending is more than the government used to finance the Civil War, Revolutionary War, World War I and World War II, building federal infrastructure and putting a man on the moon."

Moore also said he was concerned about the taxes small businesses will pay.

"We have 30 million small businesses in this county, and they are the heartbeat of the country," he said. Moore added that energy taxes will affect everyone and inflation also has increased under the current administration.

"It shrinks your paychecks," he warned.

"We have to stop this (reconciliation) bill," Moore stressed. "We need more businessmen in the House and Senate. We did a study of the top 50 Democrats that deal with the economy in Washington. We looked through the resumes of these people ... The average number of business experience is .5 years. They don't know anything about running a business so why would we ask them to take control of our businesses? We have our work cut out for us." He said that children will be inheriting hundreds of thousands of dollars of national debt. According to the think tank agency, the Heritage Foundation, every child born in 2021 will have a $66,875 share of national debt. The foundation estimated that by the age of 18 that will be $111,552.

"This is a government that is going bankrupt and will go bankrupt quickly," Moore said, adding the current leaders have no plan for getting out of debt hence the discussion of raising the debt ceiling.

Moore also discussed the raising of taxes rates and the inheritance tax.

"You spend your whole life paying taxes," he said. "If you count state taxes, you have to hand over half of what you made in your lifetime for taxes. We have to kill the death tax. I'm committed to doing it."

Moore said the economy isn't the only thing to worry about for Americans.

"What happened Afghanistan isn't just a fiasco," he said. "It is putting America in great danger. It is making us susceptible to terrorism. We will pay a high price for the disastrous foreign policy of this president."

In closing, Moore said he believes Republicans will come back strong in the next mid-term and presidential elections.

"I think we're going to slaughter them in 2022," he said. "In, 2024 trump is running, and I think he is going to win."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR MR. FIX-IT

Mark 9:23 Jesus said unto him, If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth. What a kind and loving God and Heavenly Father we have! Such a caring and compassionate God, that he sent his Son, the Lord Jesus Christ; to this world that is full of trouble and heartache, just to help us! Thank God Jesus wants to help us! We need his help! Those that have committed their life, desires, affections, ambitions, to him, having been born again, have learned what it means to trust God and our Lord Jesus Christ.

We know by experience that the Lord is our helper and we have no need to fear. Our God is the Master! He is our creator and redeemer. He knows how to fix or solve our problems. He is greater than any handy-man you have ever met! He is the great physician! Mark 2:17 When Jesus heard it, he saith unto them, They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance. If God fixes your health, and blesses you with a sound mind, you have everything. He will Wayne, IN 46806 to celebrate Indiana WILD's 10th anniversary as well as celebrating the new ownership of The Firehouse Reception Hall & Event Center by Tina & Michael Lovett.

also help you fix the rest of your troubles.

Approximately 22 years ago I was at the age of 23. I was so lost in sin, and miserable, because I did not know the meaning and purpose of life. I did not know where to go; which direction to turn? Then, I was taken by a friend I worked with, to a home

Bible study in Auburn, Indiana. After about a month of attending these Tuesday night Bible studies, I met the Lord Jesus Christ in a most real and personal way. After being led by the pastor in the sinner's prayer, a prayer of repentance; I began a new life.

This new life was full of new and healthy desires. God began to give me clear direction and purpose for life. Now he is teaching me day by day to trust and rest in him with all my cares and problems. What God has done for me, he has done similar things for others, and he will do great things for you if you will dare to believe in him! I find joy and pleasure in sharing with many people, not only what God has done for me, but also what he has done for oth-being so good or skilled at his work, would always say to give God the praise, he would take no praise for himself. Why does he praise and thank God so much? It is because of his relationship with Jesus Christ his Saviour. It is because he appreciates what God had done for him over nearly the past 50 years since he became a born again believer in Jesus Christ, God's Son.

I would like to share the short version of his testimony. When he was a young boy his family was devout Catholic. Then when he got to the age of 12, his dad, who suf-fered with bad health problems, was prayed for by a ex-amishman, turned born again

Holy Ghost filled preacher. Upon his father receiving prayer from this small town, Harlan, pastor, his dad got fast results, and amazingly healed quickly. Also resulting from his dad's miracle, he committed his life to Christ. God took Catholicism out of his famility, hearts and lives, replacing it.

his family's hearts and lives, replacing it with a yearning hunger and desire for the truth of God's Word, the Bible.

Mr. Fix-it later on learned more about what Holy Ghost power was; when he travelled night after night down to Dayton, Ohio with his family to hear the former revival tent preacher, James Dunn, operating in the gifts of the Holy Ghost under the canvas big-top. Brother Dunn was such an obedient servant of God; that God used him in many of the gifts of the Spirit, resulting in the healing and salvation of many souls.

family of his own. Now with all this expierence God gave him in the natural, repairing appliances and in the super-natural, witnessing miracles under the steel pole and canvas, God was calling him to a work that would have eternal reward. He began to preach the gospel in a local nursing home, and finally in a local church, with lasting

Now, instead of being a devout Catholic, in bondage to traditions of men, He is a devout believer in the life changing and healing power of God. He, only a few years ago, experienced a great miracle, when he was bleeding to death on the floor, when he was obecame to deart off the noor, that through prayer of the faithful saints only, no medical doctors, he was made well by a great miracle of God!

I could say more about what God has done for Mr. Fix-it, and about how God has used him to help others to fix it, but I prefer to invite your to attend our church instead.

The next points to add to the board were also by the opposing team after Cooper Wenzlick received the 15 yard pass to score. Once again, Wayne Trace could not get the kick through the goal posts. SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

The start of the school year has been very busy, with adjustment to the current COVID-19 situation and efforts to continue normal school activities. The successful start of this school year is due in large part to parental support and student adherence to the multitude of new safety procedures necessary to address the current health situation. One of the safety procedures that will remain in place is the limitation of guests and visitors into our building. A reminder to parents and students that we highly recommend the wearing of masks by anyone who enters the building. Governor DeWine and the Ohio Department of Health have reiterated that students who wear masks in school will not be quarantined, remain in the normal in-person classroom setting, and participate in extracurricular and sport activities as long as they have no symp-

Recently, our School Resource Officer Caleb Miller put together a brief video segment for our school announcements. Officer Miller's timely message was a reminder about respecting other decision to wear a mask or not wear a mask and whether you are joking or not, don't make fun of others. Officer Miller shared with our student body that "some students are making a decision to wear a mask so they are not quarantined. Some students have practiced in an extracurricular activity all summer long and don't want to be quarantined. A student might have a family member at home that is high risk and they made the decision to wear a mask to protect that family member. Students might wear a mask because they don't feel well and are trying to protect their peers. Some students don't feel comfortable in a mask and it may cause other issues so they do not wear one. Regardless, be kind and support one another." We are thankful for the many services our school resource officer fulfills on a daily basis.

A big thank you also to parents and students for your cooperation with the pickup of students around the large circle drive at the end of the school day. Your assistance and cooperation provide for a safer and smoother flow of students out of our school facility. Please continue to follow the directions of the staff supervising the circle drive and pull ahead as far as possible prior to picking up your child. Using the entire circle drive will allow us to load children more efficiently. If possible, have your child get in the car on the sidewalk side.

If you have been near the west side of the school recently, you may have viewed that construction has begun on the Innovation and Aquaponics Center. Construction will continue through most of the school year with completion scheduled for May 1, 2022. In other construction news, plans are in the design phase for a new multi-use facility (nicknamed The Range) to be constructed on the west side of the baseball/softball complex. Antwerp Local Schools has received federal funds for this project as part of the America Recovery Plan. The current plan is to utilize the facility space to expand academic and extracurricular offerings and expanded services for our special needs and preschool age children.

ELEMENTARY GUIDANCE

This month in classroom guidance, Mrs. Lichty Oct 14 introduced herself to the kindergarten students. Students listened to the book, Counselorus, about a dinosaur school counselor, to learn what a school counselor does. Then, the students were able to look in Mrs. Lichty's "counselor toolbox," to learn a little more about what she does and how she can help the students in Antwerp Elementary.

For the rest of the grades, one through five, Mrs. Lichty introduced the theme for the school year, "Everyone Counts!" Mrs. Lichty read the book One by Kathryn Otoshi, which is about standing up for each other and recognizing that everyone matters. Then each grade level colored the number coordinating with their grade level to add to an elementary poster. This poster will be hung in the elementary wing, with the theme, "Everyone Counts!" printed in the middle.

Mrs. Lichty is always available to meet all students' individual needs as well. If you have any concerns regarding your child, please call Mrs. Lichty at 419-258-5421, extension 2204, or email her at lichty_e@antwerpschools.org.

CORN BRACE ROOTS: WHAT DO THEY TELL US?

The 2021 crop year has been quite variable. A dry winter/spring followed by periods of excess rain and dry hot weather has caused considerable plant stress. Corn plants typically give us many tell-tale signs of soil conditions. One current debate is about the purpose of corn brace roots. Corn brace roots help keep the plant upright and also help with nutrient, water, and gas exchange. Shallow planted corn utilizes brace roots to prevent the corn from lodging. So, brace roots are at least beneficial for maintaining corn yields.

A school excelling in Computer Science, Engineering,

When corn with brace roots is dissected, however; a different story may emerge. Cut across the and stalk at the first leaf and then down through the center of the stalk to the root tip. Observe the lower part of the corn roots. Often the root tip up to the first brace root is brown and hard with few root hairs which is an unhealthy sign. Healthy corn plants without brace roots are typically white. The corn's vascular system or plumbing for moving nutrients is clogged up. Often, several sets of brace roots can be observed on a corn plant, an indication that the vascular clogging is getting worse as the season progresses. The

However, brace roots are needed when the corn's vascular plumbing gets clogged similar to heart bypass surgery. Sidewall compaction of the root zone due to wet conditions at planting, poor seed placement, and general soil compaction may restrict root development. During drought conditions, brace root may not grow due to a lack of moisture. Under dry conditions, brace roots may grow horizontally over the dry, hard soil surface. Cloddy soil conditions and planting corn shallow may result in a poor root system, known as "rootless corn syndrome". Wet soil conditions early in the season may inhibit root development or cause shallow roots, preventing the plant from properly anchoring in the soil. Shallow root systems, especially in late planted corn fields, can be prone to potential drought stress and nutrient deficiencies that may result in root and/or stalk lodging. Brace root formation may not occur quickly enough under moist conditions to support the top growth of corn. Excessive moisture conditions can also cause incomplete brace root development that can lead to plant lodging. In saturated soils, high winds can easily cause plants to lodge by pulling out poorly anchored roots. Brace roots are often an indication that soils are not totally healthy or planting conditions were not Using proper soil health management, you may not see many brace roots, but your crop yields should be ex-

Kayla Miller, NSCC Ag lead faculty, said the following: "The addition of the agribusiness degree to Northwest State Community College's Agricultural Studies program is an indicator of our commitment to our community. We thank the agribusiness professionals who have formally or informally made their desire for NSCC graduates to possess agribusiness degrees known. These professionals have expressed the importance of the agribusiness curriculum including Business Communications, Microsoft Applications, Accounting with Computers (including Quickbooks), and the two agribusiness courses for new employees in the workplace. While we still uphold and maintain the importance of agronomy as a foundation for all agricultural degrees at NSCC, we are enthused to add agribusiness as an option for our students; ultimately making them more desirable as future employees in the Northwest Ohio ag community."

PAYNE ELEM COLLECT $$ FOR HATS TO HAITI

more, Emerson Showalter, Clara DeWaard, Elise Steffen and School Counselor, Mrs. Farley.

Students and staff at Payne Elementary collectively raised $250 to send to Haiti due to the recent devastation. Students were invited to pay one dollar to wear their favorite hat to school for the day, the event was named, "Hats for Haiti". The fundraiser was able to enroll two Haitians children in school that otherwise wouldn't have an opportunity to receive an education. Funds were also able to provide supplies and items a student would need to be successful at school. In Haiti, the average child cannot go to school because it costs too much. Because of the small act of giving at Payne Elementary, a life changing impact has occurred for other individuals.

WET BUT WELL WORTH IT:
FARM SCIENCE REVIEW

A deluge of rain might

A deluge of rain might have shortened this year's Farm Science Review by a day, but the show still drew a strong crowd, which got its fill on the latest farm techniques and technology.

Farmers have to contend with sudden shifts in the weather. So do outdoor farm shows.

Predictions of constant rainfall and powerful wind gusts that toppled some show tents and signs led to the show's closure on the second day of what's typically a threeday event. On the other two days, Sept. 21 and Sept. 23, a crowd persevered through wind and intermittent rain for a total turnout of 70,850 people.

"There have been so many events canceled in the last 18 months that people were really happy to be outside at a large event with others," said Nick Zachrich, manager of FSR.

"The first day I saw people out in the rain without jackets on, and they all had smiles on their faces."

With so many shortages in raw materials and machinery, the show gave visitors a chance to see what is available to them for their businesses, Zachrich said.

"In my experience working with farmers, they are always looking for the best. Something new. Something that works. Something that increases yields," said Ohio Gov. Mike DeWine, who attended the first day of FSR along with The Ohio State University President Kristina M. Johnson and Cathann A. Kress, Ohio State vice president for agricultural administration and dean of the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES).

"Farmers are always out there looking," DeWine said,

"and Farm Science Review answers that."

Visitors to this year's show

Visitors to this year's show could learn about topics including the profit potential in carbon markets, reducing energy costs on the farm, weeds that can poison livestock, and one of the timelier issues, farming in the rain and other difficult weather conditions.

"We're having wetter springs and wetter falls and are trending toward drier summers in some parts of the Midwest," said Aaron Wilson, climate specialist for CFAES, which hosts FSR. "That makes farming much more challenging."

But, Wilson offered FSR attendees an optimistic outlook on weather in the coming weeks. Temperatures are expected to be above average and drier than normal and October, overall, is typically light on rain, he said.

"It does look like a favorable harvest season. But it's going to take us a few days to dry out after the last two days' deluge."

While his fields in Kenton while his fields in Kenton were drying out Thursday, Austin Heil took a break from farming to be at FSR. He's been to the show most years from the time he was about 6.

"It's one of the very few opportunities that we get as growers to meet with company representatives. It's very much a two-way street," Heil said. "We have to have those connections and those relationships built so we can have clear communication with the industry."

And it's helping the next generation in the agricultural industry, he said. "It's a prime opportunity to find out about jobs in the future," he said. "And the industry needs to be receptive to our next generation. We are the ones who are going to mentor them."

Among the new features at this year's FSR was an immerme set the pace for the day. When Stateside, my wife and I enjoy running in the mornings on the sidewalks around town to enjoy seeing the different homes. We have loved running out on the country roads too, but have had too many not-sogood encounters with unleashed dogs.

We have lived overseas in a place known for their very large, powerful dog breed. The breed was made illegal in Florida and California after the pets killed their owners. These dogs are used for security. When going to a place of business once, I saw their dog lying in its shelter with a short length of chain. I began to slowly walk towards the business when the dog stood up, showing many feet of chain that were lying underneath it. I took off for my vehicle and got the door shut as the dog was jumping around outside my window. I decided to leave and started moving in reverse. The dog put his jaws around my entire front bumper of hard black plastic and held on. My vehicle had teeth holes on the bottom and top of the bumper, where it had been punctured to remember the event.

My most dangerous dog encounter overseas was probably when I was on a little motor scooter. I had gotten lost and started driving down a wrong driveway. Before I had started to turn around, two large dogs came hurling towards me. I spun the scooter around in the gravel and charged back for the main road. In a split-second I had to decide to slow way down to check for oncoming traffic, but that would have meant time for these large dogs
