Since its inception in 1999, Habitat for Humanity of Paulding County has built 11 homes and done numerous critical repairs in the county. All of this is done with volunteers hours and through a lot of donations, either monetary or through materials. On Tuesday, April 11, Ryan Whitaker of Lapham-Hickey Steel, met with several members of the Habitat for Humanity board at the house currently being built on Water Street in Paulding, to present the donation.

OBITUARIES

Ohio, passed away peacefully at home on April 9, 2023. Laura was born in Fort Wayne, Indiana, on April 29, 1960, the second of six daughters born to the late Margaret and Louis Savieo. She was a joyous part of the Savieo family for 62 years, 11 months, and 9 days. She brightened the lives of everyone who knew her.

Laura was quick to laugh, quick to get on the dance floor, and quick to tell the people in her life that she loved them. She had a generous, gentle, gigantic heart. In her youth, Laura was a highly decorated participant in the Special Olympics. She enjoyed bowling and vacationing at her favorite dude ranch. She loved chocolate, Diet Coke, animals and Stevie Wonder. Most of all, she loved people. If you ever met Laura, you should know that she considered you a friend.

She will be greatly missed by her sisters Louise (John) Grabner, Teresa (Jeff) Gloyd, Julie (James) Harbin, Marian (the late Brian) Saylor, and Patricia Savieo; many nieces, nephews, great-nieces and great-nephews; loving caregivers, community and friends from PC Workshop. Next time you hear "I Just Called to Say I Love You," why not sing along? Better yet, take a moment to tell someone that you love

PARSON TO PERSON

By: Dr. James Bachman

Dear Parson,

It is obvious that the Old Testament teaches tithing, but I can't find it in the New Testament. Is tithing for today or is the New Testament principle freewill giving?

I would remind you that tithing was found before the Old Testament law and did not go out when the ceremonial law was taken away by Christ's death (Colossians 2:13-17). Leviticus 27:30 tells us all the tithe is the Lord's. That did not cease to be true when Christ died on the cross. I'd like to call your attention to four of the purposes of the tithe in the Old Testament. First, was that the tithers might learn to fear their Lord (Deuteronomy 14:22-23). Parting with material things is not easy for most people. Giving one-tenth shows a great deal of respect and serves as a constant reminder that one's belief in God is more than some light and passing gesture. That same respect is as needed in the New Testament times as it was in the Old.

Second, God used the faithful tithe as an opportunity to shower extra material blessing on the giver. (Malachi 3:10). The Lord still wishes to and does bless faithful tithers today.

Third, the stranger, the fatherless and the widows were experience realistic weather conditions and terrain, giving them a truly visually immersive and lifelike golf experience.

The Upper Nine is not just a golf simulation facility, but also a relaxing and welcoming lounge area where customers can enjoy snacks while socializing with friends or colteam building activities, and other group events. Matt and Mandy have worked hard to create a comfortable and inviting atmosphere that makes everyone feel at home. In summary, The Upper Nine is a new golf simulation and lounge facility in Antwerp, Ohio, that is quickly gaining popularity among golf enthusiasts in the area. The company offers a stateof-the-art golf simulation experience, complete with realistic weather conditions and terrain. The facility also features a comfortable and welcoming lounge area that is perfect for private events and parties. If you're looking for an immersive and lifelike golf experience, The Upper Nine taken care of through tithes (Deuteronomy 26:12). It is obvious that this practice was continued in Acts 6; I Timothy 5, and James 1:27.

The fourth purpose for the tithe according to the Lord was that there may be "meat in mine house" (Malachi 3:10). What were these tithes primarily used for? The answer is obvious: to support the workers of the Lord, the Levites who were priests, musicians, caretakers, etc. (Numbers 18:21).to be continued.

EXCELLENT IN WISDOM

By: Doris Applegate Scribed by: Cynthia Nichelson

A wise old owl Sat in the oak The more he say The less he spoke The less he spoke The more he saw

Why can't we be like this wise old owl?

As a young child I often wondered if this owl was watching all of us, and where he got his wisdom.

Someone once said, "The reason we have two ears and one mouth is so that we will hear more and talk less." It is so true that our mouth can get us into much trouble. Another saying. "Silence is golden, that's why you're not rich."

We are told in God's word "The Bible" that our tongue is like the rudder on a ship and steers our life, good or bad. If we want the good life, we must speak positive and worth while things. Our life can go either way and depends on what we say.

Being in good company helps to keep us thinking right words. Bad company spoils good manners. This is why it is so important to keep young children in the right company.

The fear of God in the beginning of wisdom. (Proverbs 9:10). Only a fool would not want to be wise. When we have the fear of God we will be wise and not sin because sin leads to death. The fear of God is all of our lives is much needed today because many are sinning and headed in the wrong direction thinking that God is not paying attention.

"God is not mocked and what so ever a person sows he will also reap." (Galatians 6:7-8). This wisdom is so important in our lives. Foe much more insight into the subject of wisdom read the Book of Proverbs.

Amen!

FIELD REPORTS FROM OHIO DIVISION OF WILDLIFE OFFICERS

Central Ohio - Wildlife District One

State Wildlife Officer Austin Levering, assigned to Knox County, received a complaint in November 2022 of a white-tailed deer that was shot from the roadway. Later, Officer Levering received information from a hunting without permission incident which had the same vehicle and subject description. Officer Levering and State Wildlife Officer Brad Kiger, assigned to Franklin County, determined one individual was responsible for both incidents. The suspect was found guilty of hunting without permission, hunting with the aid of a motor vehicle, hunting without a valid license, and hunting with a

Officer Chad Grote, assigned to Marion County, taught Pleasant Elementary School's fifth graders about wild animals and their adaptations. The students asked Officer Grote questions and a few students dressed up as wild animals to highlight those species' adaptations. Educating the public about natural resources is just one of the many duties wildlife officers perform. Northwest

Wildlife District Two

In March, State Wildlife Officer Matt D. Smith, assigned to Huron County, received a complaint of trapping on private property without permission. Officer Smith investigated the report and spoke with an individual from a nearby resi-Officer dence. Smith recognized the individual from a prior hunting without permission complaint. The individual was found to have set two box traps and trapped a raccoon out of season. The suspect had not purchased a fur taker permit or hunting license that year. The man received two summonses and was found guilty. He paid $321 in fines and costs.

State Wildlife Officer Mike Ohlrich, assigned to Fulton County, conducted a mid-winter waterfowl survey in Fulton County in Jan-Throughout county, he counted more than 700 Canada geese and Wauseon mallards. Reservoir was the most diverse location he surveyed, with Canada goose, gadwall, mallard, canvasback, and goldeneye. Other sightings included a group of 19 trumpeter swans, several bald ea-gles, and five sandhill cranes. Northeast Ohio Wildlife District Three

State Wildlife Officer Jason Warren, assigned to Lake Erie, received a report of a bald eagle stuck in the rocks of the Conneaut break wall. Officer Warren responded to the area but was unable to see the eagle from shore. The location reported by the caller was inaccessible from shore or by larger boats due to a sandbar. Officer Warren used a kayak from a nearby rental facility and paddled out to the break wall, where he discovered that the eagle had freed it-

During the 2022-23 white-tailed deer archery hunting State season, Wildlife Officers Scott

Cartwright and Nicholas Turner, assigned to Carroll and Harrison counties, respectively, received a complaint regarding a hunter who used a rifle to kill a buck while hunting without permission. After an investigation, the individual was charged with seven violations and was found guilty in Carroll County Municipal Court. He was given a twoyear hunting license suspension, 30 days in jail, and one year of probation. He also forfeited illegally possessed deer mounts and was ordered to pay $3,336.25 in fines, costs, and restitution. Southeast Ohio

Wildlife District Four

State Wildlife Officer Ryan Donnelly, assigned to Athens County, received a call from an individual who observed someone shoot a deer from the road. The caller provided identifying information about the suspect's vehicle. Officer Donnelly patrolled the area and located the truck. He determined that the truck's owner had hunted from the road. The suspect was charged with hunting a deer with the aid of a vehicle and hunting without permission. The shooter was fined $300 in Athens Municipal Court.

Southwest Ohio Wildlife District Five

A hunting without permission case recently made its way through court. The suspect was previously caught poaching and hunting without permission by State Wildlife Officers Gus Kiebel, assigned to Adams County, Jason Keller, assigned to Warren County, and Matt Roberts, assigned to Highland County, as well as Wildlife Officer Program Manager Eric Lamb and State Wildlife Investigator Joel Buddelmeyer. While under a three-year hunting license revocation, the suspect was again caught hunting without permission and charged. He was picked up on a warrant and received 46 days of jail time, which are currently being served, and forfeited his hunting equip-ment, a tree stand, and a compound bow.

State Wildlife Officer Jason Keller, assigned to Warren County, and K-9 Officer Scout helped Wildlife Communications Specialist Kathy Garza-Behr dedicate Ohio's 201st Wild School Site. Chess Christian Preschool recently became the seventh Wild School Site in Warren County. The preschool added an outdoor classroom featuring a story area with native plants. The school plans to enhance their grounds with a walking trail and bird nesting boxes.

STAYING IN STEP

Penny For Your Thoughts By: Nancy Whitaker

Everyone loves a parade. There are lots of decorated floats, old cars, fire trucks, policemen and marching bands and baton groups. It is nice to see all of the local high school bands and marching groups.

Parades are normally held in the summer, so sometimes it is hot and sometimes it may be raining. However, the bands and the marching continues with a 1,2,3,4 and a left, right, left, right. Everyone should be in step marching together as a group. Now, if one person gets out of step or falls behind, it could throw the whole group off.

I have seen a program on TV that shows the North Korea Military marching. I cannot imagine them ever getting out of step. With their arms held a certain way they look almost like toy soldiers in their formation.

There is an old saying about a person who might just "March to the beat of another drum." I wondered, "What does this mean?"

Sometimes you will notice a person wearing weird colors in their hair or strange looking clothes. We might think, "Oh they just want attention". But really, they may just don't care for the norm and prefer to "be their own

I believe this is just one way someone can march to their own beat. Kudos to those who can look outside the box and not miss a step.

However, thinking of groups marching and working together, brings to mind our own bodies. If one part of our body hurts, it may throw our whole body off, if we break a bone or get even a cold our whole body feels Missteps and not marching together can wind up costing money, time or ruin a show or project. It always makes me smile to see a mama duck and her duck-

When I think of marching together in unity I am thinking of governments, job sites, churches, town meetings, and even a carry in potluck. It turns out better when we all march or work together.

Even in our daily life's, missed communications and missed steps can cause a crises within the home. For the good of students and education, schools equipped to teach and use tools to avoid any misstepping in the teaching of our children.

It is okay to march to your own beat and be who you are, but always remember to stay in step with your team, group or family to garner the prize of accomplish-

BUILDING SOIL CARBON

The following revised article came from information provided by Jon Stika. Jon Stika is a retired Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) soil health instructor. He is also the author of A Soil Owner's Manual: How to Restore and Maintain Soil Health. Farmers are looking at carbon markets, just as they look at crop markets, to improve their bottom line. The goal is to transfer carbon from the atmosphere back into the soil. The real question is what conservation practices increase soil carbon? If a farmer is looking to sign a carbon sequestration contract, it makes sense they understand carbon cycling and soil carbon storage. Carbon market contracts use the term "sequestered carbon". Sequestered carbon includes oil, natural gas, and coal; carbon that is tied up. Do farmers want to sequester carbon or recycle soil carbon more efficiently? Soil carbon is one of the most limiting nutrients for improved crop production. With an estimated world population of 8 billion people today and many hungry people, perhaps efficiently recycling soil carbon is more important than permanently trying to sequester carbon long-term.

The majority (about 80 percent) of soil carbon comes from the remains of soil microbes, soil microbial produced carbon compounds, or living soil microbes themselves. Of all soil carbon, roughly five times as much comes from soil microbes fed sugars or other living plant roots substances compared to the carbon from the decomposition of above-ground plant residues. This is why it is important to have living roots feeding soil organisms as much of the time as possible in an effective carbon-capturing system. Sugars exuded by plant roots and the outer layer of sloughed off plant cell from plant roots cells feed soil organisms. About 50% of plant absorbed atmospheric carbon goes below ground to grow more roots and feed soil organisms. The soil organisms then feed the plant many soil nutrients those plants need to grow. During this cooperation between plants and soil organisms, the soil organisms don't respire all the carbon the plants give them as food, some of it becomes more stable soil carbon compounds that we eventually include in a measurement of 'soil organic matter."

Farmers who grow plants into soil carbon to generate carbon credits for additional revenue need to understand this cycle. No practice(s) will get you additional soil carbon without an understanding of how the soil functions as a biological system. Captured atmospheric carbon transferred into soil carbon is a biological process. The goal must be to make life as good as possible for soil organisms that will do that This can be accomplished by observing four basic principles: disturbing the soil less, growing a diversity of

to move atmospheric carbon plants, maintain living roots in the soil as much of the time as possible, and keeping the soil covered at all times. There is no one practice that will address all four principles. Every time the soil is tilled, carbon goes out of the soil and into the atmosphere. Soil organisms need a diverse diet from a diversity of plants to thrive. Living roots should be maintained in the soil both during, and beyond, the traditional growing season. Soil cover is the roof of the house where soil organisms live. All four principles must be practiced in concert with each other to achieve the goal of increasing soil car-It is difficult, if not impossible, to accumulate soil carbon just growing a cover crop if there is significant tillage, growing only one or two different crops, or a system that does not keep the soil covered. However, a system that minimizes tillage, includes a diversity of plants species of plants, uses crop rotation and plants cover crop mixtures that maintains living roots in the soil year-round, will likely store soil carbon. Do not focus on practices, focus on principles if you wish to be successful in storing soil car-

So, if you are interested in getting paid to store soil carbon, it is important to understand how your management system might do that. Without understanding how soil carbon accumulates, you may not accumulate any carbon after applying a practice or two that did not necessarily create the favorable soil environment for soil organisms to make it happen. While plant residues on the soil surface are a necessary part of making life good for soil organisms, the residue on the soil surface does not contribute most of the carbon that stays in the soil. Only a complete understanding of how soil and plants interact as a biological system will result in successful soil carbon storage and profitable crop production.

H2OHIO COASTAL WETLAND PROJECTS COMMENCE IN SANDUSKY BAY

As part of Governor Mike DeWine's H2Ohio initiative, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR) Division of Wildlife is collaborating with The Nature Conservancy (TNC) on two coastal wetland restoration projects at Pickerel Creek Wildlife Area in Sandusky County. Pickerel Creek Wildlife Area lies along Sandusky Bay where Pickerel and Raccoon creeks empty into Lake Erie. "These two projects are the first in a series of H2Owetland restoration projects planned for Sandusky Bay," said Governor DeWine. "This work will not only improve water quality and recreational opportunities by reducing algal blooms, but these wetlands are also important habitat for wildlife."

Plans for Pickerel Creek include restoring 44 acres of wetlands in the interior of the wildlife area by reconnecting the creek with its floodplain, allowing for natural movement of water between the stream and adjacent land during storm events. This floodplain will slow down the flow of water to allow sediments and nutrients to settle which will reduce the quantity of sediments and nutrients that enter Sandusky Bay and improve water quality.

"Pickerel Creek Wildlife Area is an excellent site for wetland restoration H2Ohio projects," ODNR Director Mary Mertz said. "These wetlands are long-term solutions that will help keep water clean and create beautiful spaces for people to visit in the Sandusky Bay."

"We are excited to begin construction at Pickerel Creek Wildlife Area, launching two projects that will restore wetlands, increase fish and wildlife habitat, and improve water quality in Sandusky Bay," Natural Infrastructure Director for The Nature Conservancy Alexis Sakas said. Construction along Pickerel Creek is anticipated to run into late summer, with vegetation being restored this fall. Post-restoration invasive species control will continue through 2025. During construction, the project area will be closed, but access to the rest of the wildlife area will remain. The Raccoon

Creek project will restore shoreline wetlands, promote the establishment of submergent and emergent aquatic vegetation, and improve water quality in the bay. The enhanced wetlands will not only remove excess nutrients before they enter Lake Erie but also provide critical spawning habitat for popular game fish such as northern pike and places for birds to forage and nest. Construction on the Raccoon Creek portion of the project will begin later this spring. Construction will primarily occur from a barge and will not interrupt public

LAWN CARE FOR THE HOMEOWNER

How to Choose the Proper Grass Seed

Now that we have warmer weather, many of you will want to buy grass seed to fill in some bare spots or over seed thin areas of your lawn. Spring is an excellent time for applying grass seed! But what type of seed should you get for your lawn? The short answer is high quality seed. A lawn can never be better than the seed that is

Buying grass seed is like buying a car without seeing it or driving it. There is nothing tangible to compare it to. Until the seed grows into a lawn, the true quality of what you bought won't be visible for months. The only thing to evaluate is the seed label. Seed labels are written to meet agricultural regulations, and are unfortunately not "consumer friendly." Let us give you four guidelines to break down a seed label's major requirements: Varieties, Germination, Inert Matter, and Weed

1. A pound of seed is not the same amount of seeds between varieties. A seed label tells you what varieties are in the package. However, it only tells you in percent by weight of the total package. It does not tell you that seed size and weight are dramatically different. For example, one pound of bluegrass is 1,400,000 seeds. That same pound in fine fescue is 530,000 seeds, and it only takes 225,000 ryegrass or tall fescue seeds to make a pound. What this means is the label does not tell you the amount of each variety you will see in your lawn. Ideally, you could determine the amount of a particular seed present by calculating the percentage by seed count. Unfortunately, seed count is not required on the label, and difficult to determine.

2. Germination is under the ideal conditions...not "normal" Mid-West weather. A label gives you the percent of pure seed that is capable of growth in a prescribed time under laboratory conditions. These laboratory conditions are ideal. Seeds are placed on wet filter paper and grown in an incubator with perfect light and moisture control for as long as 28 days. Furthermore, germination percentages cannot be compared between different manufacturers. The germination values may be the same, but they may have been achieved under differing laboratory conditions (i.e. Lab A germinated seed in an incubator for 10 days, and Lab B germinated seed in an incubator for 20 days).

3. Double the inert matter percentage for a more realistic filler amount. Some grass seed packages have filler in them. This is called inert matter. Inert matter or bulking agents like corn cobs or chaff are often added to make larger packages. Sand may be added to ensure that the packages will meet weight requirements. Volume of inert matter can generally be found by multiplying the percentage by weight by two. (i.e. 5% inert matter = approx. 10% of the bag's volume).

4. Weed seeds weigh less, so their unwanted plant count can be higher. Weed seeds are also a factor in selection of a grass seed mix. The label says percent by weight of all seeds in the package which were not included in the good pure seed crop. Similar to guideline 1-amount and weight are not equal things--is even truer of weed seeds. One harmless needle grass seed weighs the same as 32 harmful chickweed seeds. But both would be listed as 0.27%. If only 0.10% were chickweed, that would result in 560,000 plants in a 10,000 square foot

So, now armed with an understanding of grass seed labels, back to the question of what seed to get? Choose a premium seed mixture that guarantees lawn. Quality seed mixtures that work well in the Midwest will use a high percentage of bluegrass seed. Bluegrass has very small seeds, so a smaller package of premium seed can cover more area of your lawn. The bonus of bluegrass is its rhizome ability, which means the plant's roots spread to create new plants.

Bluegrass may be combined with other grasses to derive multiple benefits. Ryegrasses geminate fast to hold the soil. Tall fescues are drought-tolerant, but do not spread. Fine fescues are more shade tolerant. Grasses like Dorado Tall Fescue, Montana Tall Fescue, Frontier Perennial Ryegrass, and Madison Kentucky Bluegrass are better than commontype grasses because they have been bred to improve their natural traits. These varieties create greener and denser lawns. They are also slower growing which means less mowing for you.

Some premium mixes have developed their seeds to grow roots up to four feet deep. This drastically im-drought tolerproves ance. The enhanced disease resistance in these varieties is due to a waxy coating on the grass-much like the skin of an apple. Beyond the grass plant coating, premium grass seeds now have a super-absorbent coating around the seed itself to help promote germination. This coating holds moisture against the seed so the seedling has constant access to water, even if you miss a day of watering.

By: Ron Burt

The driver zips up his fire suit, climbs in the car, puts on the helmet, and fastens his seatbelt harness as tight as it will go. The adrenaline kicks in as he fires up the motor and makes his way down pit road to the track. The only worry, you want your race car to be fast and have a good set-up. You think about what you need to do during qualifying. You want a great time and win the pole to start out front in the feature. Your pit crew worked all week to get your car ready. You need make your sponsors happy with a top finish. You have pressure to do your best and you need to win some money. Danger? No worries, the car is solid. You take the green flag to qualify and your foot pushes down hard on the accelerator and down the front straightaway slinging your Sprint Car into and through turns 1 and 2, riding up near the cushion to have your right rear tire get grip in the clay. Your car picks up speed going down the back straightaway and you go into turn number three and in an instant, it's all over. No one knows in your final second what you went through. We know your car hit the wall and flipped several times and ended up in the middle of the track, and the track safety crew rushed to your aid. There's nothing they could do to help you. Walkie talkies going off all around the track from the safety crews and first responders. The tracks public address announcer tells the fans because of what just took place, the track is closed for the event. Race fans at all tracks know what happened, when this announcement is made. This past Saturday at (The Burg) in southern Indiana, 26-year-old Justin Own, from Ohio, died from iniuries he sustained in a mastional Championship, during time trials. I've read several accounts of what happened to this young man. I'm going with the details from our contributing photographer, Christopher Pedersen. He was taking pictures at the time. "Justin hooked a small lip in 3 and his car turned directly into the outside wall and flipped several times, and the impact was nonsurvivable". I can't imagine what went through the minds of Christopher and others as they witnessed this tragic event. When you've been around racing you get a natural gut feeling that something terrible just happened and it was more than a crash.

The Ohio driver was the reigning track champion at Lawrenceburg Speedway, scoring two feature wins and the title in 2022. It was Owen's first crown at the 3/8mile dirt oval where he'd long been a regular competitor in the sprint car division for the past several seasons.

Among his greatest achievements was a victory in the season-closing Dick Gaines Memorial during his Lawrenceburg championship season in 2022. In 2019, Owen had three victories, one with the Buckeye Outlaw Sprint Series (BOSS) at Pennsylvania's Lernerville Speedway, at Indiana's Paragon Speedway and again at Lawrenceburg's Night of Champions event. In 2016, he was victorious with BOSS at Lernerville

Owen made two feature starts with USAC, both at Lawrenceburg in 2019 and 2021. Justin will be missed by his family, friends, fans, and fellow competitors.

LEGENDARY GRAND FUNK RAILROAD SELECTS VAN WERT FOR ANNIVERSARY TOUR

Phone: 419-258-2000 • Email: info@westbendnews.net

Van Wert Federal Savings Bank presents classic rock sensation, Grand Funk Railroad at The Niswonger on Saturday, November 4 at 7:30 p.m. This Van Wert Live event will be a stop on the 2023 American Band Tour. After playing to millions of fans on the band's tours from 1996 to 2022, Grand Funk's 2023 American Band Tour will continue to reach both new and long-time fans. The supporting sponsor for the Van Wert tour stop is Westwood Behavioral Health. Known as "The American Band", the high-energy fivepiece group will play forty shows all over the USA this year. Grand Funk Railroad includes original founding members Don Brewer (vocals and drums, writer and singer of the multi-million selling hit, We're An American Band) and bassist Mel Schacher, "The God Of Thunder". Joining Don and Mel are true "All Stars". Singer Max Carl is a rock veteran from 38 Special. Max penned and sang 38's biggest hit "Second Chance" and was co-founder of California's legendary Jack Mack and the Heart Attack. Don refers to Max as "the best blueeyed soul singer on the planet". Lead guitarist Bruce Kulick is best known for his 12 years with KISS and has credits with Michael Bolton, Meatloaf, and Billy Squier. (KISS members Gene Simmons and Paul Stanley were influenced early on by Grand Funk.) Keyboardist Tim Cashion has a master's degree in music from the University of Miami. Affectionately called "Dr. Tim", his credits include stints with Bob Seger and the Silver Bullet Band and English soul man Robert Palmer.

Grand Funk laid the groundwork for such bands as Foreigner, Journey, Van Halen and Bon Jovi with its signature hard-driving sound, soulful vocals, muscular instrumentation, and forceful pop melodies. The fact that Grand Funk's legacy still reigns over the Classic Rock landscape fifty years after its 1969 birth in Flint, Michigan is a testament to the group's influence and staying power. Mega-hits We're An American Band, I'm Your Captain/Closer To Home, Locomotion and Some Kind Of Wonderful still receive continuous airplay on Classic Rock radio. Internationally acclaimed Grand Funk has toured the world, selling out in the U.S., Canada, Europe, Japan and South America. A 1971 performance at New York's Shea Stadium sold out faster than the Beatles. The group's widespread appeal is also evident in its prestigious recording achievements. Over their career, Grand Funk has had 19 charted singles, 8 Top 40 hits, and two Number One singles (We're An American Band and Locomotion, both selling more than one million each). The group has now accumulated 13 gold and 10 platinum records with record sales exceeding 25 million copies sold worldwide. The most recent gold CD award was presented to the band for their greatest hits package Grand Funk Railroad the Collectors Series.

The multi-talented band carries on the tradition of Grand Funk hits and creates a new chapter in the legacy of Grand Funk Railroad. THE AMERICAN BAND TOUR 2023, brings seasoned Grand Funk lovers and contemporary rock fans who are discovering the group for the first time together to celebrate the 50th ANNIVERSARY with Grand Funk Railroad.

He had vowed not to leave California, so now was the time to leave. He waited until nearly noon, slipped out the back door, through the woods and found the road. He pointed towards the coast. After about an hour he was exhausted, but a car came along and he was on his way to the coast. They traveled for several hours, then the man turned north. At this point Jamie got out and spent the night in the woods. The next day, since he was still in uniform, a car

As he walked along he saw a man working in his garden, along the road. He stopped and rested along the beautiful white fence.

He and the gentleman struck up a conversation. Jamie told him he had been wounded in the war, and had just left the hospital. The gardener's neighbor was making his lunch, would Jamie come in for a fine meal. After the meal Jamie fell asleep exhausted, on the couch. Seeing Jamie's deplorable condition the gardener let him stay for the

The next day, the neighbor lady, Margaret Cameron, came and cooked breakfast for them. Jamie showered and put on a suit of the gardener's clothes. It was decided that he would stay and help the Bee Master with his garden and large stand of bees. Margaret would tend Jamie's wounds. She would put him on a diet of fresh veggies, and raw tomato juice.

It soon became a routine, with Margaret dressing his wounds, helping what he could in the garden, and spending the afternoon on the beach. He discovered that laying in the water, with the ocean lapping over him, seemed to ease the pain a bit. His survival was still in question, but Margaret thought there might be some improvement.

One evening a huge storm came up, and Jamie decided to go out and watch it. He had found a bench carved in a cliff, where the water nearly touched your feet. As he set there, the waves were crashing, lightning flashing, in his state it would have been easy to just slip into the ocean. As he sat there someone came from a path on the other side and sat down beside him. It was too dark to see but it was a girl, and she was sobbing uncontrollably. She hadn't seen him, but she was so close that when the wind blew, her hair was brushing his shoulder. Jamie made himself known, then did his best to try to console her. He told her his story, and if he if he could possibly help her, it would make his life better. She had been engaged to marry, when her fiancee was killed in an accident. Now she was with child and her baby would have no name. Jamie offered to marry her, no strings attached, and the baby would have his name. It was agreed that they would meet at the courthouse at 10:00 the next morning.

When he arrived the next morning, she was already there and was in the process of getting the marriage license. She was wearing a thick veil, and he never saw her face even though he had an idea of what she looked like from the night before. After the ceremony and signing of the license, she was gone. He had promised not to follow her, but now he realized he didn't even know

The following days were leisurely, with the same daily routine. Jamie kept his eye

Then came the day that Jamie had to call an ambulance for the Bee Master, as he had a heart problem. Jamie visited him everyday, assuring him the bees were fine. Later the dreaded call came, The Bee Master had passed. A few weeks later, Jamie was called to the city, to visit a lawyer. The Bee Master had willed the cabin, the garden, and the entire property to Jamie including the bees.

Jamie continued to work the garden and care for the bees, and Margaret cooked for him, but now she had taken a baby to raise. Jamie enjoyed Lil' Scout and helped with his care.

Margaret was always quite secretive. He knew she had a daughter, she had gone to college, and had gotten into some kind of trouble. He had never seen her but he knew she had come home on occasion. One morning, he had just gotten up when there came a knock at the door. It was a beautiful young lady. They fell into each other's arms. They spent the rest of the day just "catching up," and the rest of their lives raising The Bee Master Ill, Jamie Langston II.

"This is the first Arts and Artists show we have held for several years. We are very excited to bring back this series," said historical society president Melinda Krick. "Each year, the focus was on a different art medium, such as pottery, photography, quilts and drawings. We expect to showcase a different medium or different theme annually in the future."

The historical society hopes to enhance and increase community appreciation of fine arts, to introduce the public to the county's rich heritage in the arts and to showcase the many talented artists who have resided here.

GOV. HOLCOMB, INDOT AWARD MORE THAN $133 MILLION THROUGH COMMUNITY CROSSINGS GRANT PROGRAM

Governor Eric J. Holcomb and the Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) announces 224 Indiana cities, towns, and counties that will receive a combined $133.4 million in state matching funds for local road projects through Community Crossings, a component of Governor Holcomb's Next Level Roads

"The continued success of the Community Crossings program becomes more evident each year," said Gov. Holcomb. "Improving transportation infrastructure at the most local level makes communities that much more attractive for business and Hoosier families alike to connect and grow." Communities submitted applications for funding during a highly competitive call for projects in January. Applications were evaluated based on need and current conditions, as well as impacts to safety and economic development. Funding for Community Crossings comes from the state's local road and bridge matching grant fund. The Community Crossings initiative has provided more than $1.27 billion in state matching funds local construction projects since 2016. "Safe, modern infrastructure at the local level makes Indiana's transportation network stronger," said INDOT Commissioner Mike Smith. "Partnering with locals on these projects is something INDOT looks forward to each year. The hard work and dedication of local entities to secure these funds and make improvements in their communities does not go unnoticed."

To qualify for funding, local governments must provide local matching funds of 50 percent for larger communities or 25 percent for smaller communities and have an asset management plan for maintaining existing roads and bridges. Indiana law requires annually that 50 percent of the available matching funds be awarded to communities located in counties with a population of 50,000 or fewer.

State lawmakers identified long-term funding for Community Crossings as part of House Enrolled Act 1002, passed by the legislature and signed into law by Gov. Holcomb in April 2017.

NSCC RECEIVES GRANT FOR MORE CDL DRIVER STUDENT AID

PAYNE ELEM. BATTLE OF THE BOOKS WINNERS

Payne Elementary held their school wide competition for Battle of the Books on April 11. The following students will be competing at the Fairgrounds in Paulding on April 28 for the County winner: Scarlett Neff, Grace Ringler, Mailey Stoller, Krandon Crites, Lucas Ross, and Kaden Creighton-Smith.

Training Program without having to pay any amount of the cost out of pocket initially. If an individual taking advantage of the program then utilizes their CDL to work for an Ohio based employer (full time, part time, or self-employed) for a duration of 12 months, their loan will then be eligible for complete forgiveness, effectively bringing the out of pocket program cost to $0.00. This is the second round of funding that Northwest State has been awarded for this specific program. With an increased total award amount this round, fully fund another 20 students

The CDL Training Center, Powered by Custom Training Solutions (CTS), has a federally registered Entry Level Driver Training program starting roughly every other week at the NSCC Archbold Campus. Last year, the NSCC CDL Training Center had an overall passing rate of 94%. The result of this effort was the addition of 30 new drivers to our local area.
