NEW PCED OFFICE LOGO UNVEILED

VOLUME 18 – ISSUE 2

The Paulding County Development Economic Board has introduced a new logo for the Paulding County Economic Development office. The new logo design will quickly identify Paulding County by its bold lettering, the unique shape of the county, and by the profound outline of the historic courthouse.

The PCED board approved the design recommended by the marketing committee. The committee members include: Chairman and PCED Board member Ryan Whitaker (Lapham Hickey); PCED Board member Sarah Noggle (OSU Extension Educator); Fred Manz (InSource); Tim Brown (Brown Made Media); Kristen Schilt (PCED Office Manager), and Kelly Goyings, owner of Natural Design and Graphics, whose team also designed the logo. "The previous logo is an outstanding seal. It identifies many aspects of Paulding County and highlights our rivers, our agriculture and manufacturing. It does, however, take a minute to study and realize what the seal is indicating and portraying. The new logo will be a quick and easy identification that the information being presented is from, and about, Paulding County," stated Tim Copsey, Director of the PCED office.

The PCED Board consists of eleven board members around Paulding County. The board is guided by President Larry Manz (İnSource), Jim States (State Bank Manager – Paulding), George Carter (Paulding-Putnam Electric Co-Op), Mike Kauser (Kauser Trucking), Greg White (Paulding Village Mayor), Bud Koenig (Cooper Farms), Don Oberlin (Antwerp CIC), Jeff Mumma (Antwerp Exchange Bank), Brett Wagner (Wagner Roofing & Construction), Whitaker and Noggle. #### PARSON TO PERSON

By: Dr. James Bachman Dear Parson,

People sometimes make fun of me and call me old fashioned and behind the times because of my lifestyle and my Bible views of morality and the church. Sometimes it gets me down and I just can't get through to them. Any suggestions?

Their efforts to make you look and feel "out of it" is likely an attempt to cover for their own sinful ways. If you knew their deepest thoughts, there is probably a high respect and perhaps even an envy hidden in there.

If by "old fashioned" they mean decency, respect, hard work and honesty, take their ridicule as a compliment. Right is good whether it is old fashioned or not. In Jeremiah 6:16 the Lord said to the children of Israel who had gone the way of the world, "Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk

Remember, the unsaved do not understand the things of the Spirit of God, "For they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." - I Corinthians 2:14. Your way is right and you don't have to defend it or be ashamed of it. Neither do you have to get others to agree. Continue to live a God-pleasing life, forgiving others for their ridicule, loving them anyway, being kind to them and praying for their salvation. Romans 12:21 says, "Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good."

Bruce Vanderhoff, MD, MBA, director of the Ohio Department of Health, today announced that the Ohio Department of Health has aligned with CDC's recently updated quarantine and isolation guidance released earlier this week.

"Evidence shows that the majority of COVID-19 transmission occurs early in the course of illness, generally in the 1-2 days prior to symptom onset, and in the 2-3 days after symptoms begin," explained Dr. Vanderhoff. "The CDC's updated quarantine and isolation guidance takes the latest science and evidence into consideration, with a focus on testing, masking, and symptom monitoring – similar to Ohio's reduced quarantine guidelines in the state's 'mask to stay' and 'test to play' guid-

PENNY FOR YOUR Thoughts

By: Nancy Whitaker MY THOUGHTS FOR A PENNY

I have never shopped for groceries for three hours but I do have a couple of observations. I grew up in a small town in Nebraska. The grocery store was only two aisles wide. I can remember my mother commenting on how expensive a week's worth of groceries for our family of four was when it totaled $20. The cereal and breakfast aisle where I shop today is as big as half of the grocery store when I was a kid. Now there are I think about a dozen kinds of Cheerios back then there was one. Now there are at least three sizes, then there was only one.

I taught school for years and one year we did an activity with mini-m&ms. I gave each student a tube to sort by colors and then count. We then figured the probability of each color appearing. When I did the same activity a year later the total counts were about 10 m&ms less.

Then we looked at the tubes and discovered that they were the same height and the cap was the same diameter but the new tube was small enough in diameter that it fit inside a tube that I had saved from the previous year. We got a lesson in consumer economics.

Later I made another observation of my own when I bought a new pair of jeans. The new pair was the same size as the old pair with one exception. The new pair had one less belt loop in it. The manufacturer over many pairs could save quite a bit of cloth, labor, and money by eliminating that belt loop.

I'll take my penny now!

Hi Scott Staub,

You are so right on how products, sizes, and prices have changed. I am more of an observer and that's why it usually takes me a longer time to get groceries. However, there are so many kinds of items out there that I can't make a quick decision.

I get a kick out of ladies

(myself included) that love to look at ice cream. We used to have 3 kinds being chocolate, strawberry and vanilla and still today my favorite is vanilla. The other day I saw a dill pickle ice cream.

I am happy to see how we have progressed in the food market, but with so many choices I still go for the ones I grew up with.

You are quite on observer too and now we are seeing less product for more money.

What a great idea with the M and Ms. I remember when I was little of getting a penny and going to a little store and getting a piece of candy. Oh the different kind I could get for a penny. It was hard to decide if I should spend this whole penny on a lollipop, bubble gum, those little candies called Kits, or a big jaw breaker. Do they even make any items that cost a penny anymore?

Thank you so much for your informative response and Sir, I do owe you a Penny for your thoughts.

However, if you find something for a Penny to buy, let me know and I will owe you another penny.

IGNITING A SPARK FOR HOSPICE MUSIC THERAPY

Since the beginning of their music therapy program in 2006, EverHeart Hospice has offered music therapy services to hundreds of patients and families. Their board-certified music therapists passionately work to demonstrate and educate others on the benefits of music intervention during end-of-life.

In October, EverHeart music therapist Carrie Whatley had the opportunity to expand her advocacy efforts beyond Darke County. Music therapy professors with Marrieta College and Ohio University reached out to request that she speak to their undergraduate students. Carrie reflected on her experience in preparing for both lectures:

"It was not long ago that I sat where these students are. I was an eager undergraduate student at OU, still trying to discover what my passions were in the field. It was in a lecture similar to the one I prepared, however, where a flame inside me was ignited. To be asked to sit on the other side was such an honor, especially when asked by professors I admire so much! I put a lot of thought and intention into everything I presented on because I wanted to help ignite that same spark I felt in someone else. Hospice care can be misconceived if we are naive to those special moments experienced at end-oflife, so I aimed to present on the joy and peace music therapy can bring to those we serve. I absolutely love my job and cannot wait to see what these future professionals bring to our growing field."

To learn more about the music therapy program at EverHeart Hospice, please visit their website at www.everhearthospice.org or contact a team member at 800-417-7535. You can also connect with their board-certified music therapists, Amy Pearson and Carrie Whatley, on a weekly basis! Head over to EverHeart's Facebook page to check out their "Music Monday" posts.

MILITARY HISTORY IN PAULDING COUNTY

By: Mark Holtsberry

Verner Enoch Meek was born near Haviland, Ohio, November 5, 1892. The son of Enoch S. born in Ohio, July of 1860 and Edith E. born in Ohio, July of 1867. Verner was the only son and had four sisters: Carrie E., Elva S., Dora E., and Eunice

By the year 1900, the Meek family was living in Latty, Ohio. Enoch was a farm laborer, Edith a homemaker, the children in school. By 1910, Enoch had purchased a small farm near Emerald. Verner quit school and was working for Enoch on the family farm.

As time went on, Verner began working for a Mr. Hessler delivering milk to residents of Paulding and surrounding areas. Verner was well thought of by his customers. He continued to do his route for several months. Through his customers, Verner became a member of the Paulding Lodge 1.O.O.F. no. 577.

On June 5, 1917, Verner registered for the draft at the Emerald precinct. He was listed as tall and slender build, blue eyes, black hair, single and working on family farm. Verner entered the military, May 30th, 1918. He was sent to a receiving station at Columbus Barracks. Shortly after he was sent to Camp Gordon, Georgia, where he was assigned to 23rd Company, Training Battalion, 157th Depot Brigade with the rank of Private, serving until June 27, 1918.

From there, he was sent to Boston, Massachusetts, where on July 24, 1918, Verner boarded the ship, "Beltana", and sailed to France. Verner was assigned to Company F. 116th Ammunition Train. He was also part of the Artillery as a reserve. On September 8, 1918, Verner was accidentally killed by a train. Lack of details were given, as three separate reports came out. However this may be, he gave his life in his country's service. Word was received by telegram to Verner's parents that their only son was gone. In November of 1918, a memorial service was held at the Presbyterian Church in Paulding. Pastor Rev. I.L. Wilkins delivered a most appropriate and touching memorial sermon.

Verner was temporarily buried in France in a Protestant Cemetery, number 106 B., at Avord, Chebourg, France. Verner was finally be brought home to be buried in Live Oak Cemetery, Lot 452, Grave 4. His father, Enoch, passed away in 1942, Edith followed him in 1960. Both are buried in Live Oak Cemetery.

Verner had plans on being married to a Miss Elizabeth Lawrence of Paulding. After Verner's death, she married a guy named Ottis Arland Mc-Clish, May 23, 1922. She passed away, October 3, 1996, her and Ottis are buried in Live Oak Cemetery.

Sad ending, and the community shared in the family's sympathy and grief.

Until Next Time!

PRISON, PRAISE, SALVATION

By: Doris Applegate

In the book of Acts, Chapter 16, we read a very interesting account of a woman who followed Paul and kept saying "These men show us the way of salvation!" She was a soothsayer, with an evil spirit and was disrupting Paul's work. After a time, Paul cast the evil spirit out of her and this made her masters angry because she brought them much gain and money with her powers.

They caught Paul and Silas, beat them really 'good' and put them in prison. Now here is a lesson for us...as they were in chains, back bleeding and sore, they started to sing and praise God. Imagine that, sing and praise while suffering. As they sang and prayed, suddenly an earthquake rocked the foundation of the prison, the doors were opened and the bands loosened off all of the prisoners. (Just think what a song and prayer can do).

The keeper of the prison, being awakened out of a sleep, seeing the doors open and thinking that all had escaped, drew out his sword and was about to kill himself when Paul yelled loudly at him and said, "Do yourself no harm, for we are all here." The keeper of the prison called for a light and trembling, fell down before Paul and Silas asking, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" They said to him, "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and you shall be saved and your household."

Paul and Silas spoke the word of the Lord to him and all in his house and all were baptized. They washed Paul and Silas and fed them a meal but here comes the servants of the magistrate who said "Let these men go" When Paul was told to go he said, "No way, they beat us un-condemned and put us in prison, being Romans, so let them come in and fetch us out themselves, where upon they came in and urged them to "go in peace"

God got great glory from Paul and Silas' trial by saving many people that night.

Question: Can God get Glory in our midnight trial? Will we sing and pray when things get rough and we "bleed" and hurt? Will we know how to lead someone to the Lord Jesus for salvation? If not, then it is time to be revived by the Holy Spirit and be bold for the Lord Je-

Last night was February 12, 2020 and here in Paulding County we celebrated being 200 years old (1820 – 2020). There was a big gathering at the former armory, that was remodeled into a fine church, and all the seats were taken.

I was seated down front so I could hear and see what was going on. I was sitting right across the aisle from Governor DeWine and we had a nice talk about WWII and his father being a veteran. I enjoyed talking to

The program consisted of a number of dignitaries from the area to Columbus, but there was some local people who talked and made the evening very interesting. After the meeting everyone was invited to go to the court house and see the 200 years in pictures.

Some of these pictures are from the John Paulding Historical Society, assembled and finished by the West Bend News.

The Governor visited all the floors of the court house and were very interested in all of the pictures. He remarked that he had not seen any display that was any better. When the people started home, it was snowing and I think it got worse the farther south people traveled. I hope everyone got home alright.

I had a very interesting talk with Mr. and Mrs. George Carter, the CEO of PPEC. I want to thank Angel and Julia Steiner for all of their help for that memorable evening. Most people don't know how many volunteer hours were put in by everyone involved with getting this event prepared.

I am going to take this means to try to thank all of them, from all of us...Thank

THE 589th FIGHTER WING: THE LOW-BOW (LOBO)

By: Stan Jordan

This is May of 1944 and I am Willie Wilson, first lieutenant of the Army Air force. I hail from Pale Moon, Montana, back in the good ol' U.S.A. We are here in Lopshire Airbase in southern England. We fly the P51D Mustang for the 589th Fighter wing, but basically we are a tank busting outfit. At the present time, our ship is armed with 6 - .50 caliber ma- chine guns, 2-20 millimeter cannons, and 4- 4 inch jumbo rockets. We are the best tank busters in the ETO, bar none.

We are off by ourselves here in Lopshire Air Base at the end of the runway. We eat at the main mess hall and obey all of the rules and regulations of the base, but we answer to Col. Baxter Bainbridge from Rocky Ridge, Tennessee. We are a hushhush group, we usually get all of the new equipment to try out. We get all of the new ordinance and ideas from General George Patton. He is the best armored man in the continent. We have our crew and boys that keep our planes flying. We have Lt. Alva Ames from Bad Axe, Michigan. Next guy we have is Basil Barnes from Komo, Mississippi. Then, we have Neil Nelson from Grafton, Minnesota. We are loaded up for to make the dawn patrol, as soon as we get enough light to take off.

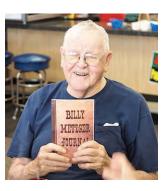

I am Willie Wilson, and my wing man is Basil Barnes. The other two planes fly off to our right and a little to our rear all the time. We head east across the channel to the Calais area to see what is up this early. We see a huge flight of B17 bombers coming back from a night-raid over Germany. There is a large num-

English bombers headed towards Germany. We are over France now and we must remain alert at all times. We are plenty safe from ground- fire, but there are still a lot of German fighter planes around. We are looking for trains, trucks or any other type of vehicle that belongs to the Krauts. We went down to 1,000ft. and slowed down to about 250mph. There is plen- ty of daylight now and we can see pretty good. Here we go, there is a column of supply trucks heading for the coast. I blow up a truck and Basil gets a truck and the other boys are also having a little luck. We have the whole column burn- ing on the roadside.

We fly south towards Caen, but we don't find any more action. We turn and head back towards Lopshire. We hold it at about 350mph and fly right down on the waves of the channel.

It is 1846 and our family is just leaving Germantown, Ohio, heading west. Here in the Midwest, Ohio hasn't been a state very long – 1803 and Indiana in 1816. We are Buckeyes but the Indiana State Line is just a few miles to our west.

My parents, William & Mollie Metzger and I and my 2 younger sisters, Margo is 12 and Mazie is 10 years old and I am going on 15 years

Grandpa Metzger fought in the Revolutionary War and for a bonus he was given 160 acres called the Firelands. He had to improve it and we did. After grandpa died, my father inherited the farm. My folks talked a lot at night about going west on the Oregon Trail, to the Land of Milk and Honey.

Dad sold the farm and bought 2 wagons with canvas covers to get us to Independence, Missouri. Dad burned the house and buildings down about 2 days before we left. Then we searched the ashes for all of the wrought iron nails. We have been told to do this as iron nails are hard to get after you leave the Mississippi River.

Dad bought a team of mules to pull the second wag- on. This is filled with supplies more than household goods. It carries all the food for the animals and a crate of chick- ens. We have a small barrel of water on each side. We have 3 bushels of potatoes, cabbages, carrots, etc. from last year's gar-me.We crossed through Ohio and Indiana, it's pretty much straight west to Indianapolis. I think that is the capital of the state. This land is also pretty flat, a little rolling maybe.

I drove the horses today and dad drove the mules. The girls rode on the seat

We went through a town today called Richmond, Indiana. It's a little place but the townspeople said it would soon be incorporated. Another nice day, pretty dry for

I haven't written for a few days, they are all the same. We are about half way to Indianapolis, pretty good roads, quite a few people going west and a few going east. When you are in the sun you can take your coat off for a while. Met a local man today and he said pretty good trail into Indianapolis, four maybe three days travel yet. Well, we finally left Indianapolis. We got groceries there, salt, bacon, flour, baking soda, beans, coffee, sugar, soap, dried fruit, potatoes, onions, sweet potatoes, hard tack, tobacco for dad, cornmeal and a sack of horehound candy.

All of the supplies we put into the first wagon. Filled the water barrels also. I guess we go about 10 miles each day. Not too much mud. We keep the mules on the first wagon now, they are slower than the horses.

Had a goose drown last night and we didn't only go a couple of miles. Lots of sandy ground here and our wheels sink down in the sand, slow going.

Met a horseback rider today, he was going east. He said about 3 days at a mules pace to the Illinois line, a little place called Danville. This country is flat, but the farm ground looks good. That rider said they call this the prairie.

Got into Danville today. Been on the trail about 6 weeks. An old timer told us today to stay pretty much straight west to get to Quincy, the last town in Illi-

In the History of Antwerp,

the Schilb family name stands out quite brightly. Andrew Schilb started the first mortuary in Antwerp in 1857. It sat on the west side of South Main Street about where the McQuire Building now sits.

But this column is about a lovely lady of 92 years named Ruth Schilb, who with her husband, Tom, I consider modern day pioneers for Antwerp. So why don't I start in the beginning.

Ruth was born on August, 29, 1915. At that time, her parents, George and Rose Clemmer lived right in the area of the Bethel Church and school. She did not attend that school. They moved to Antwerp in 1920. She had three brothers and two half sisters.

One of the sisters married Russell Jenkins and the other married Paul Jump.

After they lived in Antwerp a while they moved to Montpelier, Ohio. Ruth's father, George, was a construction man and there was plenty of work up there. While at Monpelier, George helped build the Roundhouse for the Wabash Railroad. I think the Clemmer boys graduated there.

They moved back to Antwerp and Ruth started in the 7th grade. She liked school very well and she met a neighbor boy named Tom Schilb.

Tom graduated in 1933 and they were married that same year. While Tom was away to college in Cleveland she stayed with his parents and helped out at the funeral home. Tom's mother was very helpful in getting her used to her new job.

I forgot that Tom had a twin brother, Andrew, and they both went to college at the same time.

Tom and Ruth had a baby girl named Mary. After a few years they had Jane and then Walter. While this was going on Tom worked at the Schilb Furniture Store, the Appliance Store and the Funeral Parlor. Meantime, two of Ruth's brothers, Wilber and George, became teachers at Antwerp High School.

In the early years, they stored the funeral caskets on the upper floor of the furniture store. Later on, the house was remodeled and made bigger and they had a casket showroom upstairs.

Tom built the appliance store across the street with an apartment upstairs, they lived there a few years. That building is now a laundromat.

Before this and during this time, Tom got interested in the new game of softball. He organized a good team and got permission to play and remodel the high school ball diamond.

Everyone helped at the ball diamond. The Schilbs made coffee in a ten gallon milk can. They then took the funeral tent to the ball park and used it as a concession tent. It was a good time then and a busy time. But everyone came to Antwerp on Sunday night. Schilb's Reds were as good as any area ball club and the town backed them also.

Well, after a few years, Tom retired from all the Schilb businesses and he and Ruth moved to Sebring, Florida in early 1970's. They fit in down there very well. Tom was a good golfer and they had a beautiful home just a stones throw from #1 tee. They had their own golf cart and there was an easement to the club house.

After a couple of seasons, Ruth became a good golfer and she was President of the Ladies' Golf Association. Tommy served a couple terms as President of the Country Club. Like I said, they really enjoyed living in Florida and they had a million friends.

I have known this lovely lady all my life. When she and Tom had that lovely home in Sebring they had the Powells and the Jordans over for a fine dinner. You might say Tom was a role model for me and they had a zillion friends.

Yes, you bet, I really enjoyed seeing Ruth again and I think she enjoyed seeing Sue, Pauline and I. Ruth, a tip of

EL PASO SAM. INDIAN AGENT CHAPTER 1: SAM & CALLIE GET MARRIED

First published 2/8/12

By: Stan Jordan

El Paso Sam and Slim Jim Martin arrived in North

Platte, Nebraska Territory right at Christmas time in

The fellows had to go to the livery stable and take care of the animals and equipment. When Billy Metzger was with them he always did that chore and they sure miss him now.

After they took care of the animals, they walked down the street to the North Platte Hotel. When they walked through the front door Callie looked up from her job and ran to Sam and gave him a hug and a kiss that was a little more than friendship. Everyone stood around and shook their head for a bit then things settled down.

If you will remember, Callie is the hotel owner's niece but she is also Sam's girlfriend and more than that even. Things was sort of slow in the hotel lobby so Callie could spend a lot of time with Sam.

All went into the restaurant and got a table in the corner and the happiness flowed like spring rain.

They all had the evening meal and talked quite a bit. Slim went on upstairs to bed, but they all agreed to meet for breakfast at 8:00 a.m. right here at the same corner table.

Callie Thorton was born in Cape May, NJ in 1825. She graduated from high school there and had a year at the Community College.

Cape May is on the sea shore and damp most of the time. She didn't like any-thing about this area, so she went west to North Platte to work for her uncle in his hotel. That is where she met El Paso Sam

If you will remember, Sam was born in Como, Mississippi in 1824. He went on west in his late teens and worked for the El Paso Devil's Gate Stage Coach Line. He got quite serious with a girl there, but she wasn't so serious and Sam left El Paso and worked his way on west to the desert southwest and was a civilian scout for Colonial Stockton in California Territory. He left that outfit and worked his way back to Santa Fe, New Mexico Territory. He caught a ride with a wagon outfit going back to Independence, MO. He met Slim Martin there and signed on with a wagon train going west to Fort Bridger, Wyoming Territory. That was in 1848, and he and Slim are still together having just disbanded the 3M Wagon Train.

So Sam proposed to Callie and she accepted readily. Those two just seemed to be made for each other. The wedding was set for the day after tomorrow in the hotel lobby at 11:00 a.m. on December 31, 1851. Slim Mar- tin was the best man and Callie's Aunt Nellie stood up with Callie. Aunt Nellie also gave her mother's wed- ding ring to Callie because there was no jewelry store in North Platte. After the wedding there was a fine dinner for all the folks and friends, and it lasted well into the evening. Jim, Callie and Sam all discussed when they would head east to Fort Kearney. Callie could be ready in three days, and then the boys could load all her be- longings in Sam's wagon. Jim was ready to go any- time. Sam wanted to be in Fort

Kearney before the first of February so he could start his new job by February 1st. Sam is to be the Indian Agent for the Lakota Nation. It was located in Broken Bow, Nebraska Territory. build- ing was already built and ready for occupancy.

Callie had all her clothes packed and in a few trunks and bags, and she had some furniture and a dandy bed complete with mattress and bed clothes. That is just fine because Sam doesn't have hardly any possessions because he has been on the road in a wagon train for about three years.

Well, they left North Platte and headed east to Fort Kearney. Jim's wagon went first and broke a trail for Sam's wagon. Callie sat with Sam's buffalo robe and was plenty warm, but she wasn't used to all the bouncing the wagon got from the holes in the snow on the trail, but it really wasn't all that bad.

She was a good rider, she knew she would have to get used to the trail riding as it is around two hundred miles to Fort Kearney.

This is sort of a testimonial of a blue and red farm truck that works for Kenny Hahn and Nick Bragg.

I am a 1982 Chevrolet farm truck and I would like to publish my history before I end up in the crusher.

For years, I hauled grain for a nice fellow over in Payne.

I liked those folks, we got along fine, but he needed a bigger truck to haul his grain so he put me up for sale.

Kenny Hahn bought my services and I have been here on Hahn Farms ever since. Now, I'm not the only truck on the farm that hauls grain. Kenny has 2 semi outfits also, but I have a little seniority over them.

I don't work much till it's soybean harvest time at the end of September. Then Nick will come out to the new barn and take me over to the gas tanks and check my oil and get me ready for the big push. They will fill the semi trailers first and then I and my trailer, "Ienny" come into use. You can cut beans from about noon till supper time or a little later according to the dew.

What we don't get to the elevator that evening we take over in the morning while someone gets the combine ready for a day's work. And someone is working up the bean ground so it will be ready for corn next spring. Everybody works on the farm, even some extra long days at harvest time. They keep me and Jenny and the 2 big trucks ready at all times. That's the way it goes, about two weeks and we have soy- beans combined and a lot of the corn ground worked up.

Those big semis will haul about a thousand bushels of grain and I and Jenny about 700 bushel all together.

I don't know why, but Mike and Nick would rather drive one of the big semi trucks. Well, yes they do have more power, but I have a 427 engine. One time Nick was driving me and we had a big load and right in down town Antwerp my tranny stuck in fourth gear right under the light. I couldn't move and the traffic was held up and the police came and said, "What's the trouble?" Nick said, "I can't move, it's in fourth gear, stuck there and I can't get it out of fourth. Someone called the elevator and they came over with a tractor and chain and pulled us down to the elevator and got us out of the city traffic. As luck would have it, one of the boys there waiting in line knew what to do and he got my tranny out of fourth gear and we went on from It's according to the weather, but we might get a few days being a little slower till the corn is dry enough to combine. Then it's "Nellie hold hold the nanny goat" at corn time on Hahn Farms. Everybody works early morning till late at night, Sunday and all, and probably an extra driver or so. Just like in the beans, they fill the big trucks and then me and Jenny; this goes on till we are done with the corn.

It makes no difference if it's eastern standard time or Russian standard time, we work around the clock.

It is usually Kenny and Nick doing the farming, but at corn combining time we need about 3 more drivers and me and Jenny do a lot of road

Then all at once, the busy work is done. Kenny and Nick make the necessary repairs on the equipment. Then Nick cleans everything and washes and waxes everything before they put it away.

They take Jenny and me out to the new barn and we get pushed back in the far, northwest corner. Jenny gets nothing, but I get about two quarts of Zerex for the winter.

I guess Kenny is going to put me up for sale. I'm sure sorry about that, I like all these boys.

The Wayne Trace Lady Raiders returned to the hardwood to tip off the 2022 portion of their season last Thursday, January 6. The red, white and blue hosted Tinora in Green Meadows Conference play. The Lady Rams, winners of their last seven of nine contests, turned back the Raiders 44-34 to improve their season record at 9-3 and more importantly, remain perfect in the GMC at 2-0.

Cold shooting and turnovers kept the Raiders from overtaking the Rams after falling behind early and trailing at the break 24-11. Wayne Trace shot 33 percent in the contest; hitting 16-48.

My Survival Kit Dear Editor:

Recent events of folks being stranded on an interstate highway for hours, many without any provisions, prompted me to think about what I want in my car survival kit. I packed my kit in anticipation of a short car trip in the near future. Included I packed: a sleeping bag, six bottles of water, assorted granola bars (some to eat, some to barter with other stranded motorists), two cans of tuna fish, one single serve applesauce, chocolate kisses, beef jerky, pecans, toilet paper, plastic utensils, paper towels, peanut can with cat litter, two candles, two boxes of matches, and a flashlight with extra batteries. My two new kittens climbed into my kit, and although they would be great snugglers, I decided that was probably a bad idea. I packed my kit into one of those large, cloth, zippered "freezer bags" purchased at a warehouse store. I will put the kit in my backseat in case I cannot get to the "way back" hatchback. If I had a family, I'd probably stock a

I am also including a car survival kit that includes a portable shovel and flares.

The Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) District 1 will complete the design work, oversee construction of the Independence Road overpass, remove pavement in the median, and establish right in - right out access and at Jewell Road and Flory Road.

The Defiance County Engineer will construct culde-sacs on Jewell Road and Flory Road, and will be responsible for construction of the Egler-Flory connector road.

The estimated $4.5 million project is anticipated to be constructed in 2027.

Funding for the project began with the Defiance County Engineer, Warren Schlatter, P.E., P.S., who secured $2 million in safety funds through the County Engineers Association of Ohio (CEAO). The county has also committed to a 20% match towards the project.

ODOT secured an additional $2 million in safety funds through HSIP.

Governor DeWine has directed ODOT to be even more focused on safety. That's why an additional $50 million from the motor fuel user fee is designated for safety projects annually, making Ohio's safety program one of the largest in the nation.

The Paulding FFA chapter had their monthly chapter meeting in December with Christmas Cheer!

The students wore their ugly Christmas sweaters to the meeting. All the Ag classes decorated gingerbread houses and sugar cookies and were judged. The top three sugar cookies got a candy prize. During the meeting members participated in a Christmas Kahoot and other fun games.

On December 22nd, the Paulding FFA officer team held their annual Christmas party. At the party, the officers had a big meal with various carry-in items, played several Christmas games such as unwrapping a Saran wrap ball with oven gloves on, having a fake snowball fight, and seeing how many marshmallows we could suck up with a straw. The team also had some

The team also had some time to bond even more and celebrate the end of 2021. The party was completed with a secret Santa gift exchange, and the officer team had a great time at the party and are excited for next year.

The month of December was completed with a book work session where members worked on their State and American degrees and worked on their officer books. Overall it was a highly successful month and we are excited for the new year.

Toledo has been completed, traffic between Defiance and Napoleon has increased dramatically," said District 1 Deputy Director Chris Hughes. "We are excited to see this important project move forward which will improve safety while maintaining adequate accessibility for local residents. The project would not be possible without the partnership of Defiance County and County Engineer Warren Schlatter," said Hughes. The project puts into ac-as part of a feasibility study of the U.S. 24 corridor between the city of Defiance and the city of Napoleon. An independent project in Henry County will address the intersections at County Road 17D and Banner School Road.

That project is being developed by the ODOT District 2 office in Bowling Green and is proposing to construct an interchange at County Road 17D, and a connector road between Banner School Road and County Line Road to maintain access to U.S. 24.

The U.S. 24 feasibility study is available on the project website here: transportation.ohio.gov/Defi-ance24Independence

The next step is for Defiance County to formally vacate portions of U.S. 24 Jewell Road and Flory Road as necessary to modify their access to U.S. 24.

SMALL BUSINESSES ARE THE HEARTBEAT OF THE COMMUNITY

To be unique is to be remembered and that's especially true for small businesses.

Defiance County is home to several small businesses, which offer many special experiences and wares to customers. They also help create memories and support the community.

At Just Be Original-JBO Fine Arts Academy in the Northtowne Mall, visitors can take part in parties, classes or purchase a distinctive piece of artwork. Owner Jennifer Boyd was an art and music teacher before making the switch to business owner. "I decided that Defiance could use a place to create and paint and have fun," she said of JBO, which opened in 2013 in downtown and has since relocated to the mall.

Fun is also a big part of the Fun Company in downtown Defiance. "It is fun to be here," said owner Mandy Osterfeld. The Defiance store, which opened in 2021, is the third location of the business. The first was in Bellefontaine, where Osterfeld and her husband took over the teacher store about three years ago turning it into the Fun Company. "Toys are more fun to shop (for) in person," she said, stating it's fun to be in a toy store. "You can see, touch and play in person. The toy store of our childhood is coming back."

While JBO and the Fun Company are relatively new in Defiance, there also are landmark small businesses that are synonymous with the town. Bud's Restaurant is one example. Bud's began as Bud's Hamburger Shop in 1939 by Bud Deatrick. It has had many owners over the years with members of the Mayer family owning it since 1952. Matt and Sue Mayer took ownership of the long-standing business from Matt's parents in April 2011.

"It's an honor and a privilege to own a business that has been here as long as we have and support Defiance and the community," Matt Mayer said.

Each business owner said there are many great things about being a small business in Defiance.

Boyd said she loves to see people creating all the time "even those that are really nervous about it." "Eventually they realize they can do this and make really amazing pieces," she said, adding that it really helps to build people's self confidence. Boyd said she also loves "seeing kids happy and proud of what they have made" and "seeing people smiling over something we have done - knowing we are making a difference." Boyd added that towns like Defiance need unique businesses where everyone is welcome. "We need places where all ages can gather," she said. "Create something unique. Put the phone and electronic down for a while and enjoy each others company (and do something education as well). Art is definitely therapy and is great for mental health. We need more of that in today's crazy world." JBO also does FUNdraisers for various community organizations and programs such as Relay for Life, the humane society, Imagination Library and more.

Being a small business does have some challenges. Staffing is something all three businesses said they find as a challenge now. Mayer added that keeping up with new trends and technology also is something that can be difficult.

Relocating a few times has been a challenge as is staying "fresh," Boyd said of her business as well. "We want to make sure we are offering everything we can to the community they want to see," she said. "It's all about being of service to the community and are we doing them justice."

Each business though is poised and have plans for the long-term in the community. "We hope to serve the community for years and years to come," Boyd said. "We hope these bast eight years have secured us a spot in the heart of our community enough to keep us here. We have lots of plans with this new space (in the mall) – lot of new ideas and new things to offer and do."

Osterfeld said the Fun
Company is planning to shut down in February and move to another location downtown two blocks from the current site. "We will have a grand opening in February,"
she said. "We will have expanded offerings like birthday parties and workshops."

Mayer said Bud's plans to continue to support the Defiance community for many years to come as well.

LOCAL OHIO CO-OPS SENT LINEMEN TO ASSIST WITH POWER RESTORATION IN VIRGINIA AFTER ICE STORM

Bucket trucks were ready to leave at 5:30 am the morning of Tuesday, Jan. 4, 2022, from several NW Ohio co-ops including Paulding Putnam, Midwest, and North Western Electric Cooperatives. In total, 44 lineworkers from Ohio electric coops left for northern Virginia to assist with power restoration efforts through mutual aid.

North Western Electric Cooperative (Bryan), Paulding Putnam Electric Cooperative (Paulding), and Midwest Electric (St Marys) each

sent two local linemen Tuesday, Jan. 4 to assist with power restoration and storm cleanup in northern Virginia. Together, the three coops sent six lineworkers, who will likely spend between three to five days restoring power to Rappahannock Electric Cooperative members.

In total, 44 men from 18 rural electric cooperatives across Ohio left for Woodford, VA, to assist in restoring power to residents affected by the recent snowstorm that took out power to more than 200,000 residents across Northern Virginia and DC.

Ohio's electric cooperatives participate in the national power restoration program known as "Mutual Aid", where line workers, tree-clearing crews, damage assessors, and safety teams join forces to restore electricity during massive outages. "Cooperation Among Cooperatives" is one of the 7 Cooperative Principles coops abide by when a fellow co-op is overwhelmed by destruction and needs help.

In essence, co-ops believe in "paying it forward" because every utility can use help from time to time for quicker power restoration; one day, lineworkers from your local co-op could be traveling south, but the next, your local co-op might need a hand after an ice storm and call upon another for help getting lights back on more quickly. As typically smaller, not-for-profit utilities, coops band together to be more effective in serving their members.

Those wanting more information can contact their respective co-op for details or watch their social media updates on Facebook:

PEVS SEEKING NOMINATIONS FOR THE ACADEMIC HALL OF FAME

The Paulding Exempted Village Schools Academic Hall of Fame was created to recognize graduates of any high school currently within the boundaries of the Paulding Exempted Village School District who have achieved a significant degree of success in their professional careers. The first class was inducted in May 2010 and thirty-four individuals are currently in the Academic Hall of Fame. These individuals provide outstanding role models for the students in the PEVS District.

Current members of the Academic Hall of Fame have many traits in common. Each person has achieved success at high levels of education, including advanced degrees such as MD, PhD, DO, DDS, JD, DVM, MA, or MS. In addition, these individuals have great career and/or societal accomplishments. Many have pursued a military career, while others have become outstanding teachers in their field. Others have served the public through careers such as medicine, law and dentistry. No matter the educational or career path, each inductee has one thing in common... they have provided outstanding role models for the students in the PEVS District. Do you know someone who graduated prior to 2002 that graduated from one of the high schools within the current Paulding Exempted Village School District boundaries who would be an excellent candidate to join this elite group? Nomination forms are currently available on the PEVS website at www .pauldingschools.org under the 'Academic' tab. Complete qualifications are listed on the website, along with the bios of previous inductees. The deadline to apply for the Class of 2022 is March 1, 2022.

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Secretary Tom Vilsack announced USDA is deploying $100 million under the new Food Supply Chain Guaranteed Loan Program to make available nearly $1 billion in loan guarantees; these loan guarantees will back private investment in processing and food supply infrastructure that will strengthen the food supply chain for the American people.

USDA is making the funding available through the American Rescue Plan Act. The program is part of the Biden-Harris Administration's efforts to address food system challenges dating back decades and further exacerbated by COVID-19 pandemic.

USDA is accepting electronic applications from lenders through the Food Supply Chain Online Application System until funds are expended. Paper applications will not be accepted. To access the online application system, lenders must submit a request to rdfoodsupplychainloans@usda.gov. ## MAURICE STEINER CELEBRATES

By: Matt Love

Mom dropped me off at the post office on East Maumee street in Angola. I peered through the service counter window; all was a bustle in the back as it was Friday afternoon and nearly closing time. Grandpa, Maurice Steiner, was at his desk diligently finishing some Assistant Postmaster paperwork. The clerk had anticipated my arrival and motioned me to the side entrance to the offices. I headed straight for Grandpa's desk as he said, "There's my big helper!" a 10-year-old who didn't know much about farming was going to be. "You can sit at my desk here while I wrap up a few things and then we'll head out," explained Grandpa. As Grandpa closed things up I tinkered with a few trinkets on the old desk and curiously opened the top desk drawer to discover forgotten treasures. At a quick pace we left the office, Grandpa turning off the lights and locking the doors behind

We loaded up in the old powder blue 1976 Dodge 100 and headed East on 20 then a slight right onto Metz Road. It was late October and all the corn and beans still left in the fields were a magnificent golden. Grandpa didn't waste any time getting to the farm. In fact, as we bounced along those back roads and he shifted through the three-onthe-tree, I'm sure the speed limit was of little concern. We a mission! It was harvest season and time to get the crops out. We changed quickly into our 'grubbies' as grandma called our work clothes, then she handed us a sandwich and a few molasses cookies from the cookie jar sitting in the dry sink and the three of us were out the door. Grandpa and I climbed into the combine with Grandma right behind us on her John Deere 3020 with two gravity wagons in tow. I loved riding in that old combine.

There was something satisfying about the whir of the motor and the stalks of corn being transformed into piles of grain. I chuckled as I recalled Grandpa earlier in the year working on the combine head in the barnyard. Ol' Gobble-Dee-Gook, Grandma's ornery turkey, wouldn't quit pestering him and started pecking his bald head. With wrench in hand Grandpa gave that fowl beast a few love taps, sending feathers flying while he mumbled something about a dumb bird! That old turkey didn't make it through the winter. Mom and I came to check on him while Grandpa and Grandma were on one of their adventures to Florida. There were feathers scattered clear across the barnyard and under the fence. No one was sad except maybe Grandma.

My memories are fond as I recall those late nights and early mornings during harvest. I can still see Grandpa's old bomber hat covering his bald head, ear flaps dancing in the wind as we drove down the dirt road back to the farm late at night singing the old hymn "Bringing In the Sheaves".

My grandparents not only worked hard; they played hard. They traveled to all 50 states, including driving to Alaska twice! Many of those adventures included several grandkids tagging along in their RV. My cousins and I could write a book about the experiences we had with my grandparents and the mischief that ensued. Seeing grandpa and grandma set up the RV at a camp site was always entertaining as they bantered back and forth! I recall one trip where grandpa and I got pulled over for speeding; at 100 he is still up for the adventure of a good

Grandpa is one of the most hardworking, principled, and loving people I have ever known. These days if you were to drive by his cottage early on a dark morning his light would be on and you would find him sitting at the table drinking his black coffee and reading his well-worn Bible. Later in the morning he reads the "Scandal Sheet" as he calls it, The Herald Republican. I remember him most there at the table, even at the farm house after dinner, paying bills, balancing the check book, and these days signing and addressing cards to his 4 children, 15 grandchildren, 42 great-grandchildren and 1 great-great-grandchild. can always count Grandpa's card being one of the first to arrive. I see him with pen in his right hand; it's held a bit funny. His index and middle finger on that hand are missing from a battle with the com picker which happened on Monday, November 25th, 1963. It was the same day JFK was buried. Being a federal employee grandpa had the day off and right at the end of harvest season it was a blessing. My Aunt

field that day as they picked up fallen ears for 25 cents a 5gallon bucket. Another farming mishap took place when he fell off the roof of the 30' corncrib. Perhaps his most near-death experience happened while my oldest son and I were coming home with him after an Angola football game. We were approaching the stop light at Cameron hospital when his heart stopped. He was driving! We rear-ended the car that was stopped at the light. A sheriff deputy who just pulled into the hospital heard the crash and was the first to respond. After a couple of jolts from the defibrillator grandpa came to and by the time he was in the ambulance I heard him telling the EMT his name. Maurice Steiner, and that he was born January 2nd,

By the time he recovered a couple weeks later he had bought another car and was back living on his own. I guess God had more he needed grandpa to do and be.

After that accident he stopped driving the pontoon for Lake James Christian Camp; however, campers and staffers still affectionally call him 'Commodore'. Over the years he took thousands of campers around Lake James on boat

Grandpa's flat feet kept him from going overseas during World War II but that didn't keep him from serving his country as a Sergeant in the Army Air Force preparing airplanes to go overseas. There is something about Grandpa and his generation. Maybe that's why they called them the Builders and the Greatest Generation. He was out the other day on a ladder making repairs on his garage. I didn't stop him, just smiled in amazement and the thought came to mind that if I live to be 100 I hope to be able to still climb a ladder to make a repair.

There is much I have learned from my grandpa and much more we need to learn from this generation who valued a hard day's work, loved their families and stayed faithful even during the difficult times. A generation who feared God and loved their fellow man even when they disagreed, and heroically served their country.

The family cordially invites you to Maurice Steiner's 100th Birthday celebration Saturday, January 1 from 1-4 pm at Lake James Christian Camp in the Family Life Center Gym. Masks are highly recommended. Enjoy finger foods and table games, but if you happen to be playing at grandpa's table don't be surprised if he whoops you and everyone else!
